

WORLD

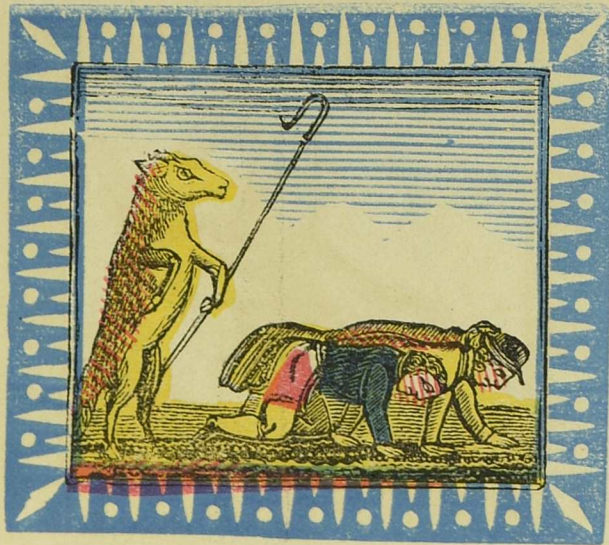

UPSIDE DOWN

W. WALKER & SONS, OTLEY

The world's turned upside down,
you see,
For here the little boy
Has got his grandpapa in strings,
And leads him like a toy. (1)

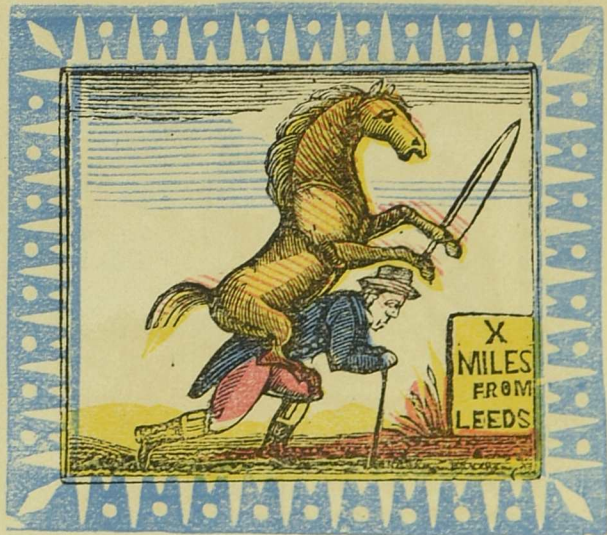

The shepherd used to watch
the sheep,

But now it is not so :

The sheep turns shepherd o'er
the men,

And drives them to and fro.

Resolved to try a novel
scheme,

The horse now turns the
table;

And first he rides his owner
out,

Then puts him in the stable.

And here we have another
change,

For lo ! the bird began

To wander in the woods and fields,

And shoot both dog and
man.

And now, with wondering
eyes, we see
The goose his captor
mocks:

When Reynard comes to steal the goose,
Miss Goosey steals the fox.

Poor Molly once went out
to milk,

But now she's forced to
crawl:

And every cow upon the farm

Both milks, and churns,
and all.

Our servants roasted rabbits
once,
And hung them on their
hooks:
But in the picture, you
perceive,
The rabbits roast their cooks.

Another wonder have we
here,
For lo! the cat and
dog
Have hired a boat to have a row,
And o'er the waters jog. (8)

The trout has left his watery sphere,
Mankind have left the
land ;
The fish has caught a human
head,
With rod, and hook, and
band.

But who can keep from laughter now?

Behold! the stupid ass

First drives his master into
town,

Then home again they pass.

(10)

Behold! the stupid
laughed now?
But who can keep from

Then home again they
First drives his master into

pass. (10)
