METAMORPHOSES.

BOOK VII.

Translated by Mr. TATE and Mr. STONESTREET.

The Story of MEDEA and JASON.

Tide,

And to Arcadia's Shore their Course apply'd;

Where fightless Phineus spent his Age in Grief,

But Boreas' Sons engage in his Relief;
And those unwelcome Guests, the odious Race
Of Harpyes, from the Monarch's Table chase.
With Jason then they greater Toils sustain,
And Phasis' slimy Banks at last they gain.
Here boldly they demand the Golden Prize
Of Scythia's King, who sternly thus replies:
Vel. II.

That

That mighty Labours they must first o'ercome, Or fail their Argo thence unfreighted home.

Mean-while Medea seiz'd with fierce Desire, By Reason strives to quench the raging Fire; But strives in vain !--- Some God (she faid) withstands, And Reason's baffled Council countermands. What unfeen Pow'r does this Diforder move? 'Tis Love, --- at least 'tis like, what Men call Love. Else wherefore shou'd the King's Commands appear To me too hard? --- But so indeed they are. Why shou'd I for a Stranger fear, lest he Shou'd perish, whom I did but lately see? His Death, or Safety, what are they to me? Wretch, from thy Virgin-Breast this Flame expel, And foon---Oh cou'd I, all wou'd then be well! But Love, refiftless Love, my Soul invades; Discretion this, Affection that persuades. I fee the Right, and I approve it too, Condemn the Wrong, --- and yet the Wrong purfue. Why, royal Maid, shou'dst thou defire to wed A Wanderer, and court a foreign Bed? Thy native Land, tho' barb'rous, can present A Bridegroom worth a royal Bride's Content: And whether this Advent'rer lives, or dies, In Fate, and Fortune's fickle Pleasure lies. Yet may he live! for to the Pow'rs above, A Virgin, led by no Impulse of Love, So just a Suit may, for the Guiltless, move. Whom wou'd not Jason's Valour, Youth and Blood Invite? or cou'd these Merits be withstood, At least his charming Person must incline The hardest Heart --- I'm sure 'tis so with mine!

Book VII. Ovid's Metamorphoses.

Yet, if I help him not, the flaming Breath Of Bulls, and Earth-born Foes, must be his Death. Or, should he through these Dangers force his way, At last he must be made the Dragon's Prey. If no Remorfe for fuch Diffress I feel, I am a Tigress, and my Breast is Steel. Why do I scruple then to see him slain, And with the tragick Scene my Eyes prophane? My Magick's Art employ, not to asswage The Savages, but to enflame their Rage? His Earth-born Foes to fiercer Fury move, And accessary to his Murder prove? The Gods forbid --- But Pray'rs are idle Breath, When Action only can prevent his Death. Shall I betray my Father, and the State, To intercept a rambling Hero's Fate; Who may fail off next Hour, and fav'd from Harms By my Assistance, bless another's Arms; Whilst I, not only of my Hopes bereft, But to unpity'd Punishment am left. If he is false, let the Ingrateful bleed! But no such Symptom in his Looks I read. Nature wou'd ne'er have lavish'd so much Grace Upon his Person, if his Soul were base. Besides, he first shall plight his Faith, and swear By all the Gods; what therefore can'ft thou fear? Medea haste, from Danger set him free, Jason shall thy eternal Debtor be. And thou his Queen, with fov'reign State enstall'd, By Grecian Dames the Kind Preserver call'd. Hence idle Dreams, by Love-fick Fancy bred! Wilt thou, Medea, by vain Wishes led, To B 2

To Sister, Brother, Father, bid adieu? Forfake thy Country's Gods, and Country too? My Father's harsh, my Brother but a Child, My Sifter rivals me, my Country's wild; And for its Gods, the greatest of 'em all Inspires my Breast, and I obey his Call. That great Endearments I forfake, is true, But greater far the Hopes that I purfue: The Pride of having fav'd the Youths of Greece, (Each Life more precious than our Golden Fleece;) A nobler Soil by me shall be possest, I shall see Towns with Arts and Manners blest: And, what I prize above the World befide. Enjoy my Jason--- and when once his Bride, Be more than mortal, and to Gods ally'd. They talk of Hazards I must first sustain, Of floating Islands justling in the Main; Our tender Barque expos'd to dreadful Shocks. Of fierce Charybdis' Gulf, and Scylla's Rocks, Where breaking Waves in whirling Eddies rowl, And rav'nous Dogs that in deep Caverns howl: Amidst these Terrors, while I lye possest Of him I love, and lean on Jason's Breast, In Tempests unconcern'd I will appear, Or, only for my Husband's Safety fear. Didst thou say Husband? --- canst thou so deceive Thyself, fond Maid, and thy own Cheat believe? In vain thou striv'st to varnish o'er thy Shame, And grace thy Guilt with Wedlock's facred Name. Pull off the coz'ning Masque, and oh! in time Discover and avoid the fatal Crime.

Book VII. Ovid's Metamorphoses.

She ceas'd---the Graces now, with kind Surprize, And Virtue's lovely Train, before her Eyes Present themselves, and vanquish'd Cupid slies.

She then retires to Hecate's Shrine, that flood Far in the Covert of a shady Wood: She finds the Fury of her Flames affuag'd, But, seeing Jason there, again they rag'd. Blushes and Paleness did by Turns invade Her tender Cheeks, and secret Grief betray'd. As Fire, that sleeping under Ashes lyes, Fresh-blown, and rouz'd, does up in Blazes rise, So flam'd the Virgin's Breaft---New kindled by her Lover's sparkling Eyes. For Chance, that Day, had with uncommon Grace Adorn'd the lovely Youth, and through his Face Difplay'd an Air fo pleafing as might charm A Goddess, and a Vestal's Bosom warm. Her ravish'd Eyes survey him o'er and o'er, As some gay Wonder never seen before; Transported to the Skies she seems to be, And thinks she gazes on a Deity. But when he spoke, and prest her trembling Hand, And did with tender Words her Aid demand, With Vows, and Oaths to make her foon his Bride, She wept a Flood of Tears, and thus reply'd; I fee my Error, yet to Ruin move, Nor owe my Fate to Ignorance, but Love: Your Life I'll guard, and only crave of you To swear once more---and to your Oath be true. He swears by Hecate he would all fulfil, And by her Grandfather's prophetick Skill. By ev'ry thing that doubting Love cou'd press, His present Danger, and desir'd Success.

She credits him, and kindly does produce Enchanted Herbs, and teaches him their Use: Their mystick Names, and Virtues he admires, And with his Booty joyfully retires.

The Dragon's Teeth transform'd to Men.

Impatient for the Wonders of the Day,

Aurora drives the loit'ring Stars away.

Now Mars's Mount the pressing People fill,

The Crowd below, the Nobles crown the Hill;

The King himself high-thron'd above the rest,

With iv'ry Scepter, and in Purple drest.

Forthwith the brass-hoof'd Bulls are set at large, Whose surious Nostrils sulph'rous Flame discharge: The blasted Herbage by their Breath expires; As Forges rumble with excessive Fires, And Furnaces with siercer Fury glow, When Water on the panting Mass ye throw; With such a Noise, from their convulsive Breast, Thro' bellowing Throats, the struggling Vapour prest.

Yet Jason marches up without Concern,
While on th' advent'rous Youth the Monsters turn
Their glaring Eyes, and, eager to engage,
Brandish their Steel-tipt Horns in threat'ning Rage:
With brazen Hoofs they beat the Ground, and choak
The ambient Air with Clouds of Dust and Smoak:
Each gazing Grecian for his Champion shakes,
While bold Advances he securely makes
Thro' sindging Blast; such Wonders Magick Art
Can work, when Love conspires, and plays his Part.
The passive Savages like Statues stand,
While he their Dew-laps stroaks with soothing Hand;

To

To unknown Yokes their brawny Necks they yield, And, like tame Oxen, plow the wond'ring Field. The Colchians stare; the Grecians shout, and raise Their Champion's Courage with inspiring Praise.

Embolden'd now, on fresh Attempts he goes, With Serpent's Teeth the fertile Furrows fows; The Glebe, fermenting with inchanted Juice, Makes the Snake's Teeth a human Crop produce. For as an Infant, Pris'ner to the Womb, Contented sleeps, till to Perfection come, Then does the Cell's obscure Confinement scorn, He tosses, throbs, and presses to be born; So from the lab'ring Earth no fingle Birth, But a whole Troop of lufty Youths rush forth; And, what's more strange, with martial Fury warm'd, And for Encounter all compleatly arm'd; In Rank and File, as they were fow'd, they fland, Impatient for the Signal of Command. No Foe but the Emonian Youth appears; At him they level their Steel-pointed Spears; His frighted Friends, who triumph'd just before, With Peals of Sighs his desp'rate Case deplore: And where fuch hardy Warriors are afraid, What must the tender, and enamour'd Maid? Her Spirits fink, the Blood her Cheek forfook; She fears, who for his Safety undertook: She knew the Virtue of the Spells she gave, She knew the Force, and knew her Lover brave; But what's a fingle Champion to an Host? Yet fcorning thus to fee him tamely loft, Her strong Reserve of secret Arts she brings, And last, her never-failing Song she sings.

B 4 Wonders

Wonders ensue; among his gazing Foes
'The massy Fragment of a Rock he throws;
This Charm in civil War engag'd them all;
By mutual Wounds those Earth-born Brothers fall.

The Greeks, transported with the strange Success,
Leap from their Seats the Conqu'ror to caress;
Commend, and kiss, and class him in their Arms:
So would the kind Contriver of the Charms;
But her, who felt the tenderest Concern,
Honour condemns in secret Flames to burn;
Committed to a double Guard of Fame,
Aw'd by a Virgin's, and a Princess' Name.
But Thoughts are free, and Fancy unconsin'd,
She kisses, courts, and hugs him in her Mind;
To fav'ring Pow'rs her silent Thanks she gives,
By whose Indulgence her lov'd Hero lives.

One Labour more remains, and, tho' the last, In Danger far furmounting all the past; That Enterprize by Fates in store was kept, To make the Dragon fleep that never flept, Whose Crest shoots dreadful Lustre; from his Jaws A triple Tire of forked Stings he draws, With Fangs, and Wings of a prodigious Size: Such was the Guardian of the Golden Prize. Yet him, besprinkled with Lethean Dew, The fair Inchantress into Slumber threw; And then, to fix him, thrice she did repeat The Rhyme, that makes the raging Winds retreat; In stormy Seas can halcyon Seasons make, Turn rapid Streams into a standing Lake; While the foft Guest his drowfy Eye-lids feals, Th' unguarded Golden Fleece the Stranger steals;

Proud

Book VII. Ovid's Metamorphoses.

Proud to posses the Purchase of his Toil, Proud of his Royal Bride, the richer Spoil; To Sea both Prize, and Patroness he bore, And lands triumphant on his native Shore.

Old Æson restor'd to Youth.

Æmonian Matrons, who their Absence mourn'd, Rejoice to fee their prosp'rous Sons return'd: Rich curling Fumes of Incense feast the Skies, An Hecatomb of voted Victims dies, With gilded Horns, and Garlands on their Head, And all the Pomp of Death, to th' Altar led. Congratulating Bowls go brifkly round, Triumphant Shouts in louder Musick drown'd. Amidst these Revels, why that Cloud of Care On Jason's Brow? (to whom the largest Share Of Mirth was due) ---- His Father was not there. Æson was absent, once the Young and Brave, Now crush'd with Years, and bending to the Grave. At last withdrawn, and by the Crowd unseen, Pressing her Hand, (with starting Sighs between) He supplicates his kind, and skilful Queen.

O Patroness! Preferver of my Life!
(Dear when my Mistress, and much dearer Wife)
Your Favours to so vast a Sum amount,
'Tis past the Pow'r of Numbers to recount;
Or cou'd they be to Computation brought,
The History would a Romance be thought:
And yet, unless you add one Favour more,
Greater than all that you conferr'd before,
But not too hard for Love and Magick Skill,
Your past are thrown away, and Jason's wretched still.

The

B 5

The Morning of my Life is just begun,
But my declining Father's Race is run;
From my large Stock retrench the long Arrears,
And add 'em to expiring Æson's Years.

Thus spake the gen'rous Youth, and wept the rest. Mov'd with the Piety of his Request,
To his ag'd Sire such filial Duty shown,
So disf'rent from her Treatment of her own,
But still endeav'ring her Remorse to hide,
She check'd her rising Sighs, and thus reply'd.

How cou'd the Thought of such inhuman Wrong Escape (said she) from pious Jason's Tongue? Does the whole World another Jason bear, Whose Life Medea can to yours prefer? Or cou'd I with so dire a Change dispense, Hecate will never join in that Offence: Unjust is the Request you make, and I In Kindness your Petition shall deny; Yet she that grants not what you do implore, Shall yet essay to give her Jason more; Find Means t'encrease the Stock of Ason's Years, Without Retrenchment of your Life's Arrears; Provided that the Triple Goddess join A strong Confed'rate in my bold Design.

Thus was her Enterprize resolv'd; but still Three tedious Nights are wanting to sulfil The circling Crescents of th' encreasing Moon; Then, in the Height of her nocturnal Noon, Medea steals from Court; her Ankles bare, Her Garments closely girt, but loose her Hair; Thus sally'd like a solitary Sprite, the traverses the Terrors of the Night.

Men, Beasts, and Birds in soft Repose they charm'd, No boist'rous Wind the Mountain-Woods alarm'd; Nor did those Walks of Love, the Myrtle-Trees, Of am'rous Zephir hear the whisp'ring Breeze; All Elements chain'd in unactive Rest, No Sense but what the twinkling Stars exprest; To them (that only wak'd) she rears her Arms, And thus commences her mysterious Charms.

She turn'd her thrice about, as oft she threw
On her pale Tresses the nocturnal Dew;
Then yelling thrice a most enormous Sound,
Her bare Knee bended on the slinty Ground,
O Night (said she) thou Consident and Guide
Of Secrets, such as Darkness ought to hide;
Ye Stars and Moon, that when the Sun retires,
Support his Empire with succeeding Fires;
And thou, great Hecate, Friend to my Design;
Songs, mutt'ring Spells, your magick Forces join;
And thou, O Earth, the Magazine that yields
The Midnight Sorcerer Drugs; Skies, Mountains, Fields;
Ye wat'ry Pow'rs of Fountain, Stream, and Lake;
Ye Sylvan Gods, and Gods of Night, awake,
And gen'rously your Parts in my Adventure take.

Oft by your Aid fwift Currents I have led
Thro' wand'ring Banks, back to their Fountain Head;
Transform'd the Prospect of the briny Deep,
Made sleeping Billows rave, and raving Billows sleep;
Made Clouds, or Sunshine; Tempests rise, or fall;
And stubborn lawless Winds obey my Call:
With mutter'd Words disarm'd the Viper's Jaw;
Up by the Roots vast Oaks, and Rocks cou'd draw,
Make

Make Forests dance, and trembling Mountains come, Like Malefactors, to receive their Doom; Earth groan, and frighted Ghosts forsake their Tomb. Thee, Cynthia, my refistless Rhymes drew down, When tinkling Cymbals strove my Voice to drown; Nor stronger Titan could their Force sustain, In full Career compell'd to stop his Wain: Nor could Aurora's Virgin Blush avail, With pois'nous Herbs I turn'd her Roses pale; The Fury of the fiery Bulls I broke, Their stubborn Necks submitting to my Yoke; And when the Sons of Earth with Fury burn'd, Their hostile Rage upon themselves I turn'd; The Brothers made with mutual Wounds to bleed, And by their fatal Strife my Lover freed; And, while the Dragon slept, to distant Greece, Thro' cheated Guards, convey'd the Golden Fleece. But now to bolder Action I proceed, Of fuch prevailing Juices now have need, That wither'd Years back to their Bloom can bring, And in dead Winter raise a second Spring. And you'll perform't----You will; for lo! the Stars, with sparkling Fires, Presage as bright Success to my Desires: And now another happy Omen fee! A Chariot drawn by Dragons waits for me.

With these last Words she leaps into the Wain, Stroaks the Snakes Necks, and shakes the Golden Rein; That Signal giv'n, they mount her to the Skies, And now beneath her fruitful Tempe lies, Whose Stories she ransacks, then to Crete she slies. There Offa, Pelion, Othrys, Pindus, all To the fair Ravisher, a Booty fall;

The

The Tribute of their Verdure she collects,
Nor proud Olympus' Height his Plants protects.
Some by the Roots she plucks; the tender Tops
Of others with her culling Sickle crops.
Nor could the Plunder of the Hills suffice,
Down to the humble Vales, and Meads she slies;
Apidanus, Amphrysus, the next Rape
Sustain, nor could Enipeus' Bank escape;
Thro' Beebe's Marsh, and thro' the Border rang'd
Whose Pasture Glaucus to a Triton chang'd.

Now the Ninth Day, and Ninth successive Night, Had wonder'd at the reftless Rover's Flight; Mean-while her Dragons, fed with no Repast, But her exhaling Simples od'rous Blaft, Their tarnish'd Scales, and wrinkled Skins had cast. At last return'd before her Palace Gate, Quitting her Chariot, on the ground she sate, The Sky her only Canopy of State. All Conversation with her Sex she fled, Shun'd the Caresses of the Nuptial Bed: Two Altars next of Graffy Turf she rears, This Hecate's Name, that Youth's Inscription bears; With Forest-Boughs, and Vervain these she crown'd; Then delves a double Trench in lower Ground, And flicks a black-fleec'd Ram, that ready flood, And drench'd the Ditches with devoted Blood: New Wine she pours, and Milk from th' Udder warm, With myflick Murmurs to compleat the Charm, And subterranean Deities alarm. To the stern King of Ghosts she next apply'd, And gentle Proserpine, his ravish'd Bride, That for old Æson with the Laws of Fate They would dispense, and lengthen his short Date; Thus Thus with repeated Pray'rs she long assails
Th' infernal Tyrant, and at last prevails;
Then calls to have decrepit Æson brought,
And stupisses him with a sleeping Draught;
On Earth his Body, like a Corpse, extends,
Then charges Jason and his waiting Friends
To quit the Place, that no unhallow'd Eye
Into her Art's forbidden Secrets pry.
This done, th' Inchantress, with her Locks unbound,
About her Altars trips a frantick Round;
Piece-meal the consecrated Woods she splits,
And dips the Splinters in the bloody Pits,
Then hurls 'em on the Piles; the sleeping Sire
She Justrates thrice, with Sulphur, Water, Fire.

In a large Cauldron now the Med'cine boils, Compounded of her late-collected Spoils, Blending into the Mesh the various Pow'rs Of Wonder-working Juices, Roots, and Flow'rs; With Gems i' th' Eastern Ocean's Cell refin'd, And fuch as ebbing Tides had left behind; To them the Midnight's pearly Dew she slings, A Screech-Owl's Carcafe, and ill-boding Wings; Nor could the Wizard Wolf's warm Entrails scape, (That Wolf who counterfeits a human Shape) Then, from the Bottom of her conj'ring Bag, Snakes Skins, and Liver of a long-liv'd Stag; Last a Crow's Head to such an Age arriv'd, That he had now nine Centuries furviv'd: These, and with these a thousand more that grew In fundry Soils, into her Pot she threw; Then with a wither'd Olive-Bough she rakes The bubbling Broth; the Bough fresh Verdure takes; Green

Green Leaves at first the perish'd Plant surround, Which the next Minute with ripe Fruit were crown'd. The foaming Inices now the Brink o'er-fwell; The barren Heath, where-e'er the Liquor fell, Sprang out with vernal Grass, and all the Pride Of blooming May-When this Medea fpy'd, She cuts her Patient's Throat: th' exhausted Blood Recruiting with her new enchanted Flood; While at his Mouth, and thro' his op'ning Wound, A double Inlet her Infusion found; His feeble Frame refumes a youthful Air, A glossy Brown his hoary Beard and Hair. The meagre Paleness from his Aspect fled, And in its Room sprang up a florid Red; Thro' all his Limbs a youthful Vigour flies, His empty'd Art'ries swell with fresh Supplies: Gazing Spectators scarce believe their Eyes. But Æson is the most surpriz'd to find A happy Change in Body and in Mind; In Sense and Constitution the same Man, As when his fortieth active Year began.

Bacchus, who from the Clouds this Wonder view'd, Medea's Method instantly pursu'd, And his indulgent Nurse's Youth renew'd.

The Death of PELIAS.

Thus far obliging Love employ'd her Art,
But now Revenge must act a tragick Part;
Medea seigns a mortal Quarrel bred
Betwixt her, and the Partner of her Bed.
On this pretence to Pelias' Court she slies;
Who languishing with Age and Sickness lies:

His guiltless Daughters, with inveigling Wiles. And well-diffembled Friendship, she beguiles: The strange Atchievements of her Art she tells, With Æson's Cure, and long on that she dwells, "Till them to firm Perswasion she has won. The fame for their old Father may be done: For him they court her to employ her Skill, And put upon the Cure what Price she will. At first she's mute, and with a grave Pretence Of Difficulty, holds 'em in Suspence; Then promifes, and bids 'em, from the Fold Chuse out a Ram, the most infirm and old; That fo by Fact their Doubts may be remov'd, And first on him the Operation prov'd.

A wreath-horn'd Ram is brought, fo far o'er-grown With Years, his Age was to that Age unknown; Of Sense too dull the piercing Point to feel, And scarce sufficient Blood to Stain the Steel. His Carcafe she into a Cauldron threw. With Drugs whose vital Qualities she knew; His Limbs grow less, he casts his Horns, and Years, And tender Bleatings firike their wond'ring Ears. Then instantly leaps forth a frisking Lamb, That feeks (too young to graze) a fuckling Dam. The Sisters, thus confirm'd with the Success, Her Promise with renew'd Entreaty press = To countenance the Cheat, three Nights and Days Before Experiment th' Inchantress stays; Then into limpid Water, from the Springs, Weeds, and Ingredients of no Force she slings; With antique Ceremonies for Pretence And rambling Rhymes without a Word of Sense.

Mean-

Mean-while the King with all his Guards lay bound In Magick Sleep, scarce that of Death so sound: The Daughters now are by the Sorc'ress led Into his Chamber, and furround his Bed. Your Father's Health's concern'd, and can ye stay? Unnat'ral Nymphs, why this unkind Delay? Unsheath your Swords, dismiss his lifeless Blood, And I'll recruit it with a vital Flood: Your Father's Life and Health is in your Hand, And can ye thus like idle Gazers stand? Unless you are of common Sense bereft, If yet one Spark of Piety is left, Dispatch a Father's Cure, and disengage The Monarch from his toilsome Load of Age: Come - drench your Weapons in his putrid Gore: 'Tis Charity to wound, when wounding will restore.

Thus urg'd, the poor deluded Maids proceed, Betray'd by Zeal, to an inhumane Deed, And, in Compassion, make a Father bleed. Yes, she who had the kindest, tend'rest Heart, Is foremost to perform the bloody Part.

Yet, tho' to act the Butchery betray'd, They could not bear to see the Wounds they made; With Looks averted, backward they advance, Then strike, and stab, and leave the Blows to Chance.

Waking in Consternation, he essays
(Weltring in Blood) his feeble Arms to raise:
Environ'd with so many Swords — From whence
This barb'rous Usage? what is my Offence?
What satal Fury, what infernal Charm,
'Gainst a kind Father does his Daughters arm?

Hearing his Voice, as Thunder-struck they stopt Their Resolution, and their Weapons dropt:

Medea

Medea then the mortal Blow bestows, And that perform'd, the tragick Scene to close, His Corpse into the boiling Cauldron throws.

Then, dreading the Revenge that must ensue, High mounted on her Dragon-Coach she slew; And in her stately Progress thro' the Skies, Beneath her shady Pelion first she spies, With Othrys, that above the Clouds did rife; With skilful Chiron's Cave, and neighb'ring Ground, For old Cerambus' strange Escape renown'd; By Nymphs deliver'd, when the World was drown'd; Who him with unexpected Wings supply'd, When delug'd Hills a fafe Retreat deny'd. Æolian Pitane on her Left Hand She faw, and there the statu'd Dragon stand; With Ida's Grove, where Bacchus, to disguise His Son's bold Theft, and to fecure the Prize, Made the stoln Steer a Stag to represent; Cocytus' Father's fandy Monument; And Fields that held the murder'd Sire's Remains, Where howling Mæra frights the startled Plains. Euryphilus' high Town, with Tow'rs defac'd By Hercules, and Matrons more difgrac'd With sprouting Horns, in fignal Punishment, From Juno, or refenting Venus fent. Then Rhodes, which Phæbus did fo dearly prize, And Jowe no less severely did chastize; For he the Wizard Native's pois'ning Sight, That us'd the Farmer's hopeful Crops to blight, In Rage o'erwhelm'd with everlasting Night. Cartheia's ancient Walls come next in view, Where once the Sire almost a Statue grew

Book VII. Ovid's Metamorphoses.

With Wonder, which a strange Event did move, His Daughter turn'd into a Turtle-Dove. Then Hyrie's Lake, and Tempe's Field o'er-ran, Fam'd for the Boy who there became a Swan; For there enamour'd Phyllius, like a Slave, Perform'd what Tasks his Paramour would crave. For Presents he had Mountain-Vultures caught, And from the Defart a tame Lion brought; Then a wild Bull commanded to fubdue, The conquer'd Savage by the Horns he drew; But, mock'd fo oft, the Treatment he disdains, And from the craving Boy this Prize detains. Then thus in Choler the refenting Lad; Won't you deliver him? - You'll wish you had; Nor fooner faid, but, in a peevish Mood, Leapt from the Precipice on which he stood: The Standers-by were struck with fresh Surprize, Instead of falling, to behold him rife A fnowy Swan, and foaring to the Skies.

But dearly the rash Prank his Mother cost,
Who ignorantly gave her Son for lost;
For his Missfortune wept, till she became
A Lake, and still renown'd with Hyrie's Name.

Thence to Latona's Isle, where once were seen, Transform'd to Birds, a Monarch, and his Queen. Far off she saw how old Cephisus mourn'd His Son, into a Seele by Phæbus turn'd; And where, astonish'd at a stranger Sight, Eumelus gaz'd on his wing'd Daughter's Flight.

Ætolian Pleuron she did next survey, Where Sons a Mother's Murder did essay, But sudden Plumes the Matron bore away.

Book VII.

On her Right Hand, Cyllene, a fair Soil, Fair, 'till Menephron there the beauteous Hill Attempted with foul Incest to defile.

Her harness'd Dragons now direct she drives For Corinth, and at Corinth the arrives; Where, if what old Tradition tells, be true, In former Ages Men from Mushrooms grew.

But here Medea finds her Bed fupply'd, During her Absence, by another Bride; And hopeless to recover her lost Game, She fets both Bride and Palace in a Flame. Nor could a Rival's Death her Wrath affwage, Nor stopt at Creon's Family her Rage: She murders her own Infants, in Despight To faithless Jason, and in Jason's Sight; Yet e'er his Sword could reach her, up she springs, Securely mounted on her Dragon's Wings.

The Story of ÆGEUS.

From hence to Athens she directs her Flight, Where Phineus, fo renown'd for doing Right; Where Periphas, and Polyphemon's Neece, Soaring with fudden Plumes amaz'd the Towns of Greeces

Here Ægeus so engaging she addrest, That first he treats her like a Royal Guest; Then takes the Sorc'ress for his wedded Wife; The only Blemish of his prudent Life.

Mean-while his Son, from Actions of Renown, Arrives at Court, but to his Sire unknown. Medea, to dispatch a dang'rous Heir, (She knew him) did a pois'nous Draught prepare;

Drawn

Drawn from a Drug, was long referv'd in store For desp'rate Uses, from the Scythian Shore; That from the Echydnæan Monster's Jaws Deriv'd its Origin, and this the Cause.

Thro' a dark Cave a craggy Passage lies,
To ours, ascending from the nether Skies;
Thro' which, by Strength of Hand, Alcides drew
Chain'd Cerberus, who lagg'd, and restive grew,
With his blear'd Eyes our brighter Day to view.
Thrice he repeated his enormous Yell,
With which he scares the Ghosts, and startles Hell;
At last outrageous (tho' compell'd to yield)
He sheds his Foam in Fury on the Field;
Which, with its own, and Rankness of the Ground,
Produc'd a Weed, by Sorcerers renown'd,
The strongest Constitution to consound;
Call'd Aconite, because it can unlock
All Bars, and force its Passage thro' a Rock.

The pious Father, by her Wheedles won,
Prefents this deadly Potion to his Son;
Who, with the fame Affurance takes the Cup,
And to the Monarch's Health had drankit up,
But in the very Inftant he apply'd
The Goblet to his Lips, old Ægeus fpy'd
The iv'ry hilted Sword that grac'd his Side.
That certain Signal of his Son he knew,
And fnatch'd the Bowl away; the Sword he drew,
Refolv'd, for fuch a Son's endanger'd Life,
To facrifice the most perfidious Wife.
Revenge is swift, but her more active Charms
A Whirlwind rais'd, that snatch'd her from his Arms.

While conjur'd Clouds their baffled Sense surprize, She vanishes from their deluded Eyes, And thro' the Hurricane triumphant flies.

The gen'rous King, altho' o'er-joy'd to find His Son was fafe, yet bearing still in mind 'The Mischief by his treach'rous Queen design'd; The Horrour of the Deed, and then how near The Danger drew, he flands congeal'd with Fear. But foon that Fear into Devotion turns, With grateful Incense ev'ry Altar burns; Proud Victims, and unconscious of their Fate, Stalk to the Temple, there to die in state. In Athens never had a Day been found For Mirth, like that grand Festival, renown'd. Promiscuously the Peers and People dine; Promiscuously their thankful Voices join In Songs of Wit, fublim'd by spritely Wine. To list'ning Spheres their joint Applause they raise, And thus resound their matchless Theseus' Praise.

Great Thefeus! Thee the Marathonian Plain Admires, and wears with Pride the noble Stain Of the dire Monster's Blood, by valiant Theseus slain. That now Cromyon's Swains in fafety fow, And reap their fertile Field, to Thee they owe. By 'Thee th' infested Epidaurian Coast Was clear'd, and now can a free Commerce boaft. The Traveller his Journey can pursue, With Pleasure the late dreadful Valley view, And cry, Here Theseus the grand Robber slew. Cephysus' Flood cries to his rescu'd Shore, The merciless Procrustes is no more. In Peace, Eleusis, Ceres' Rites renew, Since Theleus' Sword the fierce Cercyon flew.

By him the Tort'rer Sinis was destroy'd, Of Strength (but Strength to barb'rous Use employ'd) That Tops of tallest Pines to Earth could bend, And thus in Pieces wretched Captives rend. Inhuman Scyron now has breath'd his last. And now Alcatho's Roads fecurely past; By Theseus slain, and thrown into the Deep: But Earth nor Sea his fcatter'd Bones wou'd keep, Which, after floating long, a Rock became, Still infamous with Scyron's hated Name. When Fame to count thy Acts and Years proceeds, Thy Years appear but Cyphers to thy Deeds. For Thee, brave Youth, as for our Common-wealth, We pray; and drink, in yours, the Publick Health. Your Praise the Senate, and Plebeians fing, With your lov'd Name the Court, and Cottage ring. You make our Shepherds and our Sailors glad, And not a House in this vast City's fad.

But mortal Bliss will never come sincere,
Pleasure may lead, but Grief brings up the Rear;
While for his Son's Arrival, rev'ling Joy
Ægeus, and all his Subjects does employ;
While they for only costly Feasts prepare,
His neighb'ring Monarch, Minos, threatens War:
Weak in Land-Forces, nor by Sea more strong,
But pow'rful in a deep resented Wrong
For a Son's Murder, arm'd with pious Rage;
Yet prudently before he would engage,
To raise Auxiliaries resolv'd to fail,
And with the pow'rful Princes to prevail.
First Anaphè, then proud Astypalæa gains,
By Presents that, and this by Threats obtains

Low Mycone, Cymolus, chalky Soil,
Tall Cythnos, Scyros, flat Seriphos' Isle;
Paros, with marble Cliffs afar display'd;
Impregnable Sithonia; yet betray'd
To a weak Foe by a Gold-admiring Maid,
Who, chang'd into a Daw of sable Hue,
Still hoards up Gold, and hides it from the View.

But as these Islands chearfully combine,
Others resuse t'embark in his Design.
Now Lestward with an easy Sail he bore,
And prosp'rous Passage to OEnopia's Shore;
OEnopia once, but now Ægina call'd,
And with his Royal Mother's Name install'd
By Æacus, under whose Reign did spring
The Myrmidons, and now their reigning King.

Down to the Port, amidst the Rabble, run The Princes of the Blood; with Telamon, Peleus the next, and Phocus the third Son: Then Æacus, altho' oppress with Years, To ask the Cause of their Approach appears.

That Question does the Gnossian's Grief renew, And Sighs from his afflicted Bosom drew; Yet after a short solemn Respite made, The Ruler of the hundred Gities said;

Assist our Arms, rais'd for a murder'd Son, In this religious War no Risque you'll run: Revenge the Dead – for who resuse to give Rest to their Urns, unworthy are to live.

What you request, thus Eacus replies,
Not I, but Truth and common Faith denies;
Athens and we have long been sworn Allies:
Our Leagues are fix'd, confed'rate are our Pow'rs,
And who declare themselves Their Foes, are Ours.

Minos rejoins, Your League shall dearly cost; (Yet, mindful how much safer 'twas to boast, Than there to waste his Forces, and his Fame, Before in Field with his grand Foe he came) Parts without Blows -- Nor long had left the Shore, E're into Port another Navy bore, With Cephalus, and all his jolly Crew; Th' Æacides their old Acquaintance knew: The Princes bid him welcome, and in State Conduct the Hero to their Palace Gate: Who ent'ring, feem'd the charming Mein to wear, As when in Youth he paid his Visit there. In his Right Hand an Olive-Branch he holds, And, Salutation past, the Chief unfolds His Embassy from the Athenian State, Their mutual Friendship, Leagues of ancient Date; Their common Danger, ev'ry thing cou'd wake Concern, and his Address successful make: Strength'ning his Plea with all the Charms of Sense, And those, with all the Charms of Eloquence.

Then thus the King: Like Suitors do you stand
For that Assistance which you may command?

Athenians, all our listed Forces use,
(They're such as no bold Service will resuse;)
And when y'ave drawn them off, the Gods be prais'd,
Fresh Legions can within our Isle be rais'd:
So stock'd with People, that we can prepare
Both for domestic, and for distant War,
Ours, or our Friends Insulters to chastize.

Long may ye flourish thus, the Prince replies. Strange Transport seiz'd me as I pass'd along, To meet so many Troops, and all so young, As if your Army did of Twins confift;
Yet amongst them my late Acquaintance miss'd:
Ev'n all that to your Palace did resort,
When sirst you entertain'd me at your Court;
And cannot guess the Cause from whence cou'd spring
So vast a Change—Then thus the sighing King:

Illustrious Guest, to my strange Tale attend,
Of sad Beginning, but a joyful End:
The whole to a vast History wou'd swell,
I shall but half, and that confus'dly, tell.
That Race whom so deserv'dly you admir'd,
Are all into their filent Tombs retir'd:
They fell; and falling, how they shook my State,
Thought may conceive, but Words can ne'er relate.

The Story of Ants chang'd to Men.

By Mr. STONESTREET.

A dreadful Plague from angry Juno came,
To scourge the Land, that bore her Rival's Name;
Before her satal Anger was reveal'd,
And teeming Malice lay as yet conceal'd,
All Remedies we try, all Med'cines use,
Which Nature cou'd supply, or Art produce;
Th' unconquer'd Foe derides the vain Design,
And Art, and Nature soil'd, declare the Cause Divine,

At first we only felt th' oppressive Weight Of gloomy Clouds, then teeming with our Fate, And lab'ring to discharge unactive Heat: But e're four Moons alternate Changes knew, With deadly Blasts the fatal South-wind blew, Infected all the Air, and poison'd as it slew.

Our

Our Fountains too a dire Infection yield, For Crowds of Vipers creep along the Field, And with polluted Gore, and baneful Steams, 'Taint all the Lakes, and venom all the Streams.

The young Difease with milder Force began, And rag'd on Birds, and Beafts, excusing Man. The lab'ring Oxen fall before the Plow, Th' unhappy Plow-men stare, and wonder how: The tabid Sheep, with fickly Bleatings, pines; Its Wool decreasing, as its Strength declines: The Warlike Steed, by inward Foes compell'd, Neglects his Honours, and deferts the Field; Unnerv'd, and languid, feeks a base Retreat, And at the Manger groans, but wish'd a nobler Fate: The Stags forget their Speed, the Boars their Rage, Nor can the Bears the stronger Herds engage: A gen'ral Faintness does invade 'em all, And in the Woods, and Fields, promiscuously they fall. The Air receives the Stench, and (strange to fay) The rav'nous Birds and Beafts avoid the Prey: Th' offensive Bodies rot upon the Ground, And spread the dire Contagion all around.

But now the Plague, grown to a larger Size,
Riots on Man, and fcorns a meaner Prize.
Intestine Heats begin the Civil War,
And Flushings first the latent Flame declare,
And Breath inspir'd, which seem'd like stery Air.
Their black dry Tongues are swell'd, and scarce can move,

And short thick Sighs from panting Lungs are drove. They gape for Air, with flatt'ring Hopes t'abate Their raging Flames, but that augments their Heat.

No

No Bed, no Cov'ring can the Wretches bear, But on the Ground, expos'd to open Air, They lye, and hope to find a pleasing Coolness there. The fuff'ring Earth, with that Oppression curst, Returns the Heat which they imparted first.

In vain Phyficians would befrow their Aid, Vain all their Art, and useless all their Trade; And they, ev'n they, who fleeting Life recall, Feel the same Pow'rs, and undistinguish'd fall. If any proves fo daring to attend His fick Companion, or his darling Friend, Th' officious Wretch fucks in contagious Breath, And with his Friend does sympathize in Death.

And now the Care and Hopes of Life are past, They please their Fancies, and indulge their Taste; At Brooks and Streams, regardless of their Shame, Each Sex, promiscuous, strives to quench their Flame; Nor do they strive in vain to quench it there, For Thirst, and Life at once extinguish'd are. Thus in the Brooks the dying Bodies fink, But heedless still the rash Survivors drink.

So much uneasy Down the Wretches hate, They fly their Beds, to struggle with their Fate; But if decaying Strength forbids to rife, The Victim crawls and rouls, 'till on the Ground he lies. Each shuns his Bed, as each wou'd shun his Tomb, And thinks th' Infection only lodg'd at home.

Here one, with fainting Steps, does flowly creep O'er Heaps of Dead, and strait augments the Heap; Another, while his Strength and Tongue prevail'd, Bewails his Friend, and falls himfelf bewail'd:

This

Book VII. Ovid's Metamorphoses.

This with imploring Looks furveys the Skies, The last dear Office of his closing Eyes, But finds the Heav'ns implacable, and dies.

What now, ah! what employ'd my troubled Mind? But only Hopes my Subjects Fate to find.
What Place foe'er my weeping Eyes furvey.
There in lamented Heaps the Vulgar lay;
As Acorns featter when the Winds prevail,
Or mellow Fruit from shaken Branches fall.

You see that Dome which rears its Front so high:
'Tis facred to the Monarch of the Sky:
How many there, with unregarded Tears,
And fruitless Vows, sent up successless Pray'rs?
There Fathers for expiring Sons implor'd,
And there the Wife bewail'd her gasping Lord;
With pious Off'rings they'd appease the Skies,
But they, e're yet th' attoning Vapours rise,
Before the Altars fall, themselves a Sacrifice:
They fall, while yet their Hands the Gums contain,
The Gums surviving, but their Off'rers slain.

The destin'd Ox, with holy Garlands crown'd, Prevents the Blow, and seels th' expected Wound: When I my self invok'd the Pow'rs Divine, To drive the fatal Pest from Me and Mine; When now the Priest with Hands uplisted stood, Prepar'd to strike, and shed the sacred Blood, The Gods themselves the mortal Stroke bestow, The Victim salls, but They impart the Blow: Scarce was the Knife with the pale Purple stain'd, And no Presages cou'd be then obtain'd, From putrid Entrails, where th' Insection reign'd.

Death

29

Death stalk'd around with such resistless Sway,
The Temples of the Gods his Force obey,
And Suppliants feel his Stroke, while yet they pray.
Go now, said he, your Deities implore
For fruitless Aid, for I desie their Pow'r.
Then with a curst malicious Joy survey'd
The very Altars, stain'd with Trophies of the Dead.
The rest grown mad, and frantick with Description

The rest grown mad, and frantick with Despair, Urge their own Fate, and so prevent the Fear. Strange Madness that, when Death pursu'd so fast, T' anticipate the Blow with impious Haste.

No decent Honours to their Urns are paid,
Nor cou'd the Graves receive the num'rous Dead;
For, or they lay unbury'd on the Ground,
Or unadorn'd a needy Fun'ral found:
All Rev'rence past, the fainting Wretches fight
For Fun'ral Piles which were another's Right.

Unmourn'd they fall: for, who furviv'd to mourn? And Sires, and Mothers unlamented burn: Parents, and Sons fustain an equal Fate, And wand'ring Ghosts their kindred Shadows meet. The Dead a larger Space of Ground require, Nor are the Trees sufficient for the Fire.

Despairing under Grief's oppressive Weight, And sunk by these tempestuous Blasts of Fate, O Jove, said I, if common Fame says true, If e'er Ægina gave those Joys to you, If e'er you lay enclos'd in her Embrace, Fond of her Charms, and eager to posses; O Father, if you do not yet disclaim Paternal Care, nor yet disown the Name;

Book VII. Ovid's Metamorphoses.

Grant my Petitions, and with Speed restore My Subjects num'rous as they were before, Or make me Partner of the Fate they bore. I fpoke, and glorious Lightning shone around, And rattling Thunder gave a prosp'rous Sound; So let it be, and may these Omens prove A Pledge, faid I, of your returning Love.

By chance a rev'rend Oak was near the Place, Sacred to Fove, and of Dodona's Race, Where frugal Ants laid up their Winter Meat, Whose little Bodies bear a mighty Weight: We faw them march along and hide their Store, And much admir'd their Number, and their Pow'r; Admir'd at first, but after envy'd more. Full of Amazement, thus to Fove I pray'd, O grant, fince thus my Subjects are decay'd, As many Subjects to supply the Dead. I pray'd, and strange Convulsions mov'd the Oak, Which murmur'd, tho' by ambient Winds unshook: My trembling Hands, and stiff-erected Hair, Exprest all Tokens of uncommon Fear; Yet both the Earth and facred Oak I kist, And scarce cou'd hope, yet still I hop'd the best; For Wretches, whatfoe'er the Fates divine, Expound all Omens to their own Defign.

But now 'twas Night, when ev'n Distraction wears A pleafing Look, and Dreams beguile our Cares. Lo! the same Oak appears before my Eyes, Nor alter'd in his Shape, nor former Size; As many Ants the num'rous Branches bear, The same their Labour, and their frugal Care; The Branches too a like Commotion found, And shook th' industrious Creatures on the Ground,

Who, by degrees (what's fcarce to be believ'd) A nobler Form, and larger Bulk receiv'd, And on the Earth walk'd an unufual Pace, With manly Strides, and an erected Face; Their num'rous Legs, and former Colour loft, The Infects cou'd a Human Figure boaft.

I wake, and waking find my Cares again, And to the unperforming Gods complain, And call their Promise, and Pretences, vain. Yet in my Court I heard the murm'ring Voice Of Strangers, and a mixt uncommon Noise: But I fuspected all was still a Dream, "Till Telamon to my Apartment came, Op'ning the Door with an impetuous Haste, O come, faid he, and fee your Faith and Hopes furpast : I follow, and, confus'd with Wonder, view Those shapes which my Presaging Slumbers drew: I faw, and own'd, and call'd them Subjects; they Confest my Pow'r, submissive to my Sway. To Jove, Restorer of my Race decay'd, My Vows were first with due Oblations paid; I then divide with an impartial Hand My empty City, and my ruin'd Land, To give the New-born Youth an equal Share, And call them Myrmidons, from what they were. You faw their Persons, and they still retain The Thrift of Ants, though now transform'd to Men. A frugal People, and inur'd to Sweat, Lab'ring to gain, and keeping what they get. These, equal both in Strength and Years, shall join Their willing Aid, and follow your Defign, With the first Southern Gale that shall present To fill your Sails, and favour your Intent. The

Book VII.

With fuch Discourse they entertain the Day;
The Ev'ning past in Banquets, Sport, and Play:
Then, having crown'd the Night with sweet Repose,
Aurora (with the Wind at East) arose.
Now Pallas' Sons to Cephalus resort,
And Cephalus with Pallas' Sons to Court,
To the King's Levee; him Sleep's silken Chain,
And pleasing Dreams, beyond his Hour detain;
But then the Princes of the Blood, in State,
Expect, and meet 'em at the Palace Gate.

The Story of CEPHALUS and PROCRIS.

To th' inmost Courts the Grecian Youths were led, And plac'd by Phocus on a Tyrian Bed; Who, foon observing Cephalus to hold A Dart of unknown Wood, but arm'd with Gold; None better loves (faid he) the Huntsman's Sport, Or does more often to the Woods refort; Yet I that Jav'lin's Stem with Wonder view, Too brown for Box, too smooth a Grain for Yew. I cannot guess the Tree; but never Art Did form, or Eyes behold fo fair a Dart! The Guest then interrupts him----'Twou'd produce Still greater Wonder, if you knew its Use. It never fails to strike the Game, and then Comes bloody back into your Hand again. Then Phocus each Particular desires, And th' Author of the wond'rous Gift enquires. To which the Owner thus, with weeping Eyes, And Sorrow for his Wife's fad Fate, replies:

This Weapon here (O Prince!) can you believe This Dart the Cause for which I so much grieve? And shall continue to grieve on, 'till Fate Afford such wretched Life no longer Date. Would I this fatal Gift had ne'er enjoy'd, This fatal Gift my tender Wife destroy'd: Procris her Name, ally'd in Charms and Blood To fair Orythia courted by a God. Her Father feal'd my Hopes with Rites Divine, But firmer Love before had made her mine. Men call'd me bleft, and bleft I was indeed. The fecond Month our Nuptials did succeed; When (as upon Hymettus' dewy Head, For Mountain Stags my Net betimes I spread) Aurora spy'd, and ravish'd me away, With Rev'rence to the Goddess, I must say, Against my Will, for Procris had my Heart, Nor wou'd her Image from my Thoughts depart. At last, in Rage she cry'd, Ingrateful Boy, Go to your Procris, take your fatal Joy; And so dismis'd me: Musing, as I went, What those Expressions of the Goddess meant, A thousand jealous Fears possess me now, Lest Procris had prophan'd her Nuptial Vow: Her Youth and Charms did to my Fancy paint A lewd Adult'ress, but her Life a Saint. Yet I was absent long, the Goddess too Taught me how far a Woman cou'd be true. Aurora's Treatment much Suspicion bred; Besides, who truly love, ev'n Shadows dread. I strait impatient for the Trial grew, What Courtship back'd with richest Gifts cou'd do. Aurora's Envy aided my Defign, And lent me Features far unlike to mine. In this Disguise to my own House I came, But all was chaste, no conscious Sign of Blame: With thousand Arts I scarce Admittance found, And then beheld her weeping on the Ground For her lost Husband; hardly I retain'd My Purpose, scarce the wish'd Embrace refrain'd. How charming was her Grief! Then, Phocus, guess What killing Beauties waited on her Drefs. Her constant Answer, when my Suit I prest, Forbear, my Lord's dear Image guards this Breast; Where-e'er he is, whatever Cause detains, Whoe'er has his, my Heart unmov'd remains. What greater Proofs of Truth than these cou'd be? Yet I persist, and urge my Destiny. At length, she found, when my own Form return'd, Her jealous Lover there, whose Loss she mourn'd. Enrag'd with my Suspicion, swift as Wind, She fled at once from me and all Mankind; And so became, her Purpose to retain, A Nymph, and Huntress in Diana's Train: Forfaken thus, I found my Flames encrease, I own'd my Folly, and I su'd for Peace. It was a Fault, but not of Guilt, to move Such Punishment, a Fault of too much Love: Thus I retriev'd her to my longing Arms, And many happy Days posses'd her Charms. But with herself she kindly did confer, What Gifts the Goddess had bestow'd on her; The fleetest Greyhound, with this lovely Dart, And I of both have Wonders to impart.

Near Thebes a favage Beaft, of Race unknown, Laid waste the Field, and bore the Vineyards down; The Swains fled from him, and with one Confent Our Grecian Youth to chase the Monster went; More swift than Lightning he the Toils surpast, And in his Course Spears, Men, and Trees o'ercast. We slipt our Dogs, and last my Lelaps too, When none of all the mortal Race wou'd do: He long before was struggling from my Hands, And, e're we cou'd unloofe him, broke his Bands. That Minute where he was, we cou'd not find, And only faw the Dust he lest behind. I climb'd a neighb'ring Hill to view the Chace, While in the Plain they held an equal Race; The Savage now feems caught, and now by Force To quit himself, nor holds the same strait Course; But running counter, from the Foe withdraws, And with short Turning cheats his gaping Jaws: Which he retrieves, and still so closely prest, You'd fear at ev'ry Stretch he were possess'd; Yet for the Gripe his Fangs in vain prepare; The Game shoots from him, and he chops the Air. To cast my Jav'lin then I took my Stand; But as the Thongs were fitting to my Hand, While to the Valley I o'erlook'd the Wood, Before my Eyes two Marble Statues flood; That, as pursu'd appearing at full Stretch, This barking after, and at point to catch: Some God their Course did with this Wonder grace, That neither might be conquer'd in the Chace. A sudden Silence here his Tongue supprest, He here stops short, and fain wou'd wave the rest.

The eager Prince then urg'd him to impart The Fortune that attended on the Dart. First then (said he) past Joys let me relate, For Bliss was the Foundation of my Fate. No Language can those happy Hours express, Did from our Nuptials me, and Procris bless: The kindest Pair! What more cou'd Heav'n confer? For she was all to me, and I to her. Had Jove made Love, great Jove had been despis'd; And I my Procris more than Venus priz'd: Thus while no other Joy we did aspire, We grew at last one Soul, and one Defire. Forth to the Woods I went at Break of Day, (The constant Practice of my Youth) for Prey: Nor yet for Servant, Horse, or Dog, did call, I found this fingle Dart to serve for all. With Slaughter tir'd, I fought the cooler Shade, And Winds that from the Mountains pierc'd the Glade: Come, gentle Air, (so was I wont to say) Come, gentle Air, fweet Aura come away. This always was the Burden of my Song; Come 'fwage my Flames, fweet Aura come along. Thou always art most welcome to my Breast; I faint; approach, thou dearest, kindest Guest! These Blandishments, and more than these, I said, (By Fate to unfuspected Ruin led) Thou art my Joy, for thy dear Sake I love Each defart Hill, and folitary Grove; When (faint with Labour) I Refreshment need, For Cordials on thy fragrant Breath I feed. At last a wand'ring Swain in Hearing came, And cheated with the Sound of Aura's Name, He

He thought I had fome Affignation made; And to my Procris' Ear the News convey'd. Great Love is foonest with Suspicion fir'd: She fwoon'd, and with the Tale almost expir'd. Ah! wretched Heart! (fhe cry'd) ah! faithless Man! And then to curse th' imagin'd Nymph began: Yet oft she doubts, oft hopes she is deceiv'd, And chides herfelf, that ever she believ'd Her Lord to such Injustice cou'd proceed, 'Till the herfelf were Witness of the Deed. Next Morn I to the Woods again repair, And, weary with the Chace, invoke the Air: Approach, dear Aura, and my Bosom chear: At which a mournful Sound did strike my Ear; Yet I proceeded, 'till the Thicket by, With ruftling Noise and Motion, drew my Eye: I thought some Beast of Prey was shelter'd there, And to my Covert threw my certain Spear; From whence a tender Sigh my Soul did wound, Ah me! it cry'd, and did like Procris found. Procris was there, too well the Voice I knew, And to the Place with headlong Horror flew; Where I beheld her gasping on the Ground, In vain attempting from the deadly Wound To draw the Dart, her Love's dear fatal Gift! My guilty Arms had scarce the Strength to lift The beauteous Load; my Silks, and Hair I tore (If possible) to stanch the pressing Gore; For Pity beg'd her keep her flitting Breath, And not to leave me guilty of her Death. While I intreat she fainted fast away, And thefe few Words had only Strength to fay:

By all the facred Bonds of plighted Love,
By all your Rev'rence to the Pow'rs above,
By all that made me charming once appear,
By all the Truth for which you held me dear,
And last by Love, the Cause through which I bleed,
Let Aura never to my Bed succeed.
I then perceiv'd the Error of our Fate,
And told it her, but found and told too late!
I felt her lower to my Bosom fall,
And while her Eyes had any Sight at all,
On mine she fix'd them; in her Pangs still prest
My Hand, and sigh'd her Soul into my Breast;
Yet, being undeceiv'd, resign'd her Breath
Methought more chearfully, and smil'd in Death.

With fuch Concern the weeping Hero told This Tale, that none who heard him cou'd withhold From melting into fympathizing Tears, 'Till Eacus with his two Sons appears; Whom he commits, with their new-levy'd Bands, To Fortune's, and fo brave a Gen'ral's Hands.

OVID'S

METAMORPHOSES.

BOOK VIII.

Translated by Mr. DRYDEN and Others.

The Story of Nisus and Scylla.

By Mr. CROXALL.

OW shone the Morning Star in bright Array,

To vanquish Night, and usher in the Day: The Wind veers Southward, and moist Clouds arise,

That blot with Shades the Blue Meridian Skies.

Cephalus feels with Joy the kindly Gales,

His new Allies unfurl the swelling Sails;

Steady their Course, they cleave the yielding Main,

And, with a Wish, th' intended Harbour gain.

Mean-

Mean-while King Minos, on the Attick Strand, Displays his martial Skill, and wastes the Land. His Army lies encampt upon the Plains, Before Alcathoë's Walls, where Nisus reigns; On whose grey Head a Lock of Purple Hue, The Strength, and Fortune of his Kingdom, grew.

Six Moons were gone, and past, when still from far

Vistoria hover'd o'er the doubtful War.

So long, to both inclin'd, th' impartial Maid Between 'em both her equal Wings display'd.

High on the Walls, by Phæbus vocal made,
A Turret of the Palace rais'd its Head;
And where the God his tuneful Harp refign'd,
The Sound within the Stones still lay enshrin'd:
Hither the Daughter of the Purple King
Ascended oft, to hear its Musick ring;
And, striking with a Pebble, wou'd release
Th' enchanted Notes, in Times of happy Peace.
But now, from thence, the curious Maid beheld
Rough Feats of Arms, and Combats of the Field:
And, since the Siege was long, had learnt the Name
Of ev'ry Chief, his Character, and Fame;
Their Arms, their Horse, and Quiver she descry'd,
Nor cou'd the Dress of War the Warriour hide.

Europa's Son she knew above the rest,
And more, than well became a Virgin Breast:
In vain the crested Morion veils his Face,
She thinks it adds a more peculiar Grace:
His ample Shield, embost with burnish'd Gold,
Still makes the Bearer lovelier to behold:
When the tough Jav'lin, with a Whirl, he sends,
His Strength and Skill the sighing Maid commends;

Or, when he strains to draw the circling Bow, And his fine Limbs a manly Posture show, Compar'd with Phæbus, he performs so well, Let her be Judge, and Minos shall excell.

But when the Helm put off, difplay'd to Sight, And fet his Features in an open Light; When, vaulting to his Seat, his Steed he preft, Caparison'd in Gold, and richly drest; Himself in Scarlet sumptuously array'd, New Passions rise, and fire the frantick Maid. O happy Spear! she cries, that feels his Touch; Nay, ev'n the Reins he holds are bleft too much. Oh! were it lawful, she cou'd wing her Way Thro' the stern hostile Troops without Dismay; Or throw her Body to the distant Ground, And in the Cretans happy Camp be found. Wou'd Minos but defire it! she'd expose Her native Country to her Country's Foes; Unbar the Gates, the Town with Flames infest, Or any thing that Minos shou'd request.

And as she sat, and pleas'd her longing Sight, Viewing the King's Pavilion veil'd with White, Shou'd Joy, or Grief, she said, possess my Breast, To see my Country by a War oppress? I'm in Suspence! For, tho' 'tis Grief to know I love a Man that is declar'd my Foe; Yet, in my own Despite, I must approve That lucky War, which brought the Man I love. Yet, were I tender'd as a Pledge of Peace, The Cruelties of War might quickly cease. Oh! with what Joy I'd wear the Chains he gave! A patient Hostage, and a willing Slave.

Thou lovely Object! if the Nymph that bare Thy charming Person, were but half so fair; Well might a God her Virgin Bloom defire, And with a Rape indulge his amorous Fire. Oh! had I Wings to glide along the Air, To his dear Tent I'd fly, and fettle there: There tell my Quality, confess my Flame, And grant him any Dowry that he'd name. All, all I'd give; only my native Land, My dearest Country, shou'd excepted stand. For, perish Love, and all expected Joys, E're with fo base a Thought my Soul complies. Yet, oft the Vanquish'd some Advantage find, When conquer'd by a noble, gen'rous Mind. Brave Minos justly has the War begun, Fir'd with Resentment for his murder'd Son: The righteous Gods a righteous Cause regard, And will with Victory his Arms reward: We must be conquer'd; and the Captive's Fate Will furely seize us, tho' it seize us late. Why then shou'd Love be idle, and neglect What Mars, by Arms and Perils, will effect? Oh! Prince, I die, with anxious Fear opprest, Lest some rash Hand shou'd wound my Charmer's Breast: For, if they faw, no barb'rous Mind cou'd dare Against that lovely Form to raise a Spear.

But I'm refolv'd, and fix'd in this Decree, My Father's Country shall my Dowry be. Thus I prevent the Lofs of Life and Blood, And, in Effect, the Action must be good. Vain Resolution! for, at ev'ry Gate The trufty Centinels, successive, wait:

The Keys my Father keeps; ah! there's my Grief; 'Tis he obstructs all Hopes of my Relief. Gods! that this hated Light I'd never feen! Or, all my Life, without a Father been! But Gods we all may be; for those that dare, Are Gods, and Fortune's chiefest Favours share. The ruling Pow'rs a lazy Pray'r detest, The bold Adventurer fucceeds the best. What other Maid, inspir'd with such a Flame, But wou'd take Courage, and abandon Shame? But wou'd, tho' Ruin shou'd ensue, remove Whate'er oppos'd, and clear'd the Way to Love? This, shall another's feeble Passion dare? While I fit tame, and languish in Despair: No; for tho' Fire and Sword before me lay, Impatient Love thro' both shou'd force its Way. Yet I have no fuch Enemies to fear, My fole Obstruction is my Father's Hair; His Purple Lock my fanguine Hope destroys, And clouds the Prospect of my rising Joys.

Whilst thus she spoke, amid the thick'ning Air Night supervenes, the greatest Nurse of Care: And, as the Goddess spreads her sable Wings, The Virgin's Fears decay, and Courage springs. The Hour was come, when Man's o'er-labour'd Breast Surceas'd its Care, by downy Sleep posses: All Things now hush'd, Scylla with silent Tread Urg'd her Approach to Nisus' Royal Bed: There, of the satal Lock (accursed Thest!) She her unwitting Father's Head berest. In safe Possession of her impious Prey, Out at a Postern Gate she takes her Way.

Embolden'd by the Merit of the Deed, She traverses the adverse Camp with Speed, 'Till Minos' Tent she reach'd: The righteous King She thus bespoke, who shiver'd at the Thing.

Behold th' Effect of Love's refiftless Sway! I, Nisus' Royal Seed, to thee betray My Country, and my Gods. For this strange Task, Minos, no other Boon but Thee I ask. This Purple Lock, a Pledge of Love, receive; No worthless Present, since in it I give My Father's Head .--- Mov'd at a Crime fo new, And with Abhorrence fill'd, back Minos drew, Nor touch'd th' unhallow'd Gift; but thus exclaim'd, (With Mein indignant, and with Eyes inflam'd) Perdition feize thee, thou, thy Kind's Difgrace! May thy devoted Carcase find no Place In Earth, or Air, or Sea, by all out-cast! Shall Minos, with fo foul a Monster, blast His Cretan World, where cradled Jove was nurst? Forbid it Heav'n !---away, thou most accurft!

And now Alcathoë, its Lord exchang'd,
Was under Minos' Domination rang'd.
While the most equal King his Care applies
'To curb the Conquer'd, and new Laws devise,
The Fleet, by his Command, with hoisted Sails,
And ready Oars, invites the murm'ring Gales.
At length the Cretan Hero Anchor weigh'd,
Repaying, with Neglea, th' abandon'd Maid.
Deaf to her Cries, he furrows up the Main:
In vain she prays, solicits him in vain.

And now she furious grows in wild Despair, She wrings her Hands, and throws alost her Hair.

Where

For

Where run'st thou? (thus she vents her deep Distress) Why shun'st thou her that crown'd thee with Success? Her, whose fond Love to thee cou'd facrifice Her Country, and her Parent, facred Ties! Can nor my Love, nor proffer'd Presents find A Passage to thy Heart, and make thee kind? Can nothing move thy Pity? O Ingrate, Can'ft thou behold my loft, forlorn Estate, And not be foften'd? Can'ft thou throw off One Who has no Refuge left but Thee alone? Where shall I feek for Comfort? whither sly? My native Country does in Ashes lye: Or were't not fo, my Treason bars me there, And bids me wander. Shall I next repair To a wrong'd Father, by my Guilt undone?----Me all Mankind deservedly will shun. The all Mankind deservedly will shun. I, out of all the World, myfelf have thrown, To purchase an Access to Crete alone; and with happens Which, fince refus'd, ungen'rous Man, give o'er To boast thy Race; Europa never bore A Thing so favage. Thee some Tygress bred, On the bleak Syrt's inhospitable Bed; We to be in the self-Or where Charybdis pours its rapid Tide Tempestuous. Thou art not to fove ally'd; Nor did the King of Gods thy Mother meet Beneath a Bull's forg'd Shape, and bear to Crete. That Fable of thy glorious Birth is feign'd; Some wild outrageous Bull thy Dam fustain'd. O Father Nisus, now my Death behold; Exult, O City, by my Baseness fold: Minos, obdurate, has aveng'd ye all; But 'twere more just by those I wrong'd to fall: VOL. II. D

For why shoud'st thou, who only didst subdue By my offending, my Offence purfue? Well art thou matcht to one whose am'rous Flame Too fiercely rag'd, for Human-kind to tame; One who, within a wooden Heifer thrust, Courted a low'ring Bull's mistaken Lust; And, from whose Monster-teeming Womb, the Earth Receiv'd, what much it mourn'd, a bi-form Birth. But what avails my Plaints? the whiftling Wind, Which bears him far away, leaves them behind. Well weigh'd Pasiphaë, when she prefer'd A Bull to thee, more brutish than the Herd. But ah! Time preffes, and the labour'd Oars To Distance drive the Fleet, and lose the less'ning Shores. Think not, ungrateful Man, the liquid Way And threat'ning Billows shall inforce my Stay. I'll follow thee in Spite: My Arms I'll throw Around thy Oars, or grasp thy crooked Prow, And drag thro' drenching Seas. Her eager Tongue Had hardly clos'd the Speech, when forth she sprung And prov'd the Deep. Cupid with added Force Recruits each Nerve, and aids her wat'ry Courfe. Soon she the Ship attains, unwelcome Guest; And, as with close Embrace its Sides she prest, A Hawk from upper Air came pouring down; ('Twas Nisus cleft the Sky with Wings new grown.) At Scylla's Head his horny Bill he aims; She, fearful of the Blow, the Ship disclaims, Quitting her Hold: And yet she fell not far, But wond'ring, finds herself fustain'd in Air. Chang'd to a Lark, she mottled Pinions shook, And, from the ravish'd Lock, the Name of Ciris took.

The Labyrinth.

Now Minos, landed on the Cretan Shore,
Performs his Vows to Jove's protecting Pow'r;
A hundred Bullocks of the largest Breed,
With Flowrets crown'd, before his Altar bleed:
While Trophies of the Vanquish'd, brought from far,
Adorn the Palace with the Spoils of War.

Mean-while the Monster of a human Beast,
His Family's Reproach, and Stain, increas'd.
His double Kind the Rumour swiftly spread,
And evidenc'd the Mother's beastly Deed.
When Mines, willing to conceal the Shame
That sprung from the Reports of tatling Fame,
Resolves a dark Inclosure to provide,
And, far from Sight, the two-form'd Creature hide.

Great Dædalus of Athens was the Man That made the Draught, and form'd the wondrous Plan; Where Rooms within themselves encircled lye, With various Windings, to deceive the Eve. As foft Maander's wanton Current plays. When thro' the Phrygian Fields it loofely strays: Backward and forward rolls the dimpl'd Tide, Seeming, at once, two different Ways to glide: While circling Streams their former Banks furvey. And Waters past succeeding Waters see: Now floating to the Sea with downward Courfe, Now pointing upward to its ancient Source. Such was the Work, so intricate the Place, That scarce the Workman all its Turns cou'd trace; And Dædalus was puzzled how to find The fecret Ways of what himfelf defign'd.

These private Walls the Minotaure include, Who twice was glutted with Athenian Blood: But the third Tribute more successful prov'd, Slew the foul Monster, and the Plague remov'd. When Thefeus, aided by the Virgin's Art, Had trac'd the guiding Thread thro' ev'ry Part, He took the gentle Maid, that fet him free, And, bound for Dias, cut the briny Sea. There, quickly cloy'd, ungrateful, and unkind, Left his fair Confort in the Isle behind. Whom Bacchus faw, and straining in his Arms Her rifled Bloom, and violated Charms, Refolves, for this, the dear engaging Dame Shou'd shine for ever in the Rolls of Fame; And bids her Crown among the Stars be plac'd, With an eternal Constellation grac'd. The golden Circlet mounts; and, as it flies, Its Diamonds twinkle in the distant Skies: There, in their pristine Form, the gemmy Rays Between Alcides, and the Dragon blaze.

The Story of DÆDALUS and ICARUS.

In tedious Exile now too long detain'd,

Dædalus languish'd for his native Land:

The Sea foreclos'd his Flight; yet thus he said;

Tho' Earth and Water in Subjection laid,

O cruel Minos, thy Dominions be,

We'll go thro' Air; for sure the Air is free.

Then to new Arts his cunning Thought applies,

And to improve the Work of Nature cries.

A Row of Quills in gradual Order plac'd,

Rise by Degrees in Length from first to last;

As on a Cliff th' afcending Thicket grows, Or, different Reeds the rural Pipe compose. Along the Middle runs a Twine of Flax, The bottom Stems are join'd by pliant Wax. Thus, well compact, a hollow Bending brings, The fine Composure into real Wings.

His Boy, young Icarus, that near him flood, Unthinking of his Fate, with Smiles pursu'd The floating Feathers, which the moving Air Bore loosely from the Ground, and wasted here and there. Or with the Wax impertinently play'd, And with his childish Tricks the great Design delay'd.

The final Master-stroke at last impos'd, And now, the neat Machine compleatly clos'd; Fitting his Pinions on, a Flight he tries, And hung felf-balanc'd in the beaten Skies. Then thus instructs his Child; My Boy, take Care To wing your Course along the middle Air; If low, the Surges wet your flagging Plumes: If high, the Sun the melting Wax confumes: Steer between both: Nor to the Northern Skies, Nor South Orion turn your giddy Eyes; But follow me: Let me before you lay Rules for the Flight, and mark the pathless Way. Then teaching, with a fond Concern, his Son, He took the untry'd Wings, and fix'd 'em on; But fix'd with trembling Hands; and as he speaks, The Tears roll gently down his aged Cheeks. Then kiss'd, and in his Arms embrac'd him fast, But knew not this Embrace must be the last. And mounting upward, as he wings his Flight, Back on his Charge he turns his aching Sight;

As Parent Birds, when first their callow Care Leave the high Nest to tempt the liquid Air. Then chears him on, and oft, with fatal Art, Reminds the Stripling to perform his Part.

These, as the Angler at the filent Brook,
Or Mountain-Shepherd leaning on his Crook,
Or gaping Plowman, from the Vale descries,
They stare, and view 'em with religious Eyes,
And strait conclude 'em Gods; since none, but they,
Thro' their own azure Skies cou'd find a Way.

Now Delos, Paros on the left are feen, And Samos, favour'd by Jove's haughty Queen; Upon the right, the Isle Lebynthos nam'd, And fair Calymne for its Honey fam'd. When now the Boy, whose childish Thoughts aspire To loftier Aims, and make him ramble high'r, Grown wild, and wanton, more embolden'd flies Far from his Guide, and foars among the Skies. The foft'ning Wax, that felt a nearer Sun, Diffolv'd apace, and foon began to run. The Youth in vain his melting Pinions shakes, His Feathers gone, no longer Air he takes: Oh! Father, Father, as he strove to cry, Down to the Sea he tumbled from on high, And found his Fate; yet fill subsists by Fame, Among those Waters that retain his Name.

The Father, now no more a Father, cries, Ho! Icarus! where are you? as he flies; Where shall I seek my Boy? he cries again, And saw his Feathers scatter'd on the Main. Then curs'd his Art, and sun'ral Rites conferr'd; Naming the Country from the Youth interr'd.

Book VIII. Ovid's Metamorphoses.

A Partridge, from a neighb'ring Stump, beheld
The Sire his monumental Marble build;
Who, with peculiar Call, and flutt'ring-Wing,
Chirpt joyful, and malicious feem'd to fing:
The only Bird of all its Kind, and late
Transform'd in Pity to a feather'd State:
From whence, O Dædalus, thy Guilt we date.

His Sister's Son, when now twelve Years were past, Was, with his Uncle, as a Scholar plac'd; The unsuspecting Mother faw his Parts, And Genius fitted for the finest Arts. This foon appear'd; for when the spiny Bone In Fishes Backs was by the Stripling known, A rare Invention thence he learnt to draw, ball Fil'd Teeth in Ir'n, and made the grating Saw. He was the first, that from a Knob of Brass Made two strait Arms with widening Stretch to pass; That, while one flood upon the Center's Place, The other round it drew a circling Space. Dædalus envy'd this, and from the Top Of fair Minerva's Temple let him drop; Feigning, that, as he lean'd upon the Tow'r, Careless he stoop'd too much, and tumbled o'er.

The Goddess, who th' Ingenious still befriends,
On this Occasion her Assistance lends;
His Arms with Feathers, as he fell, she veils,
And in the Air a new-made Bird he fails.
The Quickness of his Genius, once so sleet,
Still in his Wings remains, and in his Feet:
Still, tho' transform'd, his ancient Name he keeps,
And with low Flight the new-shorn Stubble sweeps,
Declines the lofty Trees, and thinks it best
To brood in Hedge-rows o'er its humble Nest;

And,

And, in Remembrance of the former III, Avoids the Heights, and Precipices still.

At length, fatigu'd with long laborious Flights, On fair Sicilia's Plains the Artist lights; Where Cocalus the King, that gave him Aid, Was, for his Kindness, with Esteem repaid.

Athens no more her doleful Tribute sent, That Hardship gallant Theseus did prevent; Their Temples hung with Garlands, they adore Each friendly God, but most Minerwa's Pow'r: To Her, to Jove, to All, their Altars smoke, They each with Victims, and Persumes invoke.

Now talking Fame, thro' every Grecian Town, Had fpread, immortal Thefeus, thy Renown. From him the neighb'ring Nations in Distress, In suppliant Terms implore a kind Redress.

The Story of MELEAGER and ATALANTA.

By Mr. DRYDEN.

From him the Caledonians fought Relief;
Though valiant Meleagrus was their Chief.
The Cause, a Boar, who ravag'd far and near:
Of Cynthia's Wrath, th' avenging Minister.
For Oeneus with Autumnal Plenty bless'd,
By Gifts to Heav'n his Gratitude express'd:
Cull'd Sheafs, to Ceres; to Lyæus, Wine;
To Pan, and Pales, offer'd Sheep and Kine;
And Fat of Olives, to Minerwa's Shrine.
Beginning from the rural Gods, his Hand
Was lib'ral to the Pow'rs of high Command:

3

Each Deity in ev'ry Kind was bless'd,
'Till at Diana's Fane th' invidious Honour ceas'd.

Wrath touches ev'n the Gods; the Queen of Night, Fir'd with Disdain, and jealous of her Right, Unhonour'd though I am, at least, said she, Not unreveng'd that impious Act shall be. Swift as the Word, she sped the Boar away, With Charge on those devoted Fields to prey. No larger Bulls th' Egyptian Pastures feed, And none so large Sicilian Meadows breed: His Eye-balls glare with Fire suffus'd with Blood; His Neck shoots up a thick-set thorny Wood; His briftled Back a Trench impal'd appears, And stands erected, like a Field of Spears; Froth fills his Chaps, he fends a grunting Sound, And part he churns, and part befoams the Ground. For Tusks with Indian Elephants he strove, And Jove's own Thunder from his Mouth he drove. He burns the Leaves; the scorching Blast invades The tender Corn, and shrivels up the Blades: Or fuff'ring not their yellow Beards to rear, He tramples down the Spikes, and intercepts the Year. In vain the Barns expect their promis'd Load, Nor Barns at home, nor Recks are heap'd abroad: In vain the Hinds the Threshing-Floor prepare, And exercise their Flails in empty Air. With Olives ever-green the Ground is strow'd, And Grapes ungather'd shed their gen'rous Blood. Amid the Fold he rages, nor the Sheep Their Shepherds, nor the Grooms their Bulls can keep.

From Fields to Walls the frighted Rabble run, Nor think themselves secure within the Town: 58

'Till Meleagros, and his chosen Crew, Contemn the Danger, and the Praise pursue. Fair Leda's Twins (in time to Stars decreed) One fought on Foot, one curb'd the fiery Steed: Then issu'd forth fam'd Jason after these, Who mann'd the foremost Ship that sail'd the Seas; Then Theseus join'd with bold Perithous came; A fingle Concord in a double Name: The Thestian Sons, Idas, who swiftly ran, And Ceneus, once a Woman, now a Man. Lynceus, with Eagle's Eyes, and Lion's Heart; Leucippus, with his never-erring Dart; Acastus, Phileus, Phænix, Telamon, Echion, Lelix, and Eurytion, Achilles' Father, and great Phocus' Son; Dryas the fierce, and Hippafus the firong; With twice old Iolas, and Nestor then but young. Laertes active, and Ancœus bold; Mopsus the Sage, who future Things foretold: And t'other Seer, yet by his Wife * unfold. A thousand others of immortal Fame: Among the rest, fair Atalanta came, Grace of the Woods: A Diamond Buckle bound Her Vest behind, that else had flow'd upon the Ground, And shew'd her buskin'd Legs; her Head was bare, But for her native Ornament of Hair: Which in a fimple Knot was ty'd above, Sweet Negligence! unheeded Bait of Love! Her founding Quiver, on her Shoulder ty'd,

One Hand a Dart, and one a Bow supply'd.

Book VIII. Ovid's Metamorphoses. 59

Such was her Face, as in a Nymph display'd A fair fierce Boy, or in a Boy betray'd The blushing Beauties of a modest Maid. The Caledonian Chief at once the Dame Beheld, at once his Heart receiv'd the Flame, With Heav'ns averse. O happy Youth, he cry'd; For whom thy Fates reserve so fair a Bride! He sigh'd, and had no Leisure more to say; His Honour call'd his Eyes another Way, And forc'd him to pursue the now-neglected Prey.

There stood a Forest on a Mountain's Brow,
Which overlook'd the shaded Plains below.
No sounding Ax presum'd those Trees to bite;
Coeval with the World, a venerable Sight.
The Heroes there arriv'd, some spread around
The Toils; some search the Footsteps on the Ground:
Some from the Chains the faithful Dogs unbound.
Of Action eager, and intent in Thought,
The Chiefs their honourable Danger sought:
A Valley stood below; the common Drain
Of Waters from above, and falling Rain:
The Bottom was a moist, and marshy Ground,
Whose Edges were with bending Oziers crown'd:
The knotty Bulrush next in order stood,
And all within of Reeds a trembling Wood.

From hence the Boar was rous'd, and sprung amain, Like Lightning sudden, on the Warrior Train; Beats down the Trees before him; shakes the Ground. The Forest echoes to the crackling Sound; Shout the sierce Youth, and Clamours ring around. All stood with their portended Spears prepar'd, With broad Steel Heads the brandish'd Weapons glar'd.

The

The Beast impetuous with his Tusks aside
Deals glancing Wounds; the fearful Dogs divide:
All spend their Mouths aloof, but none abide.

Echion threw the first, but miss'd his Mark,
And stuck his Bow-spear on a Maple's Bark.
Then Jason; and his Javelin seem'd to take,
But fail'd with Over-force, and whiz'd above his Back.

Mopsus was next; but e'er he threw, address'd
To Phæbus, thus: O Patron, help thy Priest:
If I adore, and ever have ador'd
Thy Pow'r divine, thy present Aid afford;
That I may reach the Beast. The God allow'd
His Pray'r, and smiling, gave him what he cou'd:
He reach'd the Savage, but no Blood he drew:
Dian unarm'd the Javelin, as it slew.

This chaf'd the Boar, his Nostrils Flames expire,
And his red Eye-balls roll with living Fire.
Whirl'd from a Sling, or from an Engine thrown,
Amid the Foes, so flies a mighty Stone,
As slew the Beast: The left Wing put to Flight,
The Chiefs o'erborn, he pushes on the right.
Eupalamos and Pelagon he laid
In Dust, and next to Death, but for their Fellows Aid.
Onesimus far'd worse, prepar'd to fly,
The fatal Fang drove deep within his Thigh,
And cut the Nerves: The Nerves no more sustain

And cut the Nerves: The Nerves no more sustain
The Bulk; the Bulk unprop'd, falls headlong on the Nestor had fail'd the Fall of Troy to see, [Plain.

But leaning on his Lance, he vaulted on a Tree; Then gath'ring up his Feet, look'd down with Fear, And thought his monstrous Foe was still too near. Against a Stump his Tusk the Monster grinds, And in the sharpen'd Edge new Vigour sinds;

Then,

Then, trusting to his Arms, young Othrys found, And ranch'd his Hips with one continu'd Wound.

Now Leda's Twins, the future Stars, appear;
White were their Habits, white their Horses were:
Conspicuous both, and both in A&t to throw,
Their trembling Lances brandish'd at the Foe:
Nor had they miss'd; but he to Thickets sted,
Conceal'd from aiming Spears, not pervious to the Steed.
But Telamon rush'd in, and hap'd to meet
A rising Root, that held his fastned Feet;
So down he fell, whom, sprawling on the Ground,
His Brother from the wooden Gyves unbound.

Mean-time the Virgin-Huntress was not flow T'expel the Shaft from her contracted Bow: Beneath his Ear the fastned Arrow stood, And from the Wound appear'd the trickling Blood. She blush'd for Joy: But Meleagros rais'd His Voice with loud Applause, and the fair Archer He was the first to see, and first to show [prais'd. His Friends the Marks of the fuccefsful Blow. Nor shall thy Valour want the Praises due, He faid; a virtuous Envy feiz'd the Crew. They shout; the Shouting animates their Hearts, And all at once employ their thronging Darts: But out of Order thrown, in Air they join, And Multitude makes frustrate the Design. With both his Hands the proud Ancœus takes, And flourishes his double-biting Ax: Then forward to his Fate, he took a Stride Before the rest, and to his Fellows cry'd, Give place, and mark the Diff'rence if you can, Between a Woman Warrior, and a Man;

The Boar is doom'd; nor though Diana lend Her Aid, Diana can her Beaft defend. Thus boasted he; then stretch'd, on Tiptoe stood, Secure to make his empty Promife good. But the more wary Beast prevents the Blow, And upward rips the Groin of his audacious Foe. Ancœus falls; his Bowels from the Wound Rush out, and clotted Blood distains the Ground.

Perithous, no small Portion of the War. Press'd on, and shook his Lance: To whom from far Thus Thefeus cry'd; O flay, my better Part, My more than Mistress; of my Heart, the Heart. The strong may fight aloof: Ancœus try'd His Force too near, and by prefuming dy'd: He faid, and while he spake, his Javelin threw, Histing in Air th' unerring Weapon slew; But on an Arm of Oak, that stood betwixt The Marksman and the Mark, his Lance he fixt.

Once more bold Jason threw, but fail'd to wound The Boar, and flew an undeferving Hound, And thro' the Dog the Dart was nail'd to Ground.

Two Spears from Meleager's Hand were fent, With equal Force, but various in th' Event: The first was fix'd in Earth, the second stood On the Boar's briftled Back, and deeply drank his Blood. Now while the tortur'd Savage turns around, And flings about his Foam, impatient of the Wound, The Wound's great Author close at Hand provokes His Rage, and plies him with redoubled Strokes; Wheels, as he wheels; and with his pointed Dart Explores the nearest Passage to his Heart. Quick, and more quick he spins in giddy Gires, Then falls, and in much Foam his Soul expires.

This Act with Shouts Heav'n-high the friendly Band Applaud, and strain in their's the Victor's Hand. Then all approach the slain with vast Surprize, Admire on what a Breadth of Earth he lies, And scarce secure, reach out their Spears afar, And blood their Points, to prove their Partnership of War.

But he, the conqu'ring Chief, his Foot impress'd On the strong Neck of that destructive Beast; And gazing on the Nymph with ardent Eyes, Accept, said he, fair Nonacrine, my Prize, And, though inferior, fuffer me to join My Labours, and my Part of Praise, with thine: At this presents her with the tusky Head And Chine, with rifing Briftles roughly spread. Glad she receiv'd the Gift; and seem'd to take With double Pleasure, for the Giver's Sake. The rest were seiz'd with sullen Discontent, And a deaf Murmur through the Squadron went: All envy'd; but the Theftyan Brethren show'd The least Respect, and thus they vent their Spleen aloud: Lay down those honour'd Spoils, nor think to share, Weak Woman as thou art, the Prize of War: Ours is the Title, thine a foreign Claim, Since Meleagrus from our Lineage came. Trust not thy Beauty; but restore the Prize, Which he, befotted on that Face, and Eyes, Would rend from us: At this, enflam'd with Spite, From her they fnatch the Gift, from him the Giver's Right.

But foon th' impatient Prince his Fauchion drew, And cry'd, Ye Robbers of another's Due, Now learn the Diff'rence, at your proper Cost, Betwixt true Valour, and an empty Boast. At this advanc'd, and fudden as the Word, In proud Plexippus' Bosom plung'd the Sword: Toxeus amaz'd, and with Amazement flow, Or to revenge, or ward the coming Blow, Stood doubting; and while doubting thus he stood, Receiv'd the Steel bath'd in his Brother's Blood.

Pleas'd with the first, unknown the second News; Althea to the Temples pays their Dues For her Son's Conquest; when at length appear Her grisly Brethren stretch'd upon the Bier: Pale at the sudden Sight, she chang'd her Cheer, And with her Cheer her Robes; but hearing tell The Cause, the Manner, and by whom they fell, 'Twas Grief no more, or Grief and Rage were one Within her Soul; at last 'twas Rage alone; Which burning upwards in Succession, dries The Tears, that flood confid'ring in her Eyes.

There lay a Log unlighted on the Hearth, When she was lab'ring in the Throws of Birth For th' unborn Chief; the fatal Sisters came, And rais'd it up, and toss'd it on the Flame: Then on the Rock a fcanty Measure place Of vital Flax, and turn'd the Wheel apace; And turning fung, To this red Brand and thee, O new-born Babe, we give an equal Deftiny; So vanish'd out of View. The frighted Dame Sprung hasty from her Bed, and quench'd the Flame: The Log, in secret lock'd, she kept with Care, And that, while thus preferv'd, preferv'd her Heir. This Brand she now produc'd; and first she strows The Hearth with Heaps of Chips, and after blows;

Thrice heav'd her Hand, and heav'd, she thrice repress'd: The Sister and the Mother long contest, Two doubtful Titles, in one tender Breaft: And now her Eyes, and Cheeks with Fury glow, Now pale her Cheeks, her Eyes with Pity flow: Now low'ring Looks prefage approaching Storms, And now prevailing Love her Face reforms: Refolv'd, she doubts again; the Tears she dry'd With burning Rage, are by new Tears supply'd; And as a Ship, which Winds and Waves affail, Now with the Current drives, now with the Gale, Both opposite, and neither long prevail: She feels a double Force, by Turns obeys Th' imperious Tempest, and th' impetuous Seas: So fares Althaa's Mind, she first relents With Pity, of that Pity then repents: Sifter, and Mother long the Scales divide, But the Beam nodded on the Sister's Side. Sometimes she foftly figh'd, then roar'd aloud; But Sighs were stifled in the Cries of Blood. The pious, impious Wretch at length decreed,

To please her Brother's Ghost, her Son should bleed:
And when the fun'ral Flames began to rise,
Receive, she said, a Sister's Sacrifice;
A Mother's Bowels burn: High in her Hand,
Thus while she spoke, she held the satal Brand;
Then thrice before the kindled Pile she bow'd,
And the three Furies thrice invok'd aloud:
Come, come, revenging Sisters, come, and view
A Sister paying her dead Brother's Due:
A Crime I punish, and a Crime commit;
But Blood for Blood, and Death for Death is sit:

Great

Great Crimes must be with greater Crimes repaid,
And second Fun'rals on the former laid.
Let the whole Houshold in one Ruin fall,
And may Diana's Curse o'ertake us all.
Shall Fate to happy Oenus still allow
One Son, while Thestius stands depriv'd of two?
Better Three lost, than One unpunish'd go.
Take then, dear Ghosts, (while yet admitted new
In Hell you wait my Duty) take your Due:
A costly Off'ring on your Tomb is laid,
When with my Blood the Price of yours is paid.

Ah! whither am I hurry'd? Ah! forgive, Ye Shades, and let your Sister's Issue live; A Mother cannot give him Death; tho' he Deserves it, he deserves it not from me.

Then shall th' unpunish'd Wretch insult the Slain, Triumphant live, nor only live, but reign? While you, thin Shades, the Sport of Winds, are tost O'er dreary Plains, or tread the burning Coast. I cannot, cannot bear; 'tis past, 'tis done; Perish this impious, this detested Son: Perish his Sire, and perish I withal; And let the House's Heir, and the hop'd Kingdom fall.

Where is the Mother fled, her pious Love, And where the Pains with which ten Months I strove! Ah! had'ft thou dy'd, my Son, in Infant Years, Thy little Herse had been bedew'd with Tears.

Thou liv'st by me; to me thy Breath resign;
Mine is the Merit, the Demerit thine.
Thy Life by double Title I require;
Once giv'n at Birth, and once preserv'd from Fire.
One Murder pay, or add one Murder more,
And me to them who fell by thee restore.

I would,

Now

I would, but cannot: My Son's Image stands Before my Sight; and now their angry Hands My Brothers hold, and Vengeance these exact; This pleads Compassion, and repents the Fact.

He pleads in vain, and I pronounce his Doom: My Brothers, though unjustly, shall o'ercome. But having paid their injur'd Ghosts their Due, My Son requires my Death, and mine shall his pursue.

At this, for the last time, she lifts her Hand, Averts her Eyes, and, half unwilling, drops the Brand. The Brand, amid the flaming Fewel thrown, Or drew, or feem'd to draw, a dying Groan; The Fires themselves but faintly lick'd their Prey, Then loath'd their impious Food, and would have shrunk Taway.

Just then the Hero cast a doleful Cry, And in those absent Flames began to fry: The blind Contagion rag'd within his Veins; But he with manly Patience bore his Pains: He fear'd not Fate, but only griev'd to die Without an honest Wound, and by a Death so dry. Happy Ancæus, thrice aloud he cry'd, With what becoming Fate in Arms he dy'd! Then call'd his Brothers, Sisters, Sire around, And her, to whom his Nuptial Vows were bound, Perhaps his Mother; a long Sigh she drew, And his Voice failing, took his last Adieu. For as the Flames augment, and as they stay At their full Height, then languish to decay, They rise and fink by Fits; at last they soar In one bright Blaze, and then descend no more: Just so his inward Heats, at height, impair, 'Till the last burning Breath shoots out the Soul in Air.

Now lofty Calidon in Ruins lies; All Ages, all Degrees unfluice their Eyes, [and Cries. > And Heav'n, and Earth refound with Murmurs, Groans, J Matrons and Maidens beat their Breafts, and tear Their Habits, and root up their scatter'd Hair: The wretched Father, Father now no more, With Sorrow funk, lies proftrate on the Floor, Deforms his heary Locks with Duft obscene, And curses Age, and loaths a Life prolong'd with Pain. By Steel her flubborn Soul his Mother freed, And punish'd on herself her impious Deed.

Had I a hundred Tongues, a Wit so large As could their hundred Offices discharge; Had Phabus all his Helicon bestow'd In all the Streams inspiring, all the God; Those Tongues, that Wit, those Streams, that God in vain Would offer to describe his Sister's Pain: They beat their Breasts with many a bruizing Blow, 'Till they turn livid, and corrupt the Snow. The Corps they cherish, while the Corps remains, And exercise, and rub with fruitless Pains; And when to fun'ral Flames'tis born away, They kifs the Bed on which the Body lay: And when those fun'ral Flames no longer burn, (The Dust compos'd within a pious Urn) Ev'n in that Urn their Brother they confess, And hug it in their Arms, and to their Bosoms press.

His Tomb is rais'd; then, firetch'd along the Ground, Those living Monuments his Tomb surround: Ev'n to his Name, inscrib'd, their Tears they pay, 'Till Tears, and Kiffes wear his Name away.

But Cynthia now had all her Fury fpent, Not with less Ruin than a Race content:

Excepting Gorge, perish'd all the Seed,
And * her whom Heav'n for Hercules decreed.
Satiate at last, no longer she pursu'd
The weeping Sisters; but with Wings endu'd,
And horny Beaks, and sent to flit in Air;
Who yearly round the Tomb in feather'd Flocks repair.

The Transformation of the NAIADS.

By Mr. VERNON.

Thefeus mean-while acquiting well his Share In the bold Chace confed'rate like a War, To Athens' lofty Tow'rs his March ordain'd, By Pallas lov'd, and where Erestheus reign'd. But Achelous stop'd him on the Way, By Rains a Deluge, and constrain'd his Stay.

O fam'd for glorious Deeds, and great by Blood, Rest here, says he, nor trust the rapid Flood; It solid Oaks has from its Margin tore, And rocky Fragments down its Current bore, The Murmur hoarse, and terrible the Roar. Oft have I feen Herds with their shelt'ring Fold Forc'd from the Banks, and in the Torrent roll'd; Nor Strength the bulky Steer from Ruin freed, Nor matchless Swiftness sav'd the racing Steed. In Cataracts when the diffolving Snow Falls from the Hills, and floods the Plains below; Toss'd by the Eddies with a giddy Round, Strong Youths are in the fucking Whirlpools drown'd. 'Tis best with me in Safety to abide, 'Till usual Bounds restrain the ebbing Tide, And the low Waters in their Channel glide.

70 Ovid's Metamorphoses. Book VIII.

Theseus persuaded, in Compliance bow'd; So kind an Offer, and Advice so good, O Achelous, cannot be refus'd; I'll use them both, said he; and both he us'd.

The Grot he enter'd, Pumice built the Hall, And Tophi made the Rustick of the Wall; The Floor, foft Moss, an humid Carpet spread, And various Shells the chequer'd Roof inlaid. 'Twas now the Hour when the declining Sun Two Thirds had of his daily Journey run; At the spread Table Theseus took his Place, Next his Companions in the daring Chace; Perithous here, there elder Lelex lay, His Locks betraying Age with sprinkled Grey. Acharnia's River-God dispos'd the rest, Grac'd with the equal Honour of the Feaft, Elate with Joy, and proud of fuch a Guest. The Nymphs were Waiters, and with naked Feet In order ferv'd the Courses of the Meat. The Banquet done, delicious Wine they brought, Of one transparent Gem the Cup was wrought.

Then the great Hero of this gallant Train,
Surveying far the Prospect of the Main;
What is that Land, says he, the Waves embrace?
(And with his Finger pointed at the Place;)
Is it one parted Isle which stands alone?
How nam'd? and yet methinks it seems not one.
To whom the watry God made this Reply;
'Tis not one Isle, but sive; distinct they lye;
'Tis Distance which deceives the cheated Eye.
But that Diana's Act may seem less strange,
These once proud Naiads were, before their Change.

"Twas

'Twas on a Day more folemn than the rest,

Ten Bullocks slain, a Sacrificial Feast:

The rural Gods of all the Region near

They bid to dance, and taste the hallow'd Cheer.

Me they forgot: Affronted with the Slight,

My Rage, and Stream swell'd to the greatest Height;

And with the Torrent of my slooding Store,

Large Woods from Woods, and Fields from Fields I tore.

The guilty Nymphs, Oh! then, rememb'ring me,

I, with their Country, wash'd into the Sea;

And joining Waters with the social Main,

Rent the gross Land, and split the firm Champagne.

Since, the Echinades, remote from Shore

Are view'd as many Isles, as Nymphs before.

PERIMELE turn'd into an Island.

But yonder far, lo, yonder does appear An Isle, a Part for me for ever dear. From that (it Sailors Perimele name) I doating, forc'd by Rape a Virgin's Fame. Hippodamas's Passion grew so strong, Gall'd with th' Abuse, and fretted at the Wrong, He cast his pregnant Daughter from a Rock; I spread my Waves beneath, and broke the Shock; And as her swimming Weight my Stream convey'd, I su'd for Help Divine, and thus I pray'd: O pow'rful Thou, whose Trident does command The Realm of Waters, which furround the Land; We facred Rivers, wherefoe'er begun, End in thy Lot, and to thy Empire run. With Favour hear, and help with present Aid; Her whom I bear 'twas guilty I betray'd.

Book VIII.

Yet if her Father had been just, or mild,
He would have been less impious to his Child;
In her, have pity'd Force in the Abuse;
In me, admitted Love for my Excuse.
O let Relief for her hard Case be found,
Her, whom Paternal Rage expell'd from Ground,
Her, whom Paternal Rage relentless drown'd.
Grant her some Place, or change her to a Place,
Which I may ever class with my Embrace.

His nodding Head the Sea's great Ruler bent,
And all his Waters shook with his Assent.
The Nymph still swam, tho' with the Fright distrest,
I felt her Heart leap trembling in her Breast;
But hardning soon, whilst I her Pulse explore,
A crusting Earth cas'd her stiff Body o'er;
And as Accretions of new-cleaving Soil
Inlarg'd the Mass, the Nymph became an Isle.

The Story of BAUCIS and PHILEMON.

By Mr. DRYDEN.

Thus Achelous ends: His Audience hear With Admiration, and admiring, fear The Pow'rs of Heav'n; except Ixion's Son, Who laugh'd at all the Gods, believ'd in none. He shook his impious head, and thus replies. These Legends are no more than pious Lies: You attribute too much to Heav'nly Sway, To think they give us Forms, and take away.

The rest of better Minds, their Sense declar'd Against this Doctrine, and with Horror heard. Then Lelex rose, an old experienc'd Man, And thus with sober Gravity began;

Heav'n's

But

Heav'n's Pow'r is infinite: Earth, Air, and Sea, The Manufacture Mass, the making Pow'r obey: By Proof to clear your Doubt; In Phrygian Ground Two neighb'ring Trees, with Walls encompass'd round, Stand on a mod'rate Rife, with Wonder shown, One a hard Oak, a fofter Linden one: I faw the Place, and them, by Pittheus fent To Phrygian Realms; my Grandfire's Government. Not far from thence is feen a Lake, the Haunt Of Coots, and of the fishing Cormorant: Here Jove with Hermes came; but in Disguise Of mortal Men conceal'd their Deities: One laid aside his Thunder, one his Rod: And many toilsome Steps together trod: For Harbour at a thousand Doors they knock'd. Not one of all the thousand but was lock'd. At last an hospitable House they found, A homely Shed; the Roof not far from Ground, Was thatch'd with Reeds, and Straw, together bound. There Baucis and Philemon liv'd, and there Had liv'd long marry'd, and a happy Pair: Now old in Love, though little was their Store, Inur'd to Want, their Poverty they bore, Nor aim'd at Wealth, professing to be poor, For Master, or for Servant here to call, Was all alike, where only Two were All. Command was none, where equal Love was paid, Or rather both commanded, both obey'd. From lofty Roofs the Gods repuls'd before.

Now stooping, enter'd through the little Door: The Man (their hearty Welcome first express'd) A common Settle drew for either Guest, Inviting each his weary Limbs to rest.

VOL. II.

F

But ere they fat, officious Baucis lays Two Cushions stuff'd with Straw, the Seat to raise; Coarfe, but the best she had; then rakes the Load Of Ashes from the Hearth, and spreads abroad The living Coals; and, left they should expire, With Leaves, and Bark, she feeds her Infant Fire: It smoaks; and then with trembling Breath she blows, "Till in a chearful Blaze the Flames arose. With Brushwood, and with Chips she strengthens these, And adds at last the Boughs of rotten Trees. The Fire thus form'd, she fets the Kettle on, (Like burnish'd Gold the little Seether shone) Next took the Coleworts which her Husband got From his own Ground, (a fmall well-water'd Spot;) She ftripp'd the Stalks of all their Leaves; the best She cull'd, and them with handy Care she drest. High o'er the Hearth a Chine of Bacon hung; Good old Philemon seiz'd it with a Prong, And from the footy Rafter drew it down, Then cut a Slice; but scarce enough for one; Yet a large Portion of a little Store, Which for their Sakes alone he wish'd were more. This in the Pot he plung'd without Delay, To tame the Flesh, and drain the Salt away. The Time between, before the Fire they fat, And shorten'd the Delay by pleasing Chat.

A Beam there was, on which a Beechen Pail Hung by the Handle, on a driven Nail: This fill'd with Water, gently warm'd, they fet Before their Guests; in this they bath'd their Feet; And after with clean Towels dry'd their Sweat. This done, the Host produc'd the genial Bed, Sallow the Feet, the Borders, and the Sted, Which with no coftly Coverlet they spread.

But

But coarse old Garments; yet such Robes as these They laid alone, at Feasts, on Holidays. The good old Housewife, tucking up her Gown, The Table fets; th' invited Gods lie down, The Trivet-Table of a Foot was lame, A Blot which prudent Baucis overcame, Who thrusts beneath the limping Leg a Sherd, So was the mended Board exactly rear'd: Then rubb'd it o'er with newly gather'd Mint, A wholesom Herb, that breath'd a grateful Scent. Pallas began the Feast, where first was feen The party-colour'd Olive, Black, and Green: Autumnal Cornels next in order ferv'd, In Lees of Wine well pickled, and preserv'd. A Garden-Sallad was the third Supply, bales with the Of Endive, Radishes, and Succory: has said and Then Curds, and Cream, the Flow'r of Country Fare, -And new-laid Eggs, which Baucis' bufy Care Turn'd by a gentle Fire, and roafted rare. All these in Earthen Ware were serv'd to Board; And next in place, an Earthen Pitcher stor'd, With Liquor of the best the Cottage could afford. This was the Table's Ornament and Pride, With Figures wrought: Like Pages at his Side William Stood Beechen Bowls; and these were shining clean, Varnish'd with Wax without, and lin'd within. By this the boiling Kettle had prepar'd, And to the Table fent the smoaking Lard; On which with eager Appetite they dine, and by bra A fav'ry Bit, that ferv'd to relish Wine: A barrolnA The Wine itself was suiting to the rest, was alless Still working in the Must, and lately press'd.

The fecond Course succeeds like that before,
Plums, Apples, Nuts, and of their wintry Store
Dry Figs, and Grapes, and wrinkled Dates were set
In Canisters, t'enlarge the little Treat:
All these a Milk-white Honey Comb surround,
Which in the midst the Country Banquet crown'd:
But the kind Hosts their Entertainment grace
With hearty Welcome, and an open Face:
In all they did, you might discern with Ease,
A willing Mind, and a Desire to please.

Mean-time the Beechen Bowls went round, and still, Though often empty'd, were observ'd to sill; Fill'd without Hands, and of their own Accord Ran without Feet, and danc'd about the Board. Devotion seiz'd the Pair, to see the Feast With Wine, and of no common Grape, increas'd; And up they held their Hands, and fell to Pray'r, Excusing, as they could, their Country Fare.

One Goose they had, ('twas all they could allow)
A wakeful Centry, and on Duty now,
Whom to the Gods for Sacrifice they vow:
Her with malicious Zeal the Couple view'd;
She ran for life, and limping they pursu'd:
Full well the Fowl perceiv'd their bad Intent,
And would not make her Master's Compliment;
But persecuted, to the Pow'rs she slies,
And close between the Legs of Jove she lies:
He with a gracious Ear the Suppliant heard,
And sav'd her Life; then what he has declar'd,
And own'd the God. The Neighbourhood, said he,
Shall justly perish for Impiety:
You stand alone exempted; but obey
With Speed, and follow where we lead the Way:

Leave

Leave these accurs'd; and to the Mountain's Height Afcend; nor once look backward to your Flight.

They haste, and what their tardy Feet deny'd, The trufty Staff (their better Leg) supply'd. An Arrow's Flight they wanted to the Top, And there secure, but spent with Travel, stop; Then turn their now no more forbidden Eyes; Lost in a Lake the floated Level lies: A watry Defart covers all the Plains, Their Cot alone, as in an Isle, remains. Wondring, with weeping Eyes, while they deplore Their Neighbours Fate, and Country now no more, Their little Shed, scarce large enough for two, Seems, from the Ground increas'd, in Height and Bulk to grow.

A stately Temple shoots within the Skies, The Crotchets of their Cot in Columns rise: 'The Pavement polish'd Marble they behold, The Gates with Sculpture grac'd, the Spires and Tiles of Gold.

Then thus the Sire of Gods, with Looks ferene, Speak thy Defire, thou only Just of Men; And thou, O Woman, only worthy found To be with fuch a Man in Marriage bound.

A while they whisper; then, to fove address'd, Philemon thus prefers their joint Request: We crave to serve before your facred Shrine, And offer at your Altars Rites divine: And fince not any Action of our Life Has been polluted with domestick Strife; We beg one Hour of Death, that neither the With Widow's Tears may live to bury me, Illand E 3 inpai dom 200 gd Nor

The Godheads fign their Suit. They run their Race, In the same Tenour all th' appointed Space: Then, when their Hour was come, while they relate These past Adventures at the Temple Gate, Old Baucis is by old Philemon feen Sprouting with fudden Leaves of sprightly Green Old Baucis look'd where old Philemon stood, And faw his lengthen'd Arms a sprouting Wood: New Roots their fasten'd Feet begin to bind, Their Bodies stiffen in a rifing Rind: Then, ere the Bark above their Shoulders grew, They give, and take at once their last Adieu. At once, Farewell, O faithful Spouse, they faid; At once th' incroaching Rinds their closing Lips invade. Ev'n yet, an ancient Tyanean shows A spreading Oak, that near a Linden grows; The Neighbourhood confirm the Prodigy, Grave Men, not vain of Tongue, or like to lie. I faw myfelf the Garlands on their Boughs, And Tablets hung for Gifts of granted Vows; And off'ring fresher up, with pious Pray'r, The Good, faid I, are God's peculiar Care, And fuch as honour Heav'n, shall heav'nly Honour share.

Continu'd by Mr. VERNON. The Changes of PROTEUS.

He ceas'd in his Relation to proceed, Whilst all admir'd the Author, and the Deed; But Theseus most, inquisitive to know From Gods what wond'rous Alterations grow.

Whom

Whom thus the Calydonian Stream address'd, Rais'd high to speak, the Couch his Elbow press'd. Some, when transform'd, fix in the lasting Change; Some with more Right, thro' various Figures range. Proteus, thus large thy Privilege was found, Thou Inmate of the Seas, which Earth surround. Sometimes a blooming Youth you grac'd the Shore; Oft a fierce Lion, or a furious Boar: With glift'ring Spires now feem'd an hisling Snake, The bold would tremble in his Hands to take: With Horns affum'd a Bull; fometimes you prov'd A Tree by Roots, a Stone by Weight unmov'd: Sometimes two wav'ring Contraries became, Flow'd down in Water, or aspir'd in Flame.

The Story of Erisichthon.

In various Shapes thus to deceive the Eyes, Without a fettled Stint of her Difguise, Rash Erisichthon's Daughter had the Pow'r, And brought it to Autolicus in Dow'r. Her Atheist Sire the slighted Gods defy'd, And ritual Honours to their Shrines deny'd. As Fame reports, his Hand an Ax sustain'd, Which Ceres' confecrated Grove prophan'd; Which durst the venerable Gloom invade, And violate with Light the awful Shade, An ancient Oak in the dark Center flood, The Covert's Glory, and itself a Wood: Garlands embrac'd its Shaft, and from the Boughs Hung Tablets, Monuments of prosp'rous Vows. In the cool Dusk its unpierc'd Verdure spread, The Dryads oft their hallow'd Dances led;

And

And oft, when round their gaging Arms they cast, Full fifteen Ells it measur'd in the Waist:
Its Height all under Standards did surpass,
As they aspir'd above the humbler Grass.

These Motives, which would gentler Minds restrain, Could not make Triope's bold Son abstain; He sternly charg'd his Slaves with strict Decree, To fell with gashing Steel the sacred Tree. But whilst they, ling'ring, his Commands delay'd, He fnatch'd an Ax, and thus blafpheming faid; Was this no Oak, nor Ceres' favourite Care, But Ceres' self, this Arm, unaw'd, shou'd dare Its leafy Honours in the Dust to spread, And level with the Earth its airy Head. He spoke, and as he pois'd a flanting Stroke, Sighs heav'd, and Tremblings shook the frighted Oak; Its Leaves look'd fickly, pale its Acorns grew, And its long Branches fweat a chilly Dew. But when his impious Hand a Wound bestow'd, Blood from the mangled Bark in Currents flow'd. When a devoted Bull of mighty Size, A finning Nation's grand Atonement, dies; With fuch a Plenty from the spouting Veins, A crimfon Stream the turfy Altars stains.

The Wonder all amaz'd; yet one more bold, 'The Fact dissuading, strove his Ax to hold. But the Thessalan, obstinately bent, 'Too proud to change, too harden'd to repent, On his kind Monitor, his Eyes, which burn'd With Rage, and with his Eyes his Weapon turn'd; Take the Reward, says he, of pious Dread: Then with a Blow lopp'd off his parted Head.

No longer check'd, the Wretch his Crime pursu'd,
Doubled his Strokes, and Sacrilege renew'd;
When from the groaning Trunk a Voice was heard,
A Dryad I, by Ceres' Love preferr'd,
Within the Circle of this clasping Rind
Coëval grew, and now in Ruin join'd;
But instant Vengeance shall the Sin pursue,
And Death is chear'd with this prophetick View.

At last the Oak with Cords enforc'd to bow, Strain'd from the Top, and sap'd with Wounds below, The humbler Wood, Partaker of its Fate, Crush'd with its Fall, and shiver'd with its Weight.

The Grove destroy'd, the Sister Dryads moan, Griev'd at its Loss, and frighted at their own.

The awful Motion shook the fruitful Ground,

Soon she contriv'd in her projecting Mind
A Plague severe, and piteous in its Kind,
(If Plagues for Crimes of such presumptuous Height Could Pity in the softest Breast create.)
With pinching Want, and Hunger's keenest Smart,
To tear his Vitals, and corrode his Heart.
But since her near Approach by Fate's deny'd
To Famine, and broad Climes their Pow'rs divide,
A Nymph, the Mountain's Ranger, she address'd,
And thus resolv'd, her high Commands express'd.

The Description of FAMINE.

Where frozen Scythia's utmost Bound is plac'd, A Defart lies, a melancholy Waste: In yellow Crops there Nature never smil'd, No fruitful Tree to shade the barren Wild. There sluggish Cold its icy Station makes, There Paleness frights, and aguish Trembling shakes. Of pining Famine this the fated Seat, To whom my Orders in these Words repeat: Bid her this Miscreant with her sharpest Pains Chastife, and sheath herself into his Veins; Be unsubdu'd by Plenty's baffled Store, Reject my Empire, and defeat my Pow'r. And lest the Distance, and the tedious Way, Should with the Toil, and long Fatigue difmay, Afcend my Chariot, and convey'd on high, Guide the rein'd Dragons thro' the parting Sky.

The Nymph, accepting of the granted Carr, Sprung to the Seat, and posted thro' the Air; Nor stopp'd 'till she to a bleak Mountain came Of wond'rous Height, and Caucasus its Name. There in a stony Field the Fiend she found, Herbs gnawing, and Roots scratching from the Ground. Her Elfelock Hair in matted Treffes grew, Sunk were her Eyes, and pale her ghaffly Hue, Wan were her Lips, and foul with clammy Glew. Her Throat was furr'd, her Guts appear'd within With fnaky Crawlings thro' her Parchment Skin. Her jutting Hips feem'd starting from their Place, And for a Belly was a Belly's Space.

Her Dugs hung dangling from her craggy Spine, Loose to her Breast, and fasten'd to her Chine. Her Joints protuberant by Leanness grown, Consumption sunk the Flesh, and rais'd the Bone. Her Knees large Orbits bunch'd to monstrous Size, And Ancles to undue Proportion rise.

This Plague the Nymph, not daring to draw near, At Distance hail'd, and greeted from afar. And tho' she told her Charge without Delay, Tho' her Arrival late, and short her Stay, She felt keen Famine, or she seem'd to feel, Invade her Blood, and on her Vitals steal. She turn'd, from the Infection to remove, And back to Thesaly the Serpents drove.

The Fiend obey'd the Goddess's Command, (Tho' their Effects in Opposition stand)
She cut her Way, supported by the Wind,
And reach'd the Mansion by the Nymph assign'd.

'Twas Night, when entring Erisichthon's Room, Dissolv'd in Sleep, and thoughtless of his Doom, She class'd his Limbs, by impious Labour tir'd, With battish Wings, but her whole self inspir'd; Breath'd on his Throat and Chest a tainting Blast, And in his Veins insus'd an endless Fast.

The Task dispatch'd, away the Fury slies From plenteous Regions, and from rip'ning Skies; To her old barren North she wings her Speed, And Cottages distress'd with pinching Need.

Still Slumbers Erisichthon's Senses drown, And sooth his Fancy with their softest Down. He dreams of Viands delicate to eat, And revels on imaginary Meat.

84 Ovid's Metamorphofes. Book VIII.

Chaws with his working Mouth, but chaws in vain, And tires his grinding Teeth with fruitless Pain; Deludes his Throat with visionary Fare, Feasts on the Wind, and banquets on the Air.

The Morning came, the Night, and Slumbers past, But still the furious Pangs of Hunger last;
The cank'rous Rage still gnaws with griping Pains, Stings in his Throat, and in his Bowels reigns.

Strait he requires, impatient in Demand, Provisions from the Air, the Seas, the Land. But tho' the Land, Air, Seas, Provisions grant, Starves at full Tables, and complains of Want. What to a People might in Dole be paid, Or victual Cities for a long Blockade, Could not his wolfish Appetite asswage, For glutting Nourishment increas'd its Rage. As Rivers pour'd from ev'ry distant Shore, The Sea infatiate drinks, and thirsts for more; Or as the Fire, which all Materials burns, And wasted Forests into Ashes turns, Grows more voracious, as the more it preys, Recruits dilate the Flame, and spread the Blaze: So impious Erisichthon's Hunger raves, Receives Refreshments, and Refreshments craves. Food raifes a Defire for Food, and Meat Is but a new Provocative to eat. He grows more empty, as the more supply'd, And endless Cramming but extends the Void.

Her Hair Morder's, and had borne The Transformations of Erisichthon's Daughter.

Now Riches hoarded by paternal Care Were funk, the Glutton swallowing up the Heir. Yet the devouring Flame no Stores abate, we that bak Nor less his Hunger grew with his Estate. One Daughter left, as left his keen Defire, I and the A Daughter worthy of a better Sire: Her too he fold, spent Nature to sustain; She scorn'd a Lord with generous Disdain, And flying, spread her Hands upon the Main. Then pray'd; Grant, Thou, I Bondage may escape, And with my Liberty reward thy Rape; Repay my Virgin Treasure with thy Aid. ('Twas Neptune who deflower'd the beauteous Maid.)

The God was mov'd, at what the Fair had fu'd, When she so lately by her Master view'd Hamal A In her known Figure, on a fudden took A Fisher's Habit, and a manly Look. West half all To whom her Owner hasted to enquire; O thou, faid he, whose Baits hide treach'rous Wire; Whose Art can manage, and experienc'd Skill The taper Angle, and the bobbing Quill, and and So may the Sea be ruffled with no Storm, I was out i But smooth with Calms, as you the Truth inform; So your Deceit may no shy Fishes feel, 'Till struck, and fasten'd on the bearded Steel. Did not you standing view upon the Strand, A wand'ring Maid? I'm fure I faw her stand; Heads to mange of the link Her

Her Hair disorder'd, and her homely Dress Betray'd her Want, and witness'd her Distress.

Me heedless, she reply'd, whoe'er you are, Excuse, attentive to another Care. I settled on the Deep my steady Eye; Fix'd on my Float, and bent on my Employ. And that you may not doubt what I impart, So may the Ocean's God assist my Art, If on the Beach since I my Sport pursu'd, Or Man, or Woman but myself I view'd. Back o'er the Sands, deluded, he withdrew, Whilst she for her old Form put off her new.

Her Sire her shifting Pow'r to Change perceiv'd,
And various Chapmen by her Sale deceiv'd.
A Fowl with spangled Plumes, a brinded Steer,
Sometimes a crested Mare, or antler'd Deer:
Sold for a Price, she parted, to maintain
Her starving Parent with dishonest Gain.

At last all Means, as all Provisions, fail'd;
For the Disease by Remedies prevail'd;
His Muscles with a furious Bite he tore,
Gorg'd his own tatter'd Flesh, and gulph'd his Gore.
Wounds were his Feast, his Life to Life a Prey,
Supporting Nature by its own Decay.

But foreign Stories why shou'd I relate?

I too myself can to new Forms translate,
Tho' the Variety's not unconfin'd,
But fix'd in Number, and restrain'd in Kind:
For often I this present Shape retain,
Oft curl a Snake the Volumes of my Train.
Sometimes my Strength into my Horns transferr'd,
A Bull I march, the Captain of the Herd.

But whilft I once those goring Weapons wore, Vast wresting Force one from my Forehead tore. Lo, my maim'd Brows the Injury still own: He ceas'd; his Words concluding with a Groan.

The End of the Eighth Book.

But while I once those gorief Weigen's wore, Van wrelling Force one from my Directed tord, I of our main'd Brows the failey [12] on h:

METAMORPHOSES.

BOOK IX.

Translated by Mr. DRYDEN and Others.

The Story of Achelous and Hercules.

By Mr. GAY.

Whence his maim'd Brow, and whence his Groans arose:

Whence thus the Calydonian Stream reply'd,
With Twining Reeds his careless Tresses ty'd,
Ungrateful is the Tale; for who can bear,
When conquer'd, to rehearse the shameful War?
Yet I'll the melancholy Story trace;
So great a Conqu'ror softens the Disgrace:
Nor was it still so mean the Prize to yield,
As great, and glorious to dispute the Field.

Perhaps

Perhaps

Perhaps you've heard of Deianira's Name,
For all the Country fpoke her Beauty's Fame.
Long was the Nymph by num'rous Suitors woo'd,
Each with Address his envy'd Hopes pursu'd:
I join'd the loving Band; to gain the Fair,
Reveal'd my Passion to her Father's Ear.
Their vain Pretensions all the rest resign,
Alcides only strove to equal mine;
He boasts his Birth from Jove, recounts his Spoils,
His Step-dame's Hate subdu'd, and sinish'd Toils.

Can Mortals then, (faid I) with Gods compare? Behold a God; mine is the wat'ry Care:
Through your wide Realms I take my mazy Way, Branch into Streams, and o'er the Region stray:
No foreign Guest your Daughter's Charms adores, But one who rises in your native Shores.
Let not his Punishment your Pity move;
Is Juno's Hate an Argument for Love?
Though you your Life from fair Alcmena drew, Jove's a seign'd Father, or by Fraud a true.
Chuse then; confess thy Mother's Honour lost, Or thy Descent from Jove no longer boast.

While thus I spoke, he look'd with stern Disdain, Nor could the Sallies of his Wrath restrain, Which thus break forth. This Arm decides our Right; Vanquish in Words, be mine the Prize in Fight.

Bold he rush'd on. My Honour to maintain, I sling my verdant Garments on the Plain, My Arms stretch forth, my pliant Limbs prepare, And with bent Hands expect the surious War: O'er my sleek Skin now gather'd Dust he throws, And yellow Sand his mighty Muscles strows.

Oft

Oft he my Neck, and nimble Legs affails,
He seems to grasp me, but as often fails.
Each Part he now invades with eager Hand;
Safe in my Bulk, immoveable I stand.
So when loud Storms break high, and soam and roar Against some Mole that stretches from the Shore;
The firm Foundation lasting Tempests braves,
Desies the warring Winds, and driving Waves.

A while we breathe, then forward rush amain, Renew the Combat, and our Ground maintain; Foot strove with Foot, I prone extend my Breast, Hands war with Hands, and Forehead Forehead preft. Thus have I feen two furious Bulls engage, Inflam'd with equal Love, and equal Rage; Each claims the fairest Heiser of the Grove, And Conquest only can decide their Love : The trembling Herds furvey the Fight from far, 'Till Victory decides th' important War. Three times in vain he strove my Joints to wrest, To force my Hold, and throw me from his Breaft; The fourth he broke my Gripe, that clasp'd him round, Then with new Force he stretch'd me on the Ground; Close to my Back the mighty Burthen clung, As if a Mountain o'er my Limbs were flung. Believe my Tale; nor do I, boaftful aim By feign'd Narration to extol my Fame. No sooner from his Grasp I Freedom get, Unlock'd my Arms, that flow'd with trickling Sweat, But quick he feiz'd me, and renew'd the Strife, As my exhausted Bosom pants for Life: My Neck he gripes, my Knee to Earth he strains; I fall, and bite the Sand with Shame, and Pains.

O'ermatch'd in Strength, to Wiles, and Arts I take, And flip his Hold, in Form of speckled Snake; Who, when I wreath'd in Spires my Body round, Or show'd my forky Tongue with hissing Sound, Smiles at my Threats; fuch Foes my Cradle knew, He cries, dire Snakes my Infant Hand o'erthrew; A Dragon's Form might other Conquests gain, To war with me you take that Shape in vain. Art thou proportion'd to the Hydra's Length, Who by his Wounds receiv'd augmented Strength? He rais'd a hundred hissing Heads in Air; When one I lopt, up sprung a dreadful Pair. By his Wounds fertile, and with Slaughter strong, Singly I quell'd him, and stretch'd dead along. What canst thou do, a Form precarious, prone, To rouse my Rage with Terrors not thy own? He faid; and round my Neck his Hands he caft, And with his straining Fingers wrung me fast; My Throat he tortur'd, close as Pincers clasp, In vain I strove to loose the forceful Grasp.

Thus vanquish'd too, a third Form still remains, Chang'd to a Bull, my Lowing sills the Plains.

Strait on the left his nervous Arms were thrown Upon my brindled Neck, and tugg'd it down;

Then deep he struck my Horn into the Sand,

And fell'd my Bulk among the dusty Land.

Nor yet his Fury cool'd; 'twixt Rage and Scorn,

From my maim'd Front he tore the stubborn Horn:

This, heap'd with Flow'rs, and Fruits, the Naiads bear,

Sacred to Plenty, and the bounteous Year.

He spoke; when lo, a beauteous Nymph appears, Girt like Diana's Train, with flowing Hairs;

The

The Horn she brings in which all Autumn's stor'd, And ruddy Apples for the second Board.

Now Morn begins to dawn, the Sun's bright Fire Gilds the high Mountains, and the Youths retire; Nor stay'd they, 'till the troubled Stream subsides, And in its Bounds with peaceful Current glides.

But Achelous in his oozy Bed
Deep hides his Brow deform'd, and rustick Head:
No real Wound the Victor's Triumph show'd,
But his lost Honours griev'd the wat'ry God;
Yet ev'n that Loss the Willow's Leaves o'erspread,
And verdant Reeds, in Garlands, bind his Head.

The Death of Nessus the Centaur.

This Virgin too, thy Love, O Nessus, found,
To her alone you owe the fatal Wound.
As the strong Son of Jove his Bride conveys,
Where his paternal Lands their Bulwarks raise;
Where from her slopy Urn, Evenus pours
Her rapid Current, swell'd by wintry Show'rs,
He came. The frequent Eddies whirl'd the Tide,
And the deep rolling Waves all Pass deny'd.
As for himself, he stood unmov'd by Fears,
For now his Bridal Charge employ'd his Cares.
The strong-limb'd Nessus thus officious cry'd,
(For he the Shallows of the Stream had try'd)
Swim thou, Alcides, all thy Strength prepare,
On yonder Bank I'll lodge thy nuptial Care.

Th' Aonian Chief to Neffus trusts his Wife, All pale, and trembling for her Hero's Life: Cloath'd as he stood in the sierce Lion's Hide, The laden Quiver o'er his Shoulder ty'd,

(For cross the Stream his Bow and Club were cast) Swift he plung'd in; These Billows shall be past, He faid, nor fought where smoother Waters glide, But stem'd the rapid Dangers of the Tide. The Bank he reach'd; again the Bow he bears; When, hark! his Bride's known Voice alarms his Ears. Nessus, to thee I call (aloud he cries) Vain is thy trust in Flight, be timely wise: Thou Monster doubly-shap'd, my Right set free; If thou no Rev'rence owe my Fame and me, Yet Kindred should thy lawless Lust deny; Think not, perfidious Wretch, from me to fly, Tho' wing'd with Horse's Speed; Wounds shall pursue; Swift as his Words the fatal Arrow flew: The Centaur's Back admits the feather'd Wood, And thro' his Breast the barbed Weapon stood; Which when, in Anguish, thro' the Flesh he tore, From both the Wounds gush'd forth the spumy Gore Mix'd with Lernæan Venom; this he took, Nor dire Revenge his dying Breast forfook. His Garment, in the reeking Purple dy'd, To rouse Love's Passion, he presents the Bride,

The Death of HERCULES.

Now a long Interval of Time fucceeds,
When the great Son of Jove's immortal Deeds,
And Step-dame's Hate, had fill'd Earth's utmost Round;
He from OEchalia, with new Lawrels crown'd,
In Triumph was return'd. He Rites prepares,
And to the King of Gods directs his Pray'rs;
When Fame (who Falsehood clothes in Truth's Disguise,
And swells her little Bulk with growing Lies)

Thy tender Ear, O Deianira, mov'd, That Hercules the fair Iole lov'd Her Love believes the Tale; the Truth she fears Of his new Passion, and gives way to Tears. The flowing Tears diffus'd her wretched Grief, Why feek I thus, from streaming Eyes, Relief? She cries; indulge not thus these fruitless Cares, The Harlot will but triumph in thy Tears: Let something be resolv'd, while yet there's Time; My Bed not conscious of a Rival's Crime. In Silence shall I mourn, or loud complain? Shall I feek Calydon, or here remain ? What, tho' ally'd to Meleager's Fame, I boast the Honours of a Sister's Name? My Wrongs, perhaps, now urge me to pursue Some desp'rate Deed, by which the World shall view How far Revenge, and Woman's Rage can rife, When weltring in her Blood the Harlot dies.

Thus various Passions rul'd by Turns her Breast, She now resolves to send the fatal Vest, Dy'd with Lernæan Gore, whose Pow'r might move His Soul anew, and rouse declining Love. Nor knew she what her sudden Rage bestows, When she to Lychas trusts her future Woes; With soft Endearments she the Boy commands, To bear the Garment to her Husband's Hands.

Th' unwitting Hero takes the Gift in Haste,
And o'er his Shoulders Lerna's Poison cast,
As first the Fire with Frankincense he strows,
And utters to the Gods his holy Vows;
And on the Marble Altar's polish'd Frame
Pours forth the grapy Stream; the rising Flame
Vol. II.

Fordden

Sudden diffolves the fubtle pois'nous Juice,
Which taints his Blood, and all his Nerves bedews.
With wonted Fortitude he bore the Smart,
And not a Groan confes'd his burning Heart.
At length his Patience was subdu'd by Pain,
He rends the facred Altar from the Plain;
OEte's wide Forests echo with his Cries:
Now to rip off the deathful Robe he tries.
Where'er he plucks the Vest, the Skin he tears,
The mangled Muscles, and huge Bones he bares,
(A ghastful Sight!) or raging with his Pain,
To rend the sticking Plague he tugs in vain.

As the red Iron hisses in the Flood,
So boils the Venom in his curdling Blood.
Now with the greedy Flame his Entrails glow,
And livid Sweats down all his Body flow;
The cracking Nerves burnt up are burst in twain,
The lurking Venom melts his swimming Brain.

Then, lifting both his Hands aloft, he cries, Glut thy Revenge, dread Empress of the Skies; Sate with my Death the Rancour of thy Heart, Look down with Pleasure, and enjoy my Smart. Or, if e'er Pity mov'd a hostile Breast, (For here I stand thy Enemy profest) Take hence this hateful Life, with Tortures torn, Inur'd to Trouble, and to Labours born. Death is the Gift most welcome to my Woe, And such a Gift a Step-dame may bestow. Was it for this Busiris was subdu'd, Whose barb'rous Temples reek'd with Stranger's Blood? Press'd in these Arms his Fate Antwus found, Nor gain'd recruited Vigour from the Ground.

Did I not triple-form'd Geryon fell? Or did I fear the triple Dog of Hell? Did not these Hands the Bull's arm'd Forehead hold? Are not our mighty Toils in Elis told? Do not Stymphalian Lakes proclaim thy Fame? And fair Parthenian Woods refound thy Name? Who seiz'd the golden Belt of Thermodon? And who the Dragon-guarded Apples won? Could the fierce Centaur's Strength my Force withfland, Or the fell Boar that spoil'd th' Arcadian Land? Did not these Arms the Hydra's Rage subdue, Who from his Wounds to double Fury grew? What if the Thracian Horses, fat with Gore, Who human Bodies in their Mangers tore, I faw, and with their barb'rous Lord o'erthrew? What if these Hands Nemæa's Lion slew? Did not this Neck the heav'nly Globe fustain? The Female Partner of the Thunderer's Reign Fatigu'd, at length suspends her harsh Commands, Yet no Fatigue hath slack'd these valiant Hands. But now new Plagues pursue me, neither Force, Nor Arms, nor Darts can stop their raging Course. Devouring Flame thro' my rack'd Entrails strays, And on my Lungs and shrivel'd Muscles preys. Yet still Eurystheus breathes the vital Air. What Mortal now shall seek the Gods with Pray'r?

The Transformation of Lychas into a Rock.

The Hero faid; and with the Torture stung, Furious o'er OEte's lofty Hills he sprung. Stuck with the Shaft, thus scours the Tyger round, And seeks the slying Author of his Wound.

F 2

Now you might see him trembling, now he vents
His anguish'd Soul in Groans, and loud Laments;
He strives to tear the clinging Vest in vain,
And with up-rooted Forests strows the Plain;
Now kindling into Rage, his Hand he rears,
And to his kindred Gods directs his Pray'rs.
When Lychas, lo, he spies; who trembling slew,
And in a hollow Rock conceal'd from View,
Had shun'd his Wrath. Now Grief renew'd his Pain,
His Madness chas'd, and thus he raves again.

Lychas, to thee alone my Fate I owe, Who bore the Gift, the Cause of all my Woe. The Youth all pale, with shiv'ring Fear was stung, And vain Excuses faulter'd on his Tongue. Alcides fnatch'd him, as with suppliant Face He strove to clasp his Knees, and beg for Grace: He tofs'd him o'er his Head with airy Courfe, And hurl'd with more than with an Engine's Force; Far o'er th' Eubaan Main aloof he flies, And hardens by Degrees amid the Skies. So show'ry Drops, when chilly Tempests blow, Thicken at first, then whiten into Snow, In Balls congeal'd the rolling Fleeces bound, In folid Hail refult upon the Ground. Thus, whirl'd with nervous Force thro' distant Air, The Purple Tide forfook his Veins, with Fear; All Moisture left his Limbs. Transform'd to Stone. In ancient Days the craggy Flint was known; Still in the Eubæan Waves his Front he rears, Still the small Rock in human Form appears, And still the Name of hapless Lychas bears.

. The Apotheofis of HERCULES.

But now the Hero of immortal Birth Fells OEte's Forests on the groaning Earth; A Pile he builds; to Philo Etetes' Care He leaves his deathful Instruments of War; To him commits those Arrows, which again Shall see the Bulwarks of the Trojan Reign. The Son of Pean lights the lofty Pyre, High round the Structure climbs the greedy Fire; Plac'd on the Top, thy nervous Shoulders spread With the Nemaan Spoils, thy careless Head Rais'd on a knotty Club, with Look Divine, Here thou, dread Hero, of Celestial Line, Wert stretch'd at Ease; as when a chearful Guest, Wine crown'd thy Bowls, and Flow'rs thy Temples dreft.

Now on all Sides the potent Flames aspire, And crackle round those Limbs that mock the Fire. A sudden Terror seiz'd th' immortal Host, Who thought the World's profess'd Defender lost. This when the Thund'rer faw, with Smiles he cries, 'Tis from your Fears, ye Gods, my Pleasures rise; Joy swells my Breast, that my all-ruling Hand O'er fuch a grateful People boafts Command, That you my fuff'ring Progeny would aid; Tho' to his Deeds this just Respect be paid, Me you've oblig'd. Be all your Fears forborn, Th' OEtan Fires do thou, great Hero, fcorn. Who vanquish'd all Things, shall subdue the Flame. That Part alone of groß maternal Frame Fire shall devour; while what from me he drew Shall live immortal, and its Foes fubdue; F 3 That,

That, when he's dead, I'll raife to Realms above; May all the Pow'rs the righteous Act approve. If any God diffent, and judge too great The facred Honours of the heav'nly Seat, Ev'n he shall own his Deeds deserve the Sky, Ev'n he reluctant, shall at length comply. Th' affembled Pow'rs affent. No Frown 'till now Had mark'd with Passion vengeful Juno's Brow. Mean-while whate'er was in the Pow'r of Flame Was all confum'd; his Body's nervous Frame No more was known, of human Form bereft. Th' external Part of Jove alone was left. As an old Serpent cafts his fcaly Vest, Wreathes in the Sun, in youthful Glory dreft; So when Alcides mortal Mold refign'd, His better Part enlarg'd, and grew refin'd; August his Visage shone; Almighty Fove In his swift Carr his honour'd Offspring drove; High o'er the hollow Clouds the Courfers fly, And lodge the Hero in the starry Sky.

The Transformation of GALANTHIS.

Atlas perceiv'd the Load of Heav'n's new Guest. Revenge still rancour'd in Eurystheus' Breast Against Alcides' Race. Alcmena goes To Iole, to vent maternal Woes; Here she pours forth her Grief, recounts the Spoils Her Son had bravely reap'd in glorious Toils. This Iole, by Hercules' Commands, Hyllus had lov'd, and join'd in nuptial Bands. Her swelling Womb the teeming Birth confess'd, To whom Alcmena thus her Speech address'd.

O, may the Gods protect thee, in that Hour, When, 'midst thy Throws, thou call'st th' Ilithyian Pow'r! May no Delays prolong thy racking Pain, As when I su'd for Juno's Aid in vain.

When now Alcides' mighty Birth drew nigh, And the tenth Sign roll'd forward in the Sky, My Womb extends with fuch a mighty Load, As Youe the Parent of the Burthen show'd. I could no more th' encreasing Smart fustain, My Horror kindles to recount the Pain; Cold chills my Limbs while I the Tale purfue, And now methinks I feel my Pangs anew. Seven Days and Nights amidst incessant Throws, Fatigu'd with Ills I lay, nor knew Repose; When lifting high my Hands, in Shrieks I pray'd, Implor'd the Gods, and call'd Lucina's Aid. She came, but prejudic'd, to give my Fate A Sacrifice to vengeful Juno's Hate. She hears the groaning Anguish of my Fits, And on the Altar at my Door she sits. O'er her left Knee her croffing Leg she cast, Then knits her Fingers close, and wrings them fast: This stay'd the Birth; in mutt'ring Verse she pray'd, The mutt'ring Verse th' unfinish'd Birth delay'd. Now with fierce Struggles, raging with my Pain, At Jove's Ingratitude I rave in vain. How did I wish for Death! fuch Groans I fent, As might have made the flinty Heart relent.

Now the Cadmeian Matrons round me press, Offer their Vows, and seek to bring Redress; Among the Theban Dames Galanthis stands, Strong limb'd, red hair'd, and just to my Commands:

104

She first perceiv'd that all these racking Woes From the perfifting Hate of Juno rose, As here and there we pass'd, by chance she sees The feated Goddess; on her close-press'd Knees Her fast-knit Hands she leans; with chearful Voice Galanthis cries, Whoe'er thou art, rejoyce, Congratulate the Dame, she lies at Rest, At length the Gods Alcmena's Womb have bleft. Swift from her Seat the startled Goddess springs, No more conceal'd her Hands abroad she slings; The Charm unloos'd, the Birth my Pangs reliev'd; Galanthis' Laughter vex'd the Pow'r deceiv'd. Fame fays, the Goddess dragg'd the laughing Maid Fast by the Hair; in vain her Force essay'd Her grov'ling Body from the Ground to rear; Chang'd to Fore-feet her shrinking Arms appear: Her hairy Back her former Hue retains, The Form alone is lost; her Strength remains; Who, fince the Lye did from her Mouth proceed, Shall from her pregnant Mouth bring forth her Breed; Nor shall she quit her long-frequented Home, But haunt those Houses where she lov'd to roam.

The Fable of DRYOPE.

By Mr. Pope.

She said, and for her lost Galanthis sighs; When the sair Consort of her Son replies; Since you a Servant's ravish'd Form bemoan, And kindly sigh for Sorrows not your own, Let me (if Tears and Grief permit) relate A nearer Woe, a Sister's stranger Fate.

No Nymph of all Oechaloa could compare For beauteous Form with Dryope the Fair; Her tender Mother's only Hope and Pride, (My felf the Offspring of a fecond Bride) This Nymph, compress'd by him who rules the Day, Whom Delphi, and the Delian Isle obey, Andramon lov'd; and bleft in all those Charms That pleas'd a God, succeeded to her Arms. A Lake there was, with shelving Banks around, Whose verdant Summit fragrant Myrtles crown'd. Those Shades, unknowing of the Fates, she fought, And to the Naiads flow'ry Garlands brought; Her smiling Babe (a pleasing Charge) she prest Between her Arms, and nourish'd at her Breast. Not distant far a watry Lotos grows; The Spring was new, and all the verdant Boughs, Adorn'd with Blossoms, promis'd Fruits that vye In glowing Colours with the Tyrian Dye. Of these we cropt, to please her Infant Son, And I my felf the fame rash Act had done, But, lo! I faw (as near her Side I stood) The violated Blossoms drop with Blood; Upon the Tree I cast a frightful Look, Thin , or sillors The trembling Tree with sudden Horror shook, Lotis the Nymph (if rural Tales be true) asw 908 1 94 1 As from Priapus' lawlefs Lust he flew, now a stor ovi Forfook her Form; and fixing her became down and the A flow'ry Plant, which still preserves her Name. This Change unknown, aftonish'd at the Sight, 1972. My trembling Sister strove to urge her Flight; and I Yet from the Pardon of the Nymphs implor'd, And those offended Sylvan Pow'rs ador'd:

But when she backward should have sled she found Her stiff'ning Feet were rooted to the Ground: In vain to free her fasten'd Feet she strove, And as she struggles only moves above; She feels th' incroaching Bark around her grow, By flow Degrees, and cover all below: Surpriz'd at this, her trembling Hand she heaves To rend her Hair, the shooting Leaves are seen To rife, and shade her with a sudden Green. The Child Amphifus, to her Bosom prest, Perceiv'd a colder and a harder Breaft, And found the Springs, that ne'er 'till then deny'd Their milky Moisture, on a sudden dry'd. I faw, unhappy, what I now relate, And stood the helpless Witness of thy Fate; Embrac'd thy Boughs, the rifing Bark delay'd There wish'd to grow, and mingle Shade and Shade.

Behold Andræmon, and th' unhappy Sire Apply, and for their Dryope enquire; A springing Tree for Dryope they find, And print warm Kisses on the panting Rind; Proftrate, with Tears their Kindred Plant bedew, And close embrac'd, as to the Roots they grew; The Face was all that now remain'd of thee; No more a Woman, nor yet quite a Tree: Thy Branches hung with humid Pearls appear, From eviry Leaf distills a trickling Tear; And strait a Voice, while yet a Voice remains, Thus thro' the trembling Boughs in Sighs complains.

If to the Wretched any Faith be giv'n, I swear by all th' unpitying Pow'rs of Heav'n,

No wilful Crime this heavy Vengeance bred, In mutual Innocence our Lives we led. If this be false, let these new Greens decay, Let founding Axes lop my Limbs away, And crackling Flames on all my Honours prey. Now from my branching Arms this Infant bear, Let some kind Nurse supply a Mother's Care; Yet to his Mother let him oft be led, Sport in her Shades, and in her Shades be fed; Teach him, when first his Infant Voice shall frame Imperfect Words, and lisp his Mother's Name, To hail this Tree, and fay with weeping Eyes, Within this Plant my hapless Parent lies; And when in Youth he feeks the shady Woods, Oh, let him fly the chrystal Lakes and Floods, Nor touch the fatal Flow'rs; but warn'd by me, Believe a Goddess shrin'd in ev'ry Tree. My Sire, my Sifter, and my Spouse farewel! If in your Breasts or Love, or Pity, dwell, Protect your Plant, nor let my Branches feel The browzing Cattle, or the piercing Steel. Farewel! and fince I cannot bend to join My Lips to yours, advance at least to mine. My Son, thy Mother's parting Kiss receive, While yet thy Mother has a Kifs to give. I can no more; the creeping Rind invades My closing Lips, and hides my Head in Shades: Remove your Hands; the Bark shall soon suffice, Without their Aid, to feal these dying Eyes. She ceas'd at once to speak, and ceas'd to be; And all the Nymph was lost within the Tree: Yet latent Life thro' her own Branches reign'd, And long the Plant a human Heat retain'd.

IOLAUS restor'd to Youth.

While Iolè the fatal Change declares,
Alcmena's pitying Hand oft wip'd her Tears.
Grief too stream'd down her Cheeks; soon Sorrow slies,
And rising Joy the trickling Moisture dries,
Lo Iolaus stands before their Eyes.
A Youth he stood; and the soft down began
O'er his footh Chin to spread, and promise Man.
Hebe submitted to her Husband's Pray'rs,
Instill'd new Vigour, and restor'd his Years.

The Prophecy of THEMIS.

Now from her Lips a folemn Oath had past,

That Iolaus this Gift alone shou'd taste,
Had not just Themis thus maturely said,
(Which check'd her View, and aw'd the blooming Maid)
Thebes is embroil'd in War. Capaneus stands
Invincible, but by the Thund'rer's Hands.
Ambition shall the guilty * Brothers sire,
Both rush to mutual Wounds, and both expire.
The reeling Earth shall ope her gloomy Womb,
Where the † yet breathing Bard shall sind his Tomb.
The § Son shall bath his Hands in Parents' Blood,
And in one Ast be both unjust, and good.
Of Home, and Sense depriv'd, where-e'er he slies,
The Furies, and his Mother's Ghost he spies.
His Wife the satal Bracelet shall implore,
And Phegeus stain his Sword in Kindred Gore.

Callirbie

^{*} Eteocles and Polinices. † Amphiaraus. § Alemæon.

Callirböe shall then with suppliant Pray'r
Prevail on Jupiter's relenting Ear.
Jove shall with Youth her Infant Sons inspire,
And bid their Bosoms glow with manly Fire.

The Debate of the Gods.

When Themis thus with prescient Voice had spoke,
Among the Gods a various Murmur broke;
Dissention rose in each immortal Breast,
That one should grant, what was deny'd the rest.
Aurora for her good Spouse complains,
And Ceres grieves for Jason's freezing Veins;
Vulcan would Ericthonius' Years renew,
Her suture Race the Care of Venus drew,
She would Anchises' blooming Age restore;
A diff'rent Care employ'd each heav'nly Pow'r:
Thus various Int'rests did their Jars encrease,
'Till Jove arose; he spoke; their Tumults cease.

Is any Rev'rence to our Presence giv'n,
Then why this Discord 'mong the Pow'rs of Heav'n!
Who can the settled Will of Fate subdue!
'Twas by the Fates that Iolaus knew
A second Youth. The Fate's determin'd Doom
Shall give Callirhoe's Race a Youthful Bloom.
Arms, nor Ambition can this Pow'r obtain;
Quell your Desires; ev'n me the Fates restrain.
Could I their Will controul, no rolling Years
Had Æacus bent down with silver Hairs;
Then Rhadamanthus still had Youth posses'd,
And Minos with eternal Bloom been bless'd.

Jowe's Words the Synod mov'd; the Pow'rs give o'er,
And urge in vain unjust Complaint no more.

Since Rhadamanthus' Veins now flowly flow'd, And Eacus, and Minos bore the Load; Minos, who in the Flow'r of Youth, and Fame, Made mighty Nations tremble at his Name, Infirm with Age, the proud Miletus fears, Vain of his Birth, and in the Strength of Years, And now regarding all his Realms as loft, He durst not force him from his native Coast. But you by choice, Miletus, fled his Reign, And thy fwift Veffel plow'd th' Ægean Main; On Afiatick Shores a Town you frame, Which still is honour'd with the Founder's Name. Here you Cyanëe knew, the beauteous Maid, As on her * Father's winding Banks she stray'd: Caunus and Byblis hence their Lineage trace, The double Offspring of your warm Embrace.

The Passion of BYBLIS.

By STEPHEN HARVEY, Esq;
Let the sad Fate of wretched Byblis prove
A dismal Warning to unlawful Love;
One Birth gave Being to the hapless Pair,
But more was Caunus than a Sister's Care;
Unknown she liv'd, for yet the gentle Fire
Rose not in Flames, nor kindled to Desire;
'Twas thought no Sin to wonder at his Charms,
Hang on his Neck, and languish in his Arms;
'Thus wing'd with Joy, shed the soft Hours away,
And all the satal Guilt on harmless Nature lay.

But Love (too foon from Piety declin'd) Infenfibly deprav'd her yielding Mind.

Dress'd she appears, with nicest Art adorn'd, And ev'ry Youth, but her lov'd Brother, fcorn'd; For him alone she labour'd to be fair, And curst all Charms that might with hers compare. 'Twas she, and only she, must Caunus please, Sick at her Heart, yet knew not her Disease: She call'd him Lord, for Brother was a Name Too cold, and dull for her aspiring Flame; And when he spoke, if Sister he reply'd, For Byblis change that frozen Word, she cry'd. Yet waking still she watch'd her struggling Breast, And Love's Approaches were in vain addrefs'd, 'Till gentle Sleep in eafy Conquest made, And in her foft Embrace the Conqueror was laid. But oh too foon the pleafing Vision fled, And left her blushing on the conscious Bed: Ah me! (she cry'd) how monstrous do I feem? Why these wild Thoughts? and this incestuous Dream? Envy herself ('tis true) must own his Charms, But what is Beauty in a Sifter's Arms? Oh were I not that despicable she, How blefs'd, how pleas'd, how happy shou'd I be! But unregarded now must bear my Pain, And but in Dreams, my Wishes can obtain.

O Sea-born Goddess! with thy wanton Boy!
Was ever such a charming Scene of Joy?
Such perfect Bliss! such ravishing Delight!
Ne'er hid before in the kind Shades of Night.
How pleas'd my Heart! in what sweet Raptures tost!
Ev'n Life it self in the soft Combat lost,
While breathless he on my heav'd Bosom lay,
And snatch'd the Treasures of my Soul away.

If the bare Fancy fo affects my Mind, How shou'd I rave if to the Substance join'd? Oh, gentle Caunus! quit thy hated Line, Or let thy Parents be no longer mine! Oh that in common all things were enjoy'd, But those alone who have our Hopes destroy'd. Were I a Princess, thou an humble Swain, The proudest Kings shou'd rival thee in vain. It cannot be, alas! the dreadful Ill Is fix'd by Fate, and he's my Brother still. Hear me, ye Gods! I must have Friends in Heav'n, For Yove himself was to a Sister giv'n: But what are their Prerogatives above, To the short Liberties of human Love? Fantastick Thoughts! down, down, forbidden Fires, Or instant Death extinguish my Desires. Strict Virtue, then, with thy malicious Leave, Without a Crime I may a Kiss receive: But fay shou'd I in spight of Laws comply, Yet cruel Caunus might himself deny, No Pity take of an afflicted Maid, (For Love's fweet Game must be by Couples play'd.) Yet why shou'd Youth, and Charms like mine, despair? Such Fears ne'er startled the Æolian Pair; No Ties of Blood could their full Hopes destroy, They broke thro' all, for the prevailing Joy: And who can tell but Caunus too may be Rack'd and tormented in his Breast for me? Like me, to the extreamest Anguish drove, Like me, just waking from a Dream of Love? But flay! Oh whither wou'd my Fury run! What Arguments I urge to be undone!

Away fond Byblis, quench these guilty Flames; Caunus thy Love but as a Brother claims; Yet had he first been touch'd with Love of me, The charming Youth cou'd I despairing see? Oppress'd with Grief, and dying by Disdain? Ah no! too fure I shou'd have eas'd his Pain! Since then, if Caunus ask'd me, it were done; Asking my self, what Dangers can I run? But canst thou ask? and see that Right betray'd, From Pyrrha down to thy whole Sex convey'd? That felf-denying Gift we all enjoy, Of wishing to be won, yet seeming to be coy. Well then, for once, let a fond Mistress woe; The Force of Love no Custom can subdue: This frantick Passion he by Words shall know, Soft as the melting Heart from whence they flow. The Pencil then in her fair Hand she held, By Fear discourag'd, but by Love compell'd; She writes, then blots, writes on, and blots again, Likes it as fit, then razes it as vain: Shame, and Affurance in her Face appear, And a faint Hope just yielding to Despair; Sifter was wrote, and blotted as a Word Which she, and Caunus too (she hop'd) abhorr'd; But now refolv'd to be no more controul'd By scrup'lous Virtue, thus her Grief she told. Thy Lover (gentle Caunus) wishes thee That Health, which thou alone canst give to me. O charming Youth! the gift I ask bestow, Ere thou the Name of the fond Writer know; To thee without a Name I should be known, Since knowing that, my Frailty I must own.

114 Ovid's Metamorphoses. Book IX.

Yet why shou'd I my wretched Name conceal; When thousand Instances my Flames reveal: Wan Looks, and weeping Eyes have fpoke my Pain, And Sighs discharg'd from my heav'd Heart in vain; Had I not wish'd my Passion might be seen, What cou'd fuch Fondness and Embraces mean? Such Kiffes too! (Oh heedless lovely Boy) Without a Crime no Sister cou'd enjoy: Yet (tho' extremest Rage has rack'd my Soul, And raging Fires in my parch'd Bosom roll) Be Witness, Gods! how piously I strove To rid my Thoughts of this enchanting Love. But who cou'd scape so fierce, and sure a Dart, Aim'd at a tender, and defenceles Heart? Alas! what Maid cou'd fuffer, I have born, Ere the dire Secret from my Breast was torn; To thee a helpless vanquish'd Wretch I come, 'Tis you alone can save, or give my Doom; My life, or Death this Moment you may chuse. Yet think, Oh think, no hated Stranger fues, No Foe; but one, alas! too near ally'd, And wishing still much nearer to be ty'd. The Forms of Decency let Age debate, And Virtue's Rules by their cold Morals state; Their ebbing Joys give Leisure to enquire, And blame those noble Flights our Youth inspire: Where Nature kindly fummons let us go, Our sprightly Years no Bonds in Love shou'd know, Shou'd feel no Check of Guilt, and fear no Ill; Lovers, and Gods act all things at their Will: We gain one Bleffing from our hated Kin, Since our Paternal Freedom hides the Sin;

Uncenfur'd in each other's Arms we lye, Think then how easie to compleat our Joy. Oh, pardon and oblige a blushing Maid, Whose Rage the Pride of her vain Sex betray'd; Nor let my Tomb thus mournfully complain, Here Byblis lies, by her lov'd Caunus slain.

Forc'd here to end, she with a falling Tear Temper'd the pliant Wax, which did the Signet bear: The curious Cypher was impress'd by Art, But Love had stamp'd one deeper in her Heart; Her Page, a Youth of Confidence, and Skill, (Secret as Night) stood waiting on her Will; Sighing (she cry'd) bear this, thou faithful Boy, To my sweet Partner in eternal Joy. Here a long Pause her secret Guilt confes'd, And when at length we would have spoke the rest, Half the dear Name lay bury'd in her Breaft.

Thus as he liftned to her vain Command, Down fell the Letter from her trembling Hand. The Omen shock'd her Soul: Yet go, she cry'd; Can a Request from Byblis be deny'd?

To the Mæandrian Youth this Message's born, The half-read Lines by his fierce Rage were torn; Hence, hence, he cry'd, thou Pandar to her Luft, Bear hence the Triumph of thy impious Trust: Thy inftant Death will but divulge her Shame, Or thy Life's Blood shou'd quench the guilty Flame. Frighted, from threatning Caunus he withdrew, And with the dreadful News to his lost Mistress slew. The fad Repulse so struck the wounded Fair, Her Sense was bury'd in her wild Despair; Pale was her Vissage, as the ghastly Dead; And her fcar'd Soul from the sweet Mansion fled;

Yet

116 Ovid's Metamorphoses. Book IX. Yet with her Life renew'd, her Love returns, And faintly thus her cruel Fate she mourns: 'Tis just, ye Gods! was my false Reason blind? To write a Secret of this tender kind? With female Craft I shou'd at first have strove, By dubious Hints to found his diftant Love; And try'd those useful, tho' diffembled, Arts, Which Women practise on disdainful Hearts: I shou'd have watch'd whence the black Storm might rise, Ere I had trusted the unfaithful Skies. Now on the rolling Billows I am toft, And with extended Sails, on the blind Shelves am loft. Did not indulgent Heav'n my Doom foretell, When from my Hand the fatal Letter fell? What Madness seiz'd my Soul? and urg'd me on To take the only Course to be undone? I cou'd my felf have told the moving Tale With fuch alluring Grace as must prevail; Then had his Eyes beheld my blushing Fears, My rifing Sighs, and my descending Tears; Round his dear Neck these Arms I then had spread, And, if rejected, at his Feet been dead: If fingly these had not his Thoughts inclin'd, Yet all united would have shock'd his Mind. Perhaps, my careless Page might be in fault, And in a luckless Hour the fatal Message brought; Bufiness, and worldly Thoughts might fill his Breast, Sometimes ev'n Love itself may be an irksome Guest: He could not else have treated me with Scorn, For Caunus was not of a Tygress born; Nor Steel, nor Adamant has fenc'd his Heart;

Like mine, 'tis naked to the burning Dart.

Away

Away false Fears! he must, he shall be mine; In Death alone I will my Claim refign; 'Tis vain to wish my written Crime unknown, And for my Guilt much vainer to atone. Repuls'd and baffled, fiercer still he burns, And Caunus with Disdain her impious Love returns. He faw no End of her injurious Flame, And fled his Country to avoid the Shame. Forfaken Byblis, who had Hopes no more; Burst out in Rage, and her loose Robes she tore; With her fair Hands she smote her tender Breast, And to the wond'ring World her Love confess'd; O'er Hills and Dales, o'er Rocks and Streams she slew, But still in vain did her wild Lust pursue: Wearied at length, on the cold Earth she fell. And now in Tears alone could her fad Story tell. Relenting Gods in Pity fix'd her there, And to a Fountain turn'd the weeping Fair.

The Fable of IPHIS and IANTHE.

By Mr. DRYDEN.

The Fame of this, perhaps, thro' Grete had flown: But Crete had newer Wonders of her own, In Iphis chang'd; For, near the Gnoffian Bounds, (As loud Report the Miracle refounds) At Phæstus dwelt a Man of honest Blood, But meanly born, and not so rich as good; Esteem'd and lov'd by all the Neighbourhood; Who to his Wife, before the Time affign'd For Child-birth came, thus bluntly spoke his Mind:

If Heav'n, faid Lygdus, will vouchfafe to hear, I have but two Petitions to prefer; Short Pains for thee, for me a Son and Heir. Girls cost as many Throws in bringing forth; Beside, when born, the Titts are little worth; Weak pulling things, unable to fustain Their Share of Labour, and their Bread to gain. If, therefore, thou a Creature shalt produce, Of fo great Charges, and fo little Ufe, (Bear Witness, Heav'n, with what Reluctancy) Her hapless Innocence I doom to die. He faid, and common Tears the common Grief display, Of him who bad, and her who must obey.

Yet Teletheusa still persists, to find Fit Arguments to move a Father's Mind; T'extend his Wishes to a larger Scope, And in one Vessel not confine his Hope. Lygdus continues hard: Her time drew near, And she her heavy Load could scarcely bear; When flumbring, in the latter shades of Night, Before th' Approaches of returning Light, She faw, or thought she faw, before her Bed, A glorious Train, and Iss at their Head: Her moony Horns were on her Forehead plac'd, And yellow Shelves her shining Temples grac'd: A Mitre, for a Crown, she wore on high; The Dog, and dappl'd Bull were waiting by; Osyris, fought along the Banks of Nile; The filent God; the facred Crocodile; And, last, a long Procession moving on, With Timbrels, that affift the lab'ring Moon. Her Slumbers feem'd difpell'd, and, broad awake, She heard a Voice, that thus distinctly spake.

My Votary, thy Babe from Death defend,
Nor fear to fave whate'er the Gods will fend.
Delude with Art thy Husbands dire Decree:
When Danger calls, repose thy Trust on me:
And know thou hast not serv'd a thankless Deity.
This Promise made, with Night the Goddess sled;
With Joy the Woman wakes, and leaves her Bed;
Devoutly her spotless Hands on high,
And prays the Pow'rs their Gift to ratisse.

Now grinding Pains proceed to bearing Throws, 'Tilf its own Weight the Burden did disclose. 'Twas of the beauteous Kind and brought to Light With Secrecy, to shun the Father's Sight. Th' indulgent Mother did her Care employ, And past it on her Husband for a Boy. The Nurse was conscious of the Fact alone; The Father paid his Vows as for a Son; And call'd him Iphis, by a common Name, Which either Sex with equal Right may claim. Iphis his Grandsire was; the Wife was pleas'd, Of half the Fraud by Fortune's Favour eas'd: The doubtful Name was us'd without Deceit, And Truth was cover'd with a pious Cheat. The Habit shew'd a Boy, the beauteous Face With manly Fierceness mingled Female Grace.

Now thirteen Years of Age were fwiftly run,
When the fond Father thought the Time drew on
Of fettling in the world his only Son.
Ianthe was his Choice; fo wondrous fair,
Her form alone with Iphis cou'd compare;
A Neighbour's Daughter of his own Degree,
And not more blefs'd with Fortune's Goods than he.

They

120 Ovid's Metamorphoses. Book IX.

They foon espous'd; for they with ease were join'd, Who were before contracted in the Mind. Their Age the fame, their Inclinations too; And bred together, in one school they grew. Thus, fatally disposed to mutual Fires, They felt, before they knew, the same Desires. Equal their Flame, unequal was their Care; One lov'd with Hope, one languish'd in Despair. The Maid accus'd the lingring Day alone: For whom she thought a Man, she thought her own. But Iphis bends beneath a greater Grief; As fiercely burns, but hopes for no Relief. Ev'n her Despair adds Fuel to her Fire; A Maid with Madness does a Maid desire. And, scarce refraining Tears, Alas, said she, What Issue of my Love remains for me! How wild a Passion works within my Breast, With what prodigious Flames am I possest! Could I the Care of Providence deserve, Heav'n must destroy me, if it would preserve, And that's my Fate, or fure it would have fent Some usual Evil for my Punishment: Not this unkindly Curse; to rage, and burn, Where Nature shews no Prospect of Return. Nor Cows for Cows confume with fruitless Fire; Nor Mares, when hot, their Fellow-Mares defire: The Father of the Fold supplies his Ewes; The Stag through fecret Woods his Hind pursues; And Birds for Mates the Males of their own Species chuse. Her Females Nature guards from Female Flame, And joins two Sexes to preserve the Game: Wou'd I were nothing, or not what I am!

Crete, fam'd for Monsters, wanted of her Store, 'Till my new Love produc'd one Monster more. The Daughter of the Sun a Bull desir'd, And yet ev'n then a Male a Female fir'd; Her Passion was extravagantly new, But mine is much the madder of the two. To things impossible she was not bent, But found the means to compass her Intent. To cheat his Eyes she took a different Shape; Yet still she gain'd a Lover, and a Leap. Shou'd all the Wit of all the World conspire, Shou'd Dædalus assist my wild Desire, What Art can make me able to enjoy, Or what can change Ianthe to a Boy? Extinguish then thy Passion, hopeless Maid, And recollect thy Reason for thy Aid. Know what thou art, and love as Maidens ought, And drive these Golden Wishes from thy Thought. Thou canst not hope thy fond Desires to gain; Where Hope is wanting, Wishes are in vain.

And yet no Guards against our Joys conspire;
No jealous Husband hinders our Desire;
My Parents are propitious to my Wish,
And she herself consenting to the Bliss.
All things concur to prosper our Design;
All things to prosper any Love but mine.
And yet I never can enjoy the Fair;
'Tis past the Pow'r of Heav'n to grant my Pray'r.
Heav'n has been kind, as far as Heav'n can be;
Our Parents with our own Desires agree;
But Nature, stronger than the Gods above,
Refuses her Assistance to my Love;
Vol. II.

She sets the Bar that causes all my Pain;
One Gift refus'd, makes all their Bounty vain.
And now the happy Day is just at hand,
To bind our Hearts in Hymen's holy Band:
Our Hearts, but not our Bodies: Thus accurs'd,
In midst of Water I complain of Thirst.
Why com'st thou, Juno, to these barren Rites,
To bless a Bed defrauded of Delights?
But why shou'd Hymen lift his Torch on high,
To see two Brides in cold Embraces lye?

Thus Love-fick Iphis her vain Passion mourns; With equal Ardour fair Ianthe burns, Invoking Hymen's Name, and Juno's Pow'r, To speed the Work, and haste the happy Hour.

She hopes, while Teletheusa fears the Day,
And strives to interpose some new Delay:
Now seigns a Sickness, now is in a Fright
For this bad Omen, or that boding Sight.
But having done whate'er she could devise,
And empty'd all her Magazine of Lies,
The Time approach'd; the next ensuing Day
The satal Secret must to Light betray.
Then Teletheusa had recourse to Pray'r;
She and her Daughter with dishevel'd Hair,
Trembling with Fear, great Isis they ador'd,
Embrac'd her Altar, and her aid implor'd.

Fair Queen, who dost on fruitful Egypt smile, Who sway'st the Sceptre of the Pharian Isle, And sev'n-fold Falls of disemboguing Nile, Relieve, in this our last Distress, she said, A suppliant Mother, and a mournful Maid. Thou, Goddess, thou wert present to my Sight; Reveal'd I saw thee by thy own fair Light:

I faw

I faw thee in my Dream, as now I fee,
With all thy Marks of awful Majesty:
The glorious Train that compass'd thee around;
And heard the hollow Timbrel's holy Sound.
Thy Words I noted, which I still retain;
Let not thy facred Oracles be vain.
That Iphis lives, that I myself am free
From Shame, and Punishment, I owe to thee.
On thy Protection all our Hopes depend.
Thy Counsel sav'd us, let thy Pow'r defend.

Her Tears pursu'd her Words; and while she spoke, The Goddess nodded, and her Altar shook: The Temple Doors as with a Blast of Wind, Were heard to clap; the Lunar Horns that bind The Brows of Iss cast a Blaze around; The Trembling Timbrel made a murm'ring Sound.

Some Hopes these happy Omens did impart; Forth went the Mother with a beating Heart: Not much in Fear, nor fully fatisfy'd; But Iphis follow'd with a larger Stride: The Whiteness of her Skin forsook her Face; Her Looks embolden'd with an awful Grace; Her Features, and her Strength together grew, And her long Hair to curling Locks withdrew. Her fparkling Eyes with manly Vigour shone, Big was her Voice, audacious was her Tone. The latent Parts, at length reveal'd, began To shoot, and spread, and burnish into Man. The Maid becomes a Youth; no more delay Your Vows, but look, and confidently pay. Their Gifts the Parents to the Temple bear: The Votive Tables this Inscription wear;

Iphis the Man, has to the Goddess paid 'The Vows, that Iphis offer'd when a Maid.

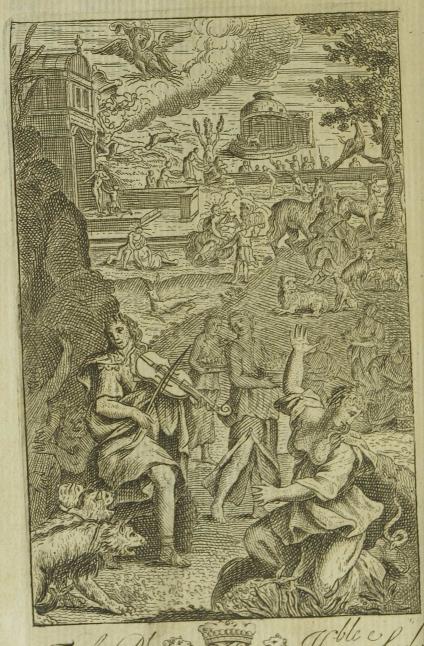

Now, when the Star of Day had shewn his Face, Venus and June with their Presence grace The Nuptial Rites, and Hymen from above Descending to compleat their happy Love; The Gods of Marriage lend their mutual Aid; And the warm Youth enjoys the lovely Maid.

METAMORPHOSES.

Translated by Mr. DRYDEN, Mr. CON-GREVE, and Others.

The Story of ORPHEUS and EURYDICE.

By Mr. CONGREVE.

HENCE, in his Saffron Robe, for distant

Hymen departs, thro' Air's unmeasur'd Space;
By Orpheus call'd, the Nuptial Pow'r attends,

But with ill-omen'd Augury descends; Nor chearful look'd the God, nor prosp'rous spoke, Nor blaz'd his Torch, but wept in hissing Smoke. In vain they whirl it round, in vain they shake, No rapid Motion can its Flames awake.

G 4

With

With Dread these inauspicious Signs were view'd, And foon a more difastrous End ensu'd; For as the Bride, amid the Naïad Train, Ran joyful, sporting o'er the flow'ry Plain, A venom'd Viper bit her as she pass'd; Instant she fell, and sudden breath'd her last.

When long his Loss the Thracian had deplor'd, Not by fuperior Pow'rs to be restor'd; Inflam'd by Love, and urg'd by deep Despair, He leaves the Realms of Light, and upper Air; Daring to tread the dark Tenarian Road, And tempt the Shades in their obscure Abode; Thro' gliding Spectres of th' Interr'd to go, And Phantom People of the World below: Persephone he feeks, and him who reigns O'er Ghosts, and Hell's uncomfortable Plains. Arriv'd, he, tuning to his Voice his Strings, Thus to the King and Queen of Shadows fings.

Ye Pow'rs, who under Earth your Realms extend, To whom all Mortals must one day descend; If here 'tis granted facred Truth to tell: I come not curious to explore your Hell; Nor come to boast (by vain Ambition sir'd) How Cerberus at my Approach retir'd. My Wife alone I feek; for her lov'd fake These Terrors I support, this Journey take. She, luckless wand'ring, or by Fate mis-led, Chanc'd on a lurking Viper's Crest to tread; The vengeful Beaft, enflam'd with Fury, ftarts, And thro' her Heel his deathful Venom darts. Thus was she snatch'd untimely to her Tomb; Her growing Years cut short, and springing Bloom.

Long I my Loss endeavour'd to sustain, And strongly strove, but strove, alas, in vain At length I yielded, won by mighty Love; Well known is that Omnipotence above! But here, I doubt, his unfelt Influence fails; And yet a Hope within my Heart prevails, That here, ev'n here, he has been known of old; At least if Truth be by Tradition told; If Fame of former Rapes Belief may find, You both by Love, and Love alone, were join'd. Now, by the Horrors which these Realms surround; By the vast Chaos of these Depths profound; By the fad Silence which eternal reigns to the sale was C'er all the Waste of these wide-stretching Plains; Let me again Eurydice receive, 2000 all enisido ad and f Let Fate her quick-spun Thread of Life re-weave. All our Possessions are but Loans from you, And soon, or late, you must be paid your Due; Hither we haste to Human-kind's last Seat, Your endless Empire, and our sure Retreat. She too, when ripen'd Years she shall attain, and would Must, of avoidless Right, be yours again: I but the transient use of that require, and I am any and Which foon, too foon, I must resign entire. But if the Destinies refuse my Vow, And no Remission of her Doom allow; Know, I'm determin'd to return no more; So both retain, or both to Life reftore.

Thus, while the Bard melodioufly complains,
And to his Lyre accords his vocal Strains,
The very bloodlefs Shades Attention keep,
And filent, feem compassionate to weep;

Ev'n

Ev'n Tantalus his Flood unthirsty views, Nor slies the Stream, nor he the Stream pursues; Ixion's wond'ring Wheel its Whirl suspends, And the voracious Vultur, charm'd, attends; No more the Belides their Toil bemoan, And Sissphus reclin'd, sits list'ning on his Stone.

Then first, ('tis said) by sacred Verse subdu'd, 'The Furies selt their Cheeks with Tears bedew'd: Nor could the rigid King, or Queen of Hell, Th' Impulse of Pity in their Arts repell.

Now, from a Troop of Shades that last arriv'd, Eurydicè was call'd, and stood reviv'd:

Slow she advanc'd, and halting seem'd to seel
The fatal Wound, yet painful in her Heel.
Thus he obtains the Suit so much desir'd,
On strict Observance of the Terms requir'd:
For if, before he reach the Realms of Air,
He backward cast his Eyes to view the Fair,
The forseit Grant, that Instant, void is made,
And she for ever left a lifeless Shade.

Now thro' the noiseless Throng their Way they bend, And both with Pain the rugged Road ascend; Dark was the Path, and difficult, and steep, And thick with Vapours from the smoaky Deep. They well-nigh now had pass'd the Bounds of Night, And just approach'd the Margin of the Light, When he, mistrusting less her Steps might stray, And gladsome of the Glympse of dawning Day, His longing Eyes, impatient, backward cast To catch a Lover's Look, but look'd his last; For, instant dying, she again descends, While he to empty Air his Arms extends.

Again she dy'd, not yet her Lord reprov'd; What could she say, but that too well he lov'd; One last Farewell she spoke, which scarce he heard; So soon she drop'd, so sudden disappear'd.

All stunn'd he stood, when thus his Wife he view'd By second Fate, and double Death subdu'd:
Not more Amazement by that Wretch was shown,
Whom Cerberus beholding, turn'd to Stone;
Nor Olenus cou'd more astonish'd look,
When on himself Lethæa's Fault he took,
His beauteous Wife, who too secure had dar'd
Her Face to vye with Goddesses compar'd:
Once join'd by Love they stand united still,
Turn'd to contiguous Rocks on Ida's Hill.

Now to repass the Styx in vain he tries,

Charon averse, his pressing Suit denies.

Sev'n days entire, along th' infernal Shores,

Disconsolate, the Bard Eurydice deplores;

Desil'd with Filth his Robe, with Tears his Cheeks;

No Sustenance but Grief, and Cares, he seeks:

Of rigid Fate incessant he complains,

And Hell's inexorable Gods arraigns.

This ended, to high Rhodope he hastes,

And Hæmus' Mountain, bleak with Northern Blass.

And now his yearly Race the circling Sun
Had thrice compleat thro' wat'ry Pisces run,
Since Orpheus fled the Face o' Womankind,
And all foft Union with the Sex declin'd.
Whether his ill Success this Change had bred,
Or binding Vows made to his former Bed;
Whate'er the Cause, in vain the Nymphs contest,
With rival Eyes to warm his frozen Breast:

G 6

For ev'ry Nymph with Love his Lays inspir'd, But ev'ry Nymph repuls'd, with Grief retir'd.

A Hill there was, and on that Hill a Mead, With Verdure thick, but destitute of Shade. Where, now, the Muses Son no sooner sings, No fooner strikes his fweet refounding Strings, But distant Groves the slying Sounds receive, And list'ning Trees their rooted Stations leave : Themselves transplanting, all around they grow, And various Shades their various Kinds bestow. Here, tall Chaonian Oaks their Branches spread, While weeping Poplars there erect their Head. The foodful Esculus here shoots his Leaves, That Turf foft Lime-tree, this fat Beach receives Here, brittle Hazels, Laurels here advance. And there tough Ash to form the Hero's Lance; Here filver Firs with knotless Trunks ascend, There, Scarlet Oaks beneath their Acorns bend. That Spot admits the hospitable Plane, On this, the Maple grows with clouded Grain; Here, watry Willows are with Lotus feen; There, Tamarisk, and Box for ever green. With double Hue here Mirtles grace the Ground, And Laurestines, with purple Berries crown'd. With pliant Feet, now, Ivies this way wind, Vines yonder rife, and Elms with Vines entwin'd. Wild Ornus now, the Pitch-tree next takes root, And Arbutus adorn'd with blushing Fruit. Then easy-bending Palms, the Victor's Prize, And Pines erect with briftly Tops arife. For Rhea grateful still the Pine remains, For Atys still some Favour she retains;

He once in human Shape her Breast had warm'd, And now is cherish'd, to a Tree transform'd.

The Fable of CYPARISSUS.

Amid the Throng of this promiscuous Wood, With pointed Top, the taper Cypress stood; A Tree which once a Youth, and heav'nly fair, Was of that Deity the darling Care, Whose Hand adapts, with equal Skill, the Strings To Bows with which he kills, and Harps to which he sings.

For heretofore, a mighty Stag was bred,
Which on the fertile Fields of Caa fed;
In Shape and Size he all his Kind excell'd,
And to Carthaan Nymphs was facred held.
His beamy Head, with Branches high display'd,
Afforded to itself an ample Shade:
His Horns were gilt, and his smooth Neck was grac'd
With silver Collars thick with Gems enchas'd:
A silver Boss upon his Forehead hung,
And brazen Pendants in his Ear-rings rung.
Frequenting Houses, he familiar grew,
And learnt by Custom, Nature to subdue;
'Till by degrees, of Fear, and Wildness, broke,
Ev'n stranger Hands his proffer'd Neck might stroak.

Much was the Beast by Caa's Youth carefs'd,
But thou, sweet Cyparissus, lov'dst him best:
By thee, to Pastures fresh, he oft was led,
By thee oft water'd at the Fountain's Head:
His Horns with Garlands, now, by thee were ty'd,
And, now, thou on his Back wou'dst wanton ride;
Now here, now there wou'dst bound along the Plains,
Ruling his tender Mouth with purple Reins.

Book X.

'Twas when the Summer Sun, at Noon of Day, Thro' glowing Cancer shot his burning Ray, 'Twas then, the fav'rite Stag, in cool Retreat, Had fought a Shelter from the scorching Heat; Along the Grass his weary Limbs he laid, Inhaling Freshness from the breezy Shade: When Cyparissus with his pointed Dart, Unknowing, pierc'd him to the panting Heart. But when the Youth, furpriz'd, his Error found, And faw him dying of the cruel Wound, Himself he would have slain thro' desp'rate Grief. What faid not Phæbus, that might yield Relief! To cease his Mourning, he the Boy desir'd, Or mourn no more than fuch a Loss requir'd. But he, incessant griev'd: Atlength address'd To the superior Pow'rs a last Request; Praying, in Expiation of his Crime, Thenceforth to mourn to all succeeding Time.

And now, of Blood exhausted he appears, Drain'd by a Torrent of continual Tears; The fleshy Colour in his Body fades, And a green Tincture all his Limbs invades; From his fair Head, where curling Locks late hung, A horrid Bush with bristled Branches sprung, Which sliff'ning by degrees, its Stem extends, "Till to the starry Skies the Spire ascends.

Apollo fad look'd on, and fighing, cry'd, Then, be for ever, what thy Pray'r imply'd: Bemoan'd by me, in others Grief excite; And still preside at ev'ry Fun'ral Rite.

Thus the sweet Artist in a wondrous Shade Of verdant Trees, which Harmony had made, Encircled fate, with his own Triumphs crown'd, Of liftning Birds, and Savages around. Again the trembling Strings he dext'rous tries, Again from Discord makes soft Musick rife. Then tunes his Voice: O Muse, from whom I sprung, Jove be my Theme, and thou inspire my Song. To Jove my grateful Voice I oft have rais'd, Oft his almighty Pow'r with Pleasure prais'd. I fung the Giants in a folemn Strain, Blasted, and thunder-struck on Phlegra's Plain. Now be my Lyre in fofter Accents mov'd, To fing of blooming Boys by Gods belov'd; And to relate what Virgins, void of Shame, Have fuffer'd Vengeance for a lawlefs Flame.

The King of Gods once felt the burning Joy, And figh'd for lovely Ganymede of Troy:

Long was he puzzled to assume a Shape

Most sit, and expeditions for the Rape;

A Bird's was proper, yet he scorns to wear

Any but That which might his Thunder bear.

Down with his masquerading Wings he slies,

And bears the little Trojan to the Skies;

Where now, in Robes of heav'nly Purple dress,

He serves the Nectar at th' Almighty's Feast,

To slighted Juno an unwelcome Guest.

HYACINTHUS transform'd into a Flower.

By Mr. OZELL.

Phæbus for Thee too, Hyacinth, design'd
A Place among the Gods, had Fate been kind:
Yet this he gave; as oft as wintry Rains
Are past, and vernal Breezes sooth the Plains,
From the green Turf a purple Flow'r you rise,
And with your fragrant Breath persume the Skies.

You when alive were Phæbus' darling Boy; In you he plac'd his Heav'n, and fix'd his Joy: Their God the Delphic Priefts confult in vain; Eurotas now he loves, and Sparta's Plain: His Hands the Ufe of Bow and Harp forget, And hold the Dogs, or bear the corded Net; O'er hanging Cliffs fwift he pursues the Game; Each Hour his Pleasure, each augments his Flame.

The mid-day Sun now shone with equal Light Between the past and the succeeding Night; They strip, then, smooth'd with suppling Oyl, essay To pitch the rounded Quoit, their wonted Play: A well-pois'd Disk first hasty Phæbus threw; It cleft the Air, and whistled as it slew; It reach'd the Mark, a most surprising Length; Which spoke an equal Share of Art and Strength. Scarce was it fall'n, when with too eager Hand Young Hyacinth ran to snatch it from the Sand; But the curst Orb, which met a stony Soil, Flew in his Face with violent Recoil. Both faint, both pale, and breathless now appear, The Boy with Pain, the am'rous God with Fear.

He ran and rais'd him bleeding from the Ground, Chafes his cold Limbs, and wipes the fatal Wound; Then Herbs of noblest Juice in vain applies; The Wound is mortal, and his Skill desies.

As in a water'd Garden's blooming Walk, When some rude Hand has bruis'd its tender Stalk, A fading Lilly droops its languid Head, And bends to Earth, its Life and Beauty sled; So Hyacinth, with Head reclin'd, decays, And, sickning, now no more his Charms displays.

O thou art gone, my Boy, Apollo cry'd, Defrauded of thy Youth in all its Pride! Thou, once my Joy, art all my Sorrow now; And to my guilty Hand my Grief I owe. Yet from myself I might the Fault remove, Unless to sport and play a Fault should prove, Unless it too were call'd a Fault to love. O could I for thee, or but with thee, die! But cruel Fates to me that Pow'r deny. Yet on my Tongue thou shalt for ever dwell; Thy Name my Lyre shall found, my Verse shall tell; And to a Flow'r transform'd, unheard of yet, Stamp'd on thy Leaves my Cries thou shalt repeat. The Time shall come, prophetick I foreknow, When, joyn'd to thee, a mighty * Chief shall grow, And with my 'Plaints his Name thy Leaf shall show.'

While Phæbus thus the Laws of Fate reveal'd, Behold, the Blood which stain'd the verdant Field Is Blood no longer; but a Flow'r, full-blown, Far brighter than the Tyrian Scarlet shone. A Lilly's Form it took; its purple Hue Was all that made a Diff'rence to the View.

Nor

Nor stop'd he here; the God upon its Leaves
The sad Expression of his Sorrow weaves;
And to this Hour the mournful Purple wears
Ai, Ai, inscrib'd in sun'ral Characters.
Nor are the Spartans, who so much are sam'd
For Virtue, of their Hyacinth asham'd;

But still, with pompous Woe and solemn State, The Hyacinthian Feasts they yearly celebrate.

The Transformations of the CERASTE, and PROPETIDES.

Enquire of Amathus, whose wealthy Ground With Veins of ev'ry Metal does abound, If she to her Propetides would show The Honour Sparta does to him allow; Nor more, she'd say, such Wretches would we grace. Than those whose crooked Horns deform'd their Face, From thence Cerastæ call'd, an impious Race; Before whose Gates a rev'rend Altar stood, To Jove inscrib'd, the hospitable God: This had some Stranger seen with Gore besmear'd, The Blood of Lambs and Bulls it had appear'd; Their slaughter'd Guests it was; nor Flock, nor Herd. Venus these barb'rous Sacrifices view'd With just Abhorrence, and with Wrath pursu'd

With just Abhorrence, and with Wrath pursu'd. At first, to punish such nefarious crimes,
Their Towns she meant to leave, her once-lov'd climes. But why, said she, for their Offence should I My dear delightful Plains and Cities sty?
No, let the impious People, who have sinn'd, A Punishment in Death, or Exile, find.

Book X. Ovid's Metamorphoses.

If Death, or Exile, too severe be thought,
Let them in some vile Shape bemoan their Fault.
While next her Mind a proper Form employs,
Admonish'd by their Horns, she fix'd her Choice.
Their former Crest remains upon their Heads,
And their strong Limbs an Ox's Shape invades.

The blasphemous Propatides deny'd Worship of Venus, and her Pow'r defy'd: But soon that Pow'r they felt, the first that sold Their lewd Embraces to the World for Gold. Unknowing how to blush, and shameless grown, A small Transition changes them to Stone.

The Story of Pygmalion and the Statue.

By Mr. DRYDEN.

Pygmalion, loathing their lascivious Life, Abhorr'd all Womankind, but most a Wife; So fingle chose to live, and shunn'd to wed, Well pleas'd to want a Confort of his Bed. Yet fearing Idleness, the Nurse of Ill, In Sculpture exercis'd his happy Skill; And carv'd in Iv'ry fuch a Maid, fo fair, As Nature could not with his Art compare, Were she to work; but in her own Defence Must take her Pattern here, and copy hence. Pleas'd with his Idol, he commends, admires, Adores; and, last, the Thing ador'd desires. A very Virgin in her Face was feen, And, had she mov'd, a living Maid had been: One would have thought she could have stirr'd, but strove With Modesty, and was asham'd to move. Art

Ovid's Metamorphoses. 140 Book X.

Art hid with Art, fo well perform'd the Cheat, It caught the Carver with his own Deceit: He knows 'tis Madness, yet he must adore, And still, the more he knows it, loves the more. The Flesh, or what so seems, he touches oft, Which feels fo smooth, that he believes it soft. Fir'd with this Thought, at once he strain'd the Breast, And on the Lips a burning Kifs impress'd. 'Tis true, the harden'd Breast resists the Gripe, And the cold Lips return a Kifs unripe: But when, retiring back, he look'd again, To think it Iv'ry was a Thought too mean; So wou'd believe she kiss'd, and courting more Again embrac'd her naked Body o'er; And, fraining hard the Statue, was afraid His Hands had made a Dint, and hurt his Maid; Explor'd her Limb by Limb, and fear'd to find So rude a Gripe had left a livid Mark behind. With Flatt'ry now he feeks her Mind to move, And now with Gifts, (the pow'rful Bribes of Love) He furnishes her Closet first, and fills The crowded Shelves with Rarities of Shells; Adds Orient Pearls, which from the Conchs he drews And all the sparkling Stones of various Hue; And Parrots, imitating Human Tongue, And Singing-birds in Silver Cages hung; And ev'ry fragrant Flow'r, and od'rous Green, Were forted well, with Lumps of Amber laid between; Rich fashionable Robes her Person deck, Pendants her Ears, and Pearls adorn her Neck; Her taper'd Fingers too with Rings are grac'd, And an embroider'd Zone surrounds her slender Waist.

Thus like a Queen array'd, fo richly dress'd, Beauteous she shew'd, but naked shew'd the best. Then, from the Floor, he rais'd a Royal Bed, With Cov'rings of Sydonian Purple spread. The folemn Rites perform'd, he calls her Bride, With Blandishments invites her to his Side; And, as she were with vital Sense possess'd, Her Head did on a plumy Pillow rest.

The Feast of Venus came, a solemn Day, To which the Cypriots due Devotion pay; With gilded Horns the Milk-white Heifers led, Slaughter'd before the facred Altars, bled.

Pygmalien, off'ring, first approach'd the Shrine, And then with Pray'rs implor'd the Pow'rs Divine. Almighty Gods, if all we Mortals want, If all we can require, be your's to grant; Make this fair Statue mine, he would have faid, But chang'd his Words for Shame; and only pray'd, Give me the Likeness of my Iv'ry Maid.

The Golden Goddess, present at the Pray'r, Well knew he meant th' inanimated Fair, And gave the Sign of granting his Defire; For thrice in chearful Flames ascends the Fire. The Youth, returning to his Mistress, hies, And impudent in Hope, with ardent Eyes, And beating Breast, by the dear Statue lies. He kisses her white Lips, renews the Bliss, And looks, and thinks they redden at the Kifs: He thought them warm before; nor longer stays, But next his Hand on her hard Bosom lays: Hard as it was, beginning to relent, It feem'd, the Breast beneath his Fingers bent:

He felt again, his Fingers made a Print, 'Twas Flesh, but Flesh so firm, it rose against the Dint. The pleasing Task he fails not to renew; Soft, and more foft at ev'ry Touch it grew; Like pliant Wax, when chafing Hands reduce The former Mass to form and frame for Use. He would believe, but yet is still in Pain, And tries his Argument of Sense again. Presses the Pulse, and feels the leaping Vein. Convine'd, o'erjoy'd, his study'd Thanks and Praise To her, who made the Miracle, he pays: Then Lips to Lips he join'd; now, freed from Fear, He found the Savour of the Kifs fincere. At this the waken'd Image op'd her Eyes, And view'd at once the Light and Lover with Surprise. The Goddess, present at the Match she made, So bless'd the Bed, such Fruitfulness convey'd, That, e're ten Months had sharpen'd either Horn, To crown their Blifs, a lovely Boy was born; Paphos his Name, who, grown to Manhood, wall'd The City Paphos, from the Founder call'd.

The Story of CINYRAS and MYRRHA.

Nor him alone produc'd the fruitful Queen; But Cinyras, who like his Sire had been A happy Prince, had he not been a Sire.

Daughters, and Fathers, from my Song retire: I fing of Horror; and, could I prevail, You shou'd not hear, or not believe my Tale. Yet, if the Pleasure of my Song be such, That you will hear, and credit me too much, Attentive listen to the last Event, And, with the Sin, believe the Punishment.

Since

Since Nature cou'd behold fo dire a Crime, I gratulate at least my Native Clime, That such a Land, which such a Monster bore, So far is distant from our Thracian Shore. Let Araby extol her happy Coast, Her Cinamon, and fweet Amonum boaft, Her fragrant Flow'rs, her Trees with precious Tears, 7 Her fecond Harvests, and her double Years; How can the Land be call'd so bless'd that Myrrha bears? Nor all her od'rous Tears can cleanse her Crime; Her Plant alone deforms the happy Clime: Cupid denies to have inflam'd thy Heart, Disowns thy Love, and vindicates his Dart: Some Fury gave thee those infernal Pains, And shot her venom'd Vipers in thy Veins. To hate thy Sire had merited a Curfe; But fuch an impious Love deserv'd a worse. The neighb'ring Monarchs, by thy Beauty led, Contend in Crowds, ambitious of thy Bed: The World is at thy Choice; except but one, Except but him, thou canst not chuse, alone. She knew it too, the miserable Maid, E're impious Love her better Thoughts betray'd, And thus within her fecret Soul she said: Ah, Myrrha! whither would thy Wishes tend? Ye Gods, ye facred Laws, my Soul defend From fuch a Crime as all Mankind detest, And never lodg'd before in Human Breast! But is it Sin? Or makes my Mind alone Th' imagin'd Sin? For Nature makes it none. What Tyrant then these envious Laws began, Made not for any other Beaft but Man!

Book X.

The Father-Bull his Daughter may bestride; The Horse may make his Mother-mare a Bride. What Piety forbids the lufty Ram, Or more falacious Goat, to rut their Dam? The Hen is free to wed the Chick she bore, And make a Husband, whom she hatch'd before. All Creatures else are of a happier Kind, Whom nor ill-natur'd Laws from Pleasure bind, Nor Thoughts of Sin disturb their Peace of Mind. But Man a Slave of his own making lives; The Fool denies himself what Nature gives: Too bufy Senates, with an Over-care, To make us better than our Kind can bear, Have dash'd a Spice of Envy in the Laws, And, straining up too high, have spoil'd the Cause. Yet some wise Nations break their cruel Chains, And own no Laws but those which Love ordains; Where happy Daughters with their Sires are join'd, And Piety is doubly paid in Kind. O that I had been born in fuch a Clime! Not here, where 'tis the Country makes the Crime! But whither would my impious Fancy stray? Hence Hopes, and ye forbidden Thoughts away! His Worth deferves to kindle my Defires, But with the Love that Daughters bear to Sires. Then, had not Cinyras my Father been, What hinder'd Myrrha's Hopes to be his Queen? But the Perverseness of my Fate is such, That he's not mine, because he's mine too much: Our Kindred-blood debars a better Tye; He might be nearer, were he not so nigh. Eyes, and their Objects, never must unite; Some Distance is requir'd to help the Sight.

The

Fain wou'd I travel to some foreign Shore, Never to see my Native Country more, So I might to my felf my felf restore; So might my Mind these impious Thoughts remove, And, ceasing to behold, might cease to love. But stay I must, to feed my famish'd Sight, To talk, to kifs, and more, if more I might. More! impious Maid! what more can'ft thou defign? To make a monstrous Mixture in thy Line, And break all Statutes Human and Divine! Can'ft thou be call'd (to fave thy wretched Life) Thy Mother's Rival, and thy Father's Wife? Confound so many facred Names in one, Thy Brother's Mother! Sifter to thy Son! And fear'st thou not to see th' Infernal Bands, Their Heads with Snakes, with Torches arm'd their Hands, Full at thy Face th' avenging Brands to bear, And shake the Serpents from their hissing hair: But thou in time th' increasing Ill controul, Nor first debauch the Body by the Soul; Secure the facred Quiet of thy Mind, And keep the Sanctions Nature has defign'd. Suppose I shou'd attempt, th' Attempt were vain, No Thoughts like mine his finlefs Soul profane; Observant of the Right: and O that he Cou'd cure my Madness, or be mad like me! Thus she: But Cinyras, who daily fees A Crowd of noble Suitors at his Knees, Among so many, knew not whom to chuse, Irresolute to grant, or to refuse. But, having told their Names, enquir'd of her Who pleas'd her best, and whom she would prefer. VOL. II.

The blushing Maid stood filent with Surprize, And on her Father fix'd her ardent Eyes, And looking figh'd, and, as she figh'd, began Round Tears to shed, that scalded as they ran. The tender Sire, who faw her blush, and cry, Ascrib'd it all to Maiden Modesty, And dry'd the falling Drops, and, yet more kind, He ftroak'd her Cheeks, and holy Kiffes join'd. She felt a fecret Venom fire her Blood, And found more Pleasure than a Daughter shou'd; And, ask'd again what Lover of the Crew She lik'd the best, she answer'd, One like you. Mistaking what she meant, her pious Will He prais'd, and bid her so continue still. The Word of Pious heard, she blush'd with Shame Of fecret Guilt, and could not bear the Name.

'Twas now the Mid of Night, when Slumbers close Our Eyes, and footh our Cares with foft Repose; But no Repose cou'd wretched Myrrha find, Her Body rouling as she roul'd her Mind: Mad with Desire, she ruminates her Sin, And wishes all her Wishes o'er again: Now she despairs, and now resolves to try; Wou'd not, and wou'd again; she knows not why; Stops, and returns; makes, and retracts the Vow; Fain wou'd begin, but understands not how. As when a Pine is hew'd upon the Plains, And the last mortal Stroke alone remains, Lab'ring in Pangs of Death, and threat'ning all, This Way, and that, she nods, consid'ring where to fall; So Myrrha's Mind, impell'd on either Side, Takes ev'ry Bent, but cannot long abide;

Irrefolute

Irrefolute on which she shou'd relie, At last, unsix'd in all, is only fix'd to die. On that fad Thought she rests; resolv'd on Death, She rifes, and prepares to choak her Breath: Then while about the Beam her Zone she ties, Dear Cinyras, farewell, the foftly cries; For thee I die, and only wish to be Not hated, when thou know'st I die for thee: Pardon the Crime, in Pity to the Caufe. This faid, about her Neck the Noofe she draws. The Nurse, who lay without, her faithful Guard, Though not the Words, the Murmurs over-heard, And Sighs, and hollow Sounds: Surpriz'd with Fright She starts, and leaves her Bed, and springs a Light; Unlocks the Door, and, ent'ring out of Breath, The Dying faw, and Instruments of Death. She shrieks, she cuts the Zone with trembling Haile, And in her Arms her fainting Charge embrac'd. Next (for the now had Leifure for her Tears) She weeping ask'd, in these her blooming Years What unforeseen Misfortune caus'd her Care, To loath her Life, and languish in Despair. The Maid, with down-cast Eyes, and mute with Grief For Death unfinish'd, and ill-tim'd Relief, Stood fullen to her Suit: The Beldame press'd The more to know, and, bar'd her wither'd Breaft, Adjur'd her, by the kindly Food she drew From those dry'd Founts, her secret Ill to shew. Sad Myrrha figh'd, and turn'd her Eyes afide: The Nurse still urg'd, and wou'd not be deny'd; Not only promis'd Secrecy, but pray'd She might have Leave to give her offer'd Aid.

Good-will, she said, my want of Strength supplies, And Diligence shall give what Age denies: If strong Desires thy Mind to Fury move, With Charms and Med'cines I can cure thy Love; If envious Eyes their hurtful Rays have cast, More pow'rful Verse shall free thee from the Blast; If Heav'n offended fends thee this Difeafe, Offended Heav'n with Pray'rs we can appeafe. What then remains, that can these Cares procure? Thy House is flourishing, thy Fortune sure; Thy careful Mother yet in Health furvives, And, to thy Comfort, thy kind Father lives. The Virgin started at her Father's Name, And figh'd profoundly, conscious of the Shame: Nor yet the Nurse her impious Love divin'd, But yet surmis'd that Love disturb'd her Mind. Thus thinking, the pursu'd her Point, and laid, And lull'd within her Lap, the mourning Maid; Then foftly footh'd her thus; I guess your Grief, You love, my Child, your Love shall find Relief. My long-experienc'd Age shall be your Guide; Rely on that, and lay Diffrust aside; No Breath of Air shall on the Secret blow. Nor shall (what most you fear) your Father know. Struck once again, as with a Thunder-clap, The guilty Virgin bounded from her Lap, And threw her Body proftrate on the Bed, And, to conceal her Blushes, hid her Head; There filent lay, and warn'd her with her Hand To go: But she receiv'd not the Command, Remaining still importunate to know: Then Myrrha thus; Or, ask no more, or go;

I pr'ythee go, or flaying spare my Shame; What thou would'ft hear, is impious ev'n to name. At this, on high the Beldame holds her Hands. And trembling both with Age and Terror stands; Adjures, and falling at her Feet intreats, Sooths her with Blandishments, and frights with Threats To tell the Crime intended, or disclose What Part of it she knew, if she no farther knows; And last, if conscious to her Counsel made, Confirms anew the Promise of her Aid. Now Myrrha rais'd her Head; but, foon oppress'd With Shame, reclin'd it on her Nurse's Breast, Bath'd it with Tears, and strove to have confess'd: Twice she began, and stopp'd; again she try'd; The falt'ring Tongue its Office fill deny'd. At last her Veil before her Face she spread, And drew a long preluding Sigh, and faid, O happy Mother, in thy Marriage-bed! Then groan'd, and ceas'd. The good old Woman shook, Stiff were her Eyes, and ghaftly was her Look; Her hoary Hair upright with horrour stood, Made (to her Grief) more knowing than she wou'd. Much she reproach'd, and many Things she said, To cure the Madness of th' unhappy Maid, In vain; for Myrrha flood convict of Ill, Her Reason vanquish'd, but unchang'd her Will; Perverse of Mind, unable to reply, She stood resolv'd, or to possess, or die. At length the Fondness of a Nurse prevail'd Against her better Sense, and Virtue fail'd: Enjoy, my Child, fince fuch is thy Defire, Thy Love, she said; she durst not say, thy Sire;

Live, though unhappy, live on any Terms; Then with a fecond Oath her Faith confirms.

The folemn Feast of Ceres now was near, When long white Linen Stoles the Matrons wear; Rank'd in Procession walk the pious Train, Off'ring First-fruits, and Spikes of yellow Grain; For nine long Nights the Nuptial Bed they shun, And, sanctifying Harvest, lie alone.

Mix'd with the Crowd, the Queen forfook her Lord, And Ceres's Pow'r with fecret Rites ador'd; The Royal Couch, now vacant for a Time, The crafty Crone, officious in her Crime, The first Occasion took: The King she found Eafy with Wine, and deep in Pleasures drown'd, Prepar'd for Love: The Beldame blew the Flame, Confess'd the Passion, but conceal'd the Name. Her Form she prais'd; the Monarch ask'd her Years; And she reply'd, The same thy Myrrha bears. Wine, and commended Beauty, fir'd his Thought; Impatient, he commands her to be brought. Pleas'd with her Charge perform'd, she hies her home, And gratulates the Nymph, the Task was overcome. Myrrha was joy'd the welcome News to hear; But clog'd with Guilt, the Joy was unfincere. So various, fo discordant is the Mind, That in our Will a diff 'rent Will we find. Ill she presag'd, and yet pursu'd her Lust; For guilty Pleasures give a double Gust.

'Twas Depth of Night. Arttophylax had driv'n His lazy Wain half round the Northern Heav'n, When Myrrha hasten'd to the Crime desir'd:

The Moon beheld her first, and first retir'd;

The Stars amaz'd ran backward from the Sight, And (shrunk within their Sockets) lost their Light. Icarius first withdraws his holy Flame: The Virgin Sign, in Heav'n the second Name, Slides down the Belt, and from her Station flies, And Night with fable Clouds involves the Skies. Bold Myrrha still pursues her black Intent; She stumbled thrice, (an Omen of th' Event;) Thrice shriek'd the Fun'ral Owl, yet on she went, Secure of Shame, because secure of Sight; Ev'n bashful Sins are impudent by Night. Link'd Hand in Hand, th' Accomplice, and the Dame Their Way exploring, to the Chamber came: The Door was ope; they blindly grope their Way, Where dark in Bed th'expecting Monarch lay. Thus far her Courage held, but here forsakes; Her faint Knees knock at ev'ry Step she makes. The nearer to her Crime, the more within She feels Remorfe, and Horror of her Sin; Repents too late her criminal Defire, And wishes, that unknown she could retire. Her lingring thus, the Nurse, (who fear'd Delay The fatal Secret might at length betray) Pull'd forward, to compleat the Work begun, And faid to Cinyras, Receive thy own. Thus faying, she deliver'd Kind to Kind, Accurs'd, and their devoted Bodies join'd. The Sire, unknowing of the Crime, admits His Bowels, and prophanes the hallow'd Sheets; He found she trembled, but believ'd she strove With Maiden Modesty against her Love, And fought with flatt'ring Words vain Fancies to re-

Perhaps

Full of her Sire, she left th' incestuous Bed, And carry'd in her Womb the Crime she bred. Another, and another Night she came; For frequent Sin had left no Sense of Shame: 'Till Cinyras desir'd to see her Face, Whose Body he had held in close Embrace, And brought a Taper; the Revealer, Light, Expos'd both Crime, and Criminal to Sight. Grief, Rage, Amazement, could no Speech afford, But from the Sheath he drew th'avenging Sword: The Guilty fled: The Benefit of Night, That favour'd first the Sin, secur'd the Flight. Long wand'ring thro' the spacious Fields, she bent Her Voyage to th' Arabian Continent; Then pass'd the Region which Panchea join'd, And flying, left the palmy Plains behind. Nine Times the Moon had mew'd her Horns; at length With Travel weary, unsupply'd with Strength, And with the Burden of her Womb oppress'd, Sabæan Fields afford her needful Rest: There, loathing Life, and yet of Death afraid, In Anguish of her Spirit, thus she pray'd. Ye Pow'rs, if any fo propitious are T'accept my Penitence, and hear my Pray'r; Your Judgments, I confess, are justly sent; Great Sins deserve as great a Punishment : Yet fince my Life the Living will profane, And fince my Death the happy Dead will stain,

A middle State your Mercy may bestow, Betwixt the Realms above, and those below Some other Form to wretched Myrrha give, Nor let her wholly die, nor wholly live. The Pray'rs of Penitents are never vain; At least she did her last Request obtain : For while she spoke, the Ground began to rise, And gather'd round her Feet, her Legs, and Thighs; Her Toes in Roots descend, and spreading wide, A firm Foundation for the Trunk provide: Her folid Bones convert to folid Wood, To Pith her Marrow and to Sap her Blood: Her Arms are Boughs, her Fingers change their Kind, Her tender Skin is harden'd into Rind. And now the rifing Tree her Womb invests, Now shooting upwards still, invades her Breasts, And shades the Neck; when weary with Delay, She funk her Head within, and met it half the Way. And the' with outward Shape she lost her Sense, With bitter Tears she wept her last Offence; And still she weeps, nor sheds her Tears in vain; For still the precious Drops her Name retain. Meantime the mis-begotten Infant grows, And ripe for Birth, distends with deadly Throes The fwelling Rind, with unavailing Strife, To leave the wooden Womb, and pushes into Life. The Mother Tree, as if oppress'd with Pain, Writhes here, and there, to break the Bark, in vain ; And, like a lab'ring Woman, wou'd have pray'd, But wants a Voice to call Lucina's Aid: The bending Bole fends out a hollow Sound, And trickling Tears fall thicker on the Ground.

Book X.

The mild Lucina came uncall'd, and stood BesidethestrugglingBoughs, and heard the groaningwood; Then reach'd her Midwife-Hand to speed the Throes, And spoke the pow'rful Spells that Babes to Birth disclose. The Bark divides, the living Load to free, And fafe delivers the Convultive Tree. The ready Nymphs receive the crying Child, And wash him in the Tears the Parent Plant distill'd. They fwath'd him with their Scarfs; beneath him spread The Ground with Herbs; with Roses rais'd his Head. The lovely Babe was born with ev'ry Grace, Ev'n Envy must have prais'd so fair a Face : Such was his Form, as Painters when they show Their utmost Art, on naked Loves bestow: And that their Arms no Diff'rence might betray, Give him a Bow, or his from Cupid take away. 'Time glides along with undifcover'd Haste, The Future but a Length behind the Past; So swift are Years. The Babe, whom just before His Grandsire got, and whom his Sister bore; The Drop, the Thing, which late the Tree inclos'd, And late the yawning Bark to Life expos'd; A Babe, a Boy, a beauteous Youth appears, And lovelier than himself at riper Years. Now to the Queen of Love he gave Defires, And, with her Pains, reveng'd his Mother's Fires.

The Story of VENUS and ADONIS.

By Mr. Eusden.

For Cytherëa's Lips while Cupid prest, He with a heedless Arrow raz'd her Breast. The Goddess felt it, and with Fury stung, The wanton Mischief from her Bosom flung: Yet thought at first the Danger slight, but found The Dart too faithful, and too deep the Wound. Fir'd with a mortal Beauty, she disdains To haunt th' Idalian Mount, or Phrygian Plains. She feeks not Cnidos, nor her Paphian Shrines, Nor Amathus, that teems with brazen Mines: Ev'n Heav'n itself with all its Sweets unsought, Adonis far a sweeter Heav'n is thought. On him she hangs, and fonds with ev'ry Art, And never, never knows from him to part. She, whose fost Limbs had only been display'd On-rosie Beds beneath the Myrtle Shade, Whose pleasing Care was to improve each Grace, And add more Charms to an unrival'd Face, Now buskin'd, like the Virgin Huntress, goes Thro' Woods, and pathless Wilds, and Mountain-Snows. With her own tuneful Voice she joys to cheer The panting Hounts, that chace the flying Deer. She runs the Labyrinth of fearful Hares, But fearless Beasts, and dang'rous Prey forbears: Hunts not the grinning Wolf, or foamy Boar, And trembles at the Lion's hungry Roar. Thee too, Adonis, with a Lover's Care She warns, if warn'd thou wou'dst avoid the Snare. To furious Animals advance not nigh. Fly those that follow, follow those that fly; 'Tis Chance alone must the Survivors save, Whene'er brave Spirits will attempt the Brave. O! lovely Youth! in harmless Sports delight; Provoke not Beasts, which, arm'd by Nature, fight.

For me, if not thyself, vouchfafe to fear; Let not thy Thirst of Glory cost me dear. Boars know not how to spare a blooming Age; No fparkling Eyes can footh the Lion's Rage. Not all thy Charms a favage Breast can move, Which have so deeply touch'd the Queen of Love. When briftled Boars from beaten Thickets spring, In grinded Tusks a Thunderbolt they bring, The daring Hunters Lions rouz'd devour, Vast is their Fury, and as vast their Pow'r: Curst be their tawny Race! If thou would'st hear What kindled thus my Hate, then lend an Ear: The wond'rous Tale I will to thee unfold, How the fell Monsters rose from Crimes of old. But by long Toils I faint: See! wide display'd, A grateful Poplar courts us with a Shade. The graffy Turf, beneath, fo verdant shows, We may secure delightfully repose. With her Adonis here be Venus bleft; And swift at once the Grass and him she prest. Then fweetly smiling, with a raptur'd Mind, On his lov'd Bosom she her Head reclin'd, And thus began; but mindful still of Bliss, Seal'd the foft Accents with a fofter Kiss.

Perhaps thou may'st have heard a Virgin's Name, Who still in Swiftness swiftest Youths o'ercame: Wondrous! that semale Weakness should outdo A manly Strength; the Wonder yet is true. 'Twas doubtful, if her Triumphs in the Field Did to her Form's triumphant Glories yield; Whether her Face could with more Ease decoy, A Crowd of Lovers, or her Feet destroy.

Book X.

Book X. Ovid's Metamorphoses.

For once Apollo she implor'd to show If courteous Fates a Confort would allow: A Confort brings thy Ruin, he reply'd; O! learn to want the Pleasures of a Bride! Nor shalt thou want them to thy wretched Cost, And Atalanta living shall be lost. With fuch a rueful Fate th' affrighted Maid Sought green Recesses in the wood-land Glade. Nor fighing Suitors her Resolves could move, She bad them show their Speed, to shew their Love. He only, who could conquer in the Race, Might hope the conquer'd Virgin to embrace; While he, whose tardy Feet had lagg'd behind, Was doom'd the fad Reward of Death to find. Tho' great the Prize, yet rigid the Decree, But blind with Beauty, who can Rigour fee ? Ev'n on these Laws the Fair they rashly sought, And Danger in Excess of Love forgot.

There fat Hippomenes, prepar'd to blame
In Lovers such Extravagance of Flame.
And must, he said, 'the Blessing of a Wise
Be dearly purchas'd by a Risk of Lise?
But when he saw the Wonders of her Face,
And her Limbs naked, springing to the Race,
Her Limbs, as exquisitely turn'd, as mine,
Or if a Woman thou, might vie with thine,
With listed Hands, he cry'd, forgive the Tongue
Which durst, ye Youths, your well-tim'd Courage wrong.
I knew not that the Nymph, for whom you strove,
Deserv'd th'unbounding Transports of your Love.
He saw, admir'd, and thus her spotless Frame
He prais'd, and praising, kindled his own Flame.

A Rival now to all the Youths who run, Envious, he fears they should not be undone, But why (reflects he) idly thus is shown The Fate of others, yet untry'd my own? The Coward must not on Love's Aid depend; The God was ever to the Bold a Friend. Mean-time the Virgin flies, or feems to fly, Swift as a Scythian Arrow cleaves the Sky: Still more and more the Youth her Charms admires, The Race itself t'exalt her Charms conspires. The golden Pinions, which her Feet adorn, In wanton Flutt'rings by the Winds are born. Down from her Head, the long, fair Tresses slow, And fport with lovely Negligence below. The waving Ribbands, which her Buskins tie, Her fnowy Skin with waving Purple die; As crimfon Veils in Palaces display'd, To the white Marble lend a blushing Shade. Norlong he gaz'd, yet while he gaz'd, she gain'd The Goal, and the victorious Wreath obtain'd. The Vanquish'd figh, and, as the Law decreed, Pay the dire Forfeit, and prepare to bleed.

Then rose Hippomenes, not yet afraid,
And fix'd his Eyes full on the beauteous Maid.
Where is (he cry'd) the mighty Conquest won,
To distance those, who want the Nerves to run?
Here prove superior Strength, nor shall it be
Thy Loss of Glory, if excell'd by me.
High my Descent, near Neptune I aspire,
For Neptune was Grand-Parent to my Sire.
From that great God the fourth myself I trace,
Nor sink my Virtues yet beneath my Race.

Thou from Hippomenes, o'ercome, may'st claim An envy'd Triumph and a deathless Fame. While thus the Youth the Virgin Pow'r defies, Silent she views him still with softer Eyes. Thoughts in her Breast a doubtful Strife begin, If 'tis not happier now to lofe, than win. What God, a Foe to Beauty, would destroy The promis'd Ripeness of this blooming Boy? With his Life's Danger does he feek my Bed? Scarce am I half fo greatly worth, she faid. Nor has his Beauty mov'd my Breast to love, And yet, I own, fuch Beauty well might move: 'Tis not his Charms, 'tis Pity would engage My Soul to spare the Greenness of his Age. What, that heroic Courage fires his Breast, And shines thro' brave Disdain of Fate confest? What, that his Patronage by close Degrees Springs from th' imperial Ruler of the Seas? Then add the Love which bids him undertake The Race, and dare to perish for my sake. Of bloody Nuptials, heedless Youth, beware! Fly, timely fly from a too barb'rous Fair. At Pleasure chuse; thy Love will be repaid By a less foolish, and more beauteous Maid. But why this Tenderness, before unknown? Why beats, and pants my Breast for him alone? His Eyes have feen his num'rous Rivals yield; Let him too share the Rigour of the Field, Since, by their Fates untaught, his own he courts, Aud thus with Ruin infolently sports. Yet for what Crime shall he his Death receive? Is it a Crime with me to wish to live?

160 Ovid's Metamorphoses. Book X.

Shall his kind Passion his Destruction prove? Is this the fatal Recompence of Love? So fair a Youth, destroy'd, would Conquest shame, And Nymphs eternally detest my Fame. Still why should Nymphs my guiltless Fame upbraid? Did I the fond Adventurer persuade? Alas! I wish thou would'ft the Course decline, Or that my Swiftness was excell'd by thine. See! what a Virgin Bloom adorns the Boy! Why wilt thou run, and why thyfelf destroy? Hippomenes! O that I ne'er had been By those bright Eyes unfortunately seen! Ah! tempt not thus a swift, untimely Fate; Thy Life is worthy of the longest Date. Were I less wretched, did the galling Chain Of rigid Gods not my free Choice restrain, By thee alone I could with Joy be led To taste the Raptures of a Nuptial Bed.

Thus she disclos'd the Woman's secret Heart, Young, innocent, and new to Cupid's Dart. Her Thoughts, her Words, her Actions wildly rove, With Love she burns, yet knows not that 'tis Love.

Her Royal Sire now with the murm'ring Crowd Demands the Race impatiently aloud.

Hippomenes then with true Fervour pray'd,
My bold Attempt let Venus kindly aid.

By her fweet Pow'r I felt this am'rous Fire,
Still may she succour, whom she did inspire.

A soft, unenvious Wind, with speedy Care,
Wasted to Heav'n the Lover's tender Pray'r.

Pity, Iown, soon gain'd the wish'd Consent,
And all th' Assistance he implor'd Ilent.

The Cyprian Lands, tho' rich, in Richness yield To that, surnam'd the Tamasenian Field. That Field of old was added to my Shrine, And its choice Products confecrated mine. A Tree there stands, full glorious to behold, Gold are the Leaves, the crackling Branches Gold. It chanc'd, three Apples in my Hand I bore, Which newly from the Tree I sportive tore; Seen by the Youth alone, to him I brought The Fruit, and when, and how to use it, taught. The Signal founding by the King's Command, Both flart at once, and sweep th' imprinted Sand. So swiftly mov'd their Feet, they might with Ease, Scarce moisten'd, skim along the glassy Seas; Or with a wondrous Levity be born O'er yellow Harvests of unbending Corn. Now fav'ring Peals refound from ev'ry Part, Spirit the Youth, and fire his fainting Heart. Hippomenes ! (they cry'd) thy Life preserve, Intenfely labour, and stretch ev'ry Nerve. Base Fear alone can bassle thy Design, Shoot boldly onward, and the Goal is thine. 'Tis doubtful whether Shouts, like these, convey'd More Pleasures to the Youth, or to the Maid. When a long Distance oft she could have gain'd, She check'd her Swiffness, and her Feet restrain'd: She figh'd, and dwelt, and languish'd on his Face, Then with unwilling Speed pursu'd the Race, O'er-spent with Heat, his Breath he faintly drew, Parch'd was his Mouth, nor yet the Goal in view, And the first Apple on the Plain he threw. The Nymph stop'd sudden at th' unusual Sight, Struck with the Fruit fo beautifully bright,

Aside she starts, the Wonder to behold, And eager stoops to catch the rolling Gold." Th'observant Youth past by, and scour'd along, While Peals of Joy rung from th' applauding Throng. Unkindly she corrects the short Delay, And to redeem the Time fleets swift away, Swift, as the Lightning, or the Northern Wind, And far she leaves the panting Youth behind. Again he strives the flying Nymph to hold With the Temptation of the fecond Gold: The bright Temptation fruitlessly was tost, So foon, alas! she won the Distance lost. Now but a little Interval of Space Remain'd for the Decision of the Race. Fair Author of the precious Gift, he faid, Be thou, O Goddess, Author of my Aid! Then of the shining Fruit the last he drew, And with his full-collected Vigour threw: The Virgin still the longer to detain, Threw not directly, but a-cross the Plain. She feem'd a while perplex'd in dubious Thought, If the far-distant Apple should be sought: I lur'd her backward Mind to feize the Bait, And to the massie Gold gave double Weight. My Favour to my Votary was show'd, Her Speed I lessen'd, and encreas'd her Load. Butlest, tho' long, the rapid Race be run, Before my longer, tedious Tale is done, The Youth the Goal, and fo the Virgin won.

Might I, Adonis, now not hope to see His grateful Thanks pour'd out for Victory? His pious Incense on my Altars laid? But he nor grateful Thanks, nor Incense paid.

Enrag'd

ook X. Ovid's Metamorphoses.

Enrag'd I vow'd, that with the Youth the Fair, For his Contempt, should my keen Vengeance share; That future Lovers might my Pow'r revere, And, from their fad Examples, learn to fear, The filent Fanes, the fanctify'd Abodes, Of Cybele, great Mother of the Gods, Rais'd by Echion in a lonely Wood, And full of brown, religious Horror stood. By a long painful Journey faint, they chose Their weary Limbs here fecret to repose. But soon my Pow'r inflam'd the lufful Boy, Careless of Rest he sought untimely Joy. A hallow'd gloomy Cave, with Moss o'er-grown, The Temple join'd, of native Pumice-stone, Where antique Images by Priests were kept. And wooden Deities securely slept. Thither the rash Hippomenes retires, And gives a Loofe to all his wild Defires, And the chafte Cell pollutes with wanton Fires. The facred Statues trembled with Surprize, The tow'ry Goddess, blushing, veil'd her Eyes; And the lewd Pair to Stygian Sounds had fent, But unrevengeful feem'd that Punishment, A heavier Doom such black Prophaneness draws, Their taper Figures turn to crooked Paws. No more their Necks the Smoothness can retain, Now cover'd fudden with a yellow Mane. Arms change to Legs: Each finds the hard'ning Breaft Of Rage unknown, and wond'rous Strength possest. Their alter'd Looks with Fury grim appear, And on the Ground their brushing Tails they bear: They haunt the Woods: Their Voices, which before Were mufically fweet, now hoarily roar. Hence

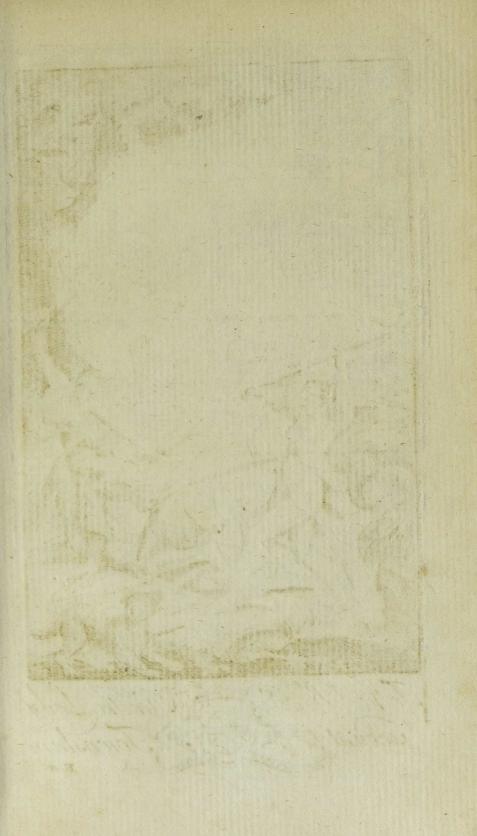

Hence Lions, dreadful to the lab'ring Swains, Are tam'd by Cybele, and curb'd with Reins, And humbly draw her Caralong the Plains. But thou, Adonis, my delightful Care, Of these, and Beasts, as sierce as these, beware! The Savage, which not shuns thee, timely shun, For by rash Prowess should'st thou be undone, A double Ruin is contain'd in one. 'Thus cautious Venus school'd her fav'rite Boy; But youthful Heat all Cautions will destroy. While with yok'd Swans the Goddess cuts the Skies. His faithful Hounds, led by the tainted Wind, Lodg'd in thick Coverts chanc'd a Boar to find. The callow Hero show'd a manly Heart, And pierc'd the Savage with a fide-long Dart. The flying Savage, wounded, turn'd again, Wrench'd out the gory Dart, and foam'd with Pain. The trembling Boy by Flight his Safety fought, And now recall'd the Lore, which Venus taught; But now too late to fly the Boar he strove, Who in the Groin his Tusks impetuous drove, On the discolour'd Grass Adonis lay, The Monster trampling o'er his beauteous Prey. Fair Cytherea, Cyprus scarce in view, Heard from afar his Groans, and own'd them true, And turn'd her fnowy Swans, and backward flew. But as she saw him gasp his latest Breath, And quiv'ring agonize in Pangs of Death, Down with swift Flight she plung'd, nor Rage forbore, At once her Garments, and her Hair she tore. With cruel Blows she beat her guiltless Breast, The Fates upbraided, and her Love confest.

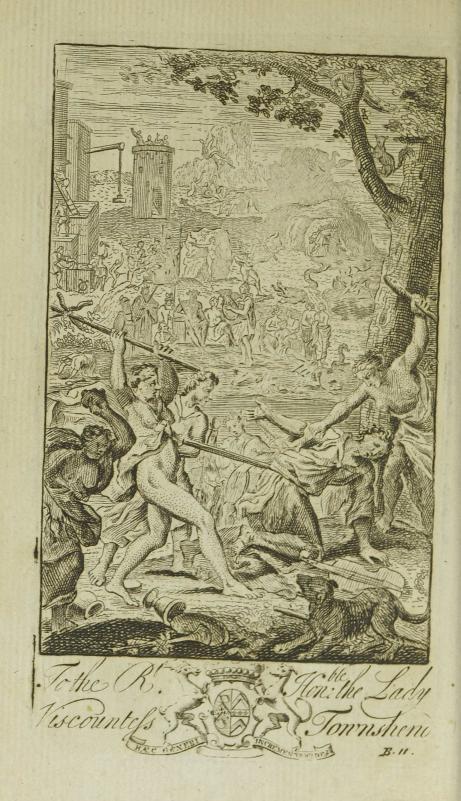

Nor

Nor shall they yet (she cry'd) the Wholedevour With uncontroul'd, inexorable Pow'r: For thee, lost Youth, my Tears, and restless Pain Shallin immortal Monuments remain, With folemn Pomp in annual Rites return'd, Be thou for ever, my Adonis, mourn'd, Could Pluto's Queen with jealous Fury storm, And Menthé to a fragrant Herb transform? Yet dares not Venus with a Change furprise, And in a Flow'r bid her fall'n Heroe rise? Then on the Blood sweet Nectar she bestows, The scented Blood in little Bubbles rose: Little as rainy Drops, which flutt'ring fly, Born by the Winds, along a low'ring Sky. Short time ensu'd, 'till where the Blood was shed, A Flow'r began to rear its purple Head: Such, as on Punick Apples is reveal'd, Or in the filmy Rind but half conceal'd. Still here the Fate of lovely Forms we fee, So sudden fades the sweet Animonie. The feeble Stems, to stormy Blasts a Prey, Their fickly Beauties droop, and pine away. The Winds forbid the Flow'rs to flourish long, Which owe to Winds their Names in Grecian Song.

OVID'S

METAMORPHOSES.

BOOK XI.

Translated by Mr. DRYDEN and Others.

The Death of ORPHEUS.

By Mr. CROXALL.

SERE, while the Thracian Bard's enchanting
Strain

Sooths Beafts, and Woods, and all the lift'ning Plain,

The Female Bacchanals, devoutly mad, In shaggy Skins, like savage Creatures, clad,

Warbling in Air perceiv'd his lovely Lay, And from a rifing Ground beheld him play. When one, the wildest, with dishevel'd Hair, That loosely stream'd, and russed in the Air; Soon as her frantick Eye the Lyrist spy'd, See, see! the Hater of our Sex, she cry'd.

Vol. II. Then

Then at his Face her missive Javelin fent,
Which whiz'd along, and brusht him as it went;
But the soft Wreathes of Ivy twisted round,
Prevent a deep Impression of the Wound.
Another, for a Weapon, hurls a Stone,
Which by the Sound subdu'd as soon as thrown,
Falls at his Feet, and with a seeming Sense
Implores his Pardon for its late Offence.

But now their frantick Rage unbounded grows, Turns all to Madness, and no Measure knows: Yet this the Charms of Musick might subdue, But that, with all its Charms, is conquer'd too; In louder Strains their hideous Yellings rife, And squeaking Horn-pipes eccho thro' the Skies, Which, in hoarse Concert with the Drum, confound The moving Lyre, and ev'ry gentle Sound: Then 'twas the deafen'd Stones flew on with Speed, And faw, unfooth'd, their tuneful Poet bleed. The Birds, the Beafts, and all the Savage Crew Which the fweet Lyrist to Attention drew, Now, by the Female Mob's more furious Rage, Are driv'n, and forc'd to quit the shady Stage. Next their fierce Hands the Bard himfelf affail, Nor can his Song against their Wrath prevail: They flock, like Birds, when in a cluftring Flight, By Day they chase the boding Fowl of Night. So crouded Amphitheatres survey The Stag, to greedy Dogs a future Prey. Their fleely Javelins, which foft Curls entwine Of budding Tendrils from the leafy Vine, For facred Rites of mild Religion made, Are flung promiscuous at the Poet's Head.

Book XI. Ovid's Metamorphoses. 171 Those Clods of Earth or Flints discharge, and These Hurl prickly Branches sliver'd from the Trees. And, lest their Passion shou'd be unsupply'd, The rabble Crew, by chance, at Distance spy'd Where Oxen, straining at the heavy Yoke, The fallow'd Field with flow Advances broke: Nigh which the brawny Peafants dug the Soil, Procuring Food with long laborious Toil. These, when they saw the ranting Throng draw near, Quitted their Tools, and fled, possest with Fear. Long Spades, and Rakes of mighty Size were found. Carelesly left upon the broken Ground. With thefe the furious Lunaticks engage, And first the lab'ring Oxen feel their Rage; Then to the Poet they return with Speed, Whose Fate was, past Prevention, now decreed: In vain he lifts his suppliant Hands, in vain He tries, before, his never-failing Strain. And, from those facred Lips, whose thrilling Sound Fierce Tygers and infensate Rocks cou'd wound, Ah Gods! how moving was the mournful Sight! To see the fleeting Soul now take its Flight. Thee the foft Warblers of the feather'd Kind Bewail'd; for Thee thy favage Audience pin'd; Those Rocks and Woods that oft thy Strain had led, Mourn for their Charmer, and lament him dead; And drooping Trees their leafy Glories shed, Naiads and Dryads with dishevel'd Hair Promiscuous weep, and Scarts of Sable wear; Nor cou'd the River-Gods conceal their Moan, But with new Floods of Tears augment their own.

172 Ovid's Metamorphoses. Book XI.

His mangled Limbs lay scatter'd all around,
His Head, and Harp a better Fortune found;
In Hebrus' Streams they gently roll'd along,
And sooth'd the Waters with a mournful Song.
Soft deadly Notes the lifeless Tongue inspire,
A doleful Tune sounds from the sloating Lyre;
'The hollow Banks in solemn Confort mourn,
And the sad Strain in ecchoing Groans return.
Now with the Current to the Sea they glide,
Born by the Billows of the briny Tide;
And driv'n where Waves round rocky Lesbos roar,
'They strand, and lodge upon Methymna's Shore.

But here, when landed on the foreign Soil,
A venom'd Snake, the Product of the Isle
Attempts the Head, and facred Locks embru'd
With clotted Gore, and still fresh-dropping Blood.
Phæbus, at last, his kind Protection gives,
And from the Fact the greedy Monster drives:
Whose marbled Jaws his impious Crime atone,
Still grinning ghastly, tho' transform'd to Stone.

His Ghost slies downward to the Stygian Shore,
And knows the Places it had seen before:
Among the Shadows of the pious Train
He finds Eurydice, and loves again;
With Pleasure views the beauteous Phantom's Charms,
And class her in his unsubstantial Arms.
There Side by Side they unmolested walk,
Or pass their blissful Hours in pleasing Talk;
Aft or before the Bard securely goes,
And, without Danger, can review his Spouse.

The THRACIAN Women transform'd to Trees.

Book XI.

Bacchus, refolving to revenge the Wrong, Of Orpheus murder'd, on the madding Throng, Decreed that each Accomplice Dame should stand Fix'd by the Roots along the conscious Land. Their wicked Feet, that late fo nimbly ran To wreak their Malice on the guiltless Man, Sudden with twifted Ligatures were bound, Like Trees, deep planted in the turfy Ground. And, as the Fowler with his fubtle Gins. His feather'd Captives by the Feet entwines, That flutt'ring pant, and flruggle to get loofe, Yet only closer draw the fatal Noose; So these were caught; and as they strove in vain To quit the Place, they but increas'd their Pain. They flounce and toil, yet find themselves controll'd; The Root, tho' pliant, toughly keeps its Hold. In vain their Toes and Feet they look to find, For ev'n their shapely Legs are cloath'd with Rind. One fmites her Thighs with a lamenting Stroke, And finds the Flesh transform'd to solid Oak; Another, with Surprize, and Grief distrest, Lays on above, but beats a wooden Breast. A rugged Bark their fofter Neck invades, Their branching Arms shoot up delightful Shades; At once they feem, and are, a real Grove, With mosfy Trunks below, and verdant Leaves above.

The Fable of MIDAS.

Nor this suffic'd; the God's Disgust remains, And he resolves to quit their hated Plains; The Vineyards of Tymole ingross his Care, And, with a better Choir, he fixes there; Where the smooth Streams of clear Pastolus roll'd, Then undistinguish'd for its Sands of Gold. The Satyrs with the Nymphs, his usual Throng, Come to salute their God, and jovial danc'd along. Silenus only miss'd; for while he reel'd, Feeble with Age, and Wine, about the Field, The hoary Drunkard had forgot his Way, And to the Phrygian Clowns became a Prey; Who to King Midas drag the Captive God, While on his totty Pate the Wreaths of Ivy nod.

Midas from Orpheus had been taught his Lore, And knew the Rites of Bacchus long before. He, when he faw his venerable Guest, In Honour of the God ordain'd a Feast. Ten Days in Course, with each continu'd Night, Were spent in genial Mirth, and brisk Delight: Then on th' Eleventh, when with brighter Ray Phosphor had chac'd the fading Stars away, 'The King thro' Lydia's Fields young Bacchus fought, And to the God his Foster-Father brought. Pleas'd with the welcome Sight, he bids him foon But name his Wish, and swears to grant the Boon. A glorious Offer! yet but ill bestow'd On him whose Choice so little Judgment show'd. Give me, says he, (nor thought he ask'd too much) That with my Body whatfoe'er I touch,

Book XI. Ovid's Metamorphoses.

Chang'd from the Nature which it held of old, May be converted into yellow Gold. He had his Wish; but yet the God repin'd, To think the Fool no better Wish could find.

But the brave King departed from the Place, With Smiles of Gladness sparkling in his Face: Nor could contain, but, as he took his Way, Impatient longs to make the first Essay. Down from a lowly Branch a Twig he drew, The Twig strait glitter'd with a golden Hue: He takes a Stone, the Stone was turn'd to Gold; A Clod he touches, and the crumbling Mold Acknowledg'd foon the great transforming Pow'r, In Weight and Substance like a Mass of Ore. He pluck'd the Corn, and strait his Grasp appears Fill'd with a bending Tuft of Golden Ears. An Apple next he takes, and feems to hold The bright Hesperian vegetable Gold. His Hand he careless on a Pillar lays, With shining Gold the fluted Pillars blaze: And while he washes, as the Servants pour, His Touch converts the Stream to Danae's Show'r.

To fee these Miracles so finely wrought,
Fires with transporting Joy his giddy Thought.
The ready Slaves prepare a sumptuous Board,
Spread with rich Dainties for their happy Lord;
Whose pow'rful Hands the Bread no sooner hold,
But its whole Substance is transform'd to Gold:
Up to his Mouth he lists the sav'ry Meat,
Which turns to Gold as he attempts to eat:
His Patron's noble Juice of purple Hue,
Touch'd by his Lips, a gilded Cordial grew;

Unfit

Unfit for Drink, and wondrous to behold, It trickles from his Jaws a fluid Gold.

The rich poor Fool, confounded with Surprize, Starving in all his various Plenty lies:
Sick of his Wish, he now detests the Pow'r, For which he ask'd so earnestly before;
Amidst his Gold with pinching Famine curst;
And justly tortur'd with an equal Thirst.
At last his shining Arms to Heav'n he rears, And in Distress, for Resuge, slies to Pray'rs.
O Father Bacchus, I have sinn'd, he ery'd, And soolishly thy gracious Gift apply'd;
Thy Pity now, repenting, I implore;
Oh! may I feel the golden Plague no more.

The hungry Wretch, his Folly thus confest, 'Touch'd the kind Deity's good-natur'd Breast; The gentle God annull'd his first Decree, And from the cruel Compact fet him free. But then, to cleanse him quite from further Harm, And to dilute the Relicks of the Charm, He bids him feek the Stream that cuts the Land Nigh where the Tow'rs of Lydian Sardis stand; Then trace the River to the Fountain Head, And meet it rising from its rocky Bed; There, as the bubbling Tide pours forth amain, To plunge his Body in, and wash away the Stain. The King instructed to the Fount retires, But with the golden Charm the Stream inspires: For while this Quality the Man forfakes, An equal Pow'r the limpid Water takes; Informs with Veins of Gold the neighb'ring Land, And glides along a Bed of golden Sand.

Now loathing Wealth, th' Occasion of his Woes, Far in the Woods he fought a calm Repose; In Caves and Grottos, where the Nymphs refort, And keep with Mountain Pan their Sylvan Court. Ah! had he left his stupid Soul behind! But his Condition alter'd not his Mind.

For where high Tmolus rears his shady Brow, And from his Cliffs surveys the Seas below, In his Descent, by Sardis bounded here, Assaly Asian By the small Confines of Hypapa there, Pan to the Nymphs his frolick Ditties play'd, Tuning his Reeds beneath the chequer'd Shade. The Nymphs are pleas'd, the boafting Sylvan plays, And speaks with Slight of great Apollo's Lays. Tmolus was Arbiter; the Boafter still Accepts the Tryal with unequal Skill. The venerable Judge was seated high On his own Hill, that seem'd to touch the Sky. Above the whifp'ring Trees his Head he rears, From their encumbring Boughs to free his Ears; A Wreath of Oak alone his Temples bound, The pendant Acorns loofely dangled round. In me your Judge, fays he, there's no Delay; Then bids the Goat-herd God begin, and play. Pan tun'd the Pipe, and with a rural Song Pleas'd the low Tafte of all the vulgar Throng; Such Songs a vulgar Judgment mostly please, Midas was there, and Midas judg'd with these.

The Mountain Sire with grave Deportment now To Phæbus turns his venerable Brow: And, as he turns, with him the liftning Wood and 19 M In the same Posture of Attention stood. I have got and I

The God his own Parnassian Laurel crown'd, And in a Wreath his golden Tresses bound, Graceful his purple Mantle fwept the Ground. High on the Left his Iv'ry Lute he rais'd, The Lute, emboss'd with glitt'ring Jewels, blaz'd. In his right Hand he nicely held the Quill, His eafy Posture spoke a Master's Skill. The Strings he touch'd with more than human Art, Which pleas'd the Judge's Ear, and footh'd his Heart; Who foon judiciously the Palm decreed, And to the Lute postpon'd the squeaking Reed.

All, with Applause, the rightful Sentence heard, Midas alone diffatisfy'd appear'd; To him unjustly giv'n the Judgment seems, For Pan's barbarick Notes he most esteems, The Lyrick God, who thought his untun'd Ear Deserv'd but ill a human Form to wear, Of that deprives him, and supplies the Place With some more fit, and of an ampler Space: Fix'd on his Noddle an unfeemly Pair, Flagging, and large, and full of whitish Hair; Without a total Change from what he was, Still in the Man preferves the simple Ass. He, to conceal the Scandal of the Deed, A purple Turban folds about his Head: Veils the Reproach from Publick View, and fears The laughing World would fpy his monstrous Ears. One trusty Barber-Slave, that us'd to dress His Master's Hair, when lengthen'd to Excess, The mighty Secret knew, but knew alone, And, tho' impatient, durst not make it known. Restless, at last, a private Place he found, Then dug a Hole, and told it to the Ground;

Book XI. In a low Whisper he reveal'd the Case,

And cover'd in the Earth, and filent left the Place.

In Time, of trembling Reeds a plenteous Crop From the confided Furrow sprouted up; Which, high advancing with the ripening Year, Made known the Tiller, and his fruitless Care: For then the ruftling Blades, and whifp'ring Wind, To tell th' important Secret, both combin'd.

The Building of TROY.

Phæbus, with full Revenge, from Tmolus flies, Darts thro' the Air, and cleaves the liquid Skies; Near Hellespont he lights, and treads the Plains Where great Laomedon fole Monarch reigns; Where, built between the two projecting Stands, To Panophæan Jove an Altar stands. Here first aspiring Thoughts the King employ, To found the lofty Tow'rs of future Troy. The Work, from Schemes magnificent begun, At vast Expense was slowly carry'd on: Which Phabus feeing, with the Trident God Who rules the fwelling Surges with his Nod, Assuming each a mortal Shape, combine At a fet Price to finish his Design. The Work was built; the King their Price denies, And his Injustice backs with Perjuries. This Neptune cou'd not brook, but drove the Main, A mighty Deluge, o'er the Phrygian Plain: 'Twas all a Sea; the Waters of the Deep From ev'ry Vale the copious Harvest sweep; The briny Billows overflow the Soil, Ravage the Fields, and mock the Plowman's Toil. Nor I 6

Nor this appeas'd the God's revengeful Mind, For still a greater Plague remains behind; A huge Sea-Monster lodges on the Sands, And the King's Daughter for his Prey demands, To him that fav'd the Damfel, was decreed A Set of Horses of the Sun's fine Breed: But when Alcides from the Rock unty'd The trembling Fair, the Ranfom was deny'd. He, in Revenge, the new-built Walls attack'd, And the twice-perjur'd City bravely fack'd. Teleman aided, and in Justice shar'd Part of the Plunder as his due Reward: The Princess, rescu'd late, with all her Charms, Hesione, was yielded to his Arms; For Peleus, with a Goddess-Bride, was more Proud of his Spouse, than of his Birth before: Grandsons to Jove there might be more than One, But he the Goddess had enjoy'd alone.

The Story of THETIS, and PELEUS, &c.

For Proteus thus to Virgin Thetis faid,
Fair Goddess of the Waves, consent to wed,
And take some sprittly Lover to your Bed.
A Son you'll have, the Terror of the Field,
To whom in Fame and Pow'r his Sire shall yield.

Jove, who ador'd the Nymph with boundless Love, Did from his Breast the dangerous Flame remove. He knew the Fates, nor car'd to raise up One, Whose Fame and Greatness should eclipse his own. On happy Peleus he bestow'd her Charms, And bless'd his Grandson in the Goddess' Arms:

Book XI. Ovid's Metamorphoses.

A filent Creek Theffalia's Coast can show; Two Arms project, and shape it like a Bow; 'Twould make a Bay, but the transparent Tide Does scarce the yellow-gravell'd Bottom hide; For the quick Eye may thro' the liquid Wave A firm unweedy level Beach perceive. A Grove of fragrant Myrtle near it grows, Whose Boughs, tho' thick, a beauteous Grot disclose; The well-wrought Fabrick, to discerning Eyes, Rather by Art than Nature feems to rife. A bridled Dolphin oft fair Thetis bore To this her lov'd Retreat, her fav'rite Shore. Here Peleus feiz'd her, flumbring while she lay, And urg'd his Suit with all that Love could fay: But when he found her obstinately coy, Refolv'd to force her, and command the Joy; The Nymph, o'er-power'd, to Art for Succour flies And various Shapes the eager Youth surprize: A Bird she seems, but plies her Wings in vain, His Hands the fleeting Substance still detain: A branchy Tree high in the Air she grew; About its Bark his nimble Arms he threw: A Tyger next she glares with flaming Eyes; The frighten'd Lover quits his Hold, and flies: The Sea-Gods he with facred Rites adores, Then a Libation on the Ocean pours; While the fat Entrails crackle in the Fire, And Sheets of Smoak in sweet Persume aspire; "Till Proteus rising from his oozy Bed, Thus to the poor desponding Lover said: No more in anxious Thoughts your Mind employ, For yet you shall possess the dear expessed Joy. You You must once more th' unwary Nymph surprize, As in her cooly Grot she slumb'ring lies; Then bind her fast with unrelenting Hands, And strain her tender Limbs with knotted Bands. Still hold her under ev'ry different Shape, 'Till tir'd she tries no longer to escape. Thus he: Then sunk beneath the glassy Flood, And broken Accents slutter'd, where he stood.

Bright Sol had almost now his Journey done,
And down the steepy western Convex run;
When the fair Nereid left the briny Wave,
And, as she us'd, retreated to her Cave.
He scarce had bound her fast, when she arose,
And into various Shapes her Body throws:
She went to move her Arms, and sound 'em ty'd;
Then with a Sigh, some God assists ye, cry'd,
And in her proper Shape stood blushing by his Side.
About her Waist his longing Arms he slung,
From which Embrace the Great Achilles sprung.

The Transformation of DEDALION.

Peleus unmix'd Felicity enjoy'd;
(Blest in a valiant Son, and virtuous Bride)
'Till Fortune did in Blood his Hands imbrue,
And his own Brother by curst Chance he slew:
Then driv'n from Thessaly, his native Clime,
Trachinia first gave Shelter to his Crime;
Where peaceful Ceyx mildly fill'd the Throne,
And like his Sire, the Morning Planet, shone;
But now, unlike himself, bedew'd with Tears,
Mourning a Brother lost, his Brow appears.
First to the Town with Travel spent, and Care,
Peleus, and his small Company repair:

5

His Herds, and Flocks the while at Leisure feed. On the rich Pasture of a neighb'ring Mead. The Prince before the Royal presence brought, Shew'd by the suppliant Olive what he sought; Then tells his Name, and Race, and Country right, But hides th' unhappy Reason of his Flight. He begs the King some little Town to give, Where they may fafe his faithful Vasfals live. Ceyx reply'd: To all my Bounty flows, A hospitable Realm your Suit has chose. Your glorious Race, and far-refounding Fame, And Grandfire Jove, peculiar Favours claim. All you can wish, I grant; Entreaties spare; My Kingdom (would 'twere worth the sharing) share.

Tears stop'd his Speech: Astonish'd Peleus pleads To know the Cause from whence his Grief proceeds. The Prince reply'd: There's none of ye but deems This Hawk was ever fuch as now it feems; Know 'twas a Heroe once, Dædalion nam'd For warlike Deeds, and haughty Valour fam'd; Like me to that bright Luminary born, Who wakes Aurora, and brings on the Morn. His Fierceness still remains, and Love of Blood, Now Dread of Birds, and Tyrant of the Wood. My Make was fofter, Peace my greatest Care; But this my Brother wholly bent on War; Late Nations fear'd, and routed Armies fled That Force, which now the tim'rous Pigeons dread. A Daughter he posses'd, divinely fair, And scarcely yet had seen her Fisteenth Year; Young Chione: A thousand Rivals strove To win the Maid, and teach her how to love. Phæbus.

Phabus, and Mercury by chance one Day From Delphi, and Cyllene past this Way; Together they the Virgin faw: Defire At once warm'd both their Breasts with am'rous Fire. Phæbus refolv'd to wait till Close of Day; But Mercury's hot Love brook'd no Delay; With his entrancing Rod the Maid he charms, And unresisted revels in her Arms. 'Twas Night, and Phæbus in a Beldam's Drefs, To the late rifled Beauty got Accefs. Her Time compleat nine circling Moons had run; To either God she bore a lovely Son: To Mercury Autolychus she brought, Who turn'd to Thefts and Tricks his fubtle Thought; Posses'd he was of all his Father's Slight, At Will made white look black, and black look white. Philammon born to Phæbus, like his Sire, The Muses lov'd, and finely struck the Lyre, And made his Voice and Touch in Harmony conspire. In vain, fond Maid, you boast this double Birth, The Love of Gods, and Royal Father's Worth, And Jove among your Ancestors rehearse! Could Bleffings fuch as these e'er prove a Curse! To her they did, who with audacious Pride, Vain of her own, Diana's Charms decry'd. Her Taunts the Goddess with Resentment fill; My Face you like not, you shall try my Skill. She faid; and firait her vengeful Bow she firung, And fent a Shaft that piere'd her guilty Tongue; The bleeding Tongue in vain its Accents tries; In the red Stream her Soul reluctant flies. With Sorrow wild I ran to her Relief, And try'd to moderate my Brother's Grief,

He, deaf as Rocks by stormy Surges beat, Loudly laments, and hears me not intreat. When on the Fun'ral Pile he faw her laid, Thrice he to rush into the Flames assay'd, Thrice with officious Care by us was flay'd. Now, mad with Grief, away he fled amain, Like a stung Heifer that resents the Pain, And bellowing wildly bounds along the Plain. O'er the most rugged Ways so fast he ran, He feem'd a Bird already, not a Man: He left us breathless all behind; and now In Quest of Death had gain'd Parnassus' Brow: But when from thence headlong himself he threw, He fell not, but with airy Pinions flew. Phæbus in Pity chang'd him to a Fowl Whose crooked Beak and Claws the Birds controul, Little of Bulk, but of a warlike Soul. A Hawk become, the feather'd Race's Foe, He tries to ease his own by other's Woe.

A Wolf turn'd into Marble.

While they astonish'd heard the King relate
Those Wonders of his hapless Brother's Fate;
The Prince's Herdsman at the Court arrives,
And fresh Surprize to all the Audience gives.
O Peleus, Peleus! dreadful News I bear,
He said; and trembled as he spoke for Fear,
The worst, affrighted Peleus bid him tell,
Whilst Ceyx too grew pale with friendly Zeal.
Thus he began: When Sol Mid-heav'n had gain'd,
And half his Way was past, and half remain'd,
I to the level Shore my Cattle drove,
And let them freely in the Meadows rove.

Some

Some stretch'd at length admire the watry Plain, Some crop'd the Herb, some wanton swam the Maid. A Temple stands of antique Make hard by, Where no gilt Domes, nor Marble lure the Eye; Unpolish'd Rafters bear its lowly Height, Hid by a Grove, as ancient, from the Sight. Here Nereus, and the Nereids they adore; I learnt it from the Man who thither bore His Net, to dry it on the funny Shore. Adjoyns a Lake, inclos'd with Willows round, Where swelling Waves have overflow'd the Mound, And, muddy, stagnate on the lower Ground. From thence a russling Noise increasing flies, Strikes the still Shore; and frights us with Surprize, Strait a huge Wolf rush'd from the marshy Wood, His Jaws befmear'd with mingled Foam, and Blood, Tho' equally the Hunger urg'd, and Rage, His Appetite he minds not to affwage; Nought that he meets, his rabid Fury spares, But the whore Herd with mad Disorder tears. Some of our Men who strove to drive him thence, Torn by his Teeth, have dy'd in their Defence. The echoing Lakes, the Sea, and Fields, and Shore, Impurpled blush with Streams of reeking Gore. Delay is Loss, nor have we Time for Thought; While yet some few remain alive, we ought To feize our Arms, and with confederate Force Try if we so can stop his bloody Course. But Peleus car'd not for his ruin'd Herd; His Crime he call'd to Mind, and thence inferr'd, That Pfamathe's Revenge this Havock made, In Sacrifice to murder'd Phocus' Shade.

The

The King commands his Servants to their Arms;
Refolv'd to go; but the loud Noise alarms
His lovely Queen, who from her Chamber flew,
And her half-plaited Hair behind her threw:
About his Neck she hung with loving Fears,
And now with Words, and now with pleading Tears,
Intreated that he'd fend his Men alone,
And stay himself, to save two Lives in one.
Then Peleus: Your just Fears, O Queen, forget;
Too much the Offer leaves me in your Debt.
No Arms against the Monster I shall bear,
But the Sea Nymphs appease with humble Pray'r.

The Citadel's high Turrets pierce the Sky, With home-bound Vessels, glad, from far descry; This they afcend, and thence with Sorrow ken The mangled Heifers lye, and bleeding Men; Th' inexorable Ravager they view, With Blood discolour'd, still the rest pursue: There Peleus pray'd fubmissive tow'rds the Sea, And deprecates the Ire of injur'd Psamathe. But deaf to all his Pray'rs the Nymph remain'd, 'Till Thetis for her Spouse the Boon obtain'd. Pleas'd with the Luxury, the furious Beaft, Unstop'd, continues still his bloody Feast: While yet upon a flurdy Bull he flew, Chang'd by the Nymph, a Marble Block he grew. No longer dreadful now the Wolf appears, Bury'd in Stone, and vanish'd like their Fears. Yet still the Fates unhappy Peleus vex'd; To the Magnesian Shore he wanders next. Acastus there, who rul'd the peaceful Clime, Grants his Request, and expiates his Crime.

The Story of CEYX, and ALCYONE.

By Mr. DRYDEN.

These Prodigies affect the pious Prince,
But more perplex'd with those that happen'd since,
He purposes to seek the Clarian God,
Avoiding Delphi, his more fam'd Abode,
Since Phlegyan Robbers made unsafe the Road.
Yet could he not from her he lov'd so well,
The fatal Voyage, he resolv'd, conceal;
But when she saw her Lord prepar'd to part,
A deadly Cold ran shiv'ring to her Heart;
Her saded Cheeks are chang'd to boxen Hue,
And in her Eyes the Tears are ever new.
She thrice essay'd to speak; her Accents hung,
And salt'ring dy'd unfinish'd on her Tongue;
Or vanish'd into Sighs: With long Delay
Her Voice return'd, and found the wonted Way.

Tell me, my Lord, she said, what Fault unknown Thy once belov'd Alcyone has done? Whither, ah, whither, is thy Kindness gone! Can Ceyx then sustain to leave his Wise, And unconcern'd forsake the Sweets of Life? What can thy Mind to this long Journey move? Or need'st thou Absence to renew thy Love? Yet, if thou go'st by Land, tho' Grief possess My Soul ev'n then, my Fears will be the less. But ah! be warn'd to shun the watry Way, The Face is frightful of the stormy Sea: For late I saw a-drift disjointed Planks, And empty Tombs erected on the Banks.

Nor let false Hopes to Trust betray thy Mind, Because my Sire in Caves constrains the Wind, Can with a Breath their clam'rous Rage appeafe, They fear his Whiftle, and forfake the Seas: Not fo; for once indulg'd, they sweep the Main; Deaf to the Call, or hearing, hear in vain: But bent on Mischief bear the Waves before, And not content with Seas, infult the Shore, When Ocean, Air, and Earth at once ingage, And rooted Forests fly before their Rage: At once the clashing Clouds to Battle move, And Lightnings run across the Fields above: I know them well, and mark'd their rude Comport, While yet a Child within my Father's Court: In times of Tempest they command alone, and and And he but fits precarious on the Throne: The more I know, the more my Fears augment, And Fears are oft prophetick of th' Event. But if not Fears, or Reasons will prevail, If Fate has fix'd thee obstinate to sail. Go not without thy Wife, but let me bear My Part of Danger with an equal Share, And present, what I suffer only fear: Then o'er the bounding Billows shall we fly, Secure to live together, or to die.

These Reasons mov'd her warlike Husband's Heart,
But still he held his Purpose to depart:
For as he lov'd her equal to his Life,
He would not to the Seas expose his Wise;
Nor could be wrought his Voyage to refrain,
But sought by Arguments to sooth her Pain:
Nor these avail'd; at length he lights on one,
With which so difficult a Cause he won:

My Love, fo short an Absence cease to fear, For by my Father's holy Flame I fwear, Before two Moons their Orb with Light adorn, If Heav'n allow me Life, I will return.

This Promise of so short a Stay prevails; He foon equips the Ship, supplies the Sails, And gives the Word to launch; she trembling views This Pomp of Death, and parting Tears renews: Last with a Kiss, she took a long Farewel, Sigh'd with a fad Prefage, and swooning fell: While Ceyx feeks Delays, the lufty Crew, Rais'd on their Banks, their Oars in order drew To their broad Breasts, the Ship with Fury flew.

The Queen recover'd, rears her humid Eyes. And first her Husband on the Poop espies, Shaking his Hand at Distance on the Main; She took the Sign, and shook her Hand again. Still as the Ground recedes, contracts her View With sharpen'd Sight, 'till she no longer knew The much-lov'd Face; that Comfort lost supplies With less, and with the Galley feeds her Eyes; The Galley born from View by rifing Gales, She follow'd with her Sight the flying Sails: When ev'n the flying Sails were feen no more, Forfaken of all Sight she left the Shore.

Then on her bridal Bed her Body throws, And fought in Sleep her wearied Eyes to close: Her Husband's Pillow, and the widow'd Part Which once he press'd, renew'd the former Smart.

And now a Breeze from Shore began to blow, The Sailors ship their Oars, and cease to row; Then hoist their Yards a trip, and all their Sails Let fall, to court the Wind, and catch the Gales: By this the Vessel half her Course had run, And as much rested 'till the rising Sun; Both Shores were lost to Sight, when at the Close Of Day a stiffer Gale at East arose: The Sea grew white, the rolling Waves from far, Like Heralds, first denounce the watry War.

This feen, the Master soon began to cry, Strike, firike the Top-fail; let the Main-sheet fly, And furl your Sails. The Winds repel the Sound, And in the Speaker's Mouth the Speech is drown'd. Yet of their own Accord, as Danger taught Each in his Way, officiously they wrought; Some stow their Oars or stop the leaky Sides, Another bolder, yet the Yard bestrides, And folds the Sails; a fourth with Labour laves Th' intruding Seas, and Waves ejects on Waves. In this Confusion while their Work they ply, The Winds augment the Winter of the Sky, And wage intestine Wars; the suff'ring Seas Are toss'd, and mingled, as their Tyrants please. The Master would command, but in Despair Of Safety stands amaz'd with stupid Care, Nor what to bid, or what forbid he knows, Th' ungovern'd Tempest to such Fury grows: Vain is his Force, and vainer is his Skill; With fuch a Concourse comes the Flood of Ill; The Cries of Men are mix'd with rattling Shrowds; Seas dash on Seas and Clouds encounter Clouds: At once from East to West, from Pole to Pole, The forky Lightnings flash, the roaring Thunders roll.

Now Waves on Waves afcending fcale the Skies,

And in the Fires above the Water fries:

When yellow Sands are fifted from below: The glittering Billows give a golden Show: And when the fouler Bottom spews the Black, The Stygian Dye the tainted Waters take: Then frothy white appear the flatted Seas, And change their Colour, changing their Disease, Like various Fits the Trachim Vessel finds, And now fublime, she rides upon the Winds: As from a lofty Summit looks from high, And from the Clouds beholds the nether Sky; Now from the Depth of Hell they lift their Sight, And at a Distance see superior Light; The lashing Billows make a loud Report, And beat her Sides, as batt'ring Rams a Fort: Or as a Lion bounding in his Way, With Force augmented, bears against his Prey, Sidelong to feize; or unapal'd with Fear, Springs on the Toils, and rushes on the Spear: So Seas impell'd by Winds, with added Pow'r Assault the Sides, and o'er the Hatches tow'r.

The Planks (their pitchy Cov'ring wash'd away)
Now yield; and now a yawning Breach display:
The roaring Waters with a hostile Tide
Rush through the Ruins of her gaping Side.
Mean-time in Sheets of Rain the Sky descends,
And Ocean swell'd with Waters upwards tends:
One rising, falling one, the Heav'ns and Sea
Meet at their Confines, in the middle Way:
The Sails are drunk with Show'rs, and drop with Rain,
Sweet Waters mingle with the briny Main.
No Star appears to lend his friendly Light;
Darkness, and Tempest make a double Night;

But flashing Fires disclose the Deep by Turns, And while the Lightnings blaze, the Water burns.

Now all the Waves their scatter'd Force unite,
And as a Soldier foremost in the Fight,
Makes way for others, and an Host alone
Still presses on, and urging gains the Town;
So while th' invading Billows come a-breast,
The Hero Tenth advanc'd before the rest,
Sweeps all before him with impetuous Sway,
And from the Walls descends upon the Prey;
Part following enter, Part remain without,
With Envy hear their Fellows conqu'ring Shout,
And mount on others Backs, in hopes to share
The City, thus become the Seat of War.

An universal Cry resounds aloud;
The Sailors run in Heaps, a helpless Crowd;
Art fails, and Courage falls, no Succour near;
As many Waves, as many Deaths appear.
One weeps and yet despairs of late Relief:
One cannot weep, his Fears congeal his Grief,
But stupid, with dry Eyes expects his Fate:
One with loud Shrieks laments his lost Estate,
And calls those happy whom their Fun'rals wait.
This Wretch with Pray'rs and Vows the Gods implores,
And ev'n the Skies he cannot see, adores.
That other on his Friends his Thoughts bestows,
His careful Father, and his faithful Spouse.
The covetous Worldling in his anxious Mind,
Thinks only on the Wealth he left behind.

All Ceyx his Alcyone employs,
For her he grieves, yet in her Absence jows:
Vol. II.

K

His Wife he wishes, and would still be near,
Not her with him, but wishes him with her:
Now with last Looks he seeks his native Shore,
Which Fate has destin'd him to see no more;
He sought, but in the dark tempessuous Night
He knew not whither to direct his Sight.
So whirl the Seas, such Darkness blinds the Sky,
That the black Night receives a deeper Dye.

The giddy Ship ran round; the Tempest tore
Her Mast, and over-board the Rudder bore.
One Billow mounts, and with a scornful Brow,
Proud of her Conquest gain'd, insults the Waves below;
Nor lighter falls, than if some Giant tore
Pindus and Athos with the Freight they bore,
And toss'd on Seas; press'd with the pond'rous Blow,
Down sinks the Ship within th' Abys's below:
Down with the Vessel sink into the Main
The many, never more to rise again.
Some sew on scatter'd Planks, with fruitless Care,
Lay hold, and swim; but while they swim, despair.

Ev'n he who late a Sceptre did command,
Now grafps a floating Fragment in his Hand;
And while he struggles on the stormy Main,
Invokes his Father, and his Wife's, in vain.
But yet his Confort is his greatest Care,
Alcyonè he names amidst his Pray'r;
Names as a Charm against the Waves and Wind;
Most in his Mouth, and ever in his Mind.
Tir'd with his Toil, all Hopes of Safety past,
From Pray'rs to Wishes he descends at last;
That his dead Body, wasted to the Sands,
Might have its Burial from her friendly Hands.

As oft as he can catch a Gulp of Air, And peep above the Seas, he names the Fair; And ev'n when plung'd beneath, on her he raves, Murm'ring Alcyone below the Waves: At last a falling Billow stops his Breath, Breaks o'er his Head, and whelms him underneath. Bright Lucifer unlike himself appears That Night, his heav'nly Form obscur'd with Tears, And fince he was forbid to leave the Skies, He muffled with a Cloud his mournful Eyes.

Mean-time Alcyone (his Fate unknown) Computes how many Nights he had been gone. Observes the waining Moon with hourly View, Numbers her Age, and wishes for a new; Against the promis'd Time provides with Care, And hastens in the Woof the Robes he was to wear: And for her Self employs another Loom, New-dress'd to meet her Lord returning home, Flatt'ring her Heart with Joys, that never were to come: She fum'd the Temples with an od'rous Flame, And oft before the facred Altars came, To pray for him, who was an empty Name. All Pow'rs implor'd, but far above the rest To Juno she her pious Vows address'd, Her much-lov'd Lord from Perils to protect, And fafe o'er Seas his Voyage to direct: Then pray'd, that she might still possess his Heart, And no pretending Rival share a Part; This last Petition heard of all her Pray'r, The rest, dispers'd by Winds, were lost in Air. But she, the Goddess of the Nuptial Bed, Tir'd with her vain Devotions for the Dead, Refolv'd

Refolv'd the tainted Hand should be repell'd,
Which Incense offer'd, and her Altar held:
Then Iris thus bespoke; Thou saithful Maid,
By whom thy Queen's Commands are well convey'd,
Haste to the House of Sleep, and bid the God
Who rules the Night by Visions with a Nod,
Prepare a Dream, in Figure, and in Form
Resembling him, who perish'd in the Storm;
This Form before Alcyone present,
To make her certain of the sad Event.
Indu'd with Robes of various Hue she slies,
And slying draws an Arch, (a Segment of the Skies:)
Then leaves her bending Bow, and from the Steep
Descends, to search the silent House of Sleep.

The House of SLEEP.

Near the Cymmerians, in his dark Abode,
Deep in a Cavern dwells the drowzy God;
Whose gloomy Mansson nor the rising Sun,
Nor setting, visits, nor the lightsome Noon;
But lazy Vapours round the Region sly,
Perpetual Twilight and a doubtful Sky:
No crowing Cock does there his Wings display,
Nor with his horny Bill provoke the Day;
Nor watchful Dogs nor the more wakeful Geese,
Disturb with nightly Noise the sacred Peace;
Nor Beast of Nature, nor the Tame are nigh,
Nor Trees with Tempests rock'd, nor human Cry;
But safe Repose without a Air of Breath
Dwells here, and an dumb Quiet next to Death.

An Arm of Lethe, with a gentle Flow Arising upwards from the Rock below, The Palace moats, and o'er the Pebbles creeps,
And with foft Murmurs calls the coming Sleeps.
Around its Entry nodding Poppies grow,
And all cool Simples that fweet Rest bestow:
Night from the Plants their sleepy Virtue drains,
And passing, sheds it on the silent Plains:
No Door there was th' unguarded House to keep,
On creaking Hinges turn'd, to break his Sleep.

But in the gloomy Court was rais'd a Bed, Stuff'd with black Plumes, and on an Ebon-Sted: Black was the Cov'ring too, where lay the God, And flept supine, his Limbs display'd abroad: About his Head fantastick Visions sly, Which various Images of things supply, And mock their Forms; the Leaves on Trees not more, Nor bearded Ears in Fields, nor Sands upon the Shore.

The Virgin ent'ring bright, indulg'd the Day
To the brown Cave, and brush'd the Dreams away:
The God disturb'd with this new Glare of Light,
Cast sudden on his Face, unseal'd his Sight,
And rais'd his tardy Head, which sunk again,
And sinking, on his Bosom knock'd his Chin;
At length shook off himself, and ask'd the Dame,
(And asking yawn'd) for what Intent she came.

To whom the Goddess thus: O sacred Rest,
Sweept pleasing Sleep, of all the Pow'rs the best!
O Peace of Mind, Repairer of Decay,
Whose Balms renew the Limbs to Labours of the Day,
Care shuns thy soft Approach, and sullen slies away!
Adorn a Dream, expressing human Form,
The Shape of him who suffer'd in the Storm,
And send it slitting to the Trachin Court,
The Wreck of wretched Ceyx to report:

Before

Before his Queen bid the pale Spectre Rand,
Who begs a vain Relief at Juno's Hand.
She faid, and scarce awake her Eyes could keep,
Unable to support the Fumes of Sleep;
But fled, returning by the Way she went,
And swerv'd along her Bow with swift Ascent.

The God, uneafy 'till he slept again, Refolv'd at once to rid himself of Pain; And, tho' against his Custom, call'd aloud, Exciting Morpheus from the fleepy Crowd: Morpheus, of all his num'rous Train, express'd The Shape of Man, and imitated best; The Walk, the Words, the Gesture could supply, The Habit mimick, and the Mein bely; Plays well, but all his Action is confin'd, Extending not beyond our human Kind. Another, Birds, and Beafts, and Dragons apes, And dreadful Images, and Monster Shapes: This Demon, Icelos, in Heav'n's high Hall The Gods have nam'd; but Men Phobetor call. A third is Phantasus, whose Actions rowl On meaner Thoughts, and Things devoid of Soul; Earth, Fruits, and Flow'rs he represents in Dreams, And folid Rocks unmov'd, and running Streams. These three to Kings and Chiefs their Scenes display, The rest before th' ignoble Commons play. Of these the chosen Morpheus is dispatch'd; Which done, the lazy Monarch, over-watch'd, Down from his propping Elbow drops his Head, Diffolv'd in Sleep, and shrinks within his Bed.

Darkling the Demon glides, for Flight prepar'd, So foft, that scarce his fanning Wings are heard. To Trachin, fwift as Thought, the flitting Shade,
Thro' Air his momentary Journey made:
Then lays aside the Steerage of his Wings,
Forsakes his proper Form, assumes the King's;
And pale, as Death despoil'd of his Array,
Into the Queen's Apartment takes his way,
And stands before the Bed at Dawn of Day:
Unmov'd his Eyes, and wet his Beard appears;
And shedding vain, but seeming real Tears;
The briny Waters dropping from his Hairs.
Then staring on her with a ghastly Look,
And hollow Voice, he thus the Queen bespoke.

Know'st thou not me? Not yet, unhappy Wife?

Or are my Features perish'd with my Life?

Look once again, and for thy Husband lost,

Eo all that's lest of him, thy Husband's Ghost!

Thy Vows for my Return were all in vain,

The stormy South o'ertook us in the Main,

And never shalt thou see thy living Lord again.

Bear witness, Heav'n, I call'd on thee in Death,

And while I call'd, a Billow stop'd my Breath.

Think not, that slying Fame reports my Fate;

I present, I appear, and my own Wreck relate.

Rife, wretched Widow, rise; nor undeplor'd

Permit my Soul to pass the Stygian Ford;

But rise, prepar'd in Black, to mourn thy perish'd Lord.

Thus faid the Player-God; and adding Art
Of Voice and Gesture, so perform'd his Part,
She thought (so like her Love the Shade appears)
That Ceyx spake the Words, and Ceyx shed the Tears;
She groan'd, her inward Soul with Grief oppress,
She sigh'd, she wept, and sleeping beat her Breast;

Then

200 Ovid's Metamorphoses. Book XI.

Then stretch'd her Arms t'embrace his Body bare; Her clasping Arms inclose but empty Air: At this, not yet awake, she cry'd, O stay; One is our Fate, and common is our Way!

So dreadful was the Dream, so loud she spoke,
That starting sudden up, the Slumber broke:
Then cast her Eyes around, in hope to view
Her vanish'd Lord, and find the Vision true:
For now the Maids, who waited her Commands,
Ran in with lighted Tapers in their Hands.
Tir'd with the Search, not finding what she seeks,
With cruel Blows she pounds her blubber'd Cheeks;
Then from her beaten Breast the Linnen tare,
And cut the golden Caul that bound her Hair.
Her Nurse demands the Cause; with louder Cries
She prosecutes her Griess, and thus replies.

No more Alcyone; she suffer'd Death With her lov'd Lord, when Ceyx lost his Breath: No Flatt'ry, no false Comfort, give me none, My shipwreck'd Ceyx is for ever gone: I faw, I faw him manifest in View, His Voice, his Figure, and his Gestures knew: His Lustre lost, and ev'ry living Grace, Yet I retain'd the Features of his Face; Tho' with pale Cheeks, wet Beard, and dropping Hair, None but my Ceyx could appear so fair: I would have strain'd him with a strict Embrace, But thro' my Arms he flipt, and vanish'd from the Place: There, ev'n just there he stood. And as she spoke, Where last the Spectre was she cast her Look: Fain would she hope, and gaz'd upon the Ground, If any printed Footsleps might be found.

Then

Then figh'd, and faid; This I too well foreknew, And my prophetick Fears presag'd too true: 'Twas what I begg'd, when with a bleeding Heart I took my Leave, and fuffer'd thee to part; Or I to go along, or Thou to stay, Never, ah never to divide our Way! Happier for me, that all our Hours affign'd Together we had liv'd; ev'n not in Death disjoin'd! So had my Ceyx still been living here, Or with my Ceyx I had perish'd there: Now I die absent, in the vast Profound; And Me, without my Self, the Seas have drown'd. The Storms were not fo cruel: should I strive To lengthen Life, and fuch a Grief furvive; But neither will I strive, nor wretched Thee In Death forfake, but keep thee Company. If not one common Sepulchre contains Our Bodies, or one Urn our last Remains, Yet Ceyx and Alcyone shall join, Their Names remember'd in one common Line.

No farther Voice her mighty Grief affords,
For Sighs come rushing in betwixt her Words,
And stop'd her Tongue; but what her Tongue deny'd,
Soft Tears, and Groans, and dumb Complaints supply'd.

'Twas Morning; to the Port she takes her way,
And stands upon the Margin of the Sea:
That Place, that very Spot of Ground she sought,
Or thither by her Destiny was brought,
Where last he stood: And while she sadly said,
'Twas here he left me, ling'ring here delay'd
His parting Kiss, and there his Anchors weigh'd.

Thus fpeaking, while her Thoughts past Actions trace, And call to Mind, admonish'd by the Place,

Sharp

Sharp at her utmost Ken she cast her Eyes, And somewhat floating from afar descries: It seems a Corpse a-drift to distant Sight, But at a Distance who could judge aright? It wafted nearer yet, and then she knew, That what before she but surmis'd, was true: A Corpse it was, but whose it was, unknown, Yet mov'd, howe'er, she made the Cause her own Took the bad Omen of a shipwreck'd Man, As for a Stranger wept, and thus began.

Poor Wretch, on stormy Seas to lose thy Life, Unhappy thou, but more thy widow'd Wife! At this she paus'd: for now the flowing Tide Had brought the Body nearer to the Side: The more she looks, the more her Fears increase, At nearer Sight; and she's herself the less: Now driv'n ashore, and at her Feet it lies; She knows too much in knowing whom she sees; Her Husband's Corpse; at this she loudly shrieks, 'Tis he, 'tis he, she cries, and tears her Cheeks, Her Hair, and Vest; and stooping to the Sands, About his Neck she cast her trembling Hands.

And is it thus, O dearer than my Life, Thus, thus return'st Thou to thy longing Wife! She faid, and to the neighbouring Mole she strode, (Rais'd there to break th' Incursions of the Flood;)

Headlong from hence to plunge her felf she springs, But shoots along, supported on her Wings; A Bird new-made, about the Banks she plies, Not far from Shore, and short Excursions tries; Nor feeks in Air her humble Flight to raife, Content to skim the Surface of the Seas:

Book XI. Ovid's Metamorphoses.

Her Bill tho' flender, fends a creaking Noise, And imitates a lamentable Voice. Now lighting where the bloodless Body lies, She with a Fun'ral Note renews her Cries: At all her Stretch, her little Wings she spread, And with her feather'd Arms embrac'd the Dead: Then flick'ring to his palid Lips, she strove To print a Kiss, the last Essay of Love.

Whether the vital Touch reviv'd the Dead, Or that the moving Waters rais'd his Head To meet the Kiss, the Vulgar doubt alone: For sure a present Miracle was shown. The Gods their Shapes to Winter-Birds translate, But both obnoxious to their former Fate. Their conjugal Affection still is try'd, And still the mournful Race is multiply'd: They bill, they tread; Alcyone compress'd, Sev'n Days fits brooding on her floating Nest: A wintry Queen: Her Sire at length is kind, Calms every Storm, and hushes ev'ry Wind; Prepares his Empire for his Daughter's Eafe, And for his hatching Nephews fmooths the Seas.

Æsacus transform'd into a Cormorant.

These some old Man sees wanton in the Air, And praises the unhappy constant Pair. Then to his Friend the long-neck'd Corm'rant shows, The former Tale reviving others Woes: That fable Bird, he cries, which cuts the Flood With slender Legs, was once of Royal Blood; His Ancestors from mighty Tros proceed, The brave Laomedon, and Ganymede, (Whofe

(Whose Beauty tempted Jove to steal the Boy) And Priam, hapless Prince! who fell with Troy: Himself was Hestor's Brother, and (had Fate But giv'n this hopeful Youth a longer Date) Perhaps had rival'd warlike Hector's Worth, Tho' on the Mother's Side of meaner Birth; Fair Alyxothoe, a Country Maid, Bare Æfacus by flealth in Ida's Shade. He fled the noify Town, and pompous Court, Lov'd the lone Hills, and simple rural Sport, And feldom to the City would refort. Yet he no rustick Clownishness profest, Nor was foft Love a Stranger to his Breaft: The Youth had long the Nymph Hesperie woo'd, Oft thro' the Thicket, or the Mead pursu'd: Her haply on her Father's Bank he fpy'd, While fearless she her filver Tresses dry'd; Away she fled: Not Stags with half such Speed, Before the prowling Wolf, scud o'er the Mead; Not Ducks, when they the fafer Flood forfake, Pursu'd by Hawks, so swift regain the Lake. As fast he follow'd in the hot Career; Defire the Lover wing'd, the Virgin Fear. A Snake unseen now pierc'd her heedless Foot; Quick thro' the Veins the venom'd Juices shoot: She fell, and 'scap'd by Death his fierce Pursuit: Her lifeless Body, frighted, he embrac'd, And cry'd, Not this I dreaded, but thy Haste: O had my Love been less, or less thy Fear! The Victory, thus bought, is far too dear. Accurfed Snake! yet I more curs'd than he! He gave the Wound; the Caufe was given by me.

Yet none shall fay, that unreveng'd you dy'd. He spoke; then climb'd a Cliff's o'er-hanging Side, And, resolute, leap'd on the foaming Tide. Tethys receiv'd him gently on the Wave; The Death he fought deny'd, and Feathers gave. Debarr'd the surest Remedy of Grief, And forc'd to live, he curst th' unask'd Relief. Then on his airy Pinions upwards flies, And at a fecond Fall fuccessless tries; The downy Plume a quick Descent denies. Enrag'd, he often dives beneath the Wave, And there in vain expects to find a Grave. His ceaseless Sorrow for th' unhappy Maid, Meager'd his Look, and on his Spirits prey'd. Still near the founding Deep he lives; his Name From frequent Diving and Emerging came.

OVID's

METAMORPHOSES.

BOOK XII.

Translated by Mr. DRYDEN.

The TROJAN War.

RIAM, to whom the Story was unknown,
As dead, deplor'd his Metamorphos'd Son:
A Cenotaph his Name, and Title kept,
And Hector round the Tomb, with all his Brothers, wept.

This pious Office Paris did not share,
Absent alone; and Author of the War,
Which, for the Spartan Queen, the Grecians drew
T' avenge the Rape; and Asia to subdue.

A thousand Ships were mann'd, to sail the Sea: Nor had their just Resentments sound Delay, Had not the Winds, and Waves oppos'd their Way.

At

At Aulis, with United Pow'rs they meet, But there, Cross-winds or Calms detain'd the Fleet. Now, while they raise an Altar on the Shore, And Jove with folemn Sacrifice adore; A boding Sign the Priests and People see: A Snake of Size immense ascends a Tree, And, in the leaste Summit, spy'd a Nest, Which o'er her Callow Young, a Sparrow press'd. Eight were the Birds unfledg'd; their Mother flew. And hover'd round her Care; but still in view: 'Till the fierce Reptile first devour'd the Brood, Then feiz'd the flutt'ring Dam, and drunk her Blood. This dire Oftent, the fearful People view; Calchas alone, by Phæbus taught, foreknew What Heav'n decreed; and with a fmiling Glance, Thus gratulates to Greece her happy Chance.. O Argives, we shall conquer: Troy is ours, But long Delays shall first afflict our Pow'rs: Nine Years of Labour, the nine Birds portend; The Tenth shall in the Town's Destruction end.

The Serpent, who his Maw obscene had fill'd,. The Branches in his curl'd Embraces held:
But, as in Spires he stood, he turn'd to Stone:
The stony Snake retain'd the Figure still his own.

Yet, not for this, the Wind-bound Navy weigh'd; Slack were their Sails; and Neptune difobey'd. Some thought him loth the Town should be destroy'd. Whose Building had his Hands Divine employ'd: Not so the Seer; who knew, and known foreshow'd. The Virgin Phabe, with a Virgin's Blood Must first be reconcil'd: The common Cause Prevail'd; and Pity yielded to the Laws:

Book XII. Ovid's Metamorphofes.

Fair Iphigenia the devoted Maid
Was, by the weeping Priests, in Linnen-Robes array'd;
All mourn her Fate; but no Relief appear'd;
The Royal Victim bound, the Knife already rear'd:
When that offended Pow'r, who caus'd their Woe,
Relenting ceas'd her Wrath; and stop'd the coming Blow.
A Mist before the Ministers she cast,
And, in the Virgin's Room, a Hind she plac'd.
Th' Oblation slain, and Phæbe reconcil'd,
The Storm was hush'd, and dimpled Ocean smil'd:
A favourable Gale arose from Shore,
Which to the Port desir'd, the Græcian Gallies bore.

The House of FAME.

Full in the midst of this created Space, Betwixt Heav'n, Earth, and Skies, there stands a Place, Confining on all three, with triple Bound; Whence all Things, tho' remote, are view'd around; And thither bring their undulating Sound. The Palace of loud Fame, her feat of Pow'r, Plac'd on the Summit of a lofty Tow'r; A thousand winding Entries long and wide, Receive of fresh Reports a flowing Tide. A thousand Crannies in the Walls are made; Nor Gate, nor Bars exclude the bufie Trade. 'Tis built of Brass, the better to diffuse The spreading Sounds, and multiply the News: Where Eccho's in repeated Eccho's play: A Mart for ever full, and open Night and Day. Nor Silence is within, nor Voice express, But a deaf Noise of Sounds, that never cease. Confus'd, and chiding, like the hollow Roar Of Tides, receding from th' infulted Shore.

Carla de la Contraction de la

Or like the broken Thunder heard from far,
When Jove at distance drives the rolling War.
The Courts are fill'd with a tumultuous Din
Of Crouds, or issuing forth, or entring in:
A thorough-fare of News: Where some devise
Things never heard, some mingle Truth with Lies;
The troubled Air with empty Sounds they beat,
Intent to hear, and eager to repeat.
Error sits brooding there, with added Train
Of vain Credulity, and Joys as vain:
Suspicion, with Sedition join'd, are near,
And Rumours rais'd, and Murmurs mix'd, and Panique
Fame sits alost, and sees the subject Ground,
And Seas about, and Skies above; enquiring all around.

The Goddess gives th' Alarm; and soon is known
The Grecian Fleet descending on the Town.
Fix'd on Desence, the Trojans are not slow
To guard their Shore, from an expected Foe.
They meet in Fight: By Hettor's fatal Hand
Protesilaus falls, and bites the Strand:
Which with Expence of Blood the Grecians won;
And prov'd the Strength unknown of Priam's Son.
And to their Cost the Trojan Leaders selt
The Grecian Heroes; and what Deaths they dealt.

The Story of CYGNUS.

From these sirst Onsets, the Sigman Shore
Was strew'd with Carcasses, and stain'd with Gore:
Neptunian Cygnus Troops of Greeks had slain;
Achilles in his Carr had scour'd the Plain,
And clear'd the Trojan Rank's: Where-e'r he fought,
Cygnus, or Hedor, through the Fields he sought:

Cygnus he found; on him his Force essay'd: For Hestor was to the tenth Year delay'd. His white-main'd Steeds, that bow'd beneath the Yoke, He chear'd to Courage, with a gentle Stroke; Then urg'd his fiery Chariot on the Foe; And rifing shook his Lance; in act to throw. But first he cry'd, O Youth, be proud to bear Thy Death, ennobled by Pelides' Spear. The Lance pursu'd the Voice without delay, Nor did the whizzing Weapon miss the way; But pierc'd his Cuirass, with such Fury sent, And fign'd his Bosom with a purple Dint. At this the Seed of Neptune: Goddess-born, For Ornament, not Use, these Arms are worn; This Helm, and heavy Buckler, I can spare; As only Decorations of the War: So Mars is arm'd for Glory, not for Need, 'Tis somewhat more from Neptune to proceed, Than from a Daughter of the Sea to spring: Thy Sire is Mortal; mine is Ocean's King. Secure of Death, I shou'd contemn thy Dart, Tho' naked; and impassible depart. He faid, and threw: The trembling Weapon pass'd Through nine Bull-hides, each under other plac'd, On his broad Shield; and fluck within the laft. Achilles wrench'd it out; and fent again The hostile Gift: The hostile Gift was vain. He try'd a third, a tough well-chosen Spear; Th' inviolable Body flood fincere, Though Cygnus then did no Defence provide, But scornful offer'd his unshielded Side. Not otherwise th' impatient Hero far'd,

Than as a Bull incompass'd with a Guard,

Amid

Amid the Circus roars, provok'd from far
By fight of Scarlet, and a fanguine War:
They quit their Ground, his bended Horns elude;
In vain pursuing, and in vain pursu'd.

Before to farther Fight he wou'd advance, He flood confidering, and furvey'd his Lance; Doubts if he wielded not a wooden Spear Without a Point: He look'd, the Point was there. This is my Hand, and this my Lance, he faid; By which fo many thousand Foes are dead: O whither is their usual Virtue fled? I had it once; and the Lyrnessian Wall, And Tenedos, confess'd it in their Fall. Thy Streams, Caicus, roll'd a Crimfon-Flood; And Thebes ran red with her own Natives' Blood. Twice Telephus employ'd their piercing Steel, To wound him first, and afterward to heal. The Vigour of this Arm was never vain: And that my wonted Prowess I retain, Witness these Heaps of Slaughter on the Plain. He faid; and, doubtful of his former Deeds, To some new Tryal of his Force proceeds. He chose Menætes from among the rest: At him he launch'd his Spear, and pierc'd his Breaft: On the hard Earth the Lycian knock'd his Head, And lay supine; and forth the Spirit fled.

Then thus the Hero: Neither can I blame
The Hand, or Jav'lin; both are still the same.
The same I will employ against this Foe,
And wish but with the same Success to throw.
So spoke the Chief; and while he spoke he threw;
The Weapon with unerring Fury slew,

5

At his left Shoulder aim'd: Nor Entrance found;
But back, as from a Rock, with swift Rebound
Harmless return'd: A bloody Mark appear'd,
Which with false Joy the flatter'd Hero chear'd.
Wound there was none; the Blood that was in view,
The Lance before from flain Menætes drew.

Headlong he leaps from off his lofty Car,
And in close Fight on Foot renews the War.
Raging with high Disdain, repeats his Blows;
Nor Shield, nor Armour can their Force oppose;
Huge Cantlets of his Buckler strew the Ground,
And no Defence in his bor'd Arms is found,
But on his Flesh, no Wound or Blood is seen;
The Sword it self is blunted on the Skin.

This vain Attempt the Chief no longer bears: But round his hollow Temples and his Ears His Buckler beats: The Son of Neptue, flunn'd With these repeated Buffets, quits his Ground; A fickly Sweat fucceeds, and Shades of Night; Inverted Nature fwims before his Sight: Th' infulting Victor presses on the more, And treads the Steps the Vanquish'd trod before, Nor Rest, nor Respite gives. A Stone there lay Behind his trembling Foe, and stop'd his Way: Achilles took th' Advantage which he found, O'er-turn'd, and puth'd him backward on the Ground's His Buckler held him under, while he press'd, With both his Knees, above his panting Breaft. Unlac'd his Helm: About his Chin the Twift He ty'd; and foon the strangled Soul dismiss'd.

With eager Haste he went to strip the Dead: The vanish'd Body from his Arms was sled. 216 Ovid's Metamorphoses. Book XII.

His Sea-God Sire, t'immortalize his Frame, Had turn'd it to a Bird that bears his Name.

A Truce succeeds the Labours of this Day,
And Arms suspended with a long Delay,
While Trojan Walls are kept with Watch and Ward;
The Greeks before their Trenches mount the Guard;
The Feast approach'd; when to the blue-ey'd Maid
His Vows for Cygnus slain the Victor paid,
And a white Heiser on her Altar laid.
The reeking Entrails on the Fire they threw,
And to the Gods the grateful Odour slew.
Heav'n had its Part in Sacrifice: The rest
Was broil'd, and roasted for the future Feast.
The chief-invited Guests were set around!
And Hunger sirst assway'd, the Bowls were crown'd,
Which in deep Draughts their Cares, and Labours
drown'd.

The mellow Harp did not their Ears employ: And mute was all the Warlike Symphony: Discourse, the Food of Souls, was their Delight, And pleasing Chat prolong'd the Summer's-night. The Subject, Deeds of Arms; and Valour shown, Or on the Trojan Side, or on their own. Of Dangers undertaken, Fame atchiev'd, They talk'd by turns; the Talk by turns reliev'd. What things but these could fierce Achilles tell, Or what could fierce Achilles hear fo well? The last great Act perform'd, of Cygnus slain, Did most the Martial Audience entertain: Wondring to find a Body free by Fate From Steel; and which cou'd ev'n that Steel rebate: Amaz'd, their Admiration they renew; And scarce Pelides cou'd believe it true.

The Story of CENEUS.

Then Neftor thus: What once this Age has known, In fated Cygnus, and in him alone, These Eyes have seen in Caneus long before; Whose Body not a thousand Swords cou'd bore. Caneus, in Courage, and in Strength, excell'd; And still his Othry's with his Fame is fill'd: But what did most his Martial Deeds adorn, (Though fince he chang'd his Sex) a Woman born.

A Novelty fo strange, and full of Fate, and I have His lift'ning Audience ask'd him to relate. Achilles thus commands their common Sute: O Father, first for Prudence in Repute, and olls ain? Tell, with that Eloquence, fo much thy own; What thou half heard, or what of Coeneus known: What was he, whence his Change of Sex begun, a A What Trophies, join'd in Wars with thee, he won? Who conquer'd him, and in what fatal Strife The Youth, without a Wound, cou'd lose his Life?

Neleides then: Though tardy Age and Time, A Have shrunk my Sinews, and decay'd my Prime; M A Though much I have forgotten of my Store, ToT Yet not exhausted, I remember more of san off Of all that Arms atchiev'd, or Peace design'd, or M That Action still is fresher in my Mind, Than ought beside. If reverend Mge cam give a bad To Faith a Sanction, in my third I live.

'Twas in my fecond Cent'ry, I furvey'd Young Canis, then a fair Theffalian Maid: Ganis the bright, was born to high Command; A Princess, and a Native of thy Land,

Divine Achilles; every Tongue proclaim'd Her Beauty, and her Eyes all Hearts inflam'd. Peleus, thy Sire, perhaps had fought her Bed, Among the rest; but he had either led Thy Mother then; or was by Promise ty'd; But she to him, and all, alike her Love deny'd.

It was her Fortune once to take her Way Along the fandy Margin of the Sea: The Pow'r of Ocean view'd her as she pass'd. And, lov'd as foon as feen, by Force embrac'd. So Fame reports. Her Virgin-Treasure seiz'd, And his new Joys, the Ravisher so pleas'd, That thus, transported, to the Nymph he cry'd; Ask what thou wilt, no Pray'r shall be deny'd. This also Fame relates: The haughty Fair, Who not the Rape ev'n of a God cou'd bear, This Answer, proud, return'd; To mighty Wrongs A mighty Recompence, of right, belongs. Give me no more to fuffer fuch a Shame; But change the Woman, for a better Name; One Gift for all; She faid; and while she spoke, A stern, majestick, manly Tone she took. A Man she was: And as the Godhead swore, To Caneus turn'd; who Canis was before.

To this the Lover adds, without Request,
No force of Steel shou'd violate his Breast.
Glad of the Gift, the new-made Warrior goes;
And arms among the Greeks, and longs for equal Foes.

The Skirmish between the CENTAURS and LAPITHITES.

Now brave Perithous, bold Ixion's Son, The Love of fair Hippodame had won. The Cloud-begotten Race, half Men, half Beaft, Invited, came to grace the Nuptial Feaft: In a cool Cave's Recess the Treat was made, Whose Entrance, Trees with spreading Boughs o'er-shade. They fate: and summon'd by the Bridegroom, came, To mix with those, the Lapythæan Name: Nor wanted I: The Roofs with Joy refound: And Hymen, Io Hymen, rung around. Rais'd Altars shone with holy Fires; the Bride, Lovely herfelf (and lovely by her Side A Bevy of bright Nymphs, with fober Grace,) Came glitt'ring like a Star, and took her Place. Her Heav'nly Form beheld, all wish'd her Joy; And little wanted, but in vain, their Wishes all employ.

For One, most Brutal, of the Brutal Brood,
Or whether Wine, or Beauty sir'd his Blood,
Or both at once, beheld with lustful Eyes
The Bride; at once resolv'd to make his Prize.
Down went the Board; and fastning on her Hair,
He seiz'd with sudden Force the frighted Fair.
'Twas Eurytus began: His bestial Kind
His Crime pursu'd; and each as pleas'd his Mind,
Or her, whom Chance presented, took: The Feast
An Image of a taken Town express'd.

The Cave resounds with Female Shrieks; we rise, Mad with Revenge to make a swift Reprise:

And

And Theseus first, What Phrenzy has posses'd, O Eurytus he cry'd, thy brutal Breast, To wrong Perithous, and not him alone, But while I live, two Friends conjoin'd in one?

To justify his Threat, he thrusts aside The Crowd of Centaurs; and redeems the Bride: The Monster nought reply'd: For Words were vain, And Deeds cou'd only Deeds unjust maintain; But answers with his Hand, and forward press'd, With Blows redoubled, on his Face, and Breaft. An ample Goblet flood, of antick Mold, And rough with Figures of the rifing Gold; The Hero fnatch'd it up, and toss'd in Air Full at the Front of the foul Ravisher. He falls; and falling vomits forth a Flood Of Wine, and Foam, and Brains, and mingled Blood. Half roaring, and half neighing through the Hall, Arms, Arms, the double-form'd with Fury call; To wreak their Brother's Death: A Medley-Flight Of Bowls, and Jars, at first supply the Fight, Once Instruments of Feasts; but now of Fate; Wine animates their Rage, and arms their Hate.

Bold Amycus, from the robb'd Vestry brings
The Chalices of Heavin; and holy Things
Of precious Weight: a Sconce that hung on high,
With Tapers sill'd, to light the Sacristy,
Torn from the Cord, with his unhallow'd Hand
He threw amid the Lapythean Band.
On Celadon the Ruin sell; and lest
His Face of Feature, and of Form berest:
So, when some brawny Sacristeer knocks,
Before an Altar led, an offer'd Ox,

His Eye-balls rooted out, are thrown to Ground;
His Nose, dismantled, in his Mouth is found;
His Jaws, Cheeks, Front, one undistinguish'd Wound.

This, Belates, th' Avenger, cou'd not brook;
But, by the Foot, a Maple board he took;
And hurl'd at Amycus; his Chin it bent
Against his Chest, and down the Centaur sent:
Whom sputtring bloody Teeth, the second Blow
Of his drawn Sword, dispatch'd to Shades below.

On the Side-Altar, cens'd with facred Smoke,
And bright with flaming Fires; The Gods, he cry'd,
Have with their holy Trade our Hands supply'd:
Why use we not their Gifts? Then from the Floor
An Altar Stone he heav'd, with all the Load it bore:
Altar, and Altar's Freight together flew,
Where thickest throng'd the Lapythæan Crew:
And, at once, Broteas and Oryus slew.
Oryus' Mother, Mycalè, was known
Down from her Sphere to draw the lab'ring Moon!

This Fact, if Arms are found against the Foe.

He look'd about, where on a Pine were spread

The votive Horns of a Stag's branching Head:

At Grineus these he throws; so just they sly,

That the sharp Antlers stuck in either Eye:

Breathless, and blind he fell; with Blood besmear'd;

His Eye-balls beaten out, hung dangling on his Beard.

Fierce Rhætus, from the Hearth a burning Brand

Selects, and whirling waves; 'till, from his Hand,

The Fire took Flame; then dash'd it from the right,

On fair Charaxus' Temples, near the Sight:

The

The whistling Pest came on, and pierc'd the Bone, And caught the yellow Hair, that shrivel'd while it shone. Caught, like dry Stubble fir'd; or like Seerwood; Yet from the Wound enfu'd no Purple Flood; But look'd a bubbling Mass of frying Blood. His blazing Locks fent forth a crackling Sound; And hiss'd, like red hot Ir'n within the Smithy drown'd. The wounded Warrior shook his flaming Hair, Then (what a Team of Horse could hardly rear) He heaves the Threshold Stone, but could not throw; The Weight itself forbad the threaten'd Blow; Which dropping from his lifted Arms, came down Full on Cometes' Head; and crush'd his Crown. Nor Rhætus then retain'd his Joy; but said So by their Fellows may our Foes be sped; Then, with redoubled Strokes he plies his Head: The burning Lever not deludes his Pains: But drives the batter'd Skull within the Brains. Thus flush'd, the Conqueror, with Force renew'd,

Evagrus, Dryas, Corythus, pursu'd:
First, Corythus, with downy Cheeks, he slew;
Whose Fall, when sierce Evagrus had in view,
He cry'd, what Palm is from a beardless Prey?
Rhatus prevents what more he had to say;
And drove within his Mouth the si'ry Death,
Which enter'd hissing in, and choak'd his Breath.
At Dryas next he slew: But weary Chance,
No longer wou'd the same Success advance.
For while he whirl'd in siery Circles round
The Brand, a sharpen'd Stake strong Dryas found;
And in the Shoulder's Joint insticts the Wound.

The Weapon stuck; which, roaring out with Pain, He drew; nor longer durst the Fight maintain. But turn'd his Back, for Fear; and sled amain, With him sled Orneus, with like Dread posses'd; Thaumas, and Medon wounded in the Breast; And Mermeros, in the late Race renown'd, Now limping ran, and tardy with his Wound. Pholus, and Melaneus from Fight withdrew, And Abas maim'd, who Boars encountring slew: And Augur Astylos, whose Art in vain, From Fight dissuaded the four-footed Train, Now beat the Hoof with Nessus on the Plain; But to his Fellow cry'd, Be safely slow, Thy Death deferr'd is due to great Alcides' Bow.

Mean-time strong Dryas urg'd his Chance so well, That Lycidas, Areos, Imbreus fell; All, one by one, and fighting Face to Face: Crenæus fled, to fall with more Difgrace: For, fearful, while he look'd behind, he bore, Betwixt his Nose, and Front, the Blow before. Amid the Noise, and Tumult of the Fray, Snoring, and drunk with Wine, Aphidas lay. Ev'n when the Bowl within his Hand he kept, And on a Bear's rough Hide fecurely flept. Him Phorbas with his flying Dart transfix'd; Take thy next Draught, with Stygian Waters mix'd, And sleep thy fill, the insulting Victor cry'd; Surpriz'd with Death unfelt, the Centaur dy'd; The ruddy Vomit, as he breath'd his Soul, Repass'd his 'Throat, and fill'd his empty Bowl.

I faw Petræus' Arms employ'd around A well-groan Oak, to root it from the Ground.

This

This way, and that, he wrench'd the fibrous Bands; The Trunk, was like a Sappling, in his Hands, And still obey'd the Bent: While thus he stood, Perithous' Dart drove on; and nail'd him to the Wood; Lycus, and Chromis fell, by him oppress'd: Helops, and Dictis added to the rest A nobler Palm: Helops, through either Ear Transfix'd, receiv'd the penetrating Spear. This Dictis saw; and, seiz'd with sudden Fright, Leap headlong from the Hill of steepy height; And crush'd an Ash beneath, that cou'd not bear his Weight.

The shatter'd Tree receives his Fall; and strikes, Within his sull-blown Paunch, the sharpen'd Spikes. Strong Aphareus had heav'd a mighty Stone, The Fragment of a Rock; and wou'd have thrown; But Theseus, with a Club of harden'd Oak, The Cubit-bone of the bold Centaur broke; And left him maim'd nor seconded the Stroke. Then leapt on tall Bianor's Back: (Who bore No mortal Burden but his own, before) Press'd with his Knees his Sides; the double Man, His Speed with Spurs increas'd, unwilling ran. One Hand the Hero sasten'd on his Locks; His other ply'd him with repeated Strokes. The Club rung round his Ears, and batter'd Brows; He falls; and lashing up his Heels, his Rider throws.

The same Herculean Arms, Nedymnus wound; And lay by him Lycotas on the Ground. And Hippajus, whose Beard his Breast invades; And Ripheus, Haunter of the Woodland Shades: And Tereus, us'd with Mountain-Bears to strive, And from their Dens to draw th' indignant Beasts alive.

Demoleon

Book XII. Ovid's Metamorphoses.

Demeleon cou'd not bear this hateful Sight,

Or the long Fortune of th' Athenian Knight:

But pull'd with all his Force, to disengage

From Earth a Pine, the Product of an Age:

The Root stuck fast: The broken Trunk he sent

At Theseus; Theseus frustrates his Intent,

And leaps aside; by Pallas warn'd, the Blow

To shun: (for so he said; and we believ'd it so.)

Yet not in vain th' enormous Weight was cast;

Which Crantor's Body sunder'd at the Waist:

Thy Father's 'Squire, Achilles, and his Care;

Whom conquer'd in the Polopeian War,

Their King, his present Ruin to prevent,

A Pledge of Peace implor'd, to Peleus sent.

Thy Sire, with grieving Eyes, beheld his Fate; And cry'd, Not long, lov'd Crantor, shalt thou wait Thy vow'd Revenge. At once he faid, and threw His Ashen-Spear; which quiver'd, as it slew; With all his Force, and all his Soul apply'd; The sharp Point enter'd in the Centaur's Side: Both Hands, to wrench it out, the Monster join'd; And wrench'd it out; but left the Steel behind; Stuck in his Lungs it stood: Inrag'd he rears His Hoofs, and down to Ground thy Father bears. Thus trampled under Foot, his Shield defends & D.A. His Head; his other Hand the Lance portends. O Ev'n while he lay extended on the Dust, He fped the Centaur, with one fingle Thruft! For od Two more his Lance before transfix'd from far; And two, his Sword had flain, in closer War. To these was added Dorylas, who spread to be a A Bull's two goring Horns around his Head. With these he push'd; in Blood already dy'd,
Him searless, I approach'd; and thus defy'd:
Now, Monster, now, by Proof it shall appear.
Whether thy Horns are sharper, or my Spear.
At this, I threw: For want of other Ward,
He listed up his Hand, his Front to guard.
His Hand it pass'd; and fix'd it to his Brow:
Loud Shouts of ours attend the lucky Blow.
Him Peleus sinish'd, with a second Wound,
Which thro' the Navel pierc'd: He reel'd around;
And dragg'd his dangling Bowels on the Ground.
Trod what he drag'd; and what he trod, he crush'd:
And to his Mother-Earth, with empty Belly, rush'd.

The Story of CYLLARUS and HYLONOME.

Nor cou'd thy Form, O Cyllarus, foreslow Thy Fate; (if Form to Monsters Men allow:) Just bloom'd thy Beard: Thy Beard of golden Hue: 'Thy Locks, in golden Waves, about thy Shoulders flew. Sprightly thy Look: Thy Shapes in ev'ry Part So clean, as might instruct the Sculptor's Art; As far as Man extended: Where began The Beaft, the Beaft was equal to the Man. Add but a Horse's Head and Neck; and he, O Caftor, was a Courfer worthy thee. So was his Back proportion'd for the Seat: So rose his brawny Chest; so swiftly mov'd his Feet. Coal-black his Colour, but like Jett it shone; His Legs, and flowing Tail were white alone. Belov'd by many Maidens of his Kind; But Fair Hylonome posses'd his Mind;

Hylonome, for Features, and for Face, Excelling all the Nymphs of double Race: Nor less her Blandishments, than Beauty, move; At once both loving, and confessing Love. For him she dress'd: For him, with Female Care She comb'd, and fet in Curls, her auborn Hair. Of Roses, Violets, and Lillies mix'd, And Sprigs of flowing Rosemary betwixt, She form'd the Chaplet, that adorn'd her Front : In Waters of the Pegafæan Fount, And in the Streams that from the Fountain play, She wash'd her Face; and bath'd her twice a-day. The Scarf of Furs, that hung below her Side, Was Ermin, or the Panther's spotted Pride; Spoils of no common Beast: With equal Flame They lov'd: Their Silvan Pleafures were the fame: All Day they hunted: And when Day expir'd, Together to some shady Cave retir'd: Invited to the Nuptials, both repair: And, Side by Side, they both engage in War. Uncertain from what Hand, a flying Dart At Cyllarus was fent; which pierc'd his Heart. The Jav'lin drawn from out the mortal Wound, He faints with stagg'ring Steps; and seeks the Ground: The Fair within her Arms receiv'd his Fall, And strove his wand'ring Spirits to recall: And while her Hand the streaming Blood oppos'd, Join'd Face to Face, his Lips with hers she clos'd. Stifled with Kisses, a sweet Death he dies; She fills the Fields with undistinguish'd Cries; At least her Words were in her Clamour drown'd; For my flunn'd Ears receiv'd no vocal Sound. In L 6

In madness of her Grief, she seiz'd the Dart New-drawn, and reeking from her Lover's Heart; To her bare Bosom the sharp Point apply'd; And wounded fell; and falling by his Side, Embrac'd him in her Arms; and thus embracing dy'd.

Ev'n still methinks, I see Phaocomes; Strange was his Habit, and as odd his Drefs. Six Lions Hides with Thongs together fast, His upper Part defended to his Waist: And where Man ended, the continued Veft, Spread on his Back, the Houss and Trappings of a Beast. A Stump too heavy for a Team to draw, (It feems a Fable, tho' the Fact I faw;) He threw at Pholon; the descending Blow Divides the Skull, and cleaves his Head in two. The Brains, from Nose, and Mouth, and either Ear, Came issuing out, as through a Cullander The curdled Milk; or from the Press the Whey, Driv'n down by Weight above, is drain'd away.

But him, while stooping down to spoil the Slain, Pierc'd through the Paunch, I tumbled on the Plain. Then Chthonyus, and Teleboas I flew: A Fork the former arm'd; a Dart his Fellow threw. The Jav'lin wounded me; (behold the Scar, Then was my Time to feek the Trojan War; Then I was Hector's Match in open Field; But he was then unborn; at least a Child: Now, I am nothing.) I forbear to tell By Periphantas how Pyretus fell; The Centaur by the Knight: Nor will I stay On Amphix, or what Deaths he dealt that Day: What Honour, with a pointless Lance, he won, Stuck in the Front of a Four-footed Man.

What

What Fame young Macareus obtain'd in Fight:
Or dwell on Neffus, now return'd from Flight.
How Prophet Mopfus not alone divin'd,
Whose Valour equal'd his forseeing Mind.

CENEUS transform'd to an EAGLE.

Already Cæneus, with his conquering Hand,
Had flaughter'd five the boldest of their Band.

Pyrachmus, Helymus, Antimachus,
Bromus the Brave, and stronger Stiphelus,
Their Names I number'd, and remember well,
No Trace remaining, by what Wounds they fell.

Laitreus, the bulki'st of the double Race, Whom the spoil'd Arms of slain Halesus grace, In Years retaining still his Youthful Might, Though his black Hairs were interspers'd with White. Betwixt th' imbattled Ranks began to prance, Proud of his Helm, and Macedonian Lance: And rode the Ring around; that either Hoast Might hear him, while he made this empty Boast. And from a Strumpet shall we suffer Shame? For Canis still, not Caneus, is thy Name: And still the Native Softness of thy Kind Prevails; and leaves the Woman in thy Mind; Remember what thou wert; what Price was paid To change thy Sex; to make thee not a Maid: And but a Man in shew: Go, card and spin; And leave the Business of the War to Men.

While thus the Boaster exercis'd his Pride,
'The fatal Spear of Caneus reach'd his Side:
Just in the mixture of the Kinds it ran;
Betwixt the nether Beast, and upper Man:

The Monster mad with Rage, and stung with Smart, His Lance directed at the Hero's Heart: It ftruck; but bounded from his harden'd Breast, Like Hail from Tiles, which the fafe House invest. Nor feem'd the Stroke with more effect to come, Than a small Pebble falling on a Drum. He next his Fauchion try'd, in closer Fight; But the keen Fauchion had no Pow'r to bite. He thrust; the blunted Point return'd again: Since downright Blows, he cry'd, and Thrufts are vain, I'll prove his Side; in strong Embraces held He prov'd his Side; his Side the Sword repell'd: His hollow Belly eccho'd to the Stroke, Untouch'd his Body, as a folid Rock; Aim'd at his Neck at last, the Blade in Shivers broke. Th' Impaffive Knight stood Idle, to deride

Th' Impassive Knight stood Idle, to deride
His Rage, and offer'd oft his naked Side:
At length, Now Monster, in thy turn, he cry'd,
Try thou the Strength of Caneus: At the Word
He thrust: and in his Shoulder plung'd the Sword.
Then writh'd his Hand; and as he drove it down,
Deep in his Breast made many Wounds in one.

The Centaurs faw, inrag'd, th' unhop'd Success;
And rushing on in Crowds, together press;
At him, and him alone, their Darts they threw:
Repuls'd they from his fated Body slew.
Amaz'd they stood; 'till Monichus began,
O Shame, a Nation conquer'd by a Man!
A Woman-Man! yet more a Man is He,
Than all our Race, and What He was, are We.
Now, what avail our Nerves? th' united Force,
Of two the strongest Creatures, Man and Horse;

Nor

Nor Goddess-born; nor of Ixion's Seed We seem; (a Lover built for Juno's Bed;) Master'd by this half Man. Whole Mountains throw With Woods at once, and bury him below. This only way remains. Nor need we doubt To choak the Soul within; though not to force it out: Heap Weights, instead of Wounds. He chanc'd to see Where Southern Storms had rooted up a Tree; This, rais'd from Earth, against the Foe he threw; Th' Example shewn, his Fellow-Brutes pursue. With Forest-loads the Warrior they invade; Othrys, and Pelion foon were void of Shade: And spreading Groves were naked Mountains made. Press'd with the Burden, Caneus pants for Breath; And on his Shoulders bears the Wooden Death. To heave th' intolerable Weight he tries; At length it rose above his Mouth and Eyes: Yet still he heaves; and, struggling with Despair, Shakes all afide, and gains a gulp of Air: A short Relief, which but prolongs his Pain; He faints by Fits; and then respires again: At last, the Burden only nods above, As when an Earthquake stirs th' Idean Grove. Doubtful his Death: He fuffocated feem'd. To most; but otherwise our Mopsus deem'd. Who faid he faw a yellow Bird arise From out the Piles, and cleave the liquid Skies: I faw it too, with golden Feathers bright; Nor e'er before beheld so strange a Sight. Whom Mopfus viewing, as it foar'd around Our Troop, and heard the Pinions rattling Sound, All hail, he cry'd, thy Country's Grace and Love! Once first of Men below, now first of Birds above.

Its Author to the Story gave Belief:
For us, our Courage was increas'd by Grief:
Asham'd to see a single Man pursu'd
With odds, to sink beneath a Multitude,
We push'd the Foe: and forc'd to shameful Flight,
Part fell, and Part escap'd by Favour of the Night.

The Fate of PERICLYMENOS.

This Tale, by Nestor told, did much displease Tlepolemus, the Seed of Hercules:
For often he had heard his Father say,
That he himself was present at the Fray;
And more than shar'd the Glories of the Day.

Old Chronicle, he faid, among the rest,
You might have nam'd Alcides at the least:
Is he not worth your Praise? The Pylian Prince
Sigh'd ere he spoke; then made his proud Desence.
My former Woes in long Oblivion drown'd,
I wou'd have lost; but you renew the Wound:
Better to pass him o'er than to relate
The Cause I have your mighty Sire to hate.
His Fame has fill'd the World, and reach'd the Sky;
(Which, Oh, I wish, with Truth, I cou'd deny!)
We praise not Hector; though his Name, we know,
Is great in Arms; 'tis hard to praise a Foe.

He, your great Father, levell'd to the Ground Messenia's Tow'rs: Nor better Fortune found Elis, and Pylos; That a neighb'ring State, And This my own: Both guiltless of their Fate.

To pass the rest, twelve, wanting one, he slow; My Brethren, who their Birth from Neleus drew,

All Youths of early Promise, had they liv'd; By him they perish'd: I alone surviv'd. The rest were easie Conquest: But the Fate Of Periclymenos, is wondrous to relate. To him, our common Grandsire of the Main Had giv'n to change his Form, and chang'd, resume again. Vary'd at Pleasure, every Shape he try'd; And in all Beafts, Alcides still defy'd: Vanquish'd on Earth, at length he soar'd above; Chang'd to the Bird, that bears the Bolt of Jove: The new-diffembled Eagle, now endu'd With Beak, and Pounces, Hercules pursu'd, And cuff'd his manly Cheeks, and tore his Face; Then, safe retir'd, and tour'd in empty space. Alcides bore not long his flying Foe; But bending his inevitable Bow, Reach'd him in Air, suspended as he stood; And in his Pinion fix'd the feather'd Wood. Light was the Wound; but in the Sinew hung The Point, and his disabled Wing unstrung. He wheel'd in Air, and stretch'd his Vans in vain; His Vans no longer cou'd his Flight fustain: For while one gather'd Wind, one unfupply'd Hung drooping down, nor pois'd his other Side. He fell: The Shaft that flightly was impress'd, Now from his heavy Fall with weight increas'd, Drove through his Neck, aflant; he fpurns the Ground, And the Soul issues through the Weazon's Wound.

Now, brave Commander of the Rhodian Seas,
What Praise is due from me to Hercules?
Silence is all the Vengeance I decree
For my slain Brothers; but 'tis Peace with thee.

Thus with a flowing Tongue old Neftor spoke: Then, to full Bowls each other they provoke: At length with Weariness, and Wine oppress'd, They rise from Table; and withdraw to Rest.

The Death of ACHILLES.

The Sire of Cygnus, Monarch of the Main, Mean-time, laments his Son, in Battle flain, And vows the Victor's Death; nor vows in vain. For nine long Years the fmother'd Pain he bore; (Achilles was not ripe for Fate before:) Then when he faw the promis'd Hour was near, He thus bespoke the God that guides the Year. Immortal Offspring of my Brother Jove; My brightest Nephew, and whom best I love, Whose Hands were join'd with mine, to raise the Wall Of tott'ring Troy, now nodding to her Fall, Dost thou not mourn our Pow'r employ'd in vain; And the Defenders of our City flain? To pass the rest, could noble Hector lie Unpity'd, drag'd around his Native Troy? And yet the Murd'rer lives: Himself by far A greater Plague, than all the wasteful War: He lives; the proud Pelides lives, to boast Our Town destroy'd, our common Labour lost. O, could I meet him! But I wish too late: To prove my Trident is not in his Fate! But let him try (for that's allow'd) thy Dart, And pierce his only penetrable Part.

Apollo bows to the superior Throne; And to his Uncle's Anger, adds his own. Then in a Cloud involv'd, he takes his Flight, Where Greeks and Trojans mix'd in mortal Fight; And found out Paris, lurking where he flood,
And flain'd his Arrows with Plebeian Blood:
Phæbus to him alone the God confess'd,
Then to the recreant Knight, he thus address'd.
Dost thou not blush, to spend thy Shafts in vain
On a degenerate, and ignoble Train?
If Fame, or better Vengeance be thy Care,
There aim: And, with one Arrow, end the War.
He said; and shew'd from far the blazing Shield
And Sword, which, but Achilles, none could wield;
And how he mov'd a God, and mow'd the standing
Field.

The Deity himself directs aright 'Th' invenom'd Shaft; and wings the fatal Flight.

Thus fell the foremost of the Grecian Name;
And He, the base Adult'rer, boasts the Fame.
A Spectacle to glad the Trojan Train;
And please old Priam, after Hector slain.
If by a Female Hand he had foreseen
He was to die, his Wish had rather been
The Lance, and double Ax of the fair Warriour Queen.
And now the Terror of the Trojan Field

And now the Terror of the Trojan Field,
The Grecian Honour, Ornament, and Shield,
High on a Pile, th' Unconquer'd Chief is plac'd,
The God that arm'd him first, consum'd at last.
Of all the mighty Men, the small Remains
A little Urn, and scarcely fill'd, contains.
Yet great in Homer, still Achilles lives;
And equal to himself, himself survives.

His Buckler owns its former Lord; and brings New cause of Strife, betwixt contending Kings; Who worthi'st after him, his Sword to wield, Or wear his Armour, or sustain his Shield.

236 Ovid's Metamorphoses. Book XII.

Ev'n Diomede sat mute, with down-cast Eyes;
Conscious of wanted Worth to win the Prize:
Nor Menelaus presum'd these Arms to claim,
Nor He the King of Men, a greater Name.
'Two Rivals only rose: Laertes' Son,
And the vast Bulk of Ajax Telamon:
The King who cherish'd each with equal Love,
And from himself all Envy wou'd remove,
Lest both to be determin'd by the Laws;
And to the Gracian Chiefs transferr'd the Cause.

OVID'S

METAMORPHOSES. BOOK XIII.

Translated by Mr. DRYDEN, and Others.

The Speeches of AJAX and ULYSSES.

By Mr. DRYDEN.

HE Chiefs were fet; the Soldiers crown'd the Field:

To these the Master of the Seven-fold Shield

Upstarted sierce: And kindled with Disdain; Eager to speak, unable to contain
His boiling Rage, he rowl'd his Eyes around
The Shore, and Græcian Gallies hall'd a-ground.
Then stretching out his Hands, O Jove, he cry'd,
Must then our Cause before the Fleet be try'd?
And dares Ulysses for the Prize contend,
In sight of what he durst not once defend?

240 Ovid's Metamorphoses. Book XIII.

But basely fled that memorable Day, When I from Hettor's Hands redeem'd the flaming Prey. So much 'tis fafer at the noisie Bar With Words to flourish, than engage in War. By diff'rent Methods we maintain our Right, Nor am I made to talk, nor he to fight. In bloody Fields I labour to be great; His Arms are a smooth Tongue, and soft Deceit: Nor need I speak my Deeds, for those you see, The Sun, and Day are Witnesses for me. Let him who fights unseen, relate his own, And vouch the filent Stars, and conscious Moon. Great is the Prize demanded, I confess, But such an abject Rival makes it less; That Gift, those Honours, he but hop'd to gain, Can leave no room for Ajax to be vain: Loning he wins, because his Name will be Ennobled by Defeat who durft contend with me. Were my known Valour question'd, yet my Blood Without that Plea wou'd make my Title good: My Sire was Telamon, whose Arms, employ'd With Hercules, these Trojan Walls destroy'd; And who before with Jason sent from Greece, In the first Ship brought home the Golden Fleece. Great Telamon from Aacus derives His Birth (th' Inquifitor of guilty Lives In Shades below; where Sifiphus, whose Son This Thief is thought, rolls up the reftless heavy Stone: Just Æacus, the King of Gods above Begot: Thus Ajax is the third from Jove. Nor shou'd I seek Advantage from my Line, Unless (Achilles) it was mix'd with thine:

As next of Kin, Achilles' Arms I claim; This Fellow would ingraft a Foreign Name Upon our Stock, and the Sisyphian Seed

By Fraud, and Theft afferts his Father's Breed: Then must I lose these Arms, because I came To fight uncall'd, a voluntary Name, Nor shunn'd the Cause, but offer'd you my Aid? While he long lurking was to War betray'd: Forc'd to the Field he came, but in the Rear; And feign'd Distraction to conceal his Fear: 'Till one more cunning caught him in the Snare: (Ill for himself) and dragg'd him into War. Now let a Hero's Arms a Coward veft, And he who shunn'd all Honours, gain the best: And let me stand excluded from my Right, Robb'd of my Kinsman's Arms, who first appear'd in Fight. Better for us, at home had he remain'd, Had it been true the Madness which he feign'd, Or fo believ'd; the lefs had been our Shame, The less his counsell'd Crime, which brands the Grecian Nor Philocetetes had been left inclos'd [Name; In a bare Isle, to Wants and Pains expos'd, Where to the Rocks, with folitary Groans, His Suff'rings, and our Baseness he bemoans: And wishes (so may Heav'n his Wish fulfill) The due Reward to him, who caus'd his Ill. Now he, with us to Troy's Destruction sworn, Our Brother of the War, by whom are born Alcides' Arrows, pent in narrow Bounds, With Cold and Hunger pinch'd, and pain'd with Wounds, To find him Food and Cloathing, must employ Against the Birds the Shafts due to the Fate of Troy. VOL. II. M Yet 242 Ovid's Metamorphoses. Book XIII.

Yet fill he lives, and lives from Treason free, Because he left Ulysses' Company; Poor Palamede might wish, so void of Aid. Rather to have been left, than fo to Death betray'd. The Coward bore the Man immortal Spight, Who sham'd him out of Madness into Fight: Nor daring otherwise to vent his Hate, Accus'd him first of Treason to the State; And then for Proof produc'd the golden Store, Himself had hidden in his Tent before: Thus of two Champions he depriv'd our Host, By Exile one, and one by Treason lost. Thus fights Ulyffes, thus his Fame extends, A formidable Man, but to his Friends: Great, for what Greatness is in Words, and Sound, Ev'n faithful Nestor less in both is found: But that he might without a Rival reign, He left this faithful Neftor on the Plain; Forfook his Friend ev'n at his utmost Need, Who tir'd, and tardy with his wounded Steed, Cry'd out for Aid, and call'd him by his Name; But Cowardice has neither Ears nor Shame; Thus fled the good old Man, bereft of Aid, And, for as much as lay in him, betray'd: That this is not a Fable forg'd by me, Like one of his, an Uly fean Lie, I vouch ev'n Diomede, who tho' his Friend, Cannot that Act excuse, much less defend: He call'd him back aloud, and tax'd his Fear; And fure enough he heard, but durst not hear.

The Gods with equal Eyes on Mortals look, He justly was forsaken, who forsook: Wanted that Succour, he refus'd to lend, Found ev'ry Fellow fuch another Friend; No wonder, if he roar'd that all might hear; His Elocution was increas'd by Fear: I heard, I ran, I found him out of Breath, Pale, trembling, and half dead with fear of Death. Though he had judg'd himself by his own Laws, And flood condemn'd, I help'd the common Caufe: With my broad Buckler hid him from the Foe; (Ev'n the Shield trembled as he lay below;) And from impending Fate the Coward freed: Good Heav'n forgive me for so bad a Deed! If still he will perfist, and urge the Strife, First let him give me back his forfeit Life: Let him return to that opprobrious Field; Again creep under my protecting Shield : V Let him lie wounded, let the Foe be near, And let his quiv'ring Heart confess his Fear; There put him in the very Jaws of Fate: And let him plead his Cause in that Estate: And yet when fnatch'd from Death, when from below My lifted Shield I loos'd, and let him go; Good Heav'ns, how light he rose, with what a bound He sprung from Earth, forgetful of his Wound; How fresh, how eager then his Feet to ply; Who had not Strength to fland, had Speed to fly!

Hector came on, and brought the Gods along;
Fear feiz'd alike the feeble, and the strong:
Each Greek was an Ulysses; such a Dread
Th' Approach, and ev'n the Sound of Hector bred:
Him, slesh'd with Slaughter, and with Conquest crown'd,
I met, and overturn'd him to the Ground;

When after, matchless as he deem'd in Might, He challeng'd all our Hoft to fingle Fight; All Eyes were fix'd on me: The Lots were thrown; But for your Champion I was wish'd alone: Your Vows were heard; we fought, and neither yield: Yet I return'd unvanquish'd from the Field. With Jowe to Friend, th' infulting Trojan came, And menac'd us with Force, our Fleet with Flame. Was it the Strength of this Tongue-valiant Lord, In that black Hour, that fav'd you from the Sword? Dr was my Breast expos'd alone, to brave A thousand Swords, a thousand Ships to save? The Hopes of your return! And can you yield, For a fav'd Fleet, less than a single Shield? Think it no Boast, O Grecians, if I deem These arms want Ajax, more than Ajax them: Dr, I with them an equal Honour share; They honour'd to be worn, and I to wear. Will he compare my Courage with his Sleight? As well he may compare the Day with Night. Night is indeed the Province of his Reign: Yet all his dark Exploits no more contain Than a Spy taken, and a Sleeper flain; A Priest made Pris'ner, Pallas made a Prey: But none of all these Actions done by Day: Nor ought of these was done, and Diomede away. If on fuch petty Merits you confer Bo vast a Prize, let each his Portion share; Make a just Dividend; and if not all, The greater Part to Diomede will fall. But why for Ithacus fuch Arms as those, Who naked, and by Night invades his Foes?

The glitt'ring Helm by Moonlight will proclaim. The latent Robber, and prevent his Game: Nor cou'd he hold his tott'ring Head upright Beneath that Morion, or fustain the Weight; Nor that right Arm cou'd tofs the beamy Lance; Much less the left that ampler Shield advance; Pond'rous with precious Weight, and rough with Coffe Of the round World in rifing Goldemboss'd. That Orb would ill become his Hand to wield, And look as for the Gold he stole the Shield; Which, shou'd your Error on the Wretch bestow It would not frighten, but allure the Foe: Why asks he, what avails him not in Fight, And wou'd but cumber, and retard his Flight, In which his only Excellence is plac'd? You give him Death, that intercept his Haste: Add, that his own is yet a Maiden-Shield, Nor the least Dint has suffer'd in the Field, Guiltless of Fight: Mine batter'd, hew'd, and bor'd Worn out of Service, must forsake his Lord. What farther need of Words our Right to scan? My Arguments are Deeds, let Action speak the Mana Since from a Champion's Arms the Strife arose, Go cast the glorious Prize amid the Foes; Then fend us to redeem both Arms, and Shield And let him wear, who wins 'em in the Field. He faid: A Murmur from a Multitude,

Or fomewhat like a stissed Shout, ensu'd:
'Till from his Seat arose Laertes' Son,
Look'd down a while, and paus'd, e'er he begun;
Then, to th' expecting Audience, rais'd his Look,
And not without prepar'd Attention spoke:

M 3

Soft was his Tone, and fober was his Face; Action his Words, and Words his Actions grace.

If Heav'n, my Lords, had heard our common Pray're These Arms had caus'd no Quarrel for an Heir; Still great Achilles had his own posses'd, And we with great Achilles had been bless'd; But fince hard Fate, and Heav'n's fevere Decree, Have ravish'd him away from you, and me, (At this he figh'd, and wip'd his Eyes, and drew, Or feem'd to draw, fome Drops of kindly Dew) Who better can succeed Achilles loft, Than He, who gave Achilles to your Hoft? This only I request, that neither He day and and all May gain, by being what he feems to be, A stupid Thing; nor I may lose the Prize, By having Sense, which Heav'n to him denies: Since great or small, the Talent I enjoy'd land Was ever in the common Cause employ'd; Nor let my Wit, and wonted Eloquence, beautiful Which often has been us'd in your Defence, And in my own, this only time be brought To bear against my felf, and deem'd a Fault. Make not a Crime, where Nature made it none; For ev'ry Man may freely use his own. The Deeds of long-descended Ancestors Are but by Grace of Imputation ours, Theirs in Effect; but fince he draws his Line From Jove, and feems to plead a Right Divine; From Jove, like him, I claim my Pedigree: And am descended in the same Degree: My Sire Laertes was Arcefius' Heir, Arcesius was the Son of Jupiter:

No Parricide, no banish'd Man, is known In all my Line: Let him excuse his own. Hermes ennobles too my Mother's Side, By both my Parents to the Gods ally'd. But not because that on the Female Part My blood is better, dare I claim Defert, Or that my Sire from Parricide is free; But judge by Merit betwixt Him and Me: The Prize be to the best; provided yet That Ajax for a while his Kin forget, And his great Sire, and greater Uncle's Name, To fortify by them his feeble Claim: Be Kindred and Relation laid afide. And Honour's Cause by Laws of Honour try'd. For if he plead Proximity of Blood; That empty Title is with Ease withstood. Peleus, the Hero's Sire, more nigh than he, And Pyrrbus, his undoubted Progeny, Inherit first these Trophies of the Field: To Seyros, or to Pthio, fend the Shield: And Teucer has an Uncle's Right; yet he Waves his Pretensions, not contends with me.

Then fince the Cause on pure Desert is plac'd, Whence shall I take my rise, what reckon last?

I not presume on ev'ry Ast to dwell,
But take these sew, in order as they fell.

Thetis, who knew the Fates, apply'd her Care To keep Achilles in Difguise from War; And 'till the threatning Influence was past, A Woman's Habit on the Hero cast:

All Eyes were cozen'd by the borrow'd Vest, And Ajax (never wifer than the rest)

Found

Found no Pelides there: At length I came With proffer'd Wares to this pretended Dame; She, not discover'd by her Mien, or Voice, Betray'd her Manhood by her manly Choice; And while on Female Toys her Fellows look, Grasp'd in her Warlike Hand, a Javelin shook; Whom, by this Act reveal'd, I thus bespoke: O Goddess-born! resist not Heav'n's Decree, The Fall of Ilium is referv'd for thee; Then feiz'd him, and produc'd in open Light, Sent blushing to the Field the fatal Knight. Mine then are all his Actions of the War; Great Telephus was conquer'd by my Spear, And after cur'd: To me the Thebans owe, Lestos, and Tenedos, their Overthrow; Cyros and Cylia: Not on all to dwell, By me Lyrnesus, and strong Chrysa fell: And fince I fent the Man who Hector flew, To me the noble Hector's Death is due: Those Arms I put into his living Hand, Those Arms, Pelides dead, I now demand.

When Greece was injur'd in the Spartan Prince, And met at Aulis to avenge th' Offence, 'Twas a dead Calm, or adverse Blasts, that reign'd, And in the Port the Wind-bound Fleet detain'd: Bad figns were feen, and Oracles fevere Were daily thunder'd in our Gen'ral's Ear; That by his Daughter's Blood we must appease Diana's kindled Wrath, and free the Seas. Affection, Int'rest, Fame, his Heart assail'd: But soon the Father o'er the King prevail'd: Bold, on himself he took the pious Crime, As angry with the Gods, as they with him.

Book XIII. Ovid's Metamorphoses. 249

No Subject cou'd sustain their Sov'reign's Look,
'Till this hard Enterprize I undertook:
I only durst th' Imperial Pow'r controul,
And undermin'd the Parent in his Soul;
Forc'd him t' exert the King for common Good,
And pay our Ransom with his Daughter's Blood.
Never was Cause more difficult to plead,
Than where the Judge against himself decreed:
Yet this I won by dint of Argument;
The Wrongs his injur'd Brother underwent,
And his own Office, sham'd him to consent.

'Twas harder yet to move the Mother's Mind, And to this heavy Task was I design'd: Reasons against her Love I knew were vain; I circumvented whom I could not gain: Had Ajax been employ'd, our slacken'd Sails

Had still at Aulis waited happy Gales,

Arriv'd at Troy, your Choice was fix'd on me,
A fearless Envoy, fit for a bold Embassy:
Secure, I enter'd through the hostile Court,
Glitt'ring with Steel, and crowded with Resort:
There, in the midst of Arms, I plead our Cause,
Urge the foul Rape, and violated Laws;
Accuse the Foes, as Authors of the Strife,
Reproach the Ravisher, demand the Wife.
Priam, Antenor, and the wifer few,
I mov'd; but Paris, and his lawless Crew
Scarce held their Hands, and listed Swords; but stood
In act to quench their impious Thirst of Blood:
This Menelaus knows; expos'd to share
With me the rough Preludium of the War.

Endless it were to tell, what I have done, In Arms, or Council, since the Siege begun: ?

250 Ovid's Metamorphoses. Book XIII.

The first Encounter's past, the Foe repell'd,
They skulk'd within the Town, we kept the Field.
War seem'd asseep for nine long Years; at length
Both Sides resolv'd to push, we try'd our Strength.
Now what did Ajax, while our Arms took Breath,
Vers'd only in the gross mechanic Trade of Death?
If you require my Deeds, with ambush'd Arms
I trapp'd the Foe, or tir'd with false Alarms;
Secur'd the Ships, drew Lines along the Plain,
The Fainting chear'd, chastis'd the Rebel-train,
Provided Forage, our spent Arms renew'd; [pursu'd Employ'd at home, or sent abroad, the common Cause

The King, deluded in a Dream by Jove, Despair'd to take the Town, and order'd to remove. What Subject durst arraign the Pow'r Supream, Producing Jove to justify his Dream? Ajax might wish the Soldiers to retain From shameful Flight, but Wishes were in vain; As wanting of Effect had been his Words, Such as of Course his thundring Tongue affords, But did this Boaster threaten, did he pray, Or by his own Example urge their Stay? None, none of these: but ran himself away. I faw him run, and was asham'd to fee; Who ply'd his Feet fo fast to get aboard, as He! Then speeding through the Place, I made a stand, And loudly cry'd, O base degenerate Band, To leave a Town already in your Hand! After so long Expence of Blood, for Fame, To bring home nothing, but perpetual Shame! These Words, or what I have forgotten since, (For Grief inspir'd me then with Eloquence)

Reduc'd their Minds; they leave the crowded Port,
And to their late forfaken Camp refort:
Difmay'd the Council met: This man was there,
But mute, and not recover'd of his Fear:
Thersites tax'd the King, and loudly rail'd,
But his wide opening Mouth with Blows I seal'd.
Then, rising, I excite their Souls to Fame,
And kindle sleeping Virtue into Flame.
From thence, whatever he perform'd in Fight
Is justly mine, who drew him back from Flight.

Which of the Grecian Chiefs conforts with Thee? But Diomede desires my Company, And still communicates his Praise with me, As guided by a God, secure he goes, Arm'd with my Fellowship, amid the Foes: And sure no little Werit I may boast, Whom fuch a Man felects from fuch an Hoaft; Unforc'd by Lots I went without affright, with the A To dare with him the Dangers of the Night: On the same Errand sent, we met the Spy Of Hestor, double-tongu'd, and us'd to lie; Him I dispatch'd, but not 'till undermin'd, I drew him first to tell, what treach'rous Froy defign'd: My Task perform'd, with Praise I had retir'd, But not content with this, to greater Praise aspir'd: Invaded Rhelus, and his Thracian Crew, And him, and his, in their own Strength I flew; Return'd a Victor, all my Vows compleat, With the King's Chariot, in his Royal Seat: Refuse me now his Arms, whose sery Steeds Were promis'd to the Spy for his Nocturnal Deeds: Yet let dull Ajax bear away my Right, When all his Days out-balance this one Night, Nor M 6

252 Ovid's Metamorphoses. Book XIII.

Nor fought I Darkling still: The Sun beheld With slaughter'd Lycians when I strew'd the Field? You saw, and counted as I pass'd along, Alastor, Chromius, Ceranus the Strong, Alcander, Prytanis, and Halius, Neomon, Charopes, and Emomus; Coon, Chersidamas; and sive beside, Men of obscure Descent, but Courage try'd: All these this Hand laid breathless on the Ground; Nor want I Proofs of many a manly Wound: All honest, all before: Believe not me; Words may deceive, but credit what you see.

At this he bar'd his Breaft, and show'd his Scars, As of a furrow'd Field, well plow'd with Wars; Nor is this Part unexercis'd, faid he; That Giant-bulk of his from Wounds is free: Safe in his Shield he fears no Foe to try, And better manages his Blood, than I: But this avails me not; our Boaster strove Not with our Foes alone, but partial Jove, To fave the Fleet: this I confess is true, (Nor will I take from any Man his due:) But thus affuming all, he robs from you. Some part of Honour to your share will fall, He did the best indeed, but did not all. Patrocles in Achilles' Arms, and thought The Chief he feem'd, with equal Ardour fought; Preserv'd the Fleet, repell'd the raging Fire, And forc'd the fearful Trojans to retire.

But Ajax boasts, that he was only thought A Match for Hector, who the Combat sought: Sure he forgets the King, the Chiefs and Me: All were as eager for the Fight as He: He but the ninth, and not by publick Voice, Or ours preferr'd, was only Fortune's Choice: They fought; nor can our Hero boast th' Event, For Hestor from the Field unwounded went.

Why am I forc'd to name that fatal Day,
That fnatch'd the Prop and Pride of Greece away?
I faw Pelides fink, with pious Grief,
And ran in vain, alas! to his Relief;
For the brave Soul was fled: Full of my Friend
I rush'd amid the War, his Relicks to defend:
Nor ceas'd my Toil, 'till I redeem'd the Prey,
And, loaded with Achilles, march'd away:
Those Arms which on these Shoulders then I bore,
'Tis just you to these Shoulders should restore.
You see I want not Nerves, who could sustain
The pond'rous Ruins of so great a Man:
Or if in others equal Force you find,
None is endu'd with a more grateful Mind.

Did Thetis then, ambitious in her Care,
These Arms thus labour'd for her Son prepare;
That Ajax after him the heav'nly Gift shou'd wear!
For that dull Soul to stare with stupid Eyes,
On the learn'd unintelligible Prize!
What are to him the Sculptures of the Shield,
Heav'n's Planets, Earth, and Ocean's watry Field?
The Pleiads, Hyads; less, and greater Bear,
Undipp'd in Seas; Orion's angry Star;
Two diff'ring Cities, grav'd on either Hand;
Would he wear Arms he cannot understand?

Beside, what wise Objections he prepares Against my late Accession to the Wars? Does not the Fool perceive his Argument Is with more Force against Achilles bent? For if dissembling be so great a Crime,
The Fault is common, and the same in him:
And if he taxes both of long Delay,
My Guilt is less, who sooner came away.
His pious Mother, anxious for his Life,
Detain'd her Son; and me, my pious Wise.
To them the Blossoms of our Youth were due,
Our riper Manhood we reserv'd for you.
But grant me guilty, 'tis not much my Care,
When with so great a Man my Guilt I share:
My Wit to War the matchless Hero brought,
But by this Fool I never had been caught.

Nor need I wonder, that on me he threw Such foul Aspersions, when he spares not you: If Palamede unjustly fell by me,
Your Honour suffer'd in th' unjust Decree:
I but accus'd, you doom'd: And yet he dy'd,
Convinc'd of Treason, and was fairly try'd:
You heard not he was false; your Eyes beheld
The Traitor manifest; the Bribe reveal'd.

That Philoetetes is on Lemnos left,
Wounded, forlorn, of human Aid bereft,
Is not my Crime, or not my Crime alone;
Defend your Justice, for the Fact's your own:
'Tis true, th' Advice was mine; that staying there
He might his weary Limbs with Rest repair,
From a long Voyage free, and from a longer War.
He took the Counsel, and he lives at least;
Th' Event declares I counsell'd for the best:
Though Faith is all in Ministers of State;
For who can promise to be fortunate?
Now since his Arrows at the Fate of Troy,
Do not my Wit, or weak Address, employ;

Send Ajax there, with his perfuasive Sense,
To mollifie the Man, and draw him thence:
But Xanthus shall run backward; Ida stand
A leastes Mountain; and the Grecian Band
Shall sight for Troy; if, when my Councils fail,
The Wit of heavy Ajax can prevail.

Hard Philostetes, exercife thy Spleen
Against thy Fellows, and the King of Men;
Curse my devoted Head, above the rest,
And wish in Arms to meet me Breast to Breast:
Yet I the dang'rous Task will undertake,
And either die my self, or bring thee back.

Nor doubt the same Success, as when before The Phrygian Prophet to these Tents I bore, Surpriz'd by Night, and forc'd him to declare In what was plac'd the Fortune of the War, Heav'n's dark Decrees, and Answers to display, And how to take the Town, and where the Secret lay : Yet this I compass'd, and from Troy convey'd The fatal Image of their Guardian-Maid; That Work was mine; for Pallas, though our Friend, Yet while she was in Troy, did Troy defend. Now what has Ajax done, or what defign'd? A noify Nothing, and an empty Wind. If he be what he promises in Show, Why was I fent, and why fear'd he to go? Our boasting Champion thought the Task not light To pass the Guards, commit himself to Night; Not only through a hostile Town to pass, But scale, with steep Ascent, the sacred Place; With wand'ring Steps to fearch the Cittadel, And from the Priests their Patroness to steal:

256 Ovid's Metamorphoses. Book XIII.

Then through furrounding Foes to force my way, And bear in Triumph home the heav'nly Prey; Which had I not, Ajax in vain had held, Before that monst'rous Bulk, his fev'nfold Shield. That Night to conquer Troy I might be faid, When Troy was liable to Conquest made. Why point'st thou to my Partner of the War? Tylides had indeed a worthy Share In all my Toil, and Praise; but when thy Might Our Ships protected, did'ft thou fingly fight? All join'd, and thou of many wert but one; I ask'd no Friend, nor had, but him alone: Who, had he not been well affur'd, that Art, And Conduct were of War the better Part, And more avail'd than Strength, my valiant Friend Had urg'd a better Right, than Ajax can pretend: As good at least Eurypilus my claim, And the more mod'rate Ajax of the Name: The Cretan King, and his brave Charioteer, And Menelaus bold with Sword, and Spear: All these had been my Rivals in the Shield, And yet all these to my Pretensions yield. Thy boist'rous Hands are then of use, when I With this directing Head those Hands apply. Brawn without Brain is thine: My prudent Care Forefees, provides, administers the War: Thy Province is to Fight; but when shall be The time to Fight, the King consults with me: No Dram of Judgment with thy Force is join'd: Thy Body is of Profit, and my Mind. By how much more the Ship her Safety owes To him who steers, than him that only rows;

By how much more the Captain merits Praise,
Than he who fights, and fighting but obeys;
By so much greater is my Worth than thine,
Who canst but execute, what I design.
What gain'st thou, brutal Man, if I confess
Thy Strength superior, when thy Wit is less?
Mind is the Man: I claim my whole Desert,
From the Mind's Vigour, and th' immortal Part.

But you, O Grecian Chiefs, reward my Care, Be grateful to your Watchman of the War: For all my Labours in fo long a space, Sure I may plead a Title to your Grace: Enter the Town, I then unbarr'd the Gates, When I remov'd their tutelary Fates. By all our common Hopes, if Hopes they be Which I have now reduc'd to Certainty; By falling Troy, by yonder tott'ring Tow'rs, And by their taken Gods, which now are ours; Or if there yet a farther Task remains, To be perform'd by Prudence, or by Pains; If yet some desp'rate Action rests behind, That asks high Conduct, and a dauntless Mind; If ought be wanting to the Trojan Doom, Which none but I can manage, and o'ercome, Award, those Arms I ask, by your Decree: Or give to this, what you refuse to me.

He ceas'd: And ceafing with Respect he bow'd, And with his Hand at once the fatal Statue show'd. Heav'n, Air and Ocean rung, with loud Applause, And by the gen'ral Vote he gain'd his Cause. Thus Conduct won the Prize, when Courage fail'd, And Eloquence o'er brutal Force prevail'd.

The Death of AJAX.

He who cou'd often, and alone, withstand The Foe, the Fire, and Jove's own partial Hand, Now cannot his unmaster'd Grief sustain. But yields to Rage, to Madness, and Disdain; Then fnatching out his Fauchion, Thou, faid He, Art mine; Ulyffer lays no Claim to Thee. O often try'd, and ever-trufty Sword, Now do thy last kind Office to thy Lord: Tis Ajax who requests thy Aid, to show None but himself, himself cou'd overthrow: He faid, and with fo good a Will to die, Did to his Breast the fatal Point apply, It found his Heart, a Way 'till then unknown, Where never Weapon enter'd, but his own. No Hands cou'd force it thence, so fix'd it stood, 'Till out it rush'd, expell'd by Streams of spouting Blood. The fruitful Blood produc'd a Flow'r, which grew On a green Stem; and of a Purple Hue: Like his, whom unaware Apollo flew: Inscrib'd in both, the Letters are the same, But those express the Grief, and these the Name.

The Story of POLYXENA and HECUBA. By Mr. TEMPLE STANYAN.

The Victor with full Sails for Lemnos stood, (Once stain'd by Matrons with their Husbands Blood) Thence Great Alcides' fatal Shafts to bear, Assign'd to Philostetes' secret Care.

Thefe

These with their Guardian to the Greeks convey'd, Their ten Years Toil with wish'd Success repaid. With Troy old Priam falls: his Queen survives; 'Till all her Woes compleat, transform'd she grieves In borrow'd Sounds, nor with an human Face, Barking tremendous o'er the Plains of Thrace. Still Ilium's Flames their pointed Columns raife, And the red Hellespont reflects the Blaze. Shed on Jove's Altar are the poor Remains Of Blood, which trickl'd from old Priam's Veins. Cassandra lifts her Hands to Heav'n in vain, Drag'd by her facred Hair; the trembling Train Of Matrons to their burning Temples fly: There to their Gods for kind Protection cry; And to their Statues cling 'till forc'd away, The Victor Greeks bear th' invidious Prey. From those high Tow'rs Astyanax is thrown, Whence he was wont with Pleasure to look down, When oft his Mother with a fond Delight Pointed to view his Father's Rage in Fight, To win Renown, and guard his Country's Right.

The Winds now call to Sea; brisk Northern Gales Sing in the Shrowds, and court the spreading Sails. Farewel, dear Troy, the captive Matrons cry; Yes, We must leave Our long-lov'd native Sky. Then prostrate on the Shore they kiss the Sand, And quit the smoking Ruins of the Land.

Last Hecuba on board, sad Sight! appears; Found weeping o'er her Childrens Sepulchies: Drag'd by Ulysses from her slaughter'd Sons, Whilst yet she graspt their Tombs, and kist their moul-Yet Hector's Ashes from his Urn she bore, [dring Bones. And in her Bosom the sad Relique wore:

Then scatter'd on his Tomb her hoary Hairs, A poor Oblation mingled with her Tears.

Oppos'd to Illium lye the Thracian Plains,
Where Polymnester safe in Plenty reigns.
King Priam to his Care commits his Son,
Young Polydore, the chance of War to shun.
A wise Precaution! had not Gold, consign'd
For the Child's Use, debauch'd the Tyrant's Mind.
When sinking Troy to its last Period drew,
With impious Hands his Royal Charge he slew;
Then in the Sea the lifeless Coarse is thrown;
As with the Body he the Guilt could drown.

The Greeks now riding on the Thracian Shore, "Till kinder Gales invite, their Veffels moor. Here the wide-op'ning Earth to sudden View Disclos'd Achilles, Great as when he drew The vital Air, but fierce with proud Disdain, As when he sought Brises to regain; When stern Debate, and rash injurious Strife Unsheath'd his Sword, to reach Atrides' Life. And will ye go? he said, Is then the Name Of the once Great Achilles lost to Fame? Yet stay, ungrateful Greeks; nor let me sue In vain for Honours to my Manes due; For this just End, Polyxena I doom With Victim-Rites to grace my slighted Tomb.

The Phantom spoke; the ready Greeks obey'd, And to the Tomb led the devoted Maid Snatch'd from her Mother, who with pious Care. Cherish'd this last Relief of her Despair. Superior to her Sex, the fearless Maid Approach'd the Altar, and around survey'd

The cruel Rites, and confectated Knife,
Which Pyrrhus pointed at her guiltless Life;
Then, as with stern Amaze intent he stood,

- " Now strike, he said; now spill my gen'rous Blood;
- " Deep in my Breast, or Throat, your Dagger sheath,
- " Whilst thus I stand prepar'd to meet my Death.
- "For Life, on Terms of Slav'ry, I despise:
- "Yet fure no God approves this Sacrifice.
- "O! cou'd I but conceal this dire Event
- " From my fad Mother, I should die content.
- "Yet should she not with Tears my Death deplore,
- " Since her own wretched Life demands them more,
- " But let not the rude Touch of Man pollute
- " A virgin-Victim; 'tis a modest Suit.
- "It best will please, whoe'er demands my Blood,
- "That I untainted reach the Stygian Flood.
- "Yet let one short, last, dying Prayer be heard;
- "To Priam's Daughter pay this last Regard;
- "Tis Priam's Daughter, not a Captive, sues;
- " Do not the Rites of Sepulture refuse
- "To my afflicted Mother, I implore,
- " Free without Ransom my dead Corpse restore:
- " Nor barter me for Gain, when I am cold;
- "But be her Tears the Price, If I am fold;
- "Time was she could have ransom'd me with Gold.

Thus has she pray'd, one common Show'r of Tears Burst forth, and stream'd from ev'ry Eye but hers. Ev'n the Priest wept, and with a rude Remorse Plung'd in her Heart the Steel's resistless Force. Her slacken'd Limbs sunk gently to the Ground, Dauntless her Looks, unalter'd by the Wound. And as she fell, she strove with decent Pride To hide, what suits a Virgin's Care to hide.

The

The Trojan Matrons the pale Corpfe receive, And the whole flaughter'd Race of Priam grieve: Sad they recount the long difastrous Tale; Then with fresh Tears, Thee, Royal Maid, bewail; Thy widow'd Mother too, who flourish'd late The Royal Pride of Afia's happier State: A Captive Lot now to Ulyffes born; Whom yet the Victor would reject with Scorn, Were she not Hedor's Mother: Hedor's Fame Scarce can a Master for his Mother claim! With strict Embrace the lifeless Coarse she view'd : And her fresh Grief that Flood of Tears renew'd. With which she lately mourn'd so many dead; Tears for her Country, Sons, and Husband shed. With the thick gushing Stream she bath'd the Wound : Kiss'd her pale Lips; then weltring on the Ground, With wonted Rage her frantic Bosom tore; Sweeping her Hair amidst the clotted Gore; Whilst her fad Accents thus her Loss deplore. " Behold a Mother's last dear Pledge of Woe !

"Yes, 'tis the last I have to suffer now.

"Thou, my Polyxena, my Ills must crown:

" Already in thy Fate, I feel my own.

"Tis thus, left haply of my numerous Seed,

" One should unslaughter'd fall, even Thou must bleed:

66 And yet I hop'd thy Sex had been thy Guard;

" But neither has thy tender Sex been spar'd.

"The fame Achilles, by whose deadly Hate

"Thy Brothers fell, urg'd thy untimely Fate!

"The fame Achilles, whose destructive Rage

" Laid waste my Realms, has robb'd my childish Age.

When Paris' Shafts with Phabus' certain Aid

" At length had piere'd this dreaded Chief, I faid,

" Secure

- " Secure of future Ills, He can no more:
- " But see, he still pursues me as before.
- " With Rage rekindled his dead Ashes burn;
- " And his yet murd'ring Ghost my wretched House must
- "This Tyrant's Lust of Slaughter I have fed [mourn.
- " With large Supplies from my too-fruitful Bed,
- "Troy's Tow'rs lye waste; and the wide Ruin ends
- " The Publick Woe; but Me fresh Woe attends.
- "Troy still survives me; to none but me;
- " And from its Ills I never must be free.
- " I, who fo late had Power, and Wealth, and Ease,
- Bless'd with my Husband, and a large Encrease,
- " Must now in Poverty an Exile mourn;
- Ev'n from the Tombs of my dead Offspring torn :
- "Giv'n to Penelope, who proud of Spoil,
- " Allots me to the Loom's ungrateful Toil;
- " Points to her Dames, and crys with scorning Mein:
- " See Hector's Mother, and Great Priam's Queen!
- " And Thou, my Child, fole Hope of all that's loft,
- "Thou now art slain, to sooth this hostile Ghost.
- "Yes, my Child falls an Off'ring to my Foe:
- "Then what am I, who still survive this Woe?
- " Say, cruel Gods! for what new Scenes of Death
- " Must a poor aged Wretch prolong this hated Breath?
- " Troy fal'n, to whom could Priam happy feem?
- "Yet was he fo; and happy must I deem
- " His Death; for O! my Child, he faw not thine,
- "When he his Life did with his Troy refign. I had
- "Yet fure due Obsequies thy Tomb might grace:
- " And thou shalt sleep amidst thy kingly Race.
- Alas! my Child, fuch Fortune does not wait
- " Our Suffering House in this abandon'd State.

264 Ovid's Metamorphoses. Book XIII.

" A foreign Grave, and thy poor Mother's Tears

" Are all the Honours that attend thy Herse,

" All now is lost !- Yet no; One Comfort more

" Of Life remains, my much-lov'd Polydore,

" My youngest Hope: Here on this Coast he lives,

" Nurs'd by the Guardian-King, he still survives.

"Then let me hasten to the cleansing Flood,

46 And wash away these Stains of guiltless Blood. Strait to the Shore her feeble Steps repair With limping Pace, and torn dishevell'd Hair Silver'd with Age. "Give me an Urn, she cry'd, " To bear back Water from this swelling Tide; When on the Banks her Son in ghaftly Hue Tranfix'd with Thracian Arrows strikes her View. The Matrons shriek'd; her big-swoln Grief surpast The Pow'r of Utterance; she stood aghast; She had nor Speech, nor Tears to give Relief; Excess of Woe suppress'd the rising Grief. Lifeless as Stone, on Earth she fix'd her Eyes: And then look'd up to Heav'n with wild Surprise. Now she contemplates o'er with sad Delight Her Son's pale Vifage; then her aking Sight Dwells on his Wounds: She varys thus by turns, Till with collected Rage at length she burns, Wild as the Mother-Lion, when among The Haunts of Prey she seeks her ravish'd Young: Swift flies the Ravisher; she marks his Trace, And by the Print directs her anxious Chace. So Hecuba with mingled Grief, and Rage Pursues the King, regardless of her Age. She greets the Murd'rer with diffembled Joy Of fecret Treasure hoarded for her Boy.

The specious Tale th' unwary King betray'd. Fir'd with the Hopes of Prey: "Give quick, he said

"With foft enticing Speech, the promis'd Store:

"Whate'er you give, you give to Polydore.

"Your Son, by the immortal Gods I swear,

" Shall this with all your former Bounty share.

She stands attentive to his foothing Lyes,

And darts avenging Horror from her Eyes.

Then full Resentment fires her boiling Blood: She springs upon him, 'midst the Captive Crowd: (Her thirst of Vengeance want of Strength supplies:)

Fastens her forky Fingers in his Eyes;

Tears out the rooted Balls; her Rage pursues,

And in the hollow Orbs her Hand imbrews.

The Thracians, fir'd at this inhuman Scene,
With Darts, and Stones affail the frantick Queen.
She fnarls, and growls, nor in an human Tone;
Then bites impatient at the bounding Stone;
Extends her Jaws, as she her Voice would raise
To keen Invectives in her wonted Phrase;
But barks, and thence the yelping Brute betrays.
Still a sad Monument the Place remains,
And from this Monstrous Change its Name obtains:
Where she, in long Remembrance of her Ills,
With plaintive Howling the wide Desart fills.

Greeks, Trojans, Friends, and Foes, and Gods above Her num'rous Wrongs to just Compassion move. Ev'n Juno's self forgets her ancient Hate, And owns, she had deserv'd a milder Fate.

The Funeral of MEMNON.

By Mr. CROXALL.

Yet bright Aurora, partial as she was To Troy, and those that lov'd the Trojan Cause, Nor Troy, nor Hecuba can now bemoan, But weeps a fad Misfortune, more her own. Her Offspring Memnon, by Achilles slain, She saw extended on the Phrygian Plain: She faw, and strait the Purple Beams, that grace The rofy Morning, vanish'd from her Face; A deadly Pale her wonted Bloom invades, And veils the lowring Skies with mournful Shades. But when his Limbs upon the Pile were laid, The last kind Duty that by Friends is paid, His Mother to the Skies directs her Flight, Nor could fuffain to view the doleful Sight: But frantick, with her loofe neglected Hair, Hastens to Fove, and falls a Suppliant there. O King of Heav'n, O Father of the Skies, The weeping Goddess passionately cries, Tho' I the meanest of Immortals am, And fewest Temples celebrate my Fame, Yet still a Goddess, I presume to come Within the Verge of Your Etherial Dome: Yet still may plead some Merit, if my Light With Purple Dawn controuls the Pow'rs of Night; If from a Female Hand, that Virtue fprings, Which to the Gods, and Men fuch Pleasure brings. Yet I nor Honours feek, nor Rites Divine, Nor for more Altars, or more Fanes repine;

Oh! that such Tristes were the only Cause, From whence Aurora's Mind its Anguish draws! For Memnon lost, my dearest only Child, With weightier Grief my heavy Heart is sill'd; My Warrior Son! that liv'd but half his Time, Nipt in the Bud, and blasted in his Prime; Who for his Uncle early took the Field, And by Achilles' fatal Spear was kill'd. To whom but Jove shou'd I for Succour come? For Jove alone cou'd six his cruel Doom. O Sov'reign of the Gods, accept my Pray'r, Grant my Request, and sooth a Mother's Care; On the Deceas'd some solemn Boon bestow, To expiate the Loss, and ease my Woe.

Jove, with a Nod, comply'd with her Defire; Around the Body flam'd the Fun'ral Fire; The Pile decreas'd, that lately feem'd fo high, And Sheets of Smoak roll'dupward to the Sky: As humid Vapours from a marshy Bog, Rife by degrees, condensing into Fog, That intercept the Sun's enlivening Ray, And with a Cloud infect the chearful Day. The footy Ashes wasted by the Air, Whirl round, and thicken in a Body there; Then take a Form, which their own Heat, and Fire With active Life, and Energy inspire. Its Lightness makes it feem to fly, and soon It skims on real Wings, that are its own; A real Bird, it beats the breezy Wind, Mix'd with a thousand Sisters of the Kind, That, from the fame Formation newly fprung, Up-born aloft on plumy Pinions hung.

Nz

Thrice

Thrice round the Pile advanc'd the circling Throng, Thrice, with their Wings, a whizzing Confort rung. In the fourth Flight their Squadron they divide, Rank'd in two diff'rent Troops, on either Side: Then two, and two, inspir'd with martial Rage, From either Troop in equal Pairs engage. Each Combatant with Beak, and Pounces press'd, In wrathful Ire, his Adversary's Breast; Each falls a Victim, to preserve the Fame Of that great Hero, whence their Being came. From him their Courage, and their Name they take, And, as they liv'd, they die for Memnon's fake. Punctual to Time, whence each revolving Year, In fresh Array the Champion Birds appear; Again, prepar'd with vengeful Minds, they come To bleed, in Honour of the Soldier's Tomb.

Therefore in others it appear'd not strange, To grieve for Hecuba's unhappy Change: But poor Aurora had enough to do With her own Lofs, to mind another's Woe; Who still in Tears, her tender Nature shews, Besprinkling all the World with pearly Dews.

The VOYAGE of ENEAS. By Mr. CATCOTT.

Troy thus destroy'd, 'twas still deny'd by Fate, The Hopes of Troy should perish with the State. His Sire, the Son of Cytheria bore, And Houshold Gods from burning Ilium's Shore, The pious Prince (a double Duty paid) Each facred Burthen thro' the Flames convey'd.

Book XIII. Ovid's Metamorphofes.

With young Ascanius, and this only Prize, Of Heaps of Wealth, he from Antandros flies; But struck with Horror, left the Thracian Shore, Stain'd with the Blood of murder'd Polydore. The Delian Isle receives the banish'd Train, Driv'n by kind Gales, and favour'd by the Main.

Here pious Anius, Priest, and Monarch reign'd, And either Charge, with equal Care fustain'd, His Subjects rul'd, to Phæbus Homage pay'd, His God obeying, and by those obey'd.

The Priest displays his Hospitable Gate, And shows the Riches of his Church and State, The facred Shrubs, which eas'd Latona's Pain, The Palm, and Olive, and the votive Fane. Here grateful Flames with fuming Incense sed, And mingled Wine, ambrofial Odours shed; Of flaughter'd Steers the crackling Entrails burn'd: And then the Strangers to the Court return'd.

On beds of Tap'ftry plac'd aloft, they dine With Ceres' Gift, and flowing Bowls of Wine; When thus Anchises spoke, amidst the Feast, Say, mitred Monarch, Phæbus' chosen Priest, Or (e'er from Troy by cruel Fate expell'd) When first mine Eyes these sacred Walls beheld, A Son, and twice two Daughters crown'd thy Blifs? Or errs my Mem'ry, and I judge amis?

The Royal Prophet shook his hoary Head, With fnowy Fillets bound, and fighing, faid: Thy Mem'ry errs not, Prince; Thou faw'ft me then, The happy Father of fo large a Train; Behold me now, (fuch Turns of Chance befall The Race of Man!) almost bereft of all.

N 3

For (ah!) what Comfort can my Son bestow, What Help afford, to mitigate my Woe! While far from hence, in Andros' Isle he reigns, (From him so nam'd) and there my Place sustains. Him Delius Præscience gave; the twice-born God A Boon more wond'rous on the Maids bestow'd. Whate'er they touch'd, he gave them to transmute, (A gift past Credit, and above their Suit,) To Ceres, Bacchus, and Minerwa's Fruit, How great their Value, and how rich their Use, Whose only Touch such Treasures could produce!

The dire Destroyer of the Trojan Reign, Fierce Agamemnon, such a Prize to gain, (A Proof we also were defign'd by Fate To feel the Tempest, that o'erturn'd your State) With Force superior, and a Russian Crew, From these weak Arms, the helpless Virgins drew: And sternly bad them use the Grant Divine, To keep the Fleet in Corn, and Oil, and Wine. Each, as they could, escap'd: Two strove to gain Eubæa's Isle, and Two their Brother's Reign. The Soldier follows, and demands the Dames; If held by Force, immediate War proclaims. Fear conquer'd Nature in their Brother's Mind, And gave them up to Punishment assign'd. Forgive the Deed; nor Hector's Arm was there, Nor thine, Eneas, to maintain the War; Whose only Force upheld your Ilium's Tow'rs, For ten long Years, against the Grecian Pow'rs. Prepar'd to bind their Captive Arms in Bands, To Heav'n they rear'd their yet unfetter'd Hands : Help, Bacebas, Author of the Gift, they pray'd: The Gift's great Author gave immediate Aid;

If fuch Destruction of their human Frame
By Ways so wond'rous, may deserve the Name;
Nor could I hear, nor can I now relate
Exact, the manner of their alter'd State;
But this in gen'ral of my Loss I knew,
Transform'd to Doves, on milky Plumes they slew,
Such as on Ida's Mount thy Consort's Chariot drew.

With fuch Discourse, they entertain'd the Feast; Then rose from Table, and withdrew to Rest. The following Morn, ere Sol was seen to shine, Th' inquiring Trojans sought the sacred Shrine; The Mystick Pow'r commands them to explore Their ancient Mother, and a Kindred Shore. Attending to the Sea, the gen'rous Prince Dismiss'd his Guests with rich Muniscence: In old Anchises' Hand a Sceptre plac'd, A Vest, and Quiver young Ascanius grac'd, His Sire, a Cup; which from th' Aonian Coast, Ismenian Therses sent his Royal Host.

Alcon of Myle made what Therses sent, And carv'd thereon this ample Argument.

A Town with fev'n distinguish'd Gates was shewn, Which spoke its Name, and made the City known; Before it, Piles, and Tombs, and rising Flames, The Rites of Death, and Quires of morning Dames, Who bar'd their Breasts, and gave their Hair to slow, The Signs of Grief, and Marks of publick Woe. Their Fountains dry'd, the weeping Naiads mourn'd, The Trees stood bare, with searing Cankers burn'd; No Herbage cloath'd the Ground, a ragged Flock Of Goats half-samish'd, lick'd the naked Rock; Of manly Courage, and with Mind serene, Orion's Daughters in the Town were seen;

One

One heav'd her Chest to meet the lifted Knife, One plung'd the Poyniard thro' the Seat of Life, Their Country's Victims; mourns the rescu'd State, The Bodies burns, and celebrates their Fate. To fave the Failure of th' Illustrious Line, From the pale Ashes rose, of Form Divine, Two gen'rous Youths; these, Fame Goronæ calls, Who join the Pomp, and mourn their Mother's Falls.

These burnish'd Figures form'd of antique Mold, Shone on the Brass, with rising Sculpture bold; A Wreath of gilt Acanthus round the Brim was roll'd.

Nor less Expence the Trojan Gifts express'd; A fuming Cenfer for the Royal Priest, A Chalice, and a Crown of Princely Coft,

With ruddy Gold, and sparkling Gems emboss'd.

Now hoisting Sail, to Crete the Trojans stood, Themselves remembring sprung from Teucer's Blood; But Heav'n forbids, and pestilential Jove From noxious Skies the wand'ring Navy drove. Her hundred Cities left, from Crete they bore, And fought the destin'd Land, Ausonia's Shore; But toss'd by Storms at either Strophas lay, 'Till fcar'd by Harpies from the faithless Bay. Then passing onward with a prosp'rous Wind, Left fly Ulysses' spacious Realms behind; Ambracia's State, in former Ages known The Strife of Gods, the Judge transform'd to Stone They faw; for Actian Phabus fince renown'd, Who Cafar's Arms with Naval Conquest crown'd; Next pass'd Dodona, wont of old to boast Her vocal Forest; and Châonia's Coast, Where King Molossus' Sons on Wings aspir'd, And faw fecure the harmless Fewel fir'd.

Book XIII. Ovid's Metamorphoses.

Now to Phæacia's happy Isle they came,
For fertile Orchards known to early Fame;
Epirus past, they next beheld with Joy
A second Iliam, and sicilious Troy;
Here Trojan Helenus the Sceptre sway'd,
Who show'd their Fate, and Mystick Truths display'd.
By him consirm'd, Sicilia's Isle they reach'd,
Whose Sides to Sea three Promontories stretch'd;
Pachynos to the stormy South is plac'd,
On Lylibæum blows the gentle West,
Peloro's Cliss the Northern Bear survey,
Who rolls above, and dreads to touch the Sea.
By this they steer, and favour'd by the Tide,
Secure by Night in Zancle's Harbour ride.

Here cruel Scylla guards the rocky Shore,
And there the Waves of loud Charybdis roar:
This fucks, and vomits Ships, and Bodies drown'd;
And rav'nous Dogs the Womb of that furround,
In Face a Virgin; and (if ought be true
By Bards recorded) once a Virgin too.

A Train of Youths in vain desir'd her Bed; By Sea-Nymps lov'd, to Nymphs of Seas she sled; The Maid to these, with Female Pride, display'd Their bassled Courtship, and their Love betray'd.

When Galatea thus bespoke the Fair,
(But first she sigh'd) while Scylla comb'd her Hair;
You, lovely Maid, a gen'rous Race pursues,
Whom safe you may (as now you do) refuse;
To me, tho' pow'rful in a num'rous Train
Of Sisters, sprung from Gods, who rule the Main,
My native Seas could scarce a Resuge prove,
To shun the Fury of the Cyclop's Love.

Tears

274 Ovid's Metamorphoses. Book XIII.

Tears choak'd her Utt'rance here; the pity'ng Maid With Marble Fingers wip'd them off, and faid; My dearest Goddess, let thy Scylla know, (For I am faithful) whence these Sorrows slow. The Maid's Intreaties o'er the Nymph prevail, Who thus to Scylla tells the mournful Tale.

The Story of Acis, Polyphemus, and Galatea.

By Mr. DRYDEN.

Acis, the lovely Youth, whose Loss I mourn, From Faunus, and the Nymph Symethis born, Was both his Parents' Pleasure; but, to me Was all that Love could make a Lover be. The Gods our Minds in mutual Bands did join: I was his only Joy, and he was mine. Now fixteen Summers the fweet Youth had feen; And doubtful Down began to shade his Chin: When Polyphemus first disturb'd our Joy; And lov'd me fiercely, as I lov'd the Boy. Ask not which Passion in my Soul was high'r, My last Aversion, or my first Defire: Nor this the greater was, nor that the less; Both were alike, for both were in Excess. Thee, Venus, thee, both Heav'n, and Earth obey; Immense thy Pow'r, and boundless is thy Sway. The Cyclops, who defy'd th' Ætherial Throne, And thought no Thunder louder than his own, The Terror of the Woods, and wilder far Than Wolves in Plains, or Bears in Forests are,

Th'in-

Th' inhuman Hoft, who made his bloody Feafts
On mangl'd Members of his butcher'd Guefts,
Yet felt the force of Love, and fierce Defire,
And burnt for me, with unrelenting Fire.
Forgot his Caverns, and his woolly Care,
Affum'd the Softness of a Lover's Air;
And comb'd, with Teeth of Rakes, his rugged Hair.
Now with a crooked Scythe his Beard he fleeks;
And mows the stubborn Stubble of his Cheeks:
Now in the Crystal Stream he looks, to try
His Simagres, and rowls his glaring Eye.
His Cruelty, and Thirst of Blood are lost;
And Ships securely sail along the Coast.

The Prophet Telemus (arriv'd by chance
Where Ætna's Summits to the Seas advance,
Who mark'd the Tracts of every Bird that flew,
And fure Prefages from their flying drew)
Foretold the Cyclops, that Ulyffes' Hand
In his broad Eye shou'd thrust a flaming Brand.
The Giant, with a scornful Grin, reply'd,
Vain Augur, thou hast falsely prophesy'd;
Already Love his flaming Brand has tost;
Looking on two fair Eyes, my Sight I lost,
Thus, warn'd in vain, with stalking Pace he strode,
And stamp'd the Margin of the briny Flood
With heavy Steps; and weary, sought agen
The cool Retirement of his gloomy Den.

A Promontory, sharp'ning by degrees, Ends in a Wedge, and overlooks the Seas: On either Side, below, the Water slows: This airy Walk the Giant Lover chose. Here on the midst he sate; his Flocks unled, Their Shepherd follow'd, and securely sed.

N 6

A Pine fo burly, and of Length fo vaft, That failing Ships required it for a Mast. He weilded for a Staff, his Steps to guide: But laid it by, his Whistle while he try'd. A hundred Reeds of a prodigious Growth, Scarce made a Pipe, proportion'd to his Mouth: Which when he gave it Wind, the Rocks around, And wat'ry Plains, the dreadful Hiss resound. I heard the Ruffian-Shepherd rudely blow, Where, in a hollow Cave, I fat below; On Acis' Bosom I my Head reclin'd: And fill preserve the Poem in my Mind.

Oh lovely Galatea, whiter far Than falling Snows, and rifing Lillies are; More flow'ry than the Meads, as Crystal bright: Erect as Alders, and of equal Height: More wanton than a Kid, more fleek thy Skin, Than Orient Shells, that on the Shores are feen. Than Apples fairer, when the Boughs they lade; Pleasing, as Winter Suns, or Summer Shade: More grateful to the Sight, than goodly Plains; And fofter to the Touch, than Down of Swans; Or Curds new turn'd; and sweeter to the Tafte Than swelling Grapes, that to the Vintage haste: More clear than Ice, or running Streams, that stray Through Garden Plots, but ah! more swift than they.

Yet, Galatea, harder to be broke Than Bullocks, unreclaim'd, to bear the Yoke, And far more stubborn, than the knotted Oak; Like sliding Streams, impossible to hold; Like them, fallacious, like their Fountains, cold. More warping, than the Willow, to decline My warm Embrace, more brittle, than the Vine;

Immoveable

Immoveable, and fixt in thy Difdain:
Rough, as these Rocks, and of a harder Grain.
More violent, than is the rising Flood:
And the prais'd Peacock is not half so proud.
Fierce as the Fire, and sharp as Thistles are,
And more outrageous, than a Mother-Bear:
Deaf, as the Billows, to the Vows I make;
And more revengeful, than a trodden Snake.
In Swiftness fleeter, than the slying Hind,
Or driven Tempests, or the driving Wind.
All other Faults, with Patience I can bear;
But Swiftness is the Vice I only fear.

Yet if you knew me well, you wou'd not shun My Love, but to my wish'd Embraces run: Wou'd languish in your Turn, and court my Stay; And much repent of your unwise Delay.

My Palace, in the living Rock, is made By Nature's Hand; a spacious pleasing Shade: Which neither Heat can pierce, nor Cold invade. My Garden fill'd with Fruits you may behold, And Grapes in Clusters, imitating Gold; Some blushing Bunches of a Purple Hue: And these, and those, are all reserv'd for you. Red Strawberries, in Shades, expecting stand, Proud to be gather'd by fo white a Hand. Autumnal Cornels latter Fruit provide, And Plumbs, to tempt you, turn their gloffy Side: Not those of common Kinds; but such alone, As in Phæacian Orchards might have grown: Nor Chestnuts shall be wanting to your Food, Nor Garden-Fruits, nor Wildings of the Wood; The laden Boughs for you alone shall bear; And your's shall be the Product of the Year.

The Flocks you fee are all my own; beside The rest that Woods, and winding Vallies hide; And those that folded in the Caves abide. Ask not the Number of my growing Store; Who knows how many, knows he has no more. Nor will I praise my Cattle; trust not me, But judge your felf, and pass your own Decree: Behold their fwelling Dugs; the fweepy Weight Of Ewes, that fink beneath the Milky Freight; In the warm Folds their tender Lambkins lye; Apart from Kids, that call with human Cry. New Milk in Nut-brown Bowls is duely ferv'd For daily Drink; the rest for Cheese reserv'd. Nor are these Houshold Dainties all my Store: 'The Fields, and Forests will afford us more; The Deer, the Hair, the Goats, the Savage Boar. All Sorts of Ven'son; and of Birds the best: A pair of Turtles taken from the Nest. I walk'd the Mountains, and two Cubs I found, (Whose Dams had left them on the naked Ground,) So like, that no Distinction could be feen: So pretty, they were Presents for a Queen; And so they shall; I took them both away; And keep, to be Companions of your Play.

Oh raise, fair Nymph, your Beauteous Face above The Waves; nor scorn my Presents, and my Love. Come, Galatea, come, and view my Face; I late beheld it, in the watry Glass; And sound it lovelier, than I fear'd it was. Survey my tow'ring Stature, and my Size: Not Jove, the Jove you dream, that rules the Skies, Bears such a Bulk, or is so largely spread: My Locks (the plenteous Harvest of my Head)

Hang

Hang o'er my manly Face; and dangling down, As with a shady Grove, my Shoulders crown. Nor think, because my Limbs and Body bear A thick-fet Underwood of briftling Hair, My Shade deform'd; what fouler Sight can be Than the bald Branches of a leafless Tree? Foul is the Steed without a flowing Mane: And Birds, without their Feathers, and their Train: Wool decks the Sheep; and Man receives a Grace From bushy Limbs, and from a Bearded Face. My Forehead with a fingle Eye is fill'd, Round, as a Ball, and ample, as a Shield. The glorious Lamp of Heav'n, the radiant Sun, Is Nature's Eye; and she's content with one. Add, that my Father fways your Seas, and I, Like you, am of the watry Family. I make you his, in making you my own; You I adore: and kneel to you alone: Jove, with his Fabled Thunder, I despise, And only fear the Lightning of your Eyes. Frown not, fair Nymph; yet I could bear to be Disdain'd, if others were disdain'd with me: But to repulse the Cyclops, and prefer The Love of Acis, (Heav'ns!) I cannot bear. But let the Stripling please himself; nay more, Please you, tho' that's the Thing I most abhor; The Boy shall find, if e'er we cope in Fight, These Giant Limbs, endu'd with Giant Might. His living Bowels from his Belly torn, And scatter'd Limbs shall on the Flood be born ; Thy Flood, ungrateful Nymph; and Fate shall find, That Way for thee, and Acis to be join'd. For

For oh! I burn with Love, and thy Disdain Augments at once my Passion and my Pain. Translated Ætna Flames within my Heart, And thou, Inhuman, wilt not ease my Smart.

Lamenting thus in vain, he rose, and strode With furious Paces to the neighb'ring Wood: Restless his Feet, distracted was his Walk; Mad were his Motions, and confus'd his Talk. Mad, as the vanquish'd Bull, when forc'd to yield His lovely Mistress, and forsake the Field.

Thus far unseen I saw: when fatal Chance, His Looks directing, with a fudden Glance, Acis and I were to his Sight betray'd; Where, nought suspecting, we securely play'd. From his wide Mouth a bellowing Cry he cast, I see, I see; but this shall be your last: A Roar so loud made Atna to rebound: And all the Cyclops labour'd in the Sound. Affrighted with his monftrous Voice, I fled, And in the Neighbouring Ocean plung'd my Head. Poor Acis turn'd his Back, and Help, he cry'd, Help, Galatea, help, my Parent Gods, And take me dying to your deep Abodes. The Cyclops follow'd; but he sent before A Rib, which from the living Rock he tore: Though but an Angle reach'd him of the Stone, The mighty Fragment was enough alone, To crush all Acis; 'twas too late to fave, But what the Fates allow'd to give, I gave : That Acis to his Lineage should return; And rowl, among the river Gods, his Urn. Straight isfu'd from the Stone a Stream of Blood; Which lost the Purple, mingling with the Flood,

Then,

Book XIII. Ovid's Metamorphoses.

Then, like a troubled Torrent, it appear'd: The Torrent too, in little Space, was clear'd; The Stone was cleft, and through the yawning Chink New Reeds arose, on the new River's Brink. The Rock, from out its hollow Womb, disclos'd A Sound like Water in its Course oppos'd, When, (wond'rous to behold) full in the Flood, Up starts a Youth, and Navel high he stood. Horns from his Temples rise; and either Horn Thick Wreaths of Reeds, (his Native Growth) adorn. Were not his Stature taller than before, His Bulk augmented, and his Beauty more, His Colour Blue; with Acis he might pass: And Acis chang'd into a Stream he was, But mine no more; he rowls along the Plains With rapid Motion, and his Name retains.

The Story of GLAUCUS and SCYLLA.

By Mr. Row E.

Here ceas'd the Nymph; the fair Assembly broke,
The Sea-green Nereids to the Waves betook:
While Scylla, fearful of the wide-spread Main,
Swift to the safer Shore returns again.
There o'er the sandy Margin, unarray'd,
With printless Footsteps slies the bounding Maid;
Or in some winding Creek's secure Retreat
She baths her weary Limbs, and shuns the Noonday's Heat.
Her Glaucus saw, as o'er the Deep he rode,
New to the Seas, and late receiv'd a God.
He saw, and languish'd for the Virgin's Love,
With many an artful Blandishment he strove
Her Flight to hinder, and her Fears remove.

The more he fues, the more she wings her Flight, And nimbly gains a neighb'ring Mountain's Height. Steep shelving to the Margin of the Flood, A neighb'ring Mountain bare, and woodless stood; Here, by the Place fecur'd, her Steps she stay'd, And, trembling still, her Lover's Form survey'd. His Shape, his Hue, her troubled Sense appall, And dropping Locks that o'er his Shoulders fall; She fees his Face Divine, and Manly Brow, End in a Fish's wreathed Tail below: She fees, and doubts within her anxious Mind, Whether he came of God, or Monster Kind. This Glaucus soon perceiv'd; And, Oh! forbear, (His Hand supporting on a Rock lay near) Forbear, he cry'd, fond Maid, this needless Fear. Nor Fish am I, nor Monster of the Main, But equal with the wat'ry Gods I reign; Nor Proteus, nor Palæmon me excel, Nor he whose Breath inspires the founding Shell. My Birth, 'tis true, I owe to mortal Race, And I my felf but late a Mortal was; Ev'n then in Seas, and Seas alone, I joy'd; The Seas my Hours, and all my Cares employ'd, In Meshes now the twinkling Prey I drew; Now skilfully the slender Line I threw, And filent fat the moving Float to view. Nor far from Shore, their lies a verdant Mead, With Herbage half, and half with Water spread: There, nor the horned Heifers browfing stray, Nor shaggy Kids, norwanton Lambkins play; There, nor the founding Bees their Nectar cull, Nor Rural Swains their genial Chaplets pull,

Nor

Book XIII. Ovid's Metamorphoses.

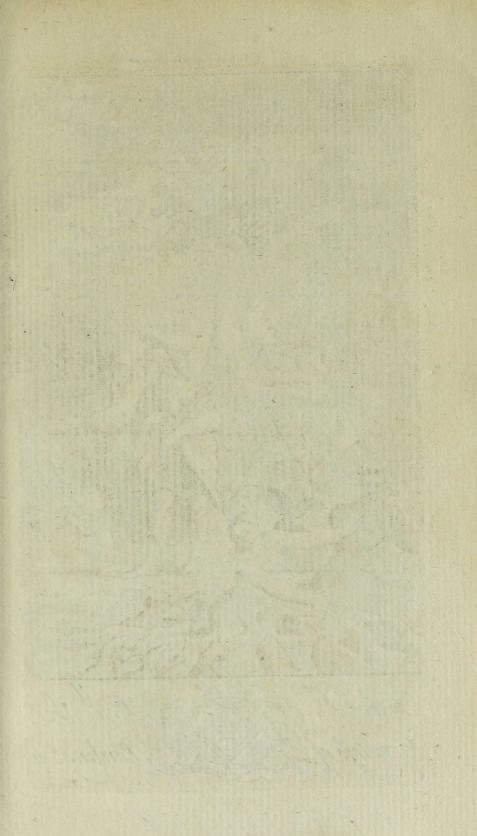

Nor Flocks, nor Herds, nor Mowers haunt the Place, To crop the Flow'rs, or cut the bushy Grass: Thither, fure first of living Race came I, And fat by chance, my dropping Nets to dry. My fcaly Prize, in Order all display'd, By Number on the Greenfword there I lay'd, My Captives, whom or in my Nets I took, Or hung unwary on my wily Hook. Strange to behold! yet what avails a Lie? I faw 'em bite the Grass, as I fat by; Then sudden darting o'er the verdant Plain, They spread their Finns, as in their native Main: I paus'd, with Wonder frack, while all my Prey Left their new Master, and regain'd the Sea. Amaz'd, within my fecret Self I fought, What God, what Herb the Miracle had wrought: But fure no Herbs have Pow'r like this, I cry'd; And strait I pluck'd some neighb'ring Herbs, and try'd. Scarce had I bit, and prov'd the wond'rous Tafte, When firong Convulsions shook my troubled Breast; I felt my Heart grow fond of something strange, And my whole Nature lab'ring with a Change. Reffless I grew, and ev'ry Place forsook, And still upon the Seas I bent my Look. Farewel for ever! Farewel, Land! I faid; And plung'd amidst the Waves my sinking Head. The gentle Pow'rs, who that low Empire keep, Receiv'd me as a Brother of the Deep; To Tethys, and to Ocean old, they pray To purge my mortal Earthy Parts away. The watry Parents to their Suit agreed, And thrice nine Times a fecret Charm they read; Then

Then with Lustrations purify my Limbs, And bid me bathe beneath a hundred Streams: A hundred Streams from various Fountains run, And on my Head at once come rushing down. Thus far each Paffage I remember well, And faithfully thus far the Tale I tell: But then Oblivion dark, on all my Senses fell. Again at length my Thought reviving came, When I no longer found myself the same; Then first this sea-green Beard I felt to grow, And these large Honours on my spreading Brow; My long-descending Locks the Billows sweep, And my broad Shoulders cleave the yielding Deep; My Fishy Tail, my Arms of Azure Hue, And ev'ry Part divinely chang'd, I view. But what avail these useless Honours now? What Joys can Immortality bestow? What, tho' our Nereids all my Form approve? What boots it, while fair Scylla fcorns my Love?

Thus far the God; and more he wou'd have faid; When from his Presence slew the ruthless Maid. Stung with Repulse, in such disdainful fort, He seeks Titanian, Circe's horrid Court.

OVID's

METAMORPHOSES.

BOOK XIV.

Translated by Sir Samuel Garth, M.D.

The Transformation of SCYLLA.

OW Glaucus, with a Lover's Haste, bounds o'er

The fwelling Waves, and feeks the Latian Shore.

Messena, Rhegium, and the barren Coast Of slaming Ætna, to his Sight are lost.

At length he gains the Tyrrhene Seas, and views The Hills where baneful Philters Circe brews; Monsters, in various Forms, around her press;

As thus the God falutes the Sorceress: O Circe, be indulgent to my Grief,

And give a Love-fick Deity Relief.

Too well the mighty Power of Plants I know, To those my Figure, and new Fate I owe. Against Messena, on th' Ausonian Coast, I Scylla view'd, and from that Hour was lost. In tend'rest Sounds I su'd; but still the Fair Was deaf to Vows, and pityless to Pray'r. If Numbers can avail, exert their Pow'r; Or Energy of Plants, if Plants have more. I ask no Cure; let but the Virgin pine With dying Pangs, or Agonies, like mine.

No longer Circe could her Flame difguise, But to the suppliant God Marine, replies:

When Maids are coy, have manlier Aims in view; Leave those that Fly, but those that Like, pursue. If Love can be by kind Compliance won; See, at your Feet, the Daughter of the Sun.

Sooner, faid Glaucus, shall the Ash remove From Mountains, and the swelling Surges love; Or humble Sea-weed to the Hills repair; E'er I think any but my Scylla fair.

Strait Circe reddens with a guilty Shame, And vows Revenge for her rejected Flame. Fierce Liking oft a Spight as fierce creates; For Love refus'd, without Aversion, hates. To hurt her hapless Rival she proceeds; And by the Fall of Scylla, Glaucus bleeds.

Some fascinating Bev'rage now she brews;
Compos'd of Drugs, and baneful Juice.
At Rhegium she arrives; the Ocean braves,
And treads with unwet Feet the boiling Waves.
Upon the Beach a winding Bay there lies,
Shelter'd from Seas, and shaded from the Skies:

This Station Scylla chose; a soft Retreat
From chilling Winds, and raging Cancer's Heat.
The vengeful Sorc'ress visits this Recess;
Her Charm infuses, and infects the Place.
Soon as the Nymph wades in, her nether Parts
Turn into Dogs; then at herself she starts.
A ghastly Horror in her Eyes appears;
But yet she knows not, who it is she fears;
In vain she offers from herself to run,
And drags about her what she strives to shun.

Oppress'd with Grief the pitying God appears: And swells the rising Surges with his Tears; From the detested Sorceress he slies; Her Art reviles, and her Address denies: Whilst hapless Scylla, chang'd to Rocks, decrees Destruction to those Barques, that beat the Seas.

The Voyage of ÆNEAS continued.

He bulg'd the Pride of fam'd Ulysses' Fleet,
But good Æneas 'scap'd the Fate he met.
As to the Latian Shore the Trojan stood,
And cut with well-tim'd Oars the foaming Flood;
He weather'd fell Charybdis: But ere-long
The Skies were darken'd, and the Tempest strong.
Then to the Lybian Coast he stretches o'er;
And makes at length the Carthaginian Shore.
Here Dido, with an hospitable Care,
Into her Heart receives the Wanderer.
From her kind Arms th' ungrateful Hero slies;
The injur'd Queen looks on with dying Eyes,
Then to her Folly falls a Sacrifice.

Vol. II.

290 Ovid's Metamorphoses. Book XIV.

Eneas now fets Sail, and plying gains
Fair Eryx, where his Friend Acestes reigns:
First to his Sire does Fun'ral Rites decree,
Then gives the Signal next, and stands to Sea;
Out-runs the Islands where Volcano's roar;
Gets clear of Syrens, and their faithless Shore:
But loses Palinurus in the Way;
Then makes Inarime, and Prochyta.

The Transformation of CERCOPIANS into Apes.

The Gallies now by Pythecusa pass;
The Name is from the Natives of the Place.
The Father of the Gods, detesting Lyes,
Oft, with Abhorrence, heard their Perjuries.
Th' abandon'd Race, transform'd to Beasts, began
To mimick the Impertinence of Man.
Flat-nos'd, and furrow'd, with Grimace they grin;
And look, to what they were, too near akin;
Merry in Make, and busy to no End;
This Moment they divert, the next offend:
So much this Species of their past retains;
Tho' lost the Language, yet the Noise remains.

HNEAS descends to Hell.

Now, on his Right, he leaves Parthenope: His Left, Misenus jutting in the Sea: Arrives at Cuma, and with Awe survey'd The Grotto of the venerable Maid: Begs Leave through black Avernus to retire; And view the much-lov'd Manes of his Sire.

Straight the divining Virgin rais'd her Eyes: And, foaming with a holy Rage, replies:

O thou, whose Worth thy wond'rous Works proclaim; The Flames, thy Piety; the World, thy Fame; Tho' great be thy Request, yet shalt thou see Th' Elysian Fields, th' infernal Monarchy: Thy Parent's Shade: This Arm thy Steps shall guide: To suppliant Virtue nothing is deny'd.

She spoke, and pointing to the golden Bough, Which in th' Avernian Grove refulgent grew, Seize that, she bids; he listens to the Maid; Then views the mournful Mansions of the Dead: The Shade of Great Anchises, and the Place By Fates determin'd to the Trojan Race.

As back to upper Light the Hero came, He thus falutes the visionary Dame.

O, whether some propitious Deity,
Or lov'd by those bright Rulers of the Sky!
With grateful Incense I shall stile you one,
And deem no Godhead greater than your own.
'Twas you restor'd me from the Realms of Night,
And gave me to behold the Fields of Light:
To feel the Breezes of congenial Air;
And Nature's blest Benevolence to share.

The Story of the SIBYLL.

I am no Deity, reply'd the Dame, But Mortal, and religious Rites disclaim. Yet had avoided Death's tyrannick Sway, Had I consented to the God of Day. With Promises he sought my Love, and said, Have all you wish, my fair Cumæan Maid.

I pans'd

292 Ovid's Metamorphoses. Book XIV.

I paus'd; then pointing to a Heap of Sand,
For ev'ry Grain, to live a Year demand.
But ah! unmindful of th' Effect of Time,
Forgot to covenant for Youth, and Prime.
The smiling Bloom, I boasted once, is gone,
And seeble Age with lagging Limbs creeps on.
Sev'n Cent'ries have I liv'd; three more fulfil
The Period of the Years to finish still.
Who'll think, that Phæbus, drest in Youth Divine,
Had once believ'd his Lustre less than mine?
This wither'd Frame (so Fates have will'd) shall waste
To nothing, but Prophetic Words, at last.

The Sibyll mounting now from nether Skies, And the fam'd Ilian Prince, at Cuma rife. He fail'd, and near the Place to Anchor came, Since call'd Cajeta from his Nurse's Name. Here did the luckless Macareus, a Friend To wise Ulysses, his long Labours end. Here, wandring, Achamenides he meets, And, sudden, thus his late Associate greets.

Whence came you here, O Friend, and whither bound? All gave you lost on far Cyclopean Ground; A Greek's at last aboard a Trojan found.

The Adventures of ACHEMENIDES.

Thus Achamenides — With Thanks I name Eneas, and his Piety proclaim.

I 'scap'd the Cyclops thro' the Hero's Aid,
Else in his Maw my mangled Limbs had laid.
When first your Navy under Sail he found,
He ray'd, till Ætna labour'd with the Sound.

Raging, he stalk'd along the Mountain's Side, And vented Clouds of Breath at ev'ry Stride. His Staff a Mountain Ash; and in the Clouds Oft, as he walks, his grisly Front he shrowds; Eyeless he grop'd about with vengeful Haste, And justled Promontories, as he pass'd. Then heav'd a Rock's high Summit to the Main, And bellow'd, like some bursting Hurricane.

Oh! cou'd I seize Uly se in his Flight,
How unlamented were my Loss of Sight!
These Jaws should piece-meal tear each panting Vein,
Grind ev'ry crackling Bone, and pound his Brain.
As thus he rav'd, my Joints with Horror shook;
The Tide of Blood my chilling Heart forsook.
I saw him once disgorge huge Morsels, raw,
Of Wretches undigested in his Maw.
From the pale breathless Trunks whole Limbs he tore,
His Beard all clotted with o'erslowing Gore.
My anxious Hours I pass'd in Caves; my Food
Was Forest Fruits, and Wildings of the Wood.
At length a Sail I wasted, and aboard
My Fortune sound an hospitable Lord.

Now in return, your own Adventures tell, And what fince first you put to Sea befell.

The Adventures of MACAREUS.

Then Macareus — There reign'd a Prince of Fame O'er Tuscan Seas, and Æolus his Name.

A Largess to Ulysses he consign'd,
And in a Steer's tough Hide inclos'd a Wind.

Nine Days before the swelling Gale we ran;
The tenth, to make the meeting Land, began:

0-3

When

When now the merry Mariners, to find Imagin'd Wealth within, the Bag unbind. Forthwith out-rush'd a Gust, which backwards bore Our Gallies to the Læstrigonian Shore, Whose Crown Antipates the Tyrant wore. Some few commission'd were with Speed to treat; We to his Court repair, his Guards we meet. Two friendly Flight preferv'd; the Third was doom'd, To be by those curs'd Cannibals consum'd. Inhumanly our hapless Friends they treat; Our Men they murder, and destroy our Fleet. In Time the wife Ulyffes bore away, And drop'd his Anchor in you faithless Bay. The Thoughts of Perils past we still retain, And fear to land, 'till Lots appoint the Men. Polites true, Elpenor giv'n to Wine, Eurylochus, myfelf, the Lots assign'd. Defign'd for Dangers, and refolv'd to dare, To Circe's fatal Palace we repair.

The Enchantments of CIRCE.

Before the spacious Front, a Herd we find Of Beasts, the siercest of the savage Kind. Our trembling Steps with Blandishments they meet, And sawn, unlike their Species, at our Feet. Within upon a sumptuous Throne of State, On golden Columns rais'd th' Enchantress sate. Rich was her Robe, and amiable her Mein, Her Aspect awful, and she look'd a Queen. Her Maids not mind the Loom, nor houshold Care, Nor wage in Needle-work a Scythian War.

But cull in Cannisters disastrous Flow'rs,
And Plants from haunted Heaths, and fairy Bow'rs,
With Brazen Sickles reap at Planetary Hours.
Each Dose the Goddess weighs with watchful Eye;
So nice her Art in impious Pharmacy!
Ent'ring she greets us with a gracious Look,
And Airs, that future Amity bespoke.
Her ready Nymphs serve up a rich Repast;
The Bowl she dashes first, then gives to taste.
Quick, to our own Undoing, we comply;
Her Pow'r we prove, and shew the Sorcery.

Soon, in a Length of Face, our Head extends;
Our Chine stiff Brissles bears, and forward bends:
A Breadth of Brawn new burnishes our Neck;
Anon we grunt, as we begin to speak.
Alone Eurylochus refus'd to taste,
Nor to a Beast obscene the Man debas'd.
Hither Ulysses hastes (so Fates command)
And bears the pow'rful Moly in his Hand;
Unsheaths his Scymitar, assaults the Dame,
Preserves his Species, and remains the same.
The Nuptial Rite this Outrage strait attends;
The Dow'r desir'd is his transigur'd Friends.
The Incantation backward she repeats,
Inverts her Rod, and what she did defeats.

And now our Skin grows smooth, our Shape upright; Our Arms stretch up, our cloven Feet unite. With Tears our weeping Gen'ral we embrace; Hang on his Neck, and melt upon his Face, Twelve Silver Moons in Circe's Court we stay, Whilst there they waste th' unwilling Hours away.

1 4

Twas

'Twas here I spy'd a Youth in Parian Stone; His Head a Pecker bore; the Cause unknown To Passengers. A Nymph of Circe's 'Train The Myst'ry thus attempted to explain.

The Story of Picus and Canens.

Picus, who once th' Aufonian Sceptre held, Could rein the Steed, and fit him for the Field. So like he was to what you fee, that still We doubt if real, or the Sculptor's Skill. The Graces in the finish'd Piece, you find, Are but the Copy of his fairer Mind. Four Luftres scarce the Royal Youth could name, 'Till ev'ry Love-sick Nymph confess'd a Flame. Oft for his Love the Mountain Dryads su'd, And ev'ry Silver Sister of the Flood: Those of Numicus, Albula, and those Where Almo creeps, and hasty Nar o'erstows: Where fedgy Anio glides thro' fmiling Meads, Where shady Farfar rustles in the Reeds: And those that love the Lakes, and Homage owe To the chaste Goddess of the Silver Bow.

In vain each Nymph her brightest Charms puts on, His Heart no Sov'reign would obey, but one: She whom Venilia, on Mount Palatine,
To Janus bore, the fairest of her Line.
Nor did her Face alone her Charms confess,
Her Voice was ravishing, and pleas'd no less.
When-e'er she sung, so melting were her Strains,
The Flocks unsed seem'd list'ning on the Plains;
The Rivers would stand still, the Cedars bend;
And Birds neglect their Pinions to attend;

The Savage Kind in Forest-Wilds grow tame; And Canens, from her heav'nly Voice, her Name.

Hymen had now in some ill-fated Hour
Their Hands united, as their Hearts before.
Whilst their soft Moments in Delights they waste,
And each new Day was dearer than the past;
Picus would sometimes o'er the Forests rove,
And mingle Sports with Intervals of Love.
It chanc'd, as once the foaming Boar he chac'd,
His Jewels sparkling on his Tyrian Vest,
Lascivious Circe well the Youth survey'd,
As simpling on the flow'ry Hills she stray'd.
Her wishing Eyes their silent Message tell,
And from her Lap the verdant Mischief fell.
As she attempts at Words, his Courser springs
O'er Hills and Lawns, and ev'n a Wish outwings.

Thou shalt not 'scape me so, pronounc'd the Dame, If Plants have Pow'r, and Spells be not a Name. She said---and forthwith form'd a Boar of Air, That sought the Covert with dissembled Fear. Swift to the Thicket Picus wings his Way On Foot, to chase the visionary Prey.

Now she invokes the Daughters of the Night, Does noxious Juices smear, and Charms recite; Such as can veil the Moon's more feeble Fire, Or shade the Golden Lustre of her Sire. In filthy Fogs she hides the chearful Noon; The Guard at Distance, and the Youth alone, By those fair Eyes, she cries, and ev'ry Grace That finish all the Wonders of your Face, Oh! I conjure thee, hear a Queen complain; Nor let the Sun's soft Lineage sue in vain.

0 5

Who-e'er thou art, reply'd the King, forbear, None can my Passion with my Canens share. She first my ev'ry tender Wish possest, And found the soft Approaches to my Breast. In Nuptials blest, each loose Desire we shun, Nor Time can end, what Innocence begun.

Think not, she cry'd, to saunter out a Life Of Form, with that domestic Drudge, a Wise; My just Revenge, dull Fool, ere-long shall show What Ills we Women, if refus'd, can do: Think me a Woman, and a Lover too. From dear successful Spight we hope for Ease, Nor fail to punish, where we fail to please.

Now twice to East she turns, as oft to West;
Thrice waves her Wand, as oft a Charm exprest.
On the lost Youth her magic Pow'r she tries;
Alost he springs and wonders how he slies.
On painted Plumes the Woods he seeks, and still
The Monarch Oak he pierces with his Bill.
Thus chang'd, no more o'er Latian Lands he reigns;
Of Picus nothing but the Name remains.

The Winds from drifling Damps now purge the Air,
The Mist subsides, the settling Skies are fair:
The Court their Sovereign seek with Arms in Hand,
They threaten Circe, and their Lord demand.
Quick she invokes the Spirits of the Air,
And twilight Elves, that on dun Wings repair
To Charnels, and th' unhallow'd Sepulchre.

Now, strange to tell, the Plants sweat Drops of Blood, The Trees are toss'd from Forests where they stood; Blue Serpents o'er the tainted Herbage slide, Pale glaring Spectres on the Æther ride; Dogs howl, Earth yawns, rent Rocks for sake their Beds, And from the Quarries heave their stubborn Heads.

The sad Spectators, stiffen'd with their Fear She sees, and sudden ev'ry Limb she smears;

Then each of savage Beasts the Figure bears.

The Sun did now to Western Waves retire, In Tides to temper his bright World of Fire. Canens laments her Royal Husband's Stay; Ill fuits fond Love with Absence, or Delay. Where she commands, her ready People run; She wills, retracts; bids, and forbids anon. Restless in Mind, and dying with Despair, Her Breasts she beats, and tears her flowing Hair. Six Days, and Nights, the wanders on, as Chance. Directs, without or Sleep, or Sustenance. Tiber at last beholds the weeping Fair; Her feeble Limbs no more the Mourner bear; Stretch'd on his Banks, she to the Flood complains, And faintly tunes her Voice to dying Strains. The fick'ning Swan thus hangs her filver Wings, And, as the droops, her Elegy the fings. Ere long fad Canens wastes to Air; whilst Fame: The Place still honours with her hapless Name.

Here did the tender Tale of Picus cease,
Above Belief the Wonder, I confess.
Again we fail, but more Disasters meet,
Foretold by Circe, to our suff'ring Fleet.
Myself unable further Woes to bear,
Declin'd the Yoyage, and am resug'd here.

ÆNEAS arrives in ITALY.

Thus Macareus---Now with a pious Aim Had good Æneas rais'd a fun'ral Flame, In Honour of his hoary Nurse's Name. Her Epitaph he fix'd; and setting Sail, Cajeta lest, and catch'd at ev'ry Gale.

He steer'd at Distance from the faithless Shore Where the false Goddess reigns with fatal Pow'r; And sought those grateful Groves that shade the Plain, Where Tyber rouls majestick to the Main, And sattens, as he runs, the fair Campain.

Shall I, of one poor dotal Town possest,
My People thin, my wretched Country waste;
An exil'd Prince, and on a shaking Throne;
Or risk my Patron's Subjects, or my own?
You'll grieve the Harshness of our Hap to hear;
Nor can I tell the Tale without a Tear,

The Adventures of DIOMEDES.

After fam'd Ilium was by Argives won, And Flames had finish'd what the Sword begun; Pallas, incens'd, pursu'd us to the Main, In Vengeance of her violated Fane: Alone Oilëus forc'd the Trojan Maid, Yet all were punish'd for the brutal Deed. A Storm begins, the raging Waves run high, The Clouds look heavy, and benight the Sky; Red Sheets of Light'ning o'er the Seas are spread, Our Tackling yields, and Wrecks at last succeed. 'Tis tedious our difast'rous State to tell: Ev'n Priam wou'd have pity'd what befell. Yet Pallas fav'd me from the swallowing Main; At home new Wrongs to meet, as Fates ordain. Chac'd from my Country, I once more repeat All Suff'rings Seas could give, or War compleat. For Venus, mindful of her Wound, decreed Still new Calamities should past succeed. Agmon, impatient thro' fuccessive Ills, With Fury, Love's bright Goddess thus reviles: These Plagues in spight to Diomede are sent; The Crime is his, but ours the Punishment. Let each, my Friends, her puny Spleen despise, And dare that haughty Harlot of the Skies.

The rest of Agmon's Insolence complain, And of Irreverence the Wretch arraign. About to answer, his blaspheming Throat Contracts, and shrieks in some distainful Note. To his new Skin a Fleece of Feather clings, Hides his late Arms, and lengthens into Wings. 302 Ovid's Metamorphoses. Book XIV..

The lower Features of his Face extend,
Warp into Horn, and in a Beak descend.
Some more experience Agmon's Destiny,
And wheeling in the Air, like Swans they sly:
These thin Remains to Daunus' Realms I bring,
And here Ireign, a poor precarious King.

The Transformation of APPULUS.

Thus Diomedes. Venulus withdraws; Unsped the Service of the common Cause. Puteoli he passes, and survey'd A Cave long honour'd for its awful Shade. Here trembling Reeds exclude the piercing Ray Here Streams in gentle Falls thro' Windings stray, And with a paffing Breath cool Zephyrs play. The Goat-herd God frequents the filent Place, As once the Wood-Nymphs of the Sylvan Race. "Till Appulus with a dishonest Air, And gross Behaviour, banish'd thence the Fair. The bold Buffoon, when-e'er they tread the Green, Their Motion mimicks, but with Gest obscene. Loose Language oft he utters; but ere-long A Bark in filmy Net-work binds his Tongue. Thus chang'd, a base wild Olive he remains; The Shrub the Coarseness of the Clown retains.

The TROJAN Ships transform'd to Sea-Nymphs.

Mean-while the Latians all their Pow'r prepare, 'Gainst Fortune, and the Foe to push the War. With Phrygian Blood the sloating Fields they stain; But, short of Succours, still contend in vain.

Turnus

Turnus remarks the Trojan Fleet ill mann'd,
Unguarded, and at Anchor near the Strand;
He thought; and strait a lighted Brand he bore,
And Fire invades what 'scap'd the Waves before.
The Billows from the kindling Prowretire;
Pitch, Rosin, Searwood on red Wings aspire,
And Vulcan on the Seas exerts his Attribute of Fire.

This when the Mother of the Gods beheld, Her tow'ry Crown she shook, and stood reveal'd; Her brindled Lions rein'd unveil'd her Head, And hov'ring o'er her savour'd Fleet, she said:

Cease Turnus, and the heav'nly Pow'rs respect,
Nor dare to violate, what I protect.
These Gallies, once fair Trees on Ida stood,
And gave their Shade to each descending God.
Nor shall consume; irrevocable Fate
Allots their Being no determin'd Date.

Strait Peals of Thunder Heav'n's high Arches rend, The Hail-stones leap, the Show'rs in Spouts descend. The Winds with widen'd Throats the Signal give; The Cables break, the smoaking Vessels drive. Now, wondrous, as they beat the foaming Flood, The Timber softens into Flesh, and Blood; The Yards and Oars new Arms and Legs defign; A Trunk the Hull; the slender Keel, a Spine; The Prow a female Face; and by degrees The Gallies rife green Daughters of the Seas. Sometimes on Coral Beds they fit in State, Or wanton on the Waves they fear'd of late. The Barks that beat the Seas are still their Care, Themselves remembering what of late they were; To fave a Trojan Sail in Throngs they prefs, But smile to see Alcinous in Distress.

Unable

Unable were those Wonders to deter The Latians from their unsuccessful War. Both Sides for doubtful Victory contend; And on their Courage, and their Gods depend. Nor bright Lavinia, nor Latinus' Crown, Warm their great Souls to War, like fair Renown, Venus at last beholds her Godlike Son Triumphant, and the Field of Battle won; Brave Turnus flain, strong Ardea but a Name, And bury'd in fierce Deluges of Flame. Her Tow'rs, that boafted once a Sov'reign Sway 'The Fate of fancy'd Grandeur now betray. A famish'd Heron from the Ashes springs, And beats the Ruin with difastrous Wings. Calamities of Towns diffrest she feigns, And oft, with woful Shrieks, of War complains,

The Deification of ÆNEAS.

Now had Eneas, as ordain'd by Fate, Surviv'd the Period of Saturnia's Hate: And by a fure irrevocable Doom, Fix'd the immortal Majesty of Rome. Fit for the Station of his kindred Stars, His Mother Goddess thus her Suit prefers.

Almighty Arbiter, whose pow'rful Nod Shakes distant Earth, and bows our own Abode; To thy great Progeny indulgent be, And rank the Goddess-born a Deity. Already has he veiw'd, with mortal Eyes, Thy Brother's Kingdoms of the nether Skies.

Forthwith a Conclave of the Godhead meets, Where Juno in the shining Senate sits. Remorse for past Revenge the Goddess feels; Then thund'ring Jove th' Almighty Mandate seals; Allots the Prince of his Celestial Line An Apotheosis, and Rites Divine.

The crystal Mansions eccho with Applause,
And, with her Graces, Love's bright Queen withdraws;
Shoots in a Blaze of Light along the Skies,
And, born by Turtles, to Laurentum slies.
Alights, where thro' the Reeds Numicius strays,
And to the Seas his watry Tribute pays.
The God she supplicates to wash away
The Parts more gross, and subject to Decay,
And cleanse the Goddess-born from Seminal Allay.
The horned Flood with glad Attention stands,
Then bids his Streams obey their Sire's Commands.

His better Parts by Lustral Waves resin'd,
More pure, and nearer to Ætherial Mind;
With Gums of fragrant Scent the Goddess strews,
And on his Features breathes ambrosial Dews.
Thus deify'd, new Honours Rome decrees,
Shrines, Festivals; and styles him Indiges.

The Line of the LATIAN Kings.

Ascanius now the Latian Sceptre sways;
The Alban Nation Sylvius next obeys.
Then young Latinus: Next an Alba came,
The Grace, and Guardian of the Alban Name.
Then Epitus; then gentle Capys reign'd;
Then Capetis the regal Pow'r sustain'd.
Next he who perish'd on the Tuscan Flood,
And honour'd with his Name the River God.

306 Ovid's Metamorphoses. Book XIV.

Now haughty Remulus begun his Reign,
Who fell by Thunder he aspir'd to feign.
Meek Acreta succeeded to the Crown;
From Peace endeavouring, more than Arms, Renown,
To Aventinus well resign'd his Throne.
The Mount on which he rul'd preserves his Name,
And Procas wore the Regal Diadem.

The Story of VERTUMNUS and POMONA.

A. Hama-Dryad flourish'd in these Days,
Her Name Pomona, from her Woodland Race.
In Garden Culture none could so excel;
Or form the pliant Souls of Plants so well;
Or to the Fruit more gen'rous Flavours lend,
Or teach the Trees with nobler Loads to bend.

The Nymph frequented not the flatt'ring Stream, Nor Meads, the Subject of a Virgin's Dream; But to fuch Joys her Nurs'ry did prefer, Alone to tend her vegetable Care.

A Pruning-hook she carry'd in her Hand,
And taught the Stragglers to obey Command;
Lest the licentious, and unthrifty Bough,
The too-indulgent Parent should undo.
She shows, how Stocks invite to their Embrace
A Graft, and naturalize a foreign Race
To mend the Salvage Teint; and in its Stead
Adopt new Nature, and a nobler Breed.

Now hourly she observes her growing Care. And guards their Non-age from the bleaker Air: Then opes her streaming Sluices, to supply With slowing Draughts her thirsty Family.

Tuliana Boyle

Long had the labour'd to continue free From Chains of Love, and nuptial Tyranny; And in her Orchard's small Extent immur'd, Her vow'd Virginity she still secur'd. Oft would loofe Pan, and all the luftful Train Of Satyrs, tempt her Innocence in vain. Silenus, that old Dotard, own'd a Flame; And he that frights the Thieves with Stratagem Of Sword, and fomething else too gross to name. Vertumnus too pursu'd the Maid no less; But, with his Rivals, shar'd a like Success. To gain Access a thousand Ways he tries; Oft, in the Hind, the Lover would difguise. The heedless Lout comes shambling on, and seems Just sweating from the Labour of his Teams. Then, from the Harvest, of the mimick Swain Seems bending with a Load of bearded Grain. Sometimes a Dreffer of the Vine he feigns, And lawless Tendrils to their Bounds restrains. Sometimes his Sword a Soldier shews; his Rod, An Angler; still so various is the God. Now, in a Forehead-Cloth, some Crone he seems, A Staff supplying the Defect of Limbs; Admittance thus he gains; admires the Store Of fairest Fruit; the fair Possessor more; Then greets her with a Kiss: Th' unpractis'd Dame Admir'd a Grandame kiss'd with such a Flame, Now, feated by her, he beholds a Vine Around an Elm in am'rous Foldings twine. If that fair Elm, he cry'd, alone should stand, No Grapes would glow with Gold, and tempt the Hand; Or if that Vine without her Elm should grow, Twould creep a poor neglected Shrub below.

310 Ovid's Metamorphofes. Book XIV.

Be then, fair Nymph, by these Examples led; Nor shun, for fancy'd Fears, the Nuptial Bed. Not she for whom the Lapithites took Arms, Nor Sparta's Queen, could boast such heavenly Charms. And if you would on Woman's Faith rely, None can your Choice direct fo well as I. Tho' old, fo much Pomona I adore, Scarce does the bright Vertumnus love her more. 'Tis your fair self alone his Breast inspires With foftest Wishes and unfoil'd Desires. Then fly all vulgar Followers, and prove The God of Seafons only worth your Love: On my Assurance well you may repose; Vertumnus scarce Vertumnus better knows. True to his Choice, all loofer Flames he flies: Nor for new Faces fashionably dies. The Charms of Youth, and ev'ry smiling Grace Bloom in his Features, and the God confess. Besides, he puts on ev'ry Shape at Ease; But those the most, that best Pomona please. Still to oblige her is her Lover's Aim; Their Likings and Aversions are the same. Nor the fair Fruit your burthen'd Branches bear; Nor all the youthful Product of the Year, Could bribe his Choice; yourfelf alone can prove A fit Reward for fo refin'd a Love. Relent, fair Nymph, and with a kind Regret, Think 'tis Vertumnus weeping at your Feet. A Tale attend, thro' Cyprus known, to prove How Venus once reveng'd neglected Love.

The Story of IPHIS and ANAXARETE.

Iphis, of vulgar Birth, by Chance had view'd Fair Anaxaretè of Teucer's Blood.

Not long had he beheld the Royal Dame,
Ere the bright Sparkle kindled into Flame.

Oft did he struggle with a just Despair,
Unsix'd to ask, unable to forbear.

But Love who slatters still his own Disease,
Hopes all Things will succeed, he knows will please.

Where-e'er the Fair One haunts, he hovers there;
And seeks her Consident with Sighs, and Pray'r;
Or Letters he conveys, that seldom prove
Successless Messengers in Suits of Love.

Now shiv'ring at her Gates the Wretch appears,
And Myrtle Garlands on the Columns rears,
Wet with a Deluge of unbidden Tears.
The Nymph more hard than Rocks, more deafthan Seas,
Derides his Pray'rs; infults his Agonies;
Arraigns of Insolence th' aspiring Swain;
And takes a cruel Pleasure in his Pain.
Resolv'd at last to sinish his Despair,
He thus upbraids th' inexorable Fair.

O Anaxaretè, at last forget
The Licence of a Passion indiscreet.
Now triumph, since a welcome Sacrifice
Your Slave prepares, to offer to your Eyes.
My Life, without Reluctance, I resign;
That Present best can please a Pride like thine.
But, O! forbear to blast a Flame so bright,
Doom'd never to expire, but with the Light.

312 Ovid's Metamorphoses. Book XIV.

And you, great Pow'rs, do Justice to my Name; The Hours, you take from Life, restore to Fame.

Then o'er the Posts, once hung with Wreaths, he throws The ready Cord, and sits the fatal Noose; For Death prepares; and bounding from above, At once the Wretch concludes his Life, and Love.

Ere-long the People gather, and the Dead Is to his mourning Mother's Arms convey'd. First, like some ghastly Statue, she appears; Then bathes the breathless Corfe in Seas of Tears, And gives it to the Pile; now as the Throng Proceed in fad Solemnity along, To view the passing Pomp, the cruel Fair Hastes, and beholds her breathless Lover there. Struck with the Sight, inanimate she feems; Set are her Eyes, and motionless her Limbs: Her Features without Fire, her Colour gone, And like her Heart, she hardens into Stone. In Salamis the Statue still is feen, In the fam'd Temple of the Cyprian Queen. Warn'd by the Tale, no longer then difdain, O Nymph belov'd, to ease a Lover's Pain. So may the Frosts in Spring your Blossoms spare, And Winds their rude Autumnal Rage forbear.

The Story oft Vertumnus urg'd in vain,
But then assum'd his heav'nly Form again.
Such Looks, and Lustre the bright Youth adorn,
As when with Rays glad Phæbus paints the Morn.
The Sight so warms the fair admiring Maid,
Like Snow she melts: So soon can Youth persuade.
Consent, on eager Wings, succeeds Desire;
And both the Lovers glow with mutual Fire.

The LATIAN Line continued.

Now Procas yielding to the Fates, his Son Mild Numitor succeeded to the Crown. But false Amulius, with a lawless Pow'r, At length depos'd his Brother Numitor. Then Ilia's valiant Issue, with the Sword, Her Parent re-inthron'd, the rightful Lord. Next Romulus to people Rome contrives; The joyous Time of Pales' Feafts arrives; He gives the Word to feize the Sabine Wives. The Sires enrag'd take Arms, by Tatius led, Bold to revenge their violated Bed. A Fort there was, not yet unknown to Fame, Call'd the Tarpeian, its Commander's Name. This by the false Tarpeia was betray'd, But Death well recompens'd the treach'rous Maid. The Foe on this new-bought Success relies, And filent, march; the City to surprize. Saturnia's Arts with Sabine Arms combine: But Venus countermines the vain Defign; Intreats the Nymphs that o'er the Springs prefide, Which near the Fane of hoary Janus glide, To fend their Succours; ev'ry Urn they drain, To stop the Sabines Progress, but in vain.

The Naiads now more Stratagems effay;
And kindling Sulphur to each Source convey.
The Floods ferment, hot Exhalations rife,
'Till from the scalding Ford the Army flies.
Soon Romulus appears in shining Arms,
And to the War the Roman Legions warms.
Vol. II.

The

The Battle rages, and the Field is spread With nothing, but the Dying, and the Dead. Both Sides consent to treat without Delay, And their two Chiefs at once the Sceptre sway. But Tatius by Lavinian Fury slain; Great Romulus continu'd long to reign.

The Assumption of Romulus.

Now Warrior Mars his burnish'd Helm puts on, And thus addresses Heav'n's Imperial Throne.

Since the inferior World is now become
One Vassal Globe, and Colony to Rome,
This Grace, O Jove, for Romulus I claim,
Admit him to the Skies, from whence he came.
Long hast thou promis'd an Ætherial State
To Mars's Lineage; and thy Word is Fate.

The Sire, that rules the Thunder, with a Nod,

Declar'd the Fiat, and dismiss'd the God.

Soon as the Pow'r Armipotent survey'd The flashing Skies, the Signal he obey'd; And leaning on his Lance, he mounts his Carr, His siery Coursers lashing thro' the Air. Mount Palatine he gains, and finds his Son Good Laws enacting on a peaceful Throne; The Scales of heav'nly Justice holding high, With steady Hand, and a discerning Eye. Then vaults upon his Carr, and to the Spheres, Swift, as a slying Shaft, Rome's Founder bears. The Parts more pure, in rising are resin'd, The gross, and perishable lag behind. His Shrine in purple Vestments stands in View; He looks a God, and is Quirinus now.

The Assumption of Hersilia.

Ere-long the Goddess of the Nuptial Bed, With Pity mov'd, sends Iris in her Stead To sad Hersilia — Thus the Meteor Maid:——

Chaste Relict! in bright Truth to Heav'n ally'd, The Sabines Glory, and the Sex's Pride; Honour'd on Earth, and worthy of the Love Of such a Spouse, as now resides above, Some Respite to thy killing Griefs afford; And if thou would'st once more behold thy Lord, Retire to you steep Mount, with Groves o'er spread, Which with an awful Gloom his Temple shade.

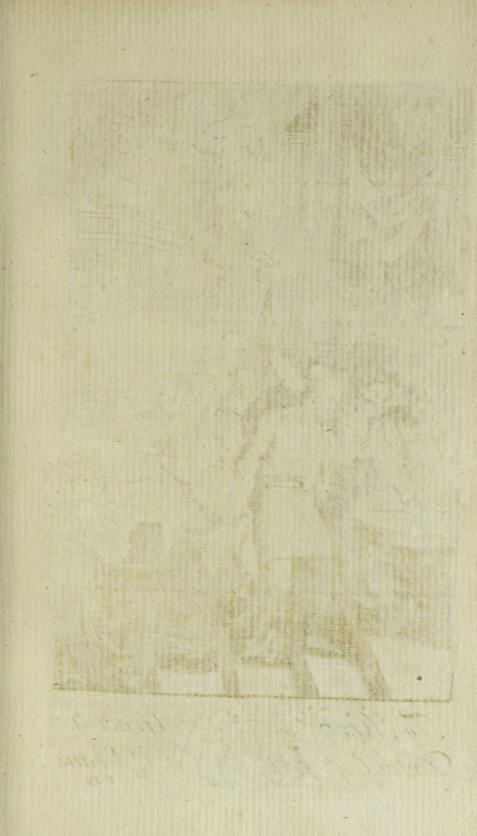

With Fear the modest Matron lifts her Eyes, And to the bright Embassadress replies:

O Goddess, yet to mortal Eyes unknown, But sure thy various Charms confess thee one: O quick to Romulus thy Votress bear, With Looks of Love he'll smile away my Care: In what-e'er Orb he shines, my Heav'n is there.

Then hastes with Iris to the holy Grove,
And up the Mount Quirinal as they move,
A lambent Flame glides downward thro' the Air,
And brightens with a Blaze Hersilia's Hair.
Together on the bounding Ray they rise,
And shoot a Gleam of Light along the Skies.
With op'ning Arms Quirinus met his Bride,
Now Ora nam'd, and press'd her to his Side.

OVID'S METAMORPHOSES. BOOK XV.

Translated by Mr. DRYDEN, and Others.

The PYTHAGOREAN PHILOSOPHY.

By Mr. DRYDEN.

KING is fought to guide the growing State,

One able to support the Publick Weight And fill the Throne where Romulus had fate.

Renown, which oft bespeaks the Publick Voice, Had recommended Numa to their Choice.

A peaceful, pious Prince; who, not content
To know the Sabine Rites, his Study bent
To cultivate his Mind; to learn the Laws
Of Nature, and explore their hidden Cause.

Urg'd

Ovid's Metamorphoses. Book XV. 320 Urg'd by this Care, his Country he forfook, And to Crotona thence his Journey took. Arriv'd, he first enquir'd the Founder's Name Of this new Colony; and whence he came. Then thus a Senior of the Place replies, (Well read, and curious of Antiquities) "Tis faid, Alcides hither took his Way From Spain, and drove along his conquer'd Prey; Then, leaving in the Fields his grazing Cows, He fought himself some hospitable House: Good Croton entertain'd his Godlike Guest; While he repair'd his wearied Limbs with Reft. The Hero, thence departing, bless'd the Place; And here, he faid, in Time's revolving Race, A rifing Town shall take its Name from thee. Revolving Time fulfill'd the Prophecy: For Myscelos, the justest Man on Earth, Alemon's Son, at Argos had his Birth: Him Hercules, arm'd with his Club of Oak, O'ershadow'd in a Dream, and thus bespoke: Go, leave thy native Soil, and make Abode, Where Æsaris rowls down his rapid Flood; He faid; and Sleep forfook him, and the God. Trembling he wak'd, and rose with anxious Heart; His Country Laws forbad him to depart: What shou'd he do? 'Twas Death to go away, And the God menac'd, if he dar'd to flay. All Day he doubted, and when Night came on, Sleep, and the fame forewarning Dream, begun: Once more the God flood threatening o'er his Head; With added Curfes if he disobey'd. Twice warn'd, he study'd Flight; but wou'd convey, At once, his Person, and his Wealth away:

Thus

Book XV. Ovid's Metamorphoses.

Thus while he linger'd, his Design was heard;
A speedy Process form'd, and Death declar'd.
Witness there needed none of his Offence;
Against himself the Wretch was Evidence:
Condemn'd, and destitute of human Aid,
To him, for whom he suffer'd, thus he pray'd.

O Pow'r, who hast deserv'd in Heav'n a Throne, Not giv'n, but by thy Labours made thy own, Pity thy Suppliant, and protect his Cause, Whom thou hast made obnoxious to the Laws.

A Custom was of old, and still remains, Which Life, or Death by Suffrages ordains: White Stones, and Black within an Urn are cast: The first absolve, but Fate is in the last. The Judges to the common Urn bequeath Their Votes, and drop the fable Signs of Death; The Box receives all Black, but, pour'd from thence, The Stones came candid forth; the Hue of Innocence. Thus Alemonides his Safety won, Preserv'd from Death by Alcumena's Son: Then to his Kinsman-God his Vows he pays, And cuts with prosp'rous Gales th' Ionian Seas: He leaves Tarentum favour'd by the Wind, And Thurine Bays, and Temifes, behind; Soft Sybaris, and all the Capes that stand Along the Shore, he makes in Sight of Land; Still doubling, and still coasting, 'till he found The Mouth of Æsaris, and promis'd Ground; Then faw, where, on the Margin of the Flood, The Tomb that held the Bones of Croton flood: Here, by the God's Command, he built, and wall'd The Place predicted; and Crotona call'd. Thus Thus Fame, from Time to Time, delivers down The fure Tradition of th' Italian Town.

Here dwelt the Man divine, whom Samos bore, But now Self-banish'd from his native Shore, Because he hated Tyrants, nor cou'd bear The Chains, which none but servile Souls will wear. He, tho' from Heav'n remote, to Heav'n cou'd move, With Strength of Mind, and tread th' Abyss above; And penetrate, with his interior Light, Those upper Depths, which Nature hid from Sight: And what he had observ'd, and learnt from thence, Lov'd in familiar Language to dispense.

The Crowd with filent Admiration stand,
And heard him, as they heard their God's Command;
While he discours'd of Heav'n's mysterious Laws,
The World's Original, and Nature's Cause;
And what was God; and why the sleecy Snows
In Silence fell, and rattling Winds arose;
What shook the stedsast Earth, and whence begun
The Dance of Planets round the radiant Sun;
If Thunder was the Voice of angry Jove,
Or Clouds, with Nitre pregnant, burst above:
Of these, and Things beyond the common Reach,
He spoke, and charm'd his Audience with his Speech.

He first the Taste of Flesh from Tables drove,
And argu'd well, if Arguments cou'd move.
O Mortals, from your Fellow's Blood abstain,
Nor taint your Bodies with a Food profane:
While Corn, and Pulse by Nature are bestow'd,
And planted Orchards bend their willing Load;
While labour'd Gardens wholesome Herbs produce,
And teeming Vines afford their gen'rous Juice;

Nor tardier Fruits of cruder Kind are loft, But tam'd with Fire, or mellow'd by the Frost; While Kine to Pails distended Udders bring, And Bees their Honey redolent of Spring; While Earth not only can your Needs supply, But, lavish of her Store, provides for Luxury; A guiltless Feast administers with Ease, And without Blood is prodigal to pleafe. Wild Beafts their Maws with their flain Brethren fill; And yet not all, for some refuse to kill; Sheep, Goats, and Oxen, and the nobler Steed, On Browze, and Corn, and flow'ry Meadows, feed. Bears, Tigers, Wolves, the Lion's angry Brood, Whom Heav'n endu'd with Principles of Blood, He wifely funder'd from the rest, to yell In Forests, and in lonely Caves to dwell; Where stronger Beasts oppress the Weak by Might, And all in Prey, and purple Feafts delight.

Where Bowels are in other Bowels clos'd,
Where fatten'd by their Fellow's Fat, they thrive;
Maintain'd by Murder, and by Death they live.
'Tis then for nought, that Mother Earth provides
The Stores of all she shows, and all she hides,
If Men with sleshy Morsels must be fed,
And chew with bloody Teeth the breathing Bread:
What else is this, but to devour our Guests,
And barb'rously renew Cyclopean Feasts!
We, by destroying Life, our Life sustain;
And gorge th' ungodly Maw with Meats obscene.

Not fo the Golden Age, who fed on Fruit, Nor durst with bloody Meals their Mouths pollute.

Then

Then Birds in airy Space might safely move, And tim'rous Hares on Heath fecurely rove: Nor needed Fish the guileful Hooks to fear, For all was peaceful; and that Peace sincere. Whoever was the Wretch, (and curs'd be he) That envy'd first our Food's Simplicity, Th'Essay of bloody Feasts on Brutes began, And after forg'd a Sword to murder Man. Had he the sharpen'd Steel alone employ'd On Beasts of Prey, that other Beasts destroy'd, Or Man invaded with their Fangs and Paws, This had been justified by Nature's Laws, And Self-defence: But who did Feasts begin Of Flesh, he stretch'd Necessity to Sin. To kill Man-killers, Man has lawful Pow'r, But not th' extended Licence, to devour.

Ill Habits gather by unfeen Degrees, As Brooks make Rivers, Rivers run to Seas-The Sow, with her broad Snout, for rooting up, Th' intrusted Seed, was judg'd to spoil the Crop, And intercept the fweating Farmer's Hope: The covetous Churl, of unforgiving Kind, The Goat came next in Order to be try'd: Th' Offender to the bloody Priest resign'd: Her Hunger was no Plea: For that she dy'd. The Goat had cropt the Tendrils of the Vine: In Vengeance, Laity and Clergy join, Where one had loft his Profit, one his Wine. Here was, at least, some Shadow of Offence; The Sheep was facrific'd on no Pretence, But meek, and unrefifting Innocence. A patient, ufeful Creature, born to bear The warm, and woolly Fleece, that cloath'd her Murderer;

And

And daily to give down the Milk she bred, A Tribute for the Grass on which she fed. Living, both Food and Raiment she supplies, And is of least Advantage when she dies.

How did the toiling Ox his Death deferve,
A downright fimple Drudge, and born to ferve?
O Tyrant! with what Justice canst thou hope
The Promise of the Year, a plenteous Crop;
When thou destroy'st thy lab'ring Steer, who till'd,
And plough'd with Pains, thy else ungrateful Field?
From his yet reeking Neck, to draw the Yoke,
That Neck, with which the surly Clods he broke;
And to the Hatchet yield thy Husbandman,
Who sinish'd Autumn, and the Spring began!

Nor this alone! but Heav'n itself to bribe, We to the Gods our impious Acts ascribe: First recompence with Death their Creatures Toil; Then call the Bless'd above to share the Spoil: The fairest Victim must the Pow'rs appease, (So fatal 'tis fometimes too much to please!) A purple Fillet his broad Brows adorns, With flow'ry Garlands crown'd, and gilded Horns: He hears the murd'rous Pray'r the Priest prefers, But understands not, 'tis his Doom he hears: Beholds the Meal betwixt his Temples cast, (The Fruit and Product of his Labours past;) And in the Water views perhaps the Knife Uplifted, to deprive him of his Life; Then broken up alive, his Entrails sees Torn out, for Priests t' inspect the Gods decrees.

From whence, O mortal Men, this Gust of Blood Have you deriv'd, and interdicted Food?

3

Be taught by me this dire Delight to shun, Warn'd by my Precepts, by my Practice won: And when you eat the well-deserving Beast, Think, on the Lab'rour of your Field you feast.

Now fince the God inspires me to proceed,
Be that, whate'er inspiring Pow'r, obey'd.
For I will sing of mighty Mysteries,
Of Truths conceal'd before, from human Eyes,
Dark Oracles unveil, and open all the Skies.
Pleas'd as I am to walk along the Sphere
Of shining Stars, and travel with the Year,
To leave the heavy Earth, and scale the Height
Of Atlas, who supports the heav'nly Weight;
To look from upper Light, and thence survey
Mistaken Mortals wand'ring from the Way,
And wanting Wisdom, fearful for the State
Of future Things, and trembling at their Fate!

Those I would teach; and by right Reason bring
To think of Death, as but an idle Thing.
Why thus affrighted at an empty Name,
A Dream of Darkness, and sictious Flame?
Vain Themes of Wit, which but in Poems pass,
And Fables of a World, that never was!
What feels the Body, when the Soul expires,
By Time corrupted, or consum'd by Fires?
Nor dies the Spirit, but new Life repeats
In other Forms, and only changes Seats.

Ev'n I, who these mysterious Truths declare,
Was once Euphorbus in the Trojan War;
My Name, and Lineage I remember well,
And how in Fight by Sparta's King I fell.
In Argive Juno's Fane I late beheld
My Buckler hung on high, and own my former Shield.

Then

4

Then, Death, so call'd, is but old Matter dress'd In some new Figure, and a vary'd Vest: Thus all Things are but alter'd, nothing dies; And here, and there th' unbody'd Spirit flies, By Time, or Force, or Sickness dispossest, And lodges, where it lights, in Man or Beaft; Or hunts without, 'till ready Limbs it find, And actuates those according to their Kind; From Tenement to Tenement is toss'd. The Soul is still the same, the Figure only lost: And, as the foften'd Wax new Seals receives, This Face assumes, and that Impression leaves; Now call'd by one, now by another Name; The Form is only chang'd, the Wax is still the same: So Death, fo call'd, can but the Form deface; Th' immortal Soul flies out in empty Space, To feek her Fortune in some other Place.

Then let not Piety be put to Flight,
To please the Taste of Glutton Appetite;
But suffer inmate Souls secure to dwell,
Lest from their Seats your Parent you expel;
With rapid Hunger seed upon your Kind,
Or from a Beast dislodge a Brother Mind.

And fince, like Typhis parting from the Shore, In ample Seas I fail, and Depths untry'd before, This let me further add, That Nature knows No stedfast Station, but, or ebbs, or flows: Ever in Motion; she destroys her old, And cast new Figures, in another Mould. Ev'n Times are in perpetual Flux, and run, Like Rivers from their Fountain, rowling on, For Time, no more than Streams, is at a Stay; The slying Hour is ever on her Way:

And

328 · Ovid's Metamorphoses. Book XV.

And as the Fountain still supplies her Store,
The Wave behind impels the Wave before;
Thus in successive Course the Minutes run,
And urge their Predecessor Minutes on,
Till moving ever new: For former Things
Are set aside, like abdicated Kings:
And every Moment alters what is done,
And innovates some A&, 'till then unknown.

Darkness we see emerges into Light,
And shining Suns descend to sable Night;
Ev'n Heav'n itself receives another Dye,
When weary'd Animals in Slumbers lie
Of Midnight Ease: Another, when the Gray
Of Morn preludes the Splendor of the Day.
The Disk of Phæbus, when he climbs on high,
Appears at first but as a bloodshot Eye;
And when his Chariot downwards drives to Bed,
His Ball is with the same Suffusion red;
But mounted high in his Meridian Race
All bright he shines, and with a better Face:
For there, pure Particles of Æther slow,
Far from th' Insection of the World below.

Nor equal Light th' unequal Moon adorns, Or in her waxing, or her waning Horns, For ev'ry Day she wanes, her Face is less; But gath'ring into Globe, she fattens at Increase.

Perceiv'st thou not the Process of the Year, How the four Seasons in four Forms appear, Resembling human Life in ev'ry Shape they wear? Spring first, like Infancy, shoots out her Head, With milky Juice requiring to be fed: Helpless, tho' fresh, and wanting to be led. The green Stem grows in Stature, and in Size, But only feeds with Hope the Farmer's Eyes; Then laughs the childish Year with Flowrets crown'd, And lavishly perfumes the Fields around, But no substantial Nourishment receives; Insirm the Stalks, unsolid are the Leaves.

Proceeding onward whence the Year began, The Summer grows adult, and ripens into Man. This Seafon, as in Men, is most replete With kindly Moisture, and prolifick Heat.

Autumn fucceeds, a fober tepid Age,
Not froze with Fear, nor boiling into Rage;
More than mature, and tending to decay,
When our brown Locks repine to mix with odious gray.

Last, Winter creeps along with tardy Pace, Sour is his Front, and furrow'd is his Face; His Scalp if not dishonour'd quite of Hair, The ragged Fleece is thin; and thin is worse than bare.

Ev'n our own Bodies daily Change receive, Some Part of what was their's before, they leave; Nor are to-day, what Yesterday they were; Nor the whole Same to-morrow will appear.

Time was, when we were fow'd, and just began,
From some sew fruitful Drops, the Promise of a Man:
Then Nature's Hand (sermented as it was)
Moulded to Shape the soft, coagulated Mass;
And when the little Man was fully form'd,
The breathless Embryo with a Spirit warm'd;
But when the Mother's Throws begin to come,
The Creature, pent within the narrow Room,
Breaks his blind Prison, pushing to repair
His stifled Breath, and draw the living Air;

Cast on the Margin of the World he lies, A helpless Babe, but by Instinct he cries. He next essays to walk, but downward pres'd On four Feet imitates his Brother Beast: By flow Degrees he gathers from the Ground His Legs, and to the rowling Chair is bound; Then walks alone; a Horseman now become, He rides a Stick, and travels round the Room. In time he vaunts among his youthful Peers, Strong-bon'd, and strung with Nerves, in Pride of Years, He runs with Mettle his first merry Stage, Maintains the next, abated of his Rage, But manages his Strength, and spares his Age. Heavy the third, and stiff, he finks apace, And the' tis down Hill all, but creeps along the Race. Now fapless on the Verge of Death he stands, Contemplating his former Feet and Hands; And, Milo-like, his flacken'd Sinews fees, And wither'd Arms, once fit to cope with Hercules, Unable now to shake, much less to tear the Trees.

So Helen wept, when her too faithful Glass Reflected on her Eyes the Ruins of her Face: Wond'ring, what Charms her Ravishers cou'd spy, To force her twice, or ev'n but once t'enjoy!

Thy Teeth, devouring Time, thine, envious Age, On Things below still exercise your Rage: With venom'd Grinders you corrupt your Meat, And then, at lingring Meals, the Morsels eat.

Nor those, which Elements we call, abide, Nor to this Figure, nor to that are ty'd; For this eternal World is said, of old, But four prolifick Principles to hold, Four different Bodies; two to Heav'n ascend,
And other two down to the Center tend:
Fire sirst with Wings expanded mounts on high,
Pure, void of Weight, and dwells in upper Sky;
Then Air, because unclog'd in empty Space,
Flies after Fire, and claims the second Place:
But weighty Water, as her Nature guides,
Lies on the Lap of Earth; and Mother Earth subsides.

Book XV.

All Things are mix'd of these, which all contain,
And into these are all resolv'd again:
Earth rarifies to Dew; expanded more,
The subtil Dew in Air begins to soar;
Spreads, as she slies, and weary of her Name
Extenuates still, and changes into Flame;
Thus having by Degrees Persection won,
Restless they soon untwist the Web, they spun,
And Fire begins to lose her radiant Hue,
Mix'd with gross Air, and Air descends to Dew;
And Dew condensing, does her Form forego,
And sinks, a heavy Lump of Earth below.

Thus are their Figures never at a Stand,
But chang'd by Nature's innovating Hand;
All Things are alter'd, nothing is destroy'd,
The shifted Scene for some new Show employ'd.
Then, to be born, is to begin to be
Some other Thing we were not formerly:
And what we call to die, is not t'appear,
Or be the Thing, that formerly we were.
Those very Elements, which we partake
Alive, when dead some other Bodies make:
Translated grow, have Sense, or can discourse;
But Death on deathless Substance has no Force.

That Forms are chang'd, I grant; that nothing can Continue in the Figure it began.
The golden Age to Silver was debas'd:
To Copper that; our Metal came at last.

The Face of Places, and their Forms, decay;
And that is folid Earth, that once was Sea:
Seas in their Turn retreating from the Shore,
Make folid Land, what Ocean was before;
And far from Strands are Shells of Fishes found,
And rusty Anchors fix'd on Mountain-Ground:
And what were Fields before, now wash'd and worm
By falling Floods from high, to Valleys turn,
And crumbling still descend to level Lands;
And Lakes, and trembling Bogs, are barren Sands,
And the parch'd Desart floats in Streams unknown;
Wond'ring to drink of Waters not her own.

Here Nature living Fountains opes; and there Seals up the Wombs, where living Fountains were; Or Earthquakes stop their ancient Course, and bring Diverted Streams to feed a distant Spring. So Licus, swallow'd up, is seen no more, But far from thence knocks out another Door. Thus Erasinus dives; and blind in Earth Runs on, and gropes his Way to fecond Birth, Starts up in Argos' Meads, and shakes his Locks Around the Fields, and fattens all the Flocks. So Mysus by another Way is led, And, grown a River, now disdains his Head: Forgets his humble Birth, his Name forfakes, And the proud Title of Caicus takes. Large Amenane, impure with yellow Sands, Runs rapid often, and as often stands,

Book XV. Ovid's Metamorphoses. 333

And here he threats the drunken Fields to drown: And there his Dugs deny to give their Liquor down.

Anigros once did wholesome Draughts afford, But now his deadly Waters are abhorr'd: Since, hurt by Hercules, as Fame refounds. The Centaurs in his Current wash'd their Wounds. The Streams of Hypanis are sweet no more, But brackish lose the Taste they had before. Dig odt Antissa, Pharos, Tyre, in Seas were pent, Once Isles, but now increase the Continent: While the Leucadian Coast, main Land before, By rushing Seas is sever'd from the Shore. So Zancle to th' Italian Earth was ty'd, And Men once walk'd, where Ships at Anchor ride. 'Till Neptune overlook'd the narrow Way, And in Disdain pour'd in the conqu'ring Sea.

Two Cities that adorn'd th' Achaian Ground, Buris and Helice, no more are found, But whelm'd beneath a Lake, are funk and drown'd; And Boatsmen through the Crystal Water show, To wond'ring Passengers, the Walls below.

Near Træzen stands a Hill, expos'd in Air To Winter-winds, of leafy Shadows bare: This once was level Ground: But (strange to tell) Th' included Vapours, that in Caverns dwell, Lab'ring with Cholick Pangs, and close confin'd, In vain fought Issue for the rumbling Wind: Yet still they heav'd for Vent, and heaving still Inlarg'd the Concave, and shot up the Hill; As Breath extends a Bladder, or the Skins Of Goats are blown t'inclose the hoarded Wines : The Mountain yet retains a Mountain's Face, And gather'd Rubbish heals the hollow Space.

Of many Wonders, which I heard, or knew, Retrenching most, I will relate but sew: What are not Springs with Qualities oppos'd, Endu'd at Seasons, and at Seasons lost? Thrice in a Day thine, Ammon, change their Form, Cold at high Noon, at Morn, and Evening warm: Thine, Athaman, will kindle Wood, if thrown On the pil'd Earth, and in the waning Moon. The Ibracians have a Stream, if any try The Taste, his harden'd Bowels petrify; Whate'er it touches, it converts to Stones, And makes a Marble Pavement, where it runs.

Crathis, and Sybaris her Sifter Flood, That slide through our Calabrian Neighbour Wood, With Gold, and Amber dye the shining Hair, And thither Youth refort: for who would not be Fair?) But stranger Virtues yet in Streams we find, Some change not only Bodies, but the Mind: Who has not heard of Salmacis obscene, Whose Waters into Women soften Men? Or Æthiopian Lakes, which turn the Brain To Madness, or in heavy Sleep constrain? Clytorian Streams the Love of Wine expel, (Such is the Virtue of th' abstemious Well.) Whether the colder Nymph that rules the Flood Extinguishes, and balks the drunken God; Or that Melampus (fo have some affur'd) When the mad Prætides with Charms he cur'd, And pow'rful Herbs, both Charms, and Simples cast Into the fober Spring, where still their Virtues last.

Unlike Effects Lyncestis will produce; Who drinks his Waters, tho' with mod'rate Use, Reels as with Wine, and fees with double Sight: His Heels too heavy, and his Head too light.

Ladon, once Pheneos, an Arcadian Stream,

(Ambiguous in th' Effects, as in the Name)

By Day is wholesome Bev'rage; but is thought

By Night infected, and a deadly Draught.

Thus running Rivers, and the standing Lake,
Now of these Virtues, now of those partake;
Time was (and all Things Time, and Fate obey)
When sast Ortigia stoated on the Sea:
Such were Cyanean Isles, when Typhis steer'd
Betwixt their Streigh s, and their Collision sear'd;
They swam, where now they sit; and sirmly join'd
Secure of rooting up, resist the Wind.
Nor Ætna vomiting sulphureous Fire
Will ever belch; for Sulphure will expire,
(The Veins exhausted of the liquid Store:)
Time was, she cast no Flames; in Time will cast no more.

For whether Earth's an Animal, and Air
Imbibes; her Lungs with Coolness to repair,
And what she sucks remits; she still requires
Inlets for Air, and Outlets for her Fires;
When tortur'd with convulsive Fits she shakes,
That Motion choaks the Vent, 'till other Vent she makes;
Or when the Winds in hollow Caves are clos'd,
And subtil Spirits sind that Way oppos'd,
They toss up Flints in Air; the Flints that hide
The Seeds of Fire, thus toss'd in Air, collide,
Kindling the Sulphur, 'till the Fewel spent
The Cave is cool'd, and the sherce Winds relent.
Or whether Sulphur, catching Fire, feeds on
Its unctuous Parts, 'till all the Matter gone

The

The Flames no more ascend; for Earth supplies The Fat that seeds them; and when Earth denies That Food, by length of Time consum'd, the Fire Famish'd for want of Fewel must expire.

A Race of Men there are, as Fame has told,
Who shiv'ring suffer Hyperborean Cold,
'Till nine Times bathing in Minerwa's Lake,
Soft Feathers, to defend their naked Sides, they take.
'Tis faid, the Scythian Wives (believe who will)
'Transform themselves to Birds by Magick Skill;
Smear'd over with an Oil of wond'rous Might,
That adds new Pinions to their airy Flight.

But this by fure Experiment we know, That living reatures from Corruption grow: Hide in a hollow Pit a slaughter'd Steer, Bees from his putrid Bowels will appear; Who, like their Parents, haunt the Fields, and bring Their Honey-Harvest home, and hope another Spring. 'The Warlike-Steed is multiply'd, we find, To Wasps, and Hornets of the Warrior Kind. Cut from a Crab his crooked Claws, and hide The rest in Earth, a Scorpion thence will glide, And shoot his Sting, his Tail in Circles toss'd Refers the Limbs his backward Father loft: And Worms, that firetch on Leaves their filmy Loom, Crawl from their Bags, and Butterflies become. Ev'n Slime begets the Frog's loquacious Race: Short of their Feet at first, in little Space With Arms, and Legs endu'd, long Leaps they take Rais'd on their hinder Part, and swim the Lake, And Waves repel: For Nature gives their Kind, To that Intent, a Length of Legs behind.

The

The Cubs of Bears a living Lump appear,
When whelp'd, and no determin'd Figure wear.
Their Mother licks'em into Shape, and gives
As much of Form, as she herself receives.
The Grubs from their fexangular Abode
Crawl out unfinish'd, like the Maggot's Brood:
Trunks without Limbs; 'till Time at leisure brings
The Thighs they wanted, and their tardy Wings.

The Bird who draws the Carr of Juno, vain
Of her crown'd Head, and of her Starry Train;
And he that bears th' Artillery of Jove,
The strong-pounc'd Eagle, and the billing Dove;
And all the feather'd Kind, who cou'd suppose
(But that from Sight, the surest Sense, he knows)
They from th'included Yolk, not ambient White, arose.

There are, who think the Marrow of a Man, Which in the Spine, while he was living, ran; When dead, the Pith corrupted will become A Snake, and hifs within the hollow Tomb. All these receive their Birth from other Things; But from himself the Phanix only springs: Self-born, begotten by the Parent Flame In which he burn'd, Another, and the Same; Who not by Corn, or Herbs his Life sustains, But the sweet Essence of Amomum drains: And watches the rich Gums Arabia bears, While yet in tender Dew they drop their Tears. He (his five Centuries of Life fulfill'd) His Nest on Oaken Boughs begins to build, Or trembling Tops of Palm, and first he draws The Plan with his broad Bill, and crooked Claws, Nature's Artificers; on this the Pile Is form'd, and rifes round, then with the Spoil Vol. II.

Of Cassia, Cinnamon, and Stems of Nard,
(For Softness strew'd beneath) his Fun'ral Bed is rear'd:
Fun'ral and Bridal both; and all around
The Borders with corruptless Myrrh are crown'd,
On this incumbent; 'till ætherial Flame
First catches, then consumes the costly Frame;
Consumes him too, as on the Pile he lies;
He liv'd on Odours, and in Odours dies.

An Infant Phænix from the former springs,
His Father's Heir, and from his tender Wings
Shakes off his Parent Dust, his Method he pursues,
And the same Lease of Life on the same Terms renews.
When grown to Manhood he begins his Reign,
And with stiff Pinions can his Flight sustain,
He lightens of its Load the Tree, that bore
His Father's Royal Sepulchre before,
And his own Cradle: This (with pious Care
Plac'd on his Back) he cuts the buxome Air,
Seeks the Sun's City, and his sacred Church,
And decently lays down his Burden in the Porch.

A Wonder more amazing wou'd we find? Th' Hyana shews it, of a double Kind, Varying the Sexes in alternate Years, In one begets, and in another bears. The thin Camelion, fed with Air, receives The Colour of the Thing to which he cleaves.

India when conquer'd, on the conqu'ring God For planted Vines the sharp-ey'd Lynx bestow'd, Whose Urine, shed before it touches Earth, Congeals in Air, and gives to Gems their Birth. So Coral soft, and white in Ocean's Bed, Comes harden'd up in Air, and glows with Red.

All changing Species should my Song recite;
Before I ceas'd, wou'd change the Day to Night.
Nations, and Empires flourish, and decay,
By turns command, and in their turns obey;
Time softens hardy People, Time again
Hardens to War a soft, unwarlike Train.
Thus Troy for ten long Years her Foes withstood,
And daily bleeding bore th' Expence of Blood:
Now for thick Streets it shows an empty Space,
Or only sill'd with Tombs of her own perish'd Race,
Herself becomes the Sepulchre of what she was.

Mycenè, Sparta, Thebes of mighty Fame,
Are vanish'd out of Substance into Name.
And Dardan Rome that just begins to rise,
On Tiber's Banks, in Time shall mate the Skies:
Widening her Bounds, and working on her Way;
Ev'n now she meditates Imperial Sway:
Yet this is Change, but she by changing thrives,
Like Moons new-born, and in her Cradle strives
To fill her Infant-Horns; an Hour shall come,
When the round World shall be contain'd in Rome.

For thus old Saws foretel, and Helenus

Anchises' drooping Son enliven'd thus;

When Ilium now was in a sinking State;

And he was doubtful of his future Fate:

O Goddess-born, with thy hard Fortune strive,

Troy never can be lost, and thou alive.

Thy Passage thou shalt free through Fire, and Sword,

And Troy in Foreign Lands shall be restor'd.

In happier Fields a rising Town I see

Greater than whate'er was, or is, or e'er shall be:

And Heav'nyetowes the World a Race deriv'd from Thee.

Sages, and Chiefs, of other Lineage born, The City shall extend, extended shall adorn: But from Iulus he must draw his Breath, By whom thy Rome shall rule the conquer'd Earth: Whom Heav'n will lend Mankind on Earth to reign, And late require the precious Pledge again. This Helenus to great Eneas told, Which I retain, e'er fince in other Mould My Soul was cloath'd; and now rejoice to view My country Walls rebuilt, and Troy reviv'd anew, Rais'd by the Fall, decreed by Loss to Gain; Enslav'd but to be free, and conquer'd but to reign.

'Tis time my hard-mouth'd Courfers to controul, Apt to run Riot, and transgress the Goal: And therefore I conclude, Whatever lies, In Earth, or flies in Air, or fills the Skies, All fuffer Change; and we, that are of Soul And Body mix'd, are Members of the whole. Then when our Sires, or Grandfires, shall forfake The Forms of Men, and brutal Figures take, Thus hous'd fecurely let their Spirits rest, Nor violate thy Father in the Beast, Thy Friend, thy Brother, any of thy Kin, If none of these, yet there's a Man within: O spare to make a Thyestean Meal, T'inclose his Body, and his Soul expel.

Ill Customs by degrees to Habits rife, Ill Habits foon become exalted Vice: What more Advance can Mortals make in Sin So near Perfection, who with Blood begin? Deaf to the Calf, that lies beneath the Knife," Looks up, and from her Butcher begsher Life:

Book XV. Ovid's Metamorphoses.

Deaf to the harmless Kid, that ere he dies All Methods to procure thy Mercy tries, And imitates in vain thy Children's Cries. Where will he stop, who feeds with Houshold Bread, Then eats the Poultry, which before he fed? Let plough thy Steers; that when they lose their Breath, To Nature, not to thee, they may impute their Death. Let Goats for Food their loaded Udders lend, And Sheep from Winter cold thy Sides defend; But neither Springes, Nets, nor Snares employ, And be no more ingenious to destroy. Free as in Air, let Birds on Earth remain, Nor let infidious Glue their Wings constrain; Nor opening Hounds the trembling Stag affright, Nor purple Feathers intercept his Flight: Nor Hooks conceal'd in Baits for Fish prepare, Nor Lines to heave 'em twinkling up in Air.

Take not away the Life you cannot give,
For all Things have an equal Right to live.
Kill noxious Creatures, where 'tis Sin to fave;
This only just Prerogative we have:
But nourish Life with vegetable Food,
And shun the facrilegious Taste of Blood.

These Precepts by the Samian Sage were taught, Which God-like Numa to the Sabines brought, And thence transferr'd to Rome, by Gift his own: A willing People, and an offer'd Throne. O happy Monarch, sent by Heav'n to bless A Savage Nation with soft Arts of Peace, To teach Religion, Rapine to restrain, Give Laws to Lust, and Sacrifice ordain: Himself a Saint, a Goddess was his Bride, And all the Muses o'er his Acts preside.

The Story of HIPPOLYTUS.

By Mr. CATCOTT.

Advanc'd in Years he dy'd; one common Date His Reign concluded, and his Mortal State. Their Tears Plebeians, and Patricians shed, And pious Matrons wept their Monarch dead. His mournful Wife, her Sorrows to bewail, Withdrew from Rome, and fought th' Arician Vale. Hid in thick Woods, she made incessant Moans, Disturbing Cynthia's facred Rites with Groans, How oft the Nymphs, who rul'd the Wood and Lake Reprov'd her Tears, and Words of Comfort spake! How oft (in vain) the Son of Thefeus said, Thy flormy Sorrows be with Patience laid; Nor are thy Fortunes to be wept alone Weigh others Woes, and learn to bear thine own; Be mine an Instance to asswage thy Grief: Would mine were none ! - yet mine may bring Relief. You've heard, perhaps, in Conversation told, What once befel Hippolytus of old; To Death by Thefeus' easy Faith betray'd, And caught in Snares his wicked Step-dame laid. The wondrous Tale your Credit scarce may claim, Yet (strange to fay) in me behold the same, Whom luftful Phædra oft had press'd in vain, With impious Joys, my Father's Bed to flain; 'Till feiz'd with Fear, or by Revenge inspir'd, She charg'd on me the Crimes herself desir'd. Expell'd by Theseus, from his Home I fled With Heaps of Curses on my guiltless Head.

Forlorn, I fought Pitthean Træzen's Land, And drove my Chariot o'er Corinthus' Strand; When from the Surface of the level Main A Billow rifing, heav'd above the Plain; Rolling, and gath'ring, 'till so high it swell'd, A Mountain's Height th'enormous Mass excell'd; Then bellowing, burst; when from the Summit cleav'd, A horned Bull his ample Cheft upheav'd, His Mouth, and Nostrils, Storms of briny Rain, Expiring, blew. Dread Horror feiz'd my Train. My Father's cruel Doom I stood unmov'd. Claim'd all my Soul, nor Fear could find a Room. Amaz'd, awhile my trembling Courfers flood With prick'd-up Ears, contemplating the Flood; Then starting sudden, from the dreadful View, At once, like Lightning, from the Seas they flew, And o'er the craggy Rocks the rattling Chariot drew. In vain to stop the hot-mouth'd Steeds I try'd, And bending backward all my Strength apply'd; The frothy Foam in driving Flakes distains The Bits, and Bridles, and bedews the Reins. But tho' as yet unta n'd they run, at length Their heady Rage had tir'd beneath my Strength, When in the Spokes, a Stump intangling, tore The shatter'd Wheel, and from its Axle bore. The Shock impetuous tost me from the Seat, Caught in the Reins beneath my Horse's Feet. My reeking Guts drag'd out alive, around The jagged Stump, my trembling Nerves were wound Then stretch'd the well-knit Limbs, in Pieces hal'd, Part stuck behind, and part the Chariot trail'd; 'Till, midst my cracking Joints, and breaking Bones, I breath'd away my weary'd Soul in Groans. No

Ovid's Metamorphoses. Book X No Part distinguish'd from the rest was found, But all my Parts an univerfal Wound. Now fay, felf-tortur'd Nymph, can you compare Our Griefs as equal, or in Justice dare? I saw besides the darksome Realms of Woe, And bath'd my Wounds in fmoking Streams below There I had flaid, nor fecond Life enjoy'd, But Paan's Son his wondrous Art imploy'd. 'To Light restor'd, by medicinal Skill, In Spight of Fate, and rigid Pluto's Will. Th'invidious Object to preferve from View, A misty Cloud around me Cynthia threw; And lest my Sight should stir my Foes to Rage, She stamp'd my Visage with the Marks of Age. My former Hue was chang'd, and for it shown A Set of Features, and a Face unknown. A-while the Goddess stood in doubt, or Crete, Or Delos' Isle, to chuse for my Retreat. Delos and Crete refus'd, this Wood she chose, Bade me my former luckless Name depose, Which kept alive the Mem'ry of my Woes; Then faid, Immortal Life be thine; and thou, Hippolytus once call'd, be Virbius now.

EGERIA transformed to a Fountain.

But others Woes were useless to appease Egeria's Grief, or set her Mind at ease.

Beneath the Hill, all comfortless she laid,
The dropping Tears her Eyes incessant shed,

Here then a God, but of th'inferior Race, I ferve my Goddess, and attend her Chace.

Book XV. Ovid's Metamorphoses.

'Till pitying Phabe eas'd her pious Woe,
Thaw'd to a Spring, whose Streams for ever flow.

The Nymphs, and Virbius, like Amazement fill'd, As feiz'd the Swains, who Tyrrhene Furrows till'd, When heaving up, a Clod was feen to roll, Untouch'd, felf-mov'd, and big with human Soul. The fpreading Mass in former Shape depos'd, Began to shoot, and Arms and Legs disclos'd, 'Till form'd a perfect Man, the living Mold Op'd its new Mouth, and future Truths foretold; And Tages nam'd by Natives of the Place, Taught Arts prophetic to the Tuscan Race.

Or fuch as once by Romulus was shown,
Who saw his Lance with sprouting Leaves o'er-grown,
When fix'd in Earth the Point began to shoot,
And growing downward turn'd a fibrous Root;
While spread aloft the branching Arms display'd,
O'er wondring Crowds, an unexpected Shade.

The Story of CIPPUS. By Sir SAMUEL GARTH, M. D.

Or as when Cippus in the Current view'd
The shooting Horns that on his Forehead stood,
His Temples sirst he feels, and with surprize
His Touch confirms th' Assurance of his Eyes.
Streight to the Skies his horned Front he rears,
And to the Gods directs these pious Pray'rs.

If this Portent be prosp'rous, O decree

To Rome th' Event; if otherwise, to me.

An Altar then of Turf he hastes to raise,

Rich Gums in fragrant Exhalations blaze;

The

346 Ovid's Metamorphoses. Book XV.

The panting Entrails crackle as they fry, And boding Fumes pronounce a Mystery. Soon as the Augur saw the Holy Fire, And Victims with presaging Signs expire, To Cippus then he turns his Eyes with speed, And views the horny Honours of his Head: Then cry'd, Hail Conqueror! thy Call obey, Those Omens I behold presage thy Sway. Rome waits thy Nod, unwilling to be free, And owns thy Sov'reign Pow'r as Fate's Decree.

He said - and Cippus, starting at th' Event, Spoke in these Words his pious Discontent.

Far hence, ye Gods, this Execration fend, And the great Race of Romulus defend. Better that I in Exile live abhorr'd, 'Than e'er the Capitol shou'd style me Lord. This spoke, he hides with Leaves his omen'd Head. Then prays, the Senate next convenes, and faid, If Augurs can foresee, a Wretch is come, Design'd by Destiny the Bane of Rome. Two Horns (most strange to tell) his Temples crown; If e'er he pass the Walls, and gain the Town, Your Laws are forfeit, that ill-fated Hour; And Liberty must yield to lawless Pow'r. Your Gates he might have enter'd; but this Arm Seiz'd the Ufurper, and with-held the Harm. Hafte, find the Monster out, and let him be Condemn'd to all the Senate can decree; Or ty'd in Chains, or into Exile thrown; Or by the Tyrant's Death prevent your own. The Crowd fuch Murmurs utter as they fland, As fwelling Surges breaking on the Strand :

Or as when gath'ring Gales sweep o'er the Grove, And their tall Heads the bending Cedars move. Each with Confusion gaz'd, and then began To feel his Fellow's Brows, and find the Man. Cippus then shakes his Garland off, and cries, The Wretch you want, I offer to your Eyes. The Anxious Throng look'd down, and fad in Thought, All wish'd they had not found the Sign they fought: In haste with Laurel Wreaths his Head they bind; Such Honour to such Virtue was assign'd. Then thus the Senate - Hear, O Cippus, hear; So God-like is thy tutelary Care, That fince in Rome thyfelf forbids thy Stay, For thy Abode those Acres we convey The Plough-share can surround, the Labour of a Day. In Deathless Records thou shalt stand inroll'd, And Rome's rich Posts shall shine with Horns of Gold.

The Oceasion of Esculapius being brought to Rome.

By Mr. WELSTED.

Melodious Maids of Pindus, who inspire
The flowing Strains, and tune the vocal Lyre;
Tradition's Secrets are unlock'd to you,
Old Tales revive, and Ages past renew;
You, who can hidden Causes best expound,
Say, whence the Isle, which Tiber flows around,
Its Altars with a heav'nly Stranger grac'd,
And in our Shrines the God of Physic plac'd.

A

A wasting Plague infected Latium's Skies; Pale, bloodless Looks were seen, with ghailly Eyes; The dire Disease's Marks each Visage wore, And the pure Blood was chang'd to putrid Gore: In vain were human Remedies apply'd; In vain the Pow'r of healing Herbs was try'd: Weary'd with Death, they feek Celestial Aid, And visit Phæbus in his Delphic Shade; In the World's Centre facred Delphos stands, And gives its Oracles to distant Lands: Here they implore the God, with fervent Vows, His falutary Pow'r to interpose, And end a great afflicted City's Woes. The holy Temple fudden Tremors prov'd; The Laurel-grove and all its Quivers mov'd; In hollow Sounds the Priestess, thus, began, And thro' each Bosom thrilling Horrors ran.

'Th' Affistance, Roman, which you here implore,

" Seek from another, and a nearer Shore;

Relief must be implor'd, and Succour won,

' Not from Apollo, but Apollo's Son;

' My Son to Latium born, shall bring Redress:

Go with good Omens, and expect Success.

When these clear Oracles the Senate knew; The facred Tripod's Counsels they pursue, Depute a pious and a chosen Band, Who sail to Epidaurus' neighb'ring Land: Before the Grecian Elders when they stood, They pray 'em to bestow the healing God: Ordain'd was he to save Ausonia's State;

Some plead to yield to Rome the facred Charge;

Others

Book XV. Ovid's Metamorphoses.

Others, tenacious of their Country's Wealth, Refuse to grant the Pow'r, who guards it's Health.

While dubious they remain'd, the wasting Light Withdrew before the growing Shades of Night; Thick Darkness now obscur'd the dusky Skies: Now, Roman, clos'd in Sleep were mortal Eyes, When Health's auspicious God appears to thee, And thy glad Dreams his Form celestial see: In his left Hand, a rural Staff preferr'd, His Right is seen to stroke his decent Beard.

' Dismis, said he, with Mildness all divine,

- ' Dismis your Fears; I come, and leave my Shrine;
- ' This Serpent view, that with ambitious Play
- · My Staff encircles, mark him ev'ry Way;
- ' His Form, tho' larger, nobler, I'll assume,
- ' And chang'd, as Gods should be, bring Aid to Rome, Here fled the Vision, and the Vision's Flight Was follow'd by the chearful Dawn of Light.

Now was the Morn with blushing Streaks o'erspread,
And all the starry Fires of Heav'n were sted;
The Chiefs perplex'd, and fill'd with doubtful Care,
To their Protector's sumptuous Roofs repair,
By genuine Signs implore him to express,
What Seats he deigns to chuse, what Land to bless:
Scarce their ascending Pray'rs had reach'd the Sky;
Le, the Serpentine God, erected high!
Fore-running Hissings his Approach confest;
Bright shone his golden Scales, and wav'd his lofty Crest;
The trembling Altar his Appearance spoke;
The Marble Floor, and glittering Cicling shook;
The Doors were rock'd; the Statue seem'd to nod,
And all the Fabric own'd the present God:

His

His radiant Chest he taught aloft to rife, And round the Temple cast his flaming Eyes: Struck was th' aftonish'd Crowd; the holy Priest, His Temples with white Bands of Ribbon dreft, With rev'rent Awe the Power divine confest! The God! the God! he cries; all Tongues be still! Each conscious Breast devoutest Ardour fill! O Beauteous! O Divine! affift our Cares, And be propitious to thy Vot'ries Prayers! All with confenting Hearts, and pious Fear, The Words repeat, the Deity revere: The Romans in their holy Worship join'd. With filent Awe, and Purity of Mind: Gracious to them, his Crest is seen to nod, And, as an Earnest of his Care, the God, Thrice histing, vibrates thrice his forked Tongue; And now the smooth Descent he glides along: Still on the ancient Seats he bends his Eyes, In which his Statue breathes, his Altars rife; His long-lov'd Shrine with kind Concern he leaves, And to forfake th' accustom'd Mansion grieves: At length, his sweeping Bulk in State is borne Thro' the throng'd Streets, which scatter'd Flowers adorn; Thro' many a Fold he winds his mazy Courfe, And gains the Port and Moles, which break the Ocean's Force.

'Twas here he made a Stand, and having view'd. The pious Train, who his last Steps pursu'd, Seem'd to dismiss their Zeal with gracious Eyes, While Gleams of Pleasure in his Aspect rise.

And now the Latian Vessel he ascends; Beneath the weighty God the Vessel bends;

The Latins on the Strand great Jove appeale, Their Cables use and plough the yielding Seas: The high-rear'd Serpent from the Stern displays His gorgeous Form, and the blue Deep surveys; The Ship is wafted on with gentle Gales, And o'er the calm Ionian smoothly sails; On the fixth Morn th' Italian Coasts they gain, And touch Lacinia, grac'd with Juno's Fane; Now fair Calabria to the Sight is loft, And all the Cities on her fruitful Coast: They pass at length the rough Sicilian Shore, The Brutian Soil, rich with metallic Ore, The famous Isles, where Æolus was King, And Pastus blooming with eternal Spring: Minerva's Cape they leave, and Capræ's Isle, Campania, on whose Hills the Vineyards smile, The City which Alcides' Spoils adorn, Naples, for foft Delight and Pleasure born; Fair Stabia, with Cumean Sibyls Seats, And Baia's tepid Baths, and green Retreats; Linternum next they reach, where balmy Gums Distil from mastic Trees, and spread Persumes: Caieta, from the Nurse so nam'd, for whom With pious Care Æneas rais'd a Tomb, Vulturn, whose Whirlpools suck the numerous Sands And Trachas, and Minturnæ's marshy Lands, And Formia's Coast is left, and Circe's Plain, Which yet remembers her enchanting Reign; To Antium, last, his Course the Pilot guides;

Here, while the anchor'd Vessel safely rides, (For now the russed Deep portends a Storm) The spiry God unfolds his spheric Form,

Thro'

Thro' large Indentings draws his lubric Train, And feeks the Refuge of Apollo's Fane; The Fane is fituate on the yellow Shore: When the Sea smil'd, and the Winds rage no more, He leaves his Father's hospitable Lands, And furrows, with his rattling Scales, the Sands Along the Coast; at length the Ship regains, And fails to Tibur, and Lavinum's Plains. Here mingling Crowds to meet their Patron came, Ev'n the chaste Guardians of the Vestal Flame, From every Part tumultuous they repair, And joyful Acclamations rend the Air: Along the flow'ry Banks, on either Side, Where the tall Ship floats on the swelling Tide, Dispos'd in decent Order Altars rife, And crackling Incense, as it mounts the Skies, The Air with Sweets refreshes; while the Knife, Warm with the Victim's Blood, lets out the streaming Life.

The World's great Mistress, Rome, receives him now; On the Mast's Top reclin'd he waves his Brow, And from that Height surveys the great Abodes, And Mansions, worthy of residing Gods.
The Land, a narrow Neck, itself extends, Round which his Course the Stream divided bends; The Stream's two Arms, on either Side, are seen, Stretch'd out in equal Length; the Land between. The Ise so call'd from hence derives it's Name: 'Twas here the falutary Serpent came; Nor sooner has he left the Latian Pine, But he assumes again his Form divine, And now no more the drooping City mourns, Joy is again restor'd, and Health returns.

The Deification of Julius CASAR.

But Æsculapius was a foreign Power: In his own City Cafar we adore: Him Arms, and Arts alike renown'd beheld, In Peace conspicuous, dreadful in the Field; hard His rapid Conquest, and swift-finish'd Wars, The Hero juftly fix'd among the Stars; Yet is his Progeny his greatest Fame: The Son immortal makes the Father's Name. The Sea-girt Britons, by his Courage tam'd, For their high rocky Cliffs, and Fierceness fam'd; His dreadful Navies, which victorious rode O'er Nile's affrighted Waves and seven sourc'd Flood; Numidia, and the spacious Realms regain'd; Where Cinyphis or flows, or Juba reign'd; The Powers of titled Mithridates broke, And Pontus added to the Roman Yoke; Triumphal Shows decreed, for Conquests won, For Conquests which the Triumph still outshone; These are great Deeds; yet less than to have giv'n The World a Lord, in whom, propitious Heav'n, When you decreed the Sov'reign Rule to place, You blest with lavish Bounty human Race.

Now lest so great a Prince might seem to rise
Of mortal Stem, his Sire must reach the Skies;
The beauteous Goddess, that Æneas bore,
Foresaw it, and foreseeing did deplore;
For well she knew her Hero's Fate was nigh,
Devoted by conspiring Arms to die.
Trembling, and pale, to every God, she cry'd,
Behold, what deep and subtle Arts are try'd,

To end the last, the only Branch that springs From my Iulus, and the Dardan Kings! How bent they are! how desp'rate to destroy-All that is left me of unhappy Troy! Am I alone by Fate ordain'd to know Uninterrupted Care, and endless Woe! Now from Tydides' Spear I feel the Wound: Now Ilium's Tow'rs the hostile Flames surround: Troy laid in Duft, my exil'd Son I mourn, Thro' angry Seas, and raging Billows born; O'er the wide Deep his wand'ring Course he bends; Now to the fullen Shades of Styx-descends, With Turnus driv'n at last fierce Wars to wage, Or rather with unpitying Juno's Rage. But why record I now my antient Woes? Sense of past Ills in present Fears I lose; On me their Points the impious Daggers throw; Forbid it, Gods, repel the direful Blow: If by curs'd Weapons Numa's Priest expires, No longer shall ye burn, ye Vestal Fires.

While such Complainings Cypria's Grief disclose, In each celestial Breast Compassion rose; Not Gods can alter Fate's refiftlefs Will: Yet they foretold by Signs th' approaching Ill. Dreadful were heard, among the Clouds, Alarms Of ecchoing Trumpets, and of clashing Arms; The Sun's pale Image gave so faint a Light, That the fad Earth was almost veil'd in Night; The Æther's Face with fiery Meteors glow'd; With Storms of Hail were mingled Drops of Blood; A dusky Hue the Morning Star o'erspread, And the Moon's Orb was stain'd with Spots of Red; In every Place portentous Shrieks were heard,
The fatal Warnings of th' infernal Bird;
In ev'ry Place the Marble melts to Tears;
While in the Groves, rever'd thro' Length of Years,
Boding, and awful Sounds the Ear invade;
And folemn Music warbles thro' the Shade;
No Victim can atone the impious Age,
No Sacrifice the wrathful Gods asswage;
Dire Wars and civil Fury threat the State;
And every Omen points out Cesar's Fate:
Around each hallow'd Shrine, and sacred Dome,
Night-howling Dogs disturb the peaceful Gloom;
Their silent Seats the wand'ring Shades forsake,
And fearful Tremblings the rock'd City shake.

Yet could not, by these Prodigies, be broke
The plotted Charm, or staid the satal Stroke;
Their Swords th' Assassins in the Temple draw;
Their murth'ring Hands nor Gods nor Temples awe;
This facred Place their bloody Weapons stain,
And Virtue salls, before the Altars slain.
'Twas now fair Cypria, with her Woes oppress,
In raging Anguish smote her heav'nly Breast;
Wild with distracting Fears, the Goddess try'd
Her Hero in th' etherial Cloud to hide,
The Cloud, which youthful Paris did conceal,
When Menelaus urg'd the threatning Steel;
The Cloud, which once deceiv'd Tydides' Sight,
And sav'd Eneas in th' unequal Fight.

When Jove—In vain, fair Daughter, you assay To o'er-rule Destiny's unconquer'd Sway: Your Doubts to banish, enter Fate's Abode; A Privilege to heav'nly Powers allow'd;

There

356 Ovid's Metamorphoses. Book XV.

There shall you see the Records grav'd, in Length, On Ir'n and folid Brafs, with mighty Strength; Which Heav'n's and Earth's Concussion shall endure, Maugre all Shocks, eternal and fecure: There, on perennial Adamant design'd, The various Fortunes of your Race you'll find: Well I have mark'd 'em, and will now relate To thee the fettled Laws of future Fate. He, Goddess, for whose Death the Fates you blame, Has finish'd his determin'd Course with Fame: To thee 'tis giv'n at length, that he shall shine Among the Gods, and grace the worship'd Shrine: His Son to all his Greatness shall be Heir, And worthily succeed to Empire's Care: Ourself will lead his Wars, resolv'd to aid The brave Avenger of his Father's Shade: To him its Freedom Mutina shall owe, And Decius his auspicious Conduct know; His dreadful Powers shall shake Pharfalia's Plain, And drench in Gore Philippi's Fields again: A mighty Leader, in Sicilia's Flood, Great Pompey's warlike Son, shall be subdu'd: Ægypt's foft Queen, adorn'd with fatal Charms, Shall mourn her Soldier's unfuccessful Arms: Too late shall find her swelling Hopes are vain, And know, that Rome o'er Memphis still must reign: What name I Afric, or Nile's hidden Head? Far as both Oceans roll, his Power shall spread: All the known Earth to him shall Homage pay, And the Seas own his univerfal Sway: When cruel War no more disturbs Mankind; To civil Studies shall he bend his Mind,

With equal Justice guardian Laws ordain,
And by his great Example Vice restrain:
Where will his Bounty or his Goodness end?
To Times unborn his gen'rous Views extend;
The Virtues of his Heir our Praise engage,
And promise Blessings to the coming Age:
Late shall he in his Kindred Orbs be plac'd,
With Pylian Years, and crowded Honours grac'd.
Mean-time, your Hero's sleeting Spirit bear,
Fresh from his Wounds, and change it to a Star:
So shall great Julius Rites divine assume,
And from the Skies eternal smile on Rome.

This fpoke; the Goddess to the Senate flew;
Where, her fair Form conceal'd from mortal View,
Her Gesar's heavenly Part she made her Care,
Nor left the recent Soul to waste to Air;
But bore it upwards to its native Skies:
Glowing with new-born Fires she saw it rise;
Forth springing from her Bosom up it slew,
And kindled, as it soar'd, a Comet grew:
Above the Lunar Sphere it took its Flight,
And shot behind it a long Trail of Light.

The Reign of Augustus, in which Ovid flourished.

Thus rais'd, his glorious Off-spring Julius view'd, Beneficently great, and scattering Good, Deeds, that his own surpass'd, with Joy beheld, And his large Heart dilates to be excell'd. What tho' this Prince results to receive The Preserence, which his juster Subjects give;

Fame

Fame uncontroll'd, that no Restraint obeys,
The Homage, shunn'd by modest Virtue, pays,
And proves disloyal only in his Praise.
Tho' great his Sire, him greater we proclaim:
So Atreus yields to Agamemnon's Fame;
Achilles so superior Honours won,
And Peleus must submit to Peleus' Son;
Examples yet more noble to disclose,
So Saturn was eclips'd, when Jove to Empire rose;
Jove rules the Heav'ns, the Earth Augustus sways;
Each claims a Monarch's, and a Father's Praise.

Celestials, who for Rome your Cares employ; Ye Gods, who guarded the Remains of Troy; Ye native Gods, here born, and fix'd by Fate; Quirinus, Founder of the Roman State; O Parent Mars, from whom Quirinus sprung; Chaste Vesta, Casar's Houshould Gods among, Most sacred held; domestic Phabus, thou, To whom with Vesta chaste alike we bow; Great Guardian of the high Tarpeian Rock; And all ye Pow'rs whom Poets may invoke; O grant, that Day may claim our Sorrows late, When lov'd Augustus shall submit to Fate, Visit those Seats, where Gods and Heroes dwell, And leave, in Tears, the World he rul'd so well!

The POET concludes.

The Work is finish'd, which not dreads the Rage Of Tempests, Fire, or War, or wasting Age; Come, soon or late, Death's undetermin'd Day, This mortal Being only can decay;
