Ypres, April, 1915

THE cartoon from which this window was made is by Bernard Partridge and appeared in "Punch" shortly after the second battle of Ypres.

It was at the Battle of Ypres when the Germans for the first time used their deadly gasses, and the Canadians by their unparalleled courage barred the way to Calais, and brought great honour not only to Canada but to the British Empire.

SI ELOI

1877-1884

THE GIFT OF WILLIAM HUGH COVERDALE
SON OF WILLIAM MILES COVERDALE, CITY ENGINEER, 1877-1884.

St. Eloi, April, 1916

THE subject of this window is the work of Colonel Nissen, a graduate of Queen's University, who was requested by the Mining and Metallurgical Society of London, England, to submit for their consideration a clay model from which a bronze was to be cast in memory of the members of that Society who made the supreme sacrifice.

Col. Nissen originated the Nissen Hut.

Amiens, Aug., 1918

THIS window was developed from photographs taken at the Riding Establishment of the Royal Military College, and is correct in every detail.

It was at the Battle of Amiens, August, 1918, when the Canadians, on the first day of the battle, advanced 14,000 yards in one day, the deepest penetration made in one day during the period of the war.

SOMME

THE GIFT OF THE CANADIAN LOCOMOTIVE CO LIMITED

---

Somme, 1916

THE subject is the work of McCausland Studios of Toronto, who furnished all the windows in the hall.

It was at the Battle of the Somme, September 15th, 1916, the tanks were first used in modern warfare.

At one time 30,000 women were employed in Mmunition Factories.

During the war Canada furnished munitions to the extent of $1,002,672,413.00.

JUTLAND
MAY 31 1916

THE GIFT OF HIRAM A. GALVIN.

---

Jutland, May 31st, 1916

THIS window refers to the heroism of the British Midshipman.

At the Battle of Jutland the gun crew on one of the cruisers had all been killed, and after the engagement Jack Cornwell was found at his post mortally wounded. When he was asked why he did not leave his reply was typical of the British seaman: "I thought I might be wanted." He died from wounds shortly after the engagement.

His Mother was presented with his Victoria Cross.

LENS

AUG. 1917

THE GIFT OF S. E. KIRKPATRICK

Lens, August, 1917

THE design for this window was taken from the publication known as "Queen Mary's Gift Book," but changes were made in order to have the soldier represent "The Canadian Tommy" and the nurse "A Canadian Nurse."

Two Thousand and Two Canadian Nursing Sisters served Overseas.

Lens was shell battered until it became a heap of ruins.

Wimy, April, 1917

THE subject is from an official photograph of a "Tommy" walking back after having done his bit on that memorable 9th day of April, when the "Byng Boys" again made history for the British Empire, and demonstrated to the Germans that "Der Tag" was growing rapidly near.

The window is so true to the photo that some day some one will recognize the soldier.

Passchendaele, 1917

THIS window was developed from photographs taken at the Royal Military College, and is correct in every detail.

Anyone who took part in this terrible battle will never forget the ordeal through which he passed.

The Canadian operations at Passchendaele extended from October 26th to November 10th, and during that time men lived and ate and slept in mud, water and slime.

Cambrai, 1918

THIS window is from a photograph, taken in France, of a Canadian Airman, as he was ready to enter his machine. Approximately 13,000 Canadians served in the Royal Air Force.

The Battle of Cambrai began on September 27th, 1918, and on October 9th the Canadians, after heavy losses, took Cambrai and made large captures of men and materials.

Scapa Flow, Nov. 23rd, 1918

SCAPA FLOW, like Ypres, is from "Punch" and by Bernard Partridge. This window is in honour of the British Navy, and typifies the surrender of the German Fleet to the British.

The British Admiralty writes under date of August 15th, 1921, "That the German Fleet arrived at Rosyth on the 21st November, 1918, and was transferred to Scapa on the subsequent days." England continues to be "Mistress of the Seas and the Protector of Liberty and Justice."

MONS
NOV 11 - 1918

THE GIFT OF W. F. NICKEL

Mons, Nov. 11th, 1918

THIS window, like Ypres and Scapa Flow, is by Bernard Partridge and from "Punch."

To the "Princess Pats," the first Canadian Regiment to enter the war, came the honour of being the first of the Allied Troops victoriously to re-enter Mons, the historic city where in 1914 the gallant British "Old Contemptibles" had first fought so desperately. The city was completely occupied by the Canadians by two o'clock on the morning of November 11th, three hours before the signing of the Armistice, a new record being established by breaking the German's strongest defenses, and reaching the furthest point of the Allies' great advance.
