Look Ann! there is a blind man.
He does not see you and me.
A boy leads him from door to door.
O it is a sad thing to be blind!
James and I have got good sight.
He has dark eyes, mine are blue.
How glad I am that we can see.
If I was blind I could not read.
I could not read this good book;
nor see the swan nor the rose.
That is a moss-rose. Smell it.
O what a sweet smell it has!
Look at that goose and the swan.
What long necks they have!
A goose is not so large as a swan.
Swans and geese can swim.
But I cannot swim.
