

JESSIE AND JOHN.

For Jessie, Mamma a treat prepared,
Read, and you'll find how Jessie fared.

Mamma to give her girl delight,
A nice young party did invite;
They in the greenhouse went to play,
One, picking rare flowers, was sent away.

Some children in a neighbouring wood,
Playing about, as children should,
Heard what the naughty girl had done:
“How wrong it was!” said every one.

Papa a pretty Pony bought
For brother John, and had him taught
To ride him well, and every day,
John on his Pony rode away.

Jessie too wished to have a ride ;
With this, at last, mamma complied.
The Pony reared—down Jessie fell,
But was only stunn'd, I'm glad to tell
