JOHN ALEXANDER COOPER

John Alexander Cooper was born in Clinton, Ontario, on the 5th of February, 1868. He received his elementary education in Clinton and taught in the township of Goderich for 3 years. He then attended University College, University of Toronto, where he studied political science, graduating with a B.A. in 1892, and an LL.B. in 1893. In 1896 he became editor of the Canadian Magazine, and in 1906, left that publication to become the first editor of the Canadian Courier.

While attending University, Cooper enrolled in the University Company of the Militia, and after graduation, joined the Queen's Own Rifles. By 1906 he achieved the rank of Captain. Though he retired from the militia in 1912, he was called to active service in 1915, and in 1917, having recruited the 198th Battalion (the Buffs), Cooper went to England with them as their Colonel. When the Buffs were broken up in January 1918, Cooper reverted to the rank of Major and went to France to join the 2nd Division, 4th Infantry Brigade.

In 1919, after Cooper had returned to Canada, he was sent to New York by the Canadian Government to establish a Bureau of Information. When the office was transformed into a trade office in 1921, he returned to Toronto to associate himself with the advertising agency, Smith, Denne and Moore, and to become Secretary of the Motion Picture Distributors' Association. In 1925 he was appointed full time manager of the Motion Picture Distributors' Association and for the next 25 years was concerned with the commercial problems of the Association and legislation concerning the industry. During the Second World War, Cooper was a key figure in the organization which supplied motion pictures to the Canadian Armed Services.

In the course of his working life, Cooper was an influential member of the Canadian Press Association, the Association of Canadian Clubs, the Canadian League, the Dominion Fire Prevention Society, the Musical Protective Society, the Canadian National Exhibition, the Canadian Society of Authors, and the Canadian Red Cross, as well as other organizations and causes concerned with Canadian arts, government and society. Throughout his life he wrote and lectured on the topics which deeply concerned him, particularly, education, journalism, Canadian nationalism and British patriotism. He maintained relationships with many of the most influential Canadians of the time including Prime Ministers Laurier, Borden and Mackenzie King, and other members of the federal and provincial government, as well as Canadian, American and British military men, newspaper editors, businessmen, historians and writers.

Col. Cooper died in Toronto on the 18th of January 1956.

GENERAL DESCRIPTION OF THE JOHN ALEXANDER COOPER PAPERS

The John Cooper Papers consist, primarily, of letters to and from Col. Cooper, written between c.1890 and 1945 on a wide variety of his interests, especially journalism, politics, military history, Canadian nationalism and Canada's relationship with Britain. In addition there are numerous manuscripts and typescripts of articles and addresses by Col. Cooper, reports, memos, minutes, constitutions, military papers, invitations, programmes, menus, visiting and Christmas cards, periodicals, newspaper clippings and some pamphlets on Cooper's many interests.

The John Cooper Papers were donated to the North York Public Library Canadiana Department in 1981. Access to the Papers is unrestricted.

The organization of the John Cooper Papers has been primarily dictated by the order used by Col. Cooper. Most of the series titles were established by Col. Cooper, many of the items found in individual series were placed there by him, and the arrangement of the correspondence reflects Col. Cooper's practice of grouping letters from individuals and copies of his responses to them together, chronologically, under the name of the person involved. Cooper also frequently gathered together correspondence from several individuals, on a specific topic, in one file. Occasionally these items were glued together. These files have been maintained under the sub-series, Attached Correspondence.

The Papers have been divided into two main sections:

- I: Series which reflect Col. Cooper's primary activities and interests according to his unpublished autobiography and his own files.
- II: Series which reflect his personal, family and miscellaneous business concerns, and in addition, manuscripts, typescripts, periodicals, newspaper clippings and photographs of a miscellaneous nature.

Page 1 of the Finding Aid lists the title of each series and the order in which each appears in the Finding Aid.

NOTES ON THE FINDING AID

1. A list of the series titles appears on page i.
2. Most series begin with an introductory paragraph which outlines Col. Cooper's involvement with the topic of the series.
3. The first sub-series within each series, Correspondence, opens with a list of topics covered in the letters. Letters are organized alphabetically by correspondent with incoming letters and copies of Col. Cooper's responses to the correspondent filed together. Entries for Col. Cooper's outgoing letters are indicated by "to" before the correspondent's name. Items under each name are organized chronologically.
4. The second sub-series within each series, Attached Correspondence, contains letters on a specific topic within the series which were fastened together and filed separately by Col. Cooper. Entry includes the range of dates, correspondents involved listed alphabetically (except for Col. Cooper), and the main subject of the correspondence.
5. Subsequent sub-series within each series are appropriate to each specific series.
6. In two series, Canadian Magazine and Business and Personal Correspondence, a brief description of each letter is given.

JOHN ALEXANDER COOPER PAPERS

PART I

PRIMARY ACTIVITIES AND INTERESTS

SERIES: BUREAU OF INFORMATION, N.Y., AND U.S. TRADE RELATIONS

In July of 1919 Col. Cooper was asked, by Sir Robert Borden, to go to New York to re-organize the distribution of Canadian news in the United States. Canada needed publicity in that country prior to floating a large loan in the U.S. market. The Bureau of Information was opened in August 1919 and served not only to publicize Canada and to answer trade inquiries, but to assist Canadian citizens in New York. Cooper was convinced that Canada needed a trade office and trade agents in the United States and for many months wrote letters and gave addresses in support of his conviction in spite of Canada's Federal Government opposition to the idea. Eventually the need for a trade office was accepted, and when Col. Cooper resigned his post in 1921 his successor, Frederic Hudd, Cooper's former assistant, was named the first Trade Commissioner.

SERIES: CANADIAN COURIER

Col. Cooper became the first editor of the Canadian Courier in 1906. Cooper and William H. Moore, the Courier's founders, set out to establish an illustrated national, non-political weekly which provided news, fiction, and informative articles. Over the years of its publication the Courier provided stimulus for the works of Canadian writers and illustrators.

At the outset of war, in 1914, the publisher decided to bring out the Daily Courier, but due to poor sales and distribution problems the venture was abandoned after two months. Col. Cooper resigned from the Courier in 1916 to serve in the Canadian Armed Forces overseas, and when he returned to Canada, in 1919, decided to accept a posting as Canadian Government representative in New York rather than to resume editorship of the Courier.

Correspondence

Subjects include:

- remarks on the quality of the Courier and its editorials, and suggestions for improvement
- financial matter
- editorial business
- possibility of cooperation between the Century and the Courier
- request for items for publication in the Courier
- news service and postage rates

SERIES: CANADIAN LEAGUE AND IMPERIAL RELATIONS

The Canadian League was formed in Toronto in 1911 to arouse patriotism, encourage unity, elicit support for the establishment of a Canadian Navy, and to urge Canadian self-government within the Empire. John Cooper was honorary secretary of the League, and very active in its organization, giving addresses and soliciting support from his many contacts. Cooper was also a member of the Empire Club.

SERIES: CANADIAN MAGAZINE

John Cooper became editor of the Canadian Magazine in August 1895. This publication, which gave opportunity to Canadian writers and artists, was founded in 1893 to cultivate Canadian patriotism and further Canadian interests. Cooper resigned in 1906 to take up editorship of the newly founded Canadian Courier.

SERIES: CANADIAN NATIONAL EXHIBITION

John Cooper became a member of the Canadian National Exhibition organization while he was secretary of the Canadian Press Association and in that capacity organized a "Press Day" to publicize the Exhibition outside Toronto. He served on the Art Committee, using his contacts with Canadian artists, through his work as editor of national magazine, to help improve and expand the Art Gallery and eventually to found a Department of Fine Arts in 1911. From 1905 to 1910 Cooper served as a Director of the Exhibition, and in 1911 & 1912, as Honorary Director.

SERIES: MILITARY ACTIVITIES: PRE-WAR

Col. Cooper joined "K" Company, Queen's Own Rifles, at University of Toronto, in 1890. After graduation, he continued serving in the militia, and by 1897 had achieved the rank of Lieutenant. Shortly after he retired from service. In 1902 Cooper was asked to return to the Militia, which had recently expanded, and in 1906 was made Captain. By 1912 he again retired, and was transferred to the Reserve Officer's List.

SERIES: MILITARY ACTIVITIES: WAR & POST-WAR

When war broke out in 1914, John Cooper decided to join the Canadian Army but withdrew due to other commitments. In December, 1915, he was called up for service, and by February, 1916, as a Colonel, began recruiting a new battalion - 198th O.S. Battalion which was given the sub-title, the Canadian Buffs. The Buffs went to England but were broken up in January, 1918, before they had an opportunity to go into action. Col. Cooper reverted to the rank of Major and went to France in 1918 where he served on the Brigade staff until Armistice in November.

Correspondence

Subjects include:

- war service in France
- Toronto's contribution to the war
- Col. Cooper's writing of a history of the 5th Division;
includes battalion etc. histories
- 198th Battalion business and social events
- Last Post fund
- presentation piece for Buff's mess
- Buff's Association (post-war)
- war-time correspondence from Brig. General Robert Rennie
- Col. Cooper's contribution to the Canadian edition of the Story of the Great War
- veterans' associations

SERIES: PRESS ASSOCIATIONS AND AGENCIES

John Cooper became President of the Canadian Press Association in 1904 after being its Secretary for a number of years. He travelled with a Canadian delegation to a Press Conference at the World's Fair in St. Louis, as president, and in 1905 accompanied the Canadian Manufacturer's Association to Great Britain as honorary journalist. Subsequently Cooper, with two other members of the party, published a souvenir of the trip Official Souvenir: Visit of the Canadian Manufacturers... (see Bibliography p.113). Cooper was elected honorary member of the Canadian Press Association, Inc., in 1919.

SERIES: TEXTBOOK COMMISSION & EDUCATION

John Cooper was appointed to a Board of Commissioners, set up by the Ontario Government in 1906, to inquire into the price of authorized school textbooks. The Commission's findings were submitted in January, 1907, and were published in pamphlet form. The investigation resulted in a reduction in the price of school textbooks.

SERIES: PERIODICAL AND NEWSPAPER CLIPPINGS

Col. Cooper clipped newspapers and periodicals for many years and filed items according to his own subject headings. This series begins with clippings of Cooper's own work, and is followed by a number of obituaries, collected by Col. Cooper. The last section presents the collection of clippings as organized, for the most part, by Cooper himself.
