BOOK-KEEPING is a mercantile term, used to denote the method of keeping accounts of all kinds, in such a manner that a person may at any time know the true state of his affairs.

Every person engaged in business for himself should keep a book of some kind in which to record all his business transactions. The day-labourer, the farmer, and the mechanic, should keep an account with every person with whom they deal. No one should trust transactions of a pecuniary nature to his memory alone.

The merchant who is incompetent to keep a full and accurate record of his business transactions, or neglects to do it, must abandon all claims to the confidence which he might desire others to repose in him; all hope of success in the accumulation of property; and forego all peace of mind, which he might otherwise enjoy, in the prosecution of his business.

Book-keeping should be more extensively taught in our schools. Among the many books already published on this subject, none are well adapted to, and very few, if any, are intended for, the use of common schools. Hence this important study is almost entirely neglected by those who attend such schools only, and pursued by but few who attend those of a higher grade.

Many, indeed, think that the study of Book-keeping is useless, unless pursued in the counting-room, or in connexion with the actual business of buying and selling. This is a great mistake. Book-keeping is one of the most important branches of study that can be pursued by those of suitable age and attainments in our schools of every grade. It is a highly important branch of female education, and should be ranked next in the course of study, and next in importance, to reading, writing, and arithmetic. As well might a person postpone the study of arithmetic until he has occasion to cast the interest on a note, or to use a knowledge of figures for any other purpose, as to defer the study of Book-keeping till he has the cares of actual business on his mind. In fact, while the pupil is pursuing this study, he is applying the principles of arithmetic in a most practical manner. He is gaining discipline of mind-as much, at least, as by any other study. He is learning to spell the names of a great many articles in commerce, which would not otherwise come under his notice. He is, or may be, improving his style of penmanship, especially when, as in this work, all the items, which he is required to copy, are printed in a beautiful script type. By taking such a view of the subject, we are led unhesitatingly to assert, that the school-room is the place to study Book-keeping; and, with a suitable teacher and text-book, a thorough knowledge of it can be obtained there.

Such a text-book the Authors confidently believe they now submit to the public.

The work is divided into three parts. Part First embraces three forms, or methods of keeping accounts, adapted to the use of particular classes of individuals, and suited to the different capacities of students.

After each form is a practical exercise, designed to test the learner's knowledge of the form he has just passed through, and which cannot fail to give as thorough and practical a knowledge of Book-keeping as could possibly be obtained in a counting-room.

The following are some of the advantages of the "Merchants' Form" over that generally used by them, where the Journal is a mere copy of the Day-Book or Blotter, and where each entry, or all those on the same page of the Journal, are separately posted.

It saves more than one-third of the writing in journalising. It saves at least three-fourths the labour in posting. It requires but twelve lines in the Ledger to post a year's business, while in the ordinary way as many pages may be necessary. In settling with a person at the end of a year, you have only to refer back to twelve places in the Journal to show him all the items of his account, whereas in the ordinary manner of keeping books you might have to refer to five hundred.

Other advantages might be named, but these are deemed sufficient to mention here.

Part Second contains a clear and comprehensive exposition of the principles of Double Entry exemplified in two sets of books, the second of which is peculiarly adapted to a retail business; and as double entry is the only method that can be relied on for accuracy, it is confidently believed that this form of books, when known, will be generally adopted by that class of merchants for whom it is designed.

The Third Part was prepared by a member of the bar, and the authorities consulted, and from which the rules here laid down were collected, (in addition to the reports of our Supreme Courts,) are Story's, Chitty's, and Byle's elaborate and scientific treatises upon bills and notes.

This part consists of rules of evidence and general rules of law, in relation to bills of exchange, &c., together with a large number of forms useful to all classes of business men; such as bonds, receipts, &c., &c.

PREFACE TO THE REVISED EDITION.

In the revision of this work, such alterations have been made as were necessary to meet more fully the wants of both teacher and pupil. These alterations are confined entirely to the arrangement of the materials of the book --- so that the new edition may be used with the old, without creating confusion. In making these alterations, we have endeavoured to avoid the necessity of the pupil's turning pages for references, by having examples, explanations, and memoranda, as far as possible, on opposite pages :----to increase the discipline it gives the student, by changing many of the examples from the script to the memoranda form, in order that, instead of merely copying, the pupil may be compelled to apply the principles;--to aid both teacher and pupil in the prosecution of the study, by the insertion of a large number of questions in connexion with each form ;----to simplify some portions of the work, as the Trial Balance, Balance Sheet, &c. These. with other changes, are such as have been suggested by those who have made practical use of the book, and have tested both its virtues and faults. It is believed that these alterations and additions, together with the new type and style of script, will add greatly to the value and efficiency of the work, thereby insuring it a warm welcome among its patrons.

FORM FOR FARMERS.

THIS Form requires but one book, in which two pages opposite each other are appropriated for each individual account. The name of the person should be written in a bold hand at the top of the page, and the letters Dr. at the right of the name on the left-hand page, and Cr. at the right of the name on the right-hand page. Each page should be divided by perpendicular lines into five spaces, the first for the month, the second for the day of the month, the third for the items, the fourth and fifth for dollars and cents. Whenever you trust the person with anything, the date, name, and value of the thing should be placed on the left-hand or debit page ; and whenever he pays or trusts you with anything, the date, name, and value in dollars and cents should be placed on the right-hand or credit page of his account.

For example, if, on the first of January 1848, you sell I. H. Jameson five bushels of wheat at one dollar and twenty-five cents a bushel, and on the fifteenth day of February following he pays you four dollars; on the fourth day of March you sell him twelve pounds of butter at fifteen cents per pound, eighteen pounds of cheese at eight cents per pound, and ten bushels of oats at thirty-one cents per bushel; and on the first day of May he pays you cash five dollars; and on the tenth day of May, you wish to close the account, and so ask him for what he still owes you, and he pays you the amount in cash, i.e., three dollars and fifty-nine cents—the entries would be as on page 12.

All the accounts should be kept in the above manner, and on the first day of January, or of some other month, in each year, should be settled, and the book balanced.

In settling with a person, if he pays you in cash, or gives you his note to balance his account, give him credit accordingly, as in the account of I. H. Jameson, on the preceding page.

If you pay him cash, or give him your note to balance, charge him accordingly. If the account is not balanced by cash paid, or note given, it should be done by giving the person credit, or charging him with enough to balance it. For instance, if you find that he is owing you, give him credit for the amount "By Balance," and charge the same to him in the new account. If, on the other hand, you find that you are owing him, make him debit for the amount "To Balance," and credit him with same in the new account.

QUESTIONS.

What is this form called ? How many pages are used for each account ? Why should the pages be opposite ? How should each account be headed ? At which side of the name should the letters, Dr. and Cr., be placed ? Into how many spaces should each page be divided ? For what is the first space used ? the second ? the third ? the fourth ? the fifth ? Whenever you trust the person with anything, on which page do you place it ? If the person trust you, on which page ? What three things must be put down in each entry ? When should accounts be settled ? What is meant by the terms "balance"—" halancing an account ?" If the account is not balanced by cash, or a note, how do you balance it ? If you credit the person with the balance, on which page of the new account do you make the entry ? If you debit him, on which page ?

EXAMPLES FOR PRACTICE.

Rule a sheet of paper as directed, and enter the following accounts in the same manner as that of I. H. Jameson.

EXAMPLE I.

On the first day of January 1861, you sell Daniel White ten bushels of wheat at one dollar and ten cents a bushel—three bushels of potatoes at eighty cents a bushel—on the fourth day of February, he pays you ten dollars—on the fifth day of March, he sells you two dozen eggs at eighteen cents a dozen—on the eighth day of April, you sell him six pounds of butter at twenty cents a pound—and on the first day of June, he pays you four dollars and twenty-four cents to balance the account.

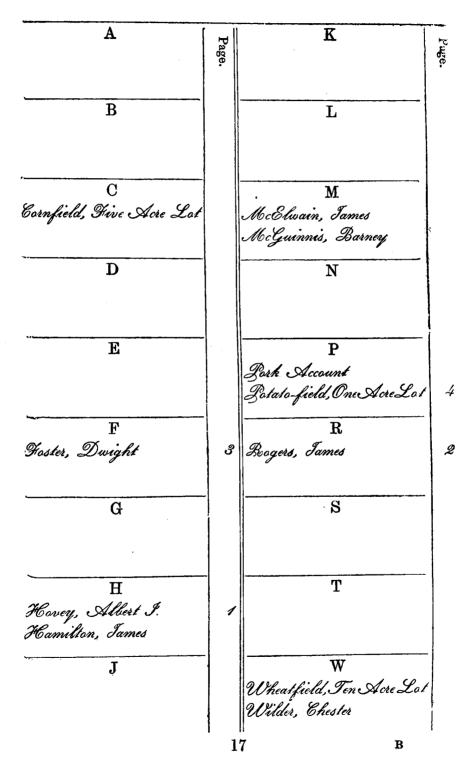

EXAMPLE II.

On the second day of June 1861, you sell George Johnson a horse for one hundred and fifty dollars—on the sixth day of June, he sells you a cow for sixty dollars—on the eighth day of June, he sells you twenty bushels of oats at forty cents a bushel—on the ninth day of June, you sell him forty pounds of wool at forty-five cents a pound—on the first day of August, he gives you his note at six months for one hundred dollars to palance the account.

INDEX.

The Index is sometimes a separate book, but it usually is placed in the front part of the Account-Book. Several pages are divided into spaces, as on the opposite page; each space is marked by a letter. The Index is used to enable us to refer the more readily to accounts in the book. For example, we enter the account of A. I. Hovey on the first page of the book. We look in the Index for the space marked by the letter H., the initial of his name, and enter his name and the number of the page. Whenever we enter any account in the book, we enter the name and number of page in the space of the Index marked by the initial of the In order to refer to any account, we turn to the name. Index, and the space marked with the initial of the name, and there find the page on which is the account, to which we can then at once turn. Sometimes, instead of one page being divided into spaces, each letter has a separate page. If the account should be transferred to another page, the number of the new page must also be placed in the Index by the name. After the learner has thoroughly studied the foregoing principles, let him prepare paper and enter the following accounts, that are explained. Let the paper be ruled with care-the writing distinct-the figures correctly made, and the balancing lines drawn perfectly straight.

The foregoing account is with a merchant. On the left-hand page he is debited with everything you have let him have, and on the righthand page he is credited for everything you have purchased of him. On the 31st day of December 1848, you wish to settle this account, which is done in the following manner.

In the first place you add the sums in the money columns of the debit side of the account, and find they amount to forty-six dollars and fifty-nine cents, which is the sum total of all that you have let him have. You next add the sums in the money columns of the credit side, and find they amount to seventy-eight dollars and eighty-three cents, which is the value of all the articles you have purchased of him.

You then subtract the forty-six dollars and fifty-nine cents, the amount you have let him have, from the seventy-eight dollars and eighty-three cents, the amount purchased of him, and find the difference to be thirty-two dollars and twenty-four cents, which is the amount you owe him. You then pay him this amount, and enter it on the debit side of his account, "To Cash to Balance." The debit and credit sides will now foot alike. You next draw single lines opposite each other under these columns, and after adding and placing the amount under them, you draw double lines to signify that the two sides are balanced and closed.

On comparing this memoranda with the entries in the account above. you will find that whenever I sold J. Rogers any article, I made an entry on the debit side—as in the item, 5 bush. of wheat—placing in the first space the month-in the second, the day of the month-in the third the word "To," followed by the name of the articles, carrying out into the fourth and fifth, the total cost. On the other hand, whenever I bought anything of him, I made the entry on the other pageobserving the same order. On Dec. 30th, I wished to balance this acc't. To do this, I add up the column on the debit page, and find that it amounts to $30.50. I then add up the column on the credit page, which amounts to $26.38. I then subtract the amount of credit from the amount of the debit column, and the remainder shows that he still owes me $4.12. I then make the entry, "Dec. 30th, By balance $4.12;" and draw the lines, which denote that the account is balanced. I then open a new account, either on a new page, or, as in this case, on the same page, and make as the first entry—" Dec. 30th. To balance $4.12." I charge him with $4.12 in the new account, because that is the amount I give him credit for in the old account, in order to balance it.

These transactions would be entered as above. Let the pupil compare, carefully, each entry in the memoranda with its corresponding one in the acc't. On the 30th December I wish to close the account. As in the preceding account of James Rogers, I first find the am't of debit column, and then of the credit column. Having subtracted the smaller from the greater, I find that I still owe him $17.10. Not having the money to pay this amount, I give him my note at 6 months, and, as that represents cash, I make the entry, "Dec. 30th, To my note at 6 mo's to balance, $17.10." I then draw in the figure columns the lines as above, and having added up the columns on each page, the amounts are now of course the same. The lines drawn under the last entry on the credit page denote that the account is balanced and closed.

MEMORANDA OF THE ABOVE ACCOUNT.

1848. May 1st. One day's labour ploughing and harrowing of potatofield, \$2.00. 2d. Bo't 12 bushels of potatoes for seed, at $$.37\frac{1}{2}$. Same day, two days' labour planting the field, at \$1. June 20th. One day's labour ploughing, \$1.50. also, two days' labour, hoeing, at \$1. July 7th. One day's labour ploughing, \$1.50. Sept. 15th. Digging and covering potatoes, \$5.00; also, sold 12 bushels of potatoes, for cash, at \$.25per bushel; also, sold 25 bushels of small potatoes at \$.20 per bush. 1849. Mar. 17th. Paid for 3 days' labour, marketing, at \$2 per day!; also, received cash for 300 bushels potatoes at \$.35 per bushel.

Besides accounts with persons, the farmer finds it not only convenient but useful to keep accounts with his different fields and departments of labour, in order to know, accurately, the yearly gains. The above account is one kept to ascertain the profit on a potato-field for one year. It is headed "Potato-field, One Acre Lot." It is made debtor to the labour of preparing and cultivating the ground, to the cost of the seed, to digging and covering the crop, and the cost of marketing. It is credited with the receipts for the crop. By adding up the columns, as in foregoing account, and subtracting the less from the greater, we find that the receipts exceed the expenses $88.50, which is then entered on the debtor side, as "March 17th, To profit on 1 acre of potatoes, $88.50," in order to balance and close the account. By pursuing this method with all his fields, the farmer may determine with accuracy the whole profit arising from the cultivation of his farm.

QUESTIONS.

What is the Index ? In what part of the book is it placed ? Is it ever a separate book ? Describe its ruling and use. How would you enter A. I. Hovey's account in Index ? How does the Index enable you to refer to an account? If an account is transferred to another page in the Ledger, what entry do you make in the Index ? When the learner has become so familiar with the foregoing exercises, as to be able to enter the accounts nicely on paper ruled for the purpose, let him enter in his blank book the memoranda on the following pages. The pupil should avoid all mistakes. The teacher should insist upon the entries being made with the greatest care. A blot on the page is unpardonable. All figures should be made with great neatness. The heading of each account should be in a good bold style—the entries in a clear writing without flourishes. The ruler should be used in drawing the lines. A quill pen and red ink are the best for this purpose.

PRACTICAL EXERCISES.

FARMER'S FORM.

The learner having carefully studied and practised upon the preceding accounts, may now enter in his blank-book the memoranda on the following pages, being careful to write distinctly, and to make all the letters and lines correctly, avoiding mistakes. In these memoranda the names are not given, but the occupation, as merchant, blacksmith, shoemaker, tailor, &c. The learner may substitute for these the names of persons with whom he is acquainted following these occupations. The price per yard, ounce, pound, ton, day, month, pair, piece, &c., is given, leaving the amount to be extended by the learner. He may also substitute the abbreviations, wherever they can be, in place of the whole word.

The accounts to be opened in this set are with a merchant, shoemaker, blacksmith, tailor, harness-maker, hired man, neighbour, corn-field, and wheat-field; and if the transactions are properly disposed of, the balances will show that I am indebted as follows: To the shoemaker, $8.20; the hired man, $82.31; the harness-maker, $19.00; the blacksmith, $9.00; the merchant, $5.25. The tailor owes me $11.09; my neighbour owes me $1.25. Profit on 10 acres of corn, $85.83; do. on 15 acres of wheat, $185.08.

The foregoing principles are sufficient to enable any farmer to keep accurate accounts—ascertaining what crops, &c., are the most profitable. It is the usual custom to keep the cash account in a separate book, called the Cash-book. A full explanation of that book is given in another part of this volume.

FORM FOR MECHANICS.

THE books necessary in this form are the Day-book and Ledger. The cash account may be kept in a separate book —forming a Cash-book, or not, at the option of the bookkeeper.

The accounts might be kept, as in the Farmer's form, in one book,—i.e., the Ledger; only, it would not be as convenient, for the mechanic is constantly called away from his business to attend to the wants of his customers. And, besides, having many more accounts and entries to make than the farmer, these accounts are of a different nature, such as cannot be remembered till evening, as those of the farmer. Hence it is necessary that the mechanic should use a book, in which he can make a full record of the transactions as they occur, and then at his leisure, he can arrange the various entries in their respective accounts in the Ledger.

The Day-book is a book in which all business transactions should be recorded at the time and in the order in which they occur. It is divided by perpendicular lines into seven spaces. The month occupies the first space; the day of the month, the second; the name of the person and the transaction, the third; the value of the items, in dollars and cents, the fourth and fifth; and their sum total, the sixth and seventh.

If, for example, on the first day of January 1848, you sell Benjamin Hamilton the following articles :---One brassplated single harness for thirty dollars, one pair of halters for one dollar and seventy-five cents, and one riding-bridle for one dollar and fifty cents,---your Day-book entry would be as follows :---

Lyons, Panuary 1st, 1848. Jan. 1 Benjamin Hamilton Dr. To 1 Brass P. S. Harness 30 00 ... 1 Br. Halters 1 75 ... 1 Boiding Bridle 1 50 33 25

If you had purchased the same articles of Hamilton, all the difference in the entries would have been this: after the name on the first line, in the place of Dr. you should have written Cr.; and on the next line, in the place of Toyou should have written By.

Whenever it is necessary to repeat the date, or the word To or By, it may be done by placing two dots (thus, ") under the date or word to be repeated. One line should be left between every two entries.

QUESTIONS.

What is this form? How many books are needed in this form? Name them. Is a Cash-book needed? Could the accounts be kept in one book? Why, then, do they use two? What is the Day-book for? When and how should the transactions be entered? Into how many spaces is the book divided? For what is the first space used? the second, third, fourth, fifth, sixth, seventh? Explain the example given? What difference would have occurred in the entries, if you had purchased the articles of him? Instead of repeating date, what may you write? Instead of repeating the words To and By, what may you write? How much space should you leave between each entry?

The pupil will please notice, carefully, each abbreviation, and the position of each entry on the opposite page. The entries should be so made, that if a straight line should be drawn down the page it would pass through the initial of each name, another through the word "To," another through the word "Dr." Attention to these particulars will insure that neatness and precision which are absolutely necessary in book-keeping.

Let the pupil study carefully these memoranda, as entered on opposite page. The date is set down first-the month in the first space, the day of the month in the second. The name of the person is placed on the same line in the third space, and in the same space, near the double line, the word "Dr.," if he has purchased of you, "Cr.," if you have purchased of him. In the same space, under the name, place the word "To," if "Dr." is written after the name, and "By," if "Cr." After this word place the item, the price of each article, if composed of several, as in H. Woodward's acc't - "3 Hame Straps, .13"- then place amount of item, if there is one entry, in the sixth and seventh spaces, as in entry of Aaron B. Patterson. If there is more than one item, place the amount in fourth and fifth spaces, as in the account of Horatio N. Short, "To 1 Valise, 3.00," and then place the combined amount of the several items in sixth and seventh spaces on the same line of last item, as in H. N. Short's account, last line-

From the preceding explanations the pupil will be able to enter the following memoranda in his Day-book. Let them be entered in immediate connexion with the memoranda on preceding pages, of which they are a continuation. Let the teacher, in examining the entries made by the pupil, notice every mistake, either in entering the memoranda, or in writing, or in figures. He should insist upon the columns of figures being so placed that figures of the same order shall come under each other.

ALPHABET, OR INDEX.

THE ALPHABET, or INDEX, is a small book in which are arranged, in alphabetical order, the names of all persons having accounts in the Ledger, together with the pages on which such accounts are entered.

This book was fully explained in the last set, but to assist the pupil the names of the accounts in this set have been placed in the proper places. The pupil may copy these names into the blank index. The number of the page has been purposely omitted. Let the pupil, as soon as he opens an account in the Ledger, place the number of the page opposite the name in the Index.

THE LEDGER.

The LEDGER is a book to which each person's account is transferred from the Day-book, and arranged on a page by itself. The name of such person should be written in a bold hand at the top of the page, with Dr. on the left and Cr. on the right.

Each page of the Ledger should be divided by a double perpendicular line into two equal parts; the one for the debtor, and the other for the creditor side of the account. Each of these parts should also be divided by perpendicular lines into six spaces; the first space for the month, the second for the day of the month, the third for the items, the fourth for the page of the Day-book on which the original entries were made, and the fifth and sixth for dollars and cents.

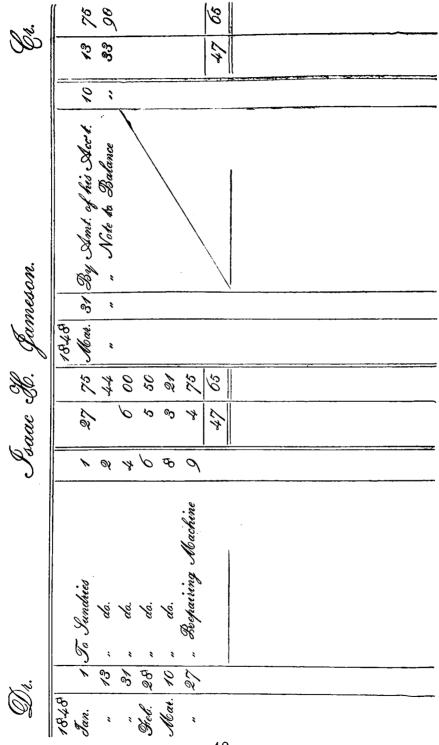

The first account to be opened in the Ledger is that of the person whose name stands first in the Day-book. As soon asit is opened it should be entered in the Alphabet.

POSTING BOOKS in this form is collecting and transferring each person's account from the Day-book to its appropriate page in the Ledger. The entries recorded in the Day-book should be posted in the order in which they occur; that is, the first entry should be the first posted, and the second entry next, and so on until they are all posted.

Whenever there is more than one article charged or credited to an individual on the same page of the Daybook, the several sums should be added, and the amount entered in the Ledger, To, or By Sundries; but when there is but one article so charged or credited, it may be specified in the Ledger.

QUESTIONS.

What is the Alphabet ? What entries are made in it ? For what purpose is it used ? When do you make an entry in this book ? What is the Ledger ? How are the accounts arranged in it ? How should the page in the Ledger be headed ? Into how many equal parts is the Ledger page divided ? What are these for ? Into how many spaces should each of the parts be divided ? For what are the different spaces used ? Whose account must be opened first in the Ledger ? What entry to be made in the Index when an account is opened in the Ledger ? What is meant by "Posting Books?" How should entries in Day-book be posted ? When there is more than one item in the charge on Day-book, what must be done ? How will you enter the amount in Ledger ? If there is but one item in the charge, what may be done ?

The pupil will find on the opposite page the account of Isaac H. Jameson, as it would appear in the Ledger.

On the first page of the Day-book you will find the name of Isaac H. Jameson, the first recorded. He is there, on the first day of January 1848, made debtor for one set of double harness at twenty-six dollars, and one pair of halters at one dollar and seventy-five cents; the sum total is twenty-seven dollars seventy-five cents; hence, we make the entry---

Jan. | 1. | To Sundries | 1 || $27 | 75 |

On the second page, 13th day of January, for one halter strap, at thirty-one cents, and mending tug, thirteen cents; sum total, forty-four cents, and we make the entry next to the one just entered. On the fourth page, 31st day of January, for repairing harness, one dollar; one pair of tugs, three dollars; one pair of tugs, two dollars; sum total, six Of this we make the third entry on debit side of dollars. On the sixth page, 28th day of January, for footaccount. ing fine boots, three dollars fifty cents; one pair of gaiters for wife, two dollars; sum total, five dollars fifty cents, which makes the fourth entry on debit side. On the eighth page, 10th day of March, for seventeen pounds of gate hinges, at thirteen cents per pound, two dollars twentyone cents; shoeing horse, one dollar; sum total, three dollars twenty-one cents. This is posted as the fifth entry on the debit side. On the ninth page, 27th day of March, for repairing threshing-machine, four dollars seventy-five cents, which is entered as last entry on debit side. And on the tenth page, 31st day of March, he is made credit for the amount of his account, thirteen dollars seventy-five cents, and his note to balance the account, thirty-three dollars and ninety cents, and should be posted as on the following The same method page on the credit side of the account. is pursued in posting the other accounts.

On the opposite page you will find the same account Isaac H. Jameson's) posted by figures, the small figures indicating the Day-book page, and the large ones the amount of the entry transferred. When the line is filled, these sums are added, and the sum total extended into the money columns. This method is very simple, and needs no further explanation after the instructions given on preceding page. It is not as full as the first method of posting, but is adopted by some, because it occupies so much less space in the Ledger than the former. The learner, if he chooses, may practise both.

By a careful study of the account given above, and the explanations accompanying it, the pupil will be enabled readily to post the remaining accounts. In order to guide the pupil in this labour, the accounts of Henry B. Holbrook, Daniel W. Potter, Charles D. Campbell, and Franklin S. Clark are given, as they will appear, if correctly posted. If the remaining accounts are properly posted by the pupil, he will find the following amounts necessary in order to balance them :-- Sylvester N. Nurse, --; Horace O. Bigelow, $3.75; William Gridley, -; Bela Dunbar, -; Charles Harford, -; James S. Hawkins, -; Clark N. Fulton, $46.88; Aaron B. Patterson, $15.38; Cornelius O. Rumsey, 72c.; Horatio N. Short, (Cr.,) $2.74; Henry Woodward, -; John Lynd, $6.50; Hiram Hawley, (Cr.,) $31.32; Andrew C. Mynderse, $5.88; Timothy N. Foster, $71.50; Timothy G. Baldwin, —; James H. Gillet, $23.50.

NOTE.—The dash indicates that the accounts after which it is placed balance.

PRACTICAL EXERCISES.

The form on the preceding pages, although it is designated as the "Mechanic's Form," is, nevertheless, well adapted to the use of professional men and merchants; and from the fact that a majority of merchants in the small villages throughout the country keep their books after this form, we have thought best to give a Memorandum of the business transactions of a merchant for three months, requiring the pupil to record them in the Day-book, post to the Ledger, and balance the accounts as in the preceding. The price per ounce, pound, gallon, yard, or piece, is given, leaving the amount to be extended by the learner; and if the above-described operation is correctly performed, it will be found, on balancing the books, that the following persons are indebted to you for the sums opposite each name :---Hiram Mann, $39.42; Milton Seely, $42.71; Albert J. Hovey, $7.17; Charles R. Hecox, $4.49; William F. Ashley, $9.15; Ephraim B. Price, $6.43; Peter Brant, $17.63; William Walling, $7.52; Merrit Thornton, $23.03; John Messenger, $1.71; Alpheus Clark, $8.81; Samuel Weaver, $28.66; John Hancock, $12.63; Samuel Moore. $17.21; Nathan Brittan, $5.36; and you are indebted to Myron Holmes, $2.32.

FORM FOR MERCHANTS.

THE principal books of this form are the Day-book or Blotter, the Journal, the Ledger, and Cash-book.

The DAY-BOOK and the manner of keeping it are the same as described in the second form, with these exceptions: the manner and place of dating are different, and it is ruled with single money-columns, instead of double.

A PETTY ALPHABET or INDEX to the Day-book should also be kept, in which all the names entered in the Daybook during a month should be entered and alphabetically arranged.

This book should be commenced on the evening of the first business day of each month, by writing in it all the names that were entered in the Day-book during the day, together with the pages on which such entries were made; and so every evening during the month, enter in the Alphabet all the new names that appear in the Day-book, with their pages; and if a name appears that has already been entered in the Alphabet, enter the number of the page on which it stands opposite such name. Whenever the name occurs more than once on the same page of the Daybook, it is indicated in the Alphabet by repeating the number of the page. A small cross (+) placed after the figure indicates that there is a credit-entry on that page in the Day-book.

The JOURNAL is a book into which all the items of each person's account are transferred from the Day-book, and so arranged that those for each month are collected together.

At the close of every month the Day-book should be journalized, which is done in the following manner: Transfer the first entry of the month, in the Day-book, to the Journal; then find the name thus transferred in the Alphabet, and if that has been kept as above directed, you will see on what pages of the Day-book this name again occurs; then turn to these pages in order, and transfer to the Journal all the items entered to this name, placing them under the name already entered there, with the dates, &c., keeping the debits and credits by themselves. After thus transferring them, place two parallel lines (thus //) opposite each entry on the Day-book, to indicate that they had been carried to the Journal. Proceed in the same manner with the next name in the Day-book, and so on until all is journalized.

After journalizing the month's transactions, the books should be compared to see if the accounts are correctly journalized; and if found correct, write in the Day-book, after the last entry for the month, Examined.

The LEDGER in this form is a book in which a whole, or a part of a page, is appropriated to every account in the Journal.

This book is ruled like the Ledger of the second form, but the lines which there separate the space for the day of the month from the month may be omitted.

An ALPHABET or INDEX to the Ledger, like the one described in the second form, is necessary.

At the close of the first month the Journal should be posted. But before this is done, the Ledger, (which we will suppose is new,) should be paged, and the names of all the persons, (including Stock, Cash, and Merchandise,) with whom you have opened an account should be written at the top of the space appropriated to such account. These names, with Dr. on the left and Cr. on the right, should be written in a bold hand, and then should be alphabetically arranged in the Index, with the page of the Ledger on which they are recorded. The Journal should next be page-marked, which is done as follows:—Open to the first account in it, and then find in the Alphabet what page of the Ledger is appropriated to this account, and place the number of this page on the margin of the Journal, opposite such account. Proceed in the same manner until each account in the Journal is page-marked.

You are now prepared to post the books. Commence with the first account in the Journal; the figure in the margin shows the page of the Ledger appropriated to this Enter on the Dr. side of that page the month in account. the first space; "To Merchandise" in the wide space, the page of the Journal in the next, and the sum total of the debits in the two next spaces. Then if there are any credits to this account in the Journal, their sum total should be entered in the Ledger on the Cr. side in the same manner, except in the wide space write "By Cash," "By Merchandise," or "By Sundries," as the case may be. Then place two parallel oblique lines, one above and the other below the figure in the margin, to indicate that the account has been posted. Proceed in the same manner until each account in the Journal for the month has been posted. At the close of the next and the subsequent months, the Journal should be posted in the same manner as above described.

Every month, immediately after the Journal has been posted, it should be compared with the Ledger, to see if any mistakes have been made in posting. In order to facilitate this, it should be done by two persons. One should take the Journal, and commencing with the first account in the month, give its title and the page of the Ledger upon which it is posted, as indicated by the figures in the margin of the Journal; the other should then turn to this page in the Ledger, and see if it is correctly posted, while the first reads from the Journal the entry, amount, page, &c.

In comparing the books, if any account is found to have been overlooked, it of course should be posted immediately.

If an entry has been made on the wrong side of an account in the Ledger, it should not be erased, but the same amount should be entered on the opposite side of this account "To" or "By Error," and then the entry made as it should have been at first.

If an entry has been posted to the wrong account, the same amount should be entered on the opposite side of this account "To" or "By Error," and it should then be posted in its proper place.

When either the Day-book, Journal, or Ledger is written full, its place is supplied by a new one, and the different books are usually designated by the first letters of the alphabet: the first Day-book as Day-book A; the second, Day-book B: the first Journal as Journal A; the second, Journal B: the first Ledger as Ledger A; the second, Ledger B; the third, Ledger C, &c.

After writing the Day-book for the months of January, February, and March, journalizing and posting it to the Ledger, the accounts may be balanced.

Balancing accounts is placing a sufficient sum on the least side of an account to make it equal with the greatest, and is done by adding the Dr. and Cr. columns, subtracting the least from the greatest, and making the account $\overline{D}r$. "To," or Cr. "By Balance," for the difference. The debit and credit sides will now foot alike. Next draw single lines opposite each other under these columns, and, after adding and placing the amount under them, draw double lines under the amount, to signify that the two sides are balanced and closed; then bring down the balance by making the account Dr. "To," or Cr. "By Balance" of old account. But if the Ledger is full, and you wish to transfer the account to a new one, let the balancing entry be "To," or "By Balance to Ledger B;" and in the new Ledger, "To," or "By Balance from Ledger A."

In the following set of books, after writing the Day-book, journalizing and by posting the three months' transactions, the books may be balanced, and the accounts transferred to a new Ledger.

The same plan will be adopted in this as in the two preceding forms. A portion of the accounts will be in the memoranda form, with explanations on one page, and the memoranda, as they appear when entered in the book, on the opposite page. Great care must be taken with this form, otherwise but little, if any, progress can be made in the second portion of the book. Let the teacher require the pupil to be thoroughly acquainted with the questions that follow, and, in examining the books of the pupil, rigidly enforce the principles that have been given.

QUESTIONS.

The method of entering the memoranda in Daybook being so similar to the preceding forms, further explanation is deemed unnecessary. BOOK-KEEPING.

JOURNALIZING.

As Journalizing is a process not yet familiar to the student, the memoranda given on the preceding pages are arranged in journal form on the following pages. The student must not merely copy these entries from the Textbook, as that would be a mere exercise in writing. It is expected that he will apply the principles given in the instructions on journalizing in the first part of this form. After he has made the entries as well as he can in his Journal, he may compare it with the form given in the book, and correct the error, if any have been made. A good method is to journalize on a slate or paper, and then, after correcting, copy the entries into the book. It is of great importance that the teacher should insist upon the pupil's journalizing by the principles, and on no account should he permit him to merely copy from the text-book.

MERCHANTS' FORM.

The pupil will perceive at once that the principles of posting are the same as in the two preceding forms. The accounts are posted from the Journal, and as in accounts on opposite page: First, the name is written, with Dr. on the left hand, and Cr. on the right; second, the date, year, and month, is placed in first space; the article in the second space, the page of the Journal in the third space, and the sum, or amount of the month's dealings, as per Journal, in the fourth and fifth spaces. The student will notice that the account of Pierce & Wilson is balanced, "Mar. To Bal. Ledger B, page 1, $173." This entry is made on the supposition that the accounts are to be transferred from this Ledger to another; this Ledger, as the first, is Ledger A, and the second would be called Ledger B. The accounts of Pierce & Wilson; Magie, Sanderson, & Co.; Benedict & Rockwell, Joseph M. Demmon, Moses Austin, and George C. Dean, are given to guide the pupil. The others, if properly posted, will require the following amounts to balance them : Nathan Brittan, $31.48; Rev. Ira Ingraham, $31.26; Miss Mary Emmonds, $5.65; Hugh Jameson, $19.20; John Adams, $45.59; Horatio N. Taft, $22.68; John M. Holley, $23.09; Levi S. Fulton, $51.25; Abram L. Beaumont, $42.41; Samuel Moore, $16.42; Aaron D. Polhamus, $32.16; James C. Smith, $9.82; James Rogers, $8.94; George C. Youngs, $6.84; Thomas Rook, $12.45; James McElwain, $14.01; Lucius S. BOOK-KEEPING.

PRACTICAL EXERCISES.

MERCHANTS' FORM.

For the purpose of giving a more practical knowledge of the foregoing form of books, we have given on the following pages a Memorandum of the transactions as they occurred, for the months of April, May, and June, giving the price per yard, pound, ounce, gallon, or piece, leaving the amount to be extended by the learner.

Before commencing the Day-Book, transfer the balances from the last Ledger to the new one, making the persons that are indebted to you debtor "To Balance from Ledger A," and the persons to whom you are indebted credit "By Balance from Ledger A," placing the number of the page from whence the account was transferred in the column appropriated for that purpose, so that, in case of necessity, the old account may be more readily referred to.

The transactions on the following pages may now be recorded in the blank Day-Book in the same manner as in the preceding form. After writing one month, journalize and post it, according to the directions previously given.

If the balances of the accounts in Ledger A are properly transferred to Ledger B, and the transactions on the following pages correctly recorded, journalized, and posted, the accounts in Ledger B will, with the exception of the account of Levi S. Fulton, all balance.

The learner may, if he chooses, substitute his own name for that of Levi S. Fulton; and instead of Lyons, at the top of the page in the Day-Book and Journal, he may insert his own place of residence.

CASH-BOOK.

BOOK-KEEPING.

PETTY CASH-BOOK.

This book is intended for the cash account, so that by referring to it we may at any time ascertain the amount of cash on hand, and, furthermore, by comparing the amount, as represented by the book, with the amount actually on hand, we may detect any error in expenditure.

This book should be ruled like the Journal, as in the form on the following pages. The word Cash should be written in a bold hand at the top of the page, near the centre, with Dr. over the left-hand money columns, and Cr. over the right.

The receipts of cash should be entered in the debit columns, and the disbursements in the credit columns, and balanced every night. For example, see the opposite page.

This book may be written on the last three or four pages of the Journal.

In order fully to illustrate this account, I have given a memoranda of cash receipts and expenditures for January. In order to make the method perfectly plain to the pupil, I have given on the opposite page the form of entry, as far as January 7th. The pupil will, after carefully studying the explanation, enter the following memoranda :---

Note.--It is often difficult to make pupils understand the propriety of making Cash debit when it is received, and credit when it is paid away. This difficulty may be obviated by explaining to them the original meaning of the word Cash. The word originally signified Chest. or a place where money was kept, instead of money itself. Now, if I placed all the money I received in a certain box, I could at any time tell by my books how much there was in it, if I made the box Dr. for all sums put into it, and Cr. for all sums taken out. Just so with Cash. Whenever I receive money, I put it in some place, and calling this place Cash, make it Dr. for the amount placed there, the same as I would a person, if I placed the money in his hands for safe keeping. And so, whenever I take out any money from the place where I keep it, and pay it away, I give Cash sredit for it. The difference, then, between the Dr. and Cr. sides of the Cash account thus kept, shows how much money I have on hand. On the next page will be found another method of keeping the Cash-Book. Where the page is divided into two equal parts, and the Dr. and Cr. entries separated, and each placed on its appropriate side of the account, it is balanced every night, and the balance brought down. The learner may practise both forms. making up of the same transactions in this as in the preceding form.

ACCOUNT SALES.

An Account Sales is a statement of goods sold on commission, drawn up by the agent to whom they were consigned, to be transmitted to the person who made the consignment. For example, a person in New York having a quantity of goods to dispose of, sends them to a person in a section of the country where they are likely to find ready sale. The one to whom they are sent is called the agent; the goods, the consignment; and the amount received by the agent for selling, the commission.

BILLS RECEIVABLE.

All written obligations for the payment of money, which you hold against other individuals, are called Bills Receivable, and should be entered in the Bill-book when taken. By referring to this book, the time that notes become due can be ascertained without referring to or examining your package of notes. Notes received are usually labelled and put away in a safe place, so that constant reference to them would be inconvenient ; hence the utility of this book. When the business is so large as to involve many notes. they are usually arranged so that notes falling due in the same month are in one package, -the notes of each month forming a separate package. The page of the book should be divided into twelve spaces, as on the opposite page. Each space should then be labelled as on opposite page. The first note received was that of Moses Austin, dated June 2, 1848, for $17.61, for thirty days. It being the first note, we place its number (1) in first space, the name of maker in the second, the one to whom it is payable in third, the amount in fourth and fifth, the date of note in sixth and seventh, the time it has to run in eighth; then, computing thirty days from June 2d, and adding in the usual three days of grace, we find it becomes due on July 5th, and so enter that date in ninth and tenth spaces. If it had been made payable at any particular place, we would have put the name of that place in the eleventh space, and any particulars as to payment, &c., in the twelfth space. The other notes were entered in the same way.

BILLS PAYABLE.

All written obligations for the payment of money which you give to other persons are called Bills Payable, and should be entered in this book when given. By an inspection of this, the time when your notes fall due may be ascertained. The pupil will see at once, as he examines this book, that the ruling and method of using is the same as that of Bills Receivable, and it, therefore, needs no further explanation.

ACCOUNT CURRENT.

An Account Current is a detailed statement of business transactions in the form of Dr. and Cr. as above, and is drawn off from the account of the person in the Journal, or Ledger. It is, in fact, an exact copy of the account in the Ledger, and is drawn off usually every six months, in order that each person may know the exact state of his account with the firm.

BANK-BOOK.

This is a book usually given by banks to persons depositing money with them. On the Dr side is entered all sums deposited, with the date, and name of the individual by whom deposited : this is done by the receiving clerk.

At the close of the month, the amount drawn out should be placed on the Cr. side, and the book balanced.

The sum total of the deposits for the month should be transferred to the Dr, and the amount checked out during the month to the Cr side of the bank account in the Ledger. BILL OF PURCHASE.

BILL OF PURCHASE

Is a statement of goods bought at one time, containing the items and prices. If paid at the time, it should be receipted and signed, as in the form on the opposite page; but if charged, in the place of Received Payment, write Charged in Account.

Bills of Purchase, or more properly Invoices, should be carefully examined, folded of a uniform width, and filed away; and as merchants generally purchase goods periodically, the date of purchase may be written on the band enclosing them. On the first day of January in each year, or at the time of balancing the books, the Invoices for the past year should be put into one package, and the year in which the purchases were made written on the band enclosing them.

All orders should be filed away in monthly packages, with the month written on the band enclosing them, so that when settling with an individual whom you have charged with goods per order, if he dispute your book, you can immediately refer to the order.

Care should be taken to have all papers, intended to be filed away, folded of a uniform width, for the simple reason that they thus form neater packages.

BILL OF BOOK ACCOUNT.

BILL OF ACCOUNT

Is an accurate statement of an individual account, copied from the Day-book, containing a list of the items, the prices, and the date of each purchase. It is sometimes drawn off by the merchant, and sent to the customer, and often at his request. If paid, it should be receipted and signed by the merchant, as in form on opposite page.

NOTE.—The teacher should enforce these principles, and make the pupil proficient by directing him to draw up specimens of the different accounts, &c., that have been explained.

BOOK-KEEPING.

PART SECOND

DOUBLE ENTRY BOOK-KEEPING.

DOUBLE ENTRY.

THIS term is derived from the fact that every business transaction recorded in the Day-book is entered twice in the Ledger—once on the debtor and once on the creditor side.

DEBTOR AND CREDITOR.

These terms are correlative; the one implies and involves the other. Wherever there is a debtor, there must necessarily be a creditor of an equal amount; and wherever there is a creditor, there must be a debtor, &c.

APPLICATION OF DEBTOR AND CREDITOR.

In single entry these terms are (with the exception of cash) only applied to persons, but in double entry they are applied alike to persons and property, the persons being made debtor for what you have trusted them, and creditor for what they have paid or trusted you; and the property accounts being made debtor for the value or cost of the property, and creditor for what it produces when disposed of.

CLASSES OF ACCOUNTS.

There are three classes of accounts in Book-keeping, styled Personal, Real, and Fictitious. Personal accounts are the accounts of the persons with whom the merchant deals; Real accounts are the accounts of his property; and Fictitious accounts are titles invented to represent the merchant and his gains or losses in business.

BOOK-KEEPING.

BOOKS USED.

The principal books used are the Day-book, Journal, and Ledger. The auxiliary books vary according to the nature of the business, and are the Cash-book, Bill-book, Invoicebook, Sales-book, Account-Current-book, Book of Shipments, Letter-book, Receipt-book, &c., &c.

DEFINITION OF BOOKS.

DAY-BOOK.

This book should contain a concise and comprehensive history of the merchant's business transactions; commencing with an inventory of his effects, and the debts due him, also of the debts due by him to others. After this, his business transactions should be recorded at the time and in the order in which they occur; they should contain the date, the name of the person, the condition of the bargain, and price of the goods. In writing this book, every thing should be clearly expressed in as uniform a style as possible, and the use of ambiguous words and phrases carefully avoided.

JOURNAL.

This is a book in which the business transactions recorded in the Day-book are prepared to be entered in the Ledger, by ascertaining the proper debits and credits of each transaction. This process is called journalizing.

LEDGER.

This is a book in which a page, or portion of one, is allowed for every account found in the Journal, with the name of the account written over the space so appropriated, to which the accounts are transferred from the Journal and placed under their respective heads. This process is called posting.

BOOK-KEEPING.

ALPHABET OR INDEX.

In order that the accounts in the Ledger may be more conveniently referred to, an alphabet or index is made by arranging the names of the accounts alphabetically, and placing opposite the name the number of the page on which the account may be found in the Ledger.

AUXILIARY BOOKS.

A merchant's accounts may all be kept in the Day-book, Journal, and Ledger; but in most kinds of business, for the sake of abridging these books, it is found convenient to have other books. These vary in number according to the nature of the business, and are termed auxiliary books, and are as follows :—

CASH-BOOK.—For definition and manner of keeping this book, see pages 115 and 116.

BILL-BOOK.—For definition, &c., see page 120.

BANK-BOOK.—For definition, &c., see pages 122 and 123.

ACCOUNT-CURRENT-BOOK. — For definition of Account-Current, see page 121 The Account-Current-book contains simply copies of these accounts.

ACCOUNT-SALES-BOOK. — For definition of Account-Sales, see page 117. The Account-Sales-book contains copies of these accounts.

SALES-BOOK.—This is a book in which all sales of goods are entered at the time they are sold. After a purchaser has made his selection of goods, they should be entered in this book, from which his bill is copied. His name and the sum total of the sale are transferred to the Day-book.

INVOICE-BOOK.—This is a book in which are copied all bills of goods purchased. It is sometimes made of coarse paper and the original invoices pasted into it.

LETTER-BOOK.—This book contains copies of all businessletters.

DEFINITION AND OBJECT OF ACCOUNTS.

FICTITIOUS ACCOUNTS.

STOCK ACCOUNT represents the merchant, and is made Dr. for what he owes when he commences business, and Cr. for what he carries into business. The difference between the Dr. and Cr. of this account is his net capital.

PROFIT AND LOSS ACCOUNT is kept to show the gain or loss arising from business, and is made Dr. for all losses and Cr. for all gains. The difference between the Dr. and Cr. is the net gain.

INTEREST ACCOUNT is kept to show the gain or loss on interest. It is made Dr. for all sums paid for interest, and Cr. for all sums received for interest. The difference between the Dr. and Cr. shows the gain or loss on interest.

EXPENSE ACCOUNT is kept to show how much has been paid for store expenses, such as clerk hire, store rent, freight, cartage, porterage, postage, &c. For all such expenses this account is made Dr.; the Cr. side contains nothing until the books are balanced.

REAL ACCOUNTS.

MERCHANDISE ACCOUNT.—This account is kept to show the gain or loss on goods bought and sold. It is made Dr. for the value of merchandise on hand commencing business, and for the amount of all subsequent purchases; and Cr. for the amount of all sales. If the merchandise is all sold, the difference between the Dr. and Cr. will be the gain or loss on merchandise. If the goods are not all sold, the value of the balance remaining unsold should be placed on the Cr. side, and the difference will then be the gain or loss.

REAL ESTATE ACCOUNT is kept to show the gain or loss on real estate. It is made Dr. for its cost—as purchase-money, repairs, taxes, &c., and Cr. for what it produces, either in rent or sales. If it is not all sold, the value of what remains unsold should be placed on the Cr. side of the account. The difference between the Dr. and Cr. will be the gain or loss on real estate.

SHIPMENT OR CONSIGNMENT ACCOUNT is kept to show the gain or loss on property consigned by the merchant to some person to sell on his account and risk. It is made Dr. for what the consignment costs him, that is, the value of the goods, freight, insurance, &c., and is made Cr. for the net proceeds of the sales. The difference between the Dr. and Cr. of this account is the gain or loss.

JAMES HOLMES' CONSIGNMENT ACCOUNT is kept when goods are consigned by him to the merchant to be sold on his account and risk. It is made Dr. for all expenses you incur on account of the consignment, and Cr. for the amount of all sales. The difference between the Dr. and Cr. of this account is the net proceeds, and should be placed to the Cr. of Holmes' personal account.

WHEAT ACCOUNT is kept to show the gain or loss on wheat as a separate branch of business. It is made Dr. for all sums paid for wheat, and Cr. for all sums received for wheat. The Dr. side of this account showing the cost, and the Cr. side what it has sold for, the difference between the two sides will of course show the gain or loss on wheat.

CASH ACCOUNT is kept to show the receipts and disbursements of cash. It is made Dr. for all receipts of cash, and Cr. for all disbursements. The difference between the Dr. and Cr. of this account is the amount of cash on hand.

BANK ACCOUNT is kept to show what money is deposited in the bank. It is made Dr. for all sums deposited, and Cr. for all sums drawn out. The difference between the Dr. and Cr. of this account is the sum you have remaining in the bank.

BILLS RECEIVABLE ACCOUNT is kept to show the amount of written obligations which you hold against other persons for the payment of money. It is made Dr. for all such bills when they are received, and Cr. for all that have been redeemed. The difference between the Dr. and Cr. of this account shows the amount of Bills you hold against other persons.

BILLS PAYABLE ACCOUNT is kept to show the amount of written obligations given for the payment of money that have not been redeemed. It is made Dr. for the amount of all such bills when they are redeemed, and Cr. when they are given. The difference between the Dr. and Cr. of this account is the amount of your Bills that remain unpaid.

DIRECTIONS FOR JOURNALIZING.

JOURNALIZING is ascertaining the proper Drs. and Crs. of every business transaction recorded in the Day-book, and writing them in the Journal. This requires a little thought. Whenever a transaction occurs, the book-keeper should reflect for a moment, and see what part of the property is. affected by that transaction, and then the accounts that represent that property are the accounts to be made Dr. and Every Dr. must have a corresponding Cr. of equal Cr. amount, and every Cr. must have a corresponding Dr. of equal amount. If the transaction takes from one part of your property and adds to another, the account from which it is taken is made Cr., and the one to which it is added is made Whenever you buy property, the account representing Dr. that property is made Dr. to what you give in payment for it; or, if you buy it on trust, it is Dr. to the person that trusted you; and when you sell that property, it is made Cr. by what you receive in payment for it, or, if it is sold on credit, it is Cr. by the person trusted.

For example, if you buy merchandise of Lee, Judson, & Lee, on account, $500, Merchandise would be Dr. to Lee. Judson, & Lee, $500, and Lee, Judson, & Lee Cr. by Merchandise, $500. If you pay them cash for it, Cash would be Cr.; if your note, Bills Payable would be Cr. Or if you sell merchandise on account to J. M. Demmon, he would be made Dr. to Merchandise, and Merchandise Cr. by J. M. Demmon. If he paid you cash, Cash would be Dr, or gave you his note, Bills Receivable would be Dr. If you gave your note to Lee, Judson, & Lee on account, they would be made Dr. to Bills Payable, and Bills Payable Cr. by Lee. Judson, & Lee. When you redeem that note with cash. Bills Payable would be Dr. to Cash, and Cash Cr by Bills Pavable. If J. M. Demmon gives you his note on account, Bills Receivable would be made Dr. to J. M. Demmon, and J. M. Demmon Cr. by Bills Receivable. When he redeems that note with cash, Cash would be Dr. to Bills Receivable, and Bills Receivable Cr. by Cash.

BOOK-KEEPING.

DIRECTIONS FOR POSTING.

POSTING is transferring the business transactions from the Journal and placing them under their respective heads in the Ledger. Commence with the first transaction recorded ·in the Journal: suppose, for example, it is Joseph M. Demmon Dr. to Merchandise. You will first turn to Joseph M. Demmon's account in the Ledger, and enter on the $D\bar{r}$. side of his account, To merchandise (entering the date, journal page, and amount, as directed on page 61), then make a check-mark opposite the name in the Journal, to signify that it has been posted; then turn to the Merchandise Account. and enter on the Cr. side, By Joseph M. Demmon, entering the date, journal page, and amount, and making the checkmark as in the preceding entry. It will be observed, in making an entry in the Ledger, that the account to be debited is made Dr. to the account that is to be credited for the name amount, and the account to be credited is made Cr. by the account debited.

Where there is more than one Dr. or Cr. in the same transaction, the expression used in posting is To or By Sundries.

TO THE PUPIL.

After becoming familiar with the instructions given on the preceding pages, and tracing through the examples on the five following pages, you may copy the Day-book, commencing on page 144, in your blank Day-book; then lay aside the printed book, and on a sheet of waste paper journalize the Day-book entries according to the directions previously given; then compare with the printed Journal to see if you have journalized correctly; then post to the Ledger as above directed, independent of the printed book, and make out your Trial Balance and Balance Sheet as directed on pages 191 and 197

GENERAL RULE FOR JOURNALIZING.

The thing received, or person trusted, is made Dr. "To" the thing parted with, or person who trusts you; and the thing parted with, or person who trusts you, is made Cr. "By" the thing received, or person trusted.

Profit and Loss is made Dr. for all losses, and Cr. for all gains. Every Dr. must have a Cr. of equal amount, and every Cr. must have a Dr. of equal amount.

500 00 I Isaac H. Jameson Da. 800 00 500 00 To Merchandise 500 00 Merchandise To Bills Panjable Cash 300 00 The last entry is commonly expressed in the Journal as follows :--Merchandise Dr. to Sundries 800 00 To Bills Paryable 00 500 " Cash 300 00

The expression "Sundries," as here used, seems to be superfluous, and often confuses the learner, who gets the impression that there should be such an account as "Sundries" in the Ledger. We have, therefore, in the following set of Books, adopted the first method of expressing the Journal entries.

TRIAL BALANCE.

The Trial Balance is taken to ascertain whether the Journal entries have been correctly transferred to the Ledger, and may be made as follows:—1st. Rule a sheet of paper with double money columns, and head it "Trial Balance," with Dr. over the left, and Cr. over the right-hand money columns. 2d. Write the names of the Ledger accounts in the open space at the left, and also on the same line in the open space on the right, and, after adding the two sides of each account, place the amount of the Dr. side in the Dr. column, and the Cr. side in the Cr. column opposite the name thus written. 3d. Add the Dr. and Cr. columns of the Trial Balance, and if they foot alike, the books are supposed to be correctly posted. This proof should be taken as often as once a month.

NOTE.—The student must examine carefully the Trial Balance that is found on the two following pages. By noticing how the above rules have been applied he will be able to understand the purpose of this sheet. It is customary, after drawing off or making the "Trial Balance," to label them, and, folding them neatly, to place them in a package together, so that they may be readily referred to. In order to familiarize himself with the "Trial Balance," let the pupil draw up a "Trial Balance" of the preceding accounts, and then compare it with the one found on the next page. On the following pages three methods are given—all, however, involving the same principle, and obtaining the same result.

FORM FOR RETAILERS.

DOUBLE ENTRY.

THE books necessary for this form are the Day-book, Journal, Ledger, Petty Cash-book, Monthly Cash-book, Merchandisebook, Bank-book, Bill-book, and Expense-book.

The Day-book, Journal, Ledger, and Petty Cash-book are the same as those in the "Merchants' Form," Single Entry; ilso the manner of Journalizing and posting.

Monthly Cash-book is a book in which the sum total of the receipts and disbursements of cash are entered daily from the Petty Cash-book; and at posting, the sum total for the month of the debits is transferred to the Dr side, and the sum total of the credits to the Cr. side of the cash account; in the Ledger.

Merchandise-book — This book is kept to show the amount paid and received for merchandise. Both the Dr. and Cr. sides of this book are ruled with double money-columns for cash purchases and credit purchases; and for cash sales and credit sales. The amount of merchandise on hand commencing business, also the amount of merchandise purchased, should be entered, with the date, on the Dr. side of this book, "To Cash," "To Bills Payable," or "To Sundries," as the case may be; or if purchased on credit, make it Dr. to the individual of whom it was purchased.

If there should be several purchases on the same day, make it Dr. to "Sundries" for the sum total.

Every night, at the close of business, the amount of the cash sales for the day should be entered in the cash columns, on the Cr. side of this book. At the close of the month, the credit sales for each day should be added in the Day-book, and entered in the left-hand margin of said book, opposite the date, (being careful not to add any that are marked "Returned" in the margin;) from thence transferred to the credit columns of the Cr. side of this book. At posting, the sum total of the debits should be transferred to the Dr. side, and the sum total of the credits to the Cr. side of the Merchandise account in the Ledger.

At the time of balancing the books, by taking an inventory of the merchandise unsold, and placing its value to the Cr. side of the Merchandise account in the Ledger, the difference between the two sides of this account will show the gain or loss on merchandise. Bank-book.—This is a book usually given by banks to persons depositing money with them. On the Dr. side is entered all sums deposited, with the date and name of the individual by whom deposited. This is done by the receiving clerk. At the close of the month, the amount drawn out should be placed on the Cr. side, and the book balanced.

The sum total of the deposits for the month should be transferred to the Dr., and the amount checked out during the month to the Cr. side of the bank account in the Ledger.

Bills Receivable.—All written obligations for the payment of money, which you hold against other individuals, are called Bills Receivable, and should be entered in this book when taken. When posting the month's transactions, the amount of bills received during the month should be transferred to the Dr. side of the Bills Receivable account in the Ledger; and the amount of all such bills which have been redeemed should be transferred to the Cr. side of the same account.

Bills Payable.—All written obligations for the payment of money, which you give to other persons, are called Bills Payable, and should be entered in this book when given. At the time of posting the month's transactions, the amount of such bills given should be transferred to the Cr. side of Bills Payable account in the Ledger; and the amount of all such bills which have been redeemed should be transferred to the Dr. side of the same account.

Expense-book.—This is a book in which a memorandum is kept of all sums paid or incurred by the merchant in conducting his business; such as store rent, clerk hire, freight, cartage, porterage, postage, advertising, fuel, &c. At the close of the month, the sum total of the expenses should be transferred to the Dr. side of the Expense account in the Ledger.

A memorandum of the transactions is given for the months of February and March, which the learner may record in the same manner as the month of January.

As this set of books is to be journalized the same as the "Merchant's Form," Single Entry, we have omit⁺ at the Journal entirely, leaving it for the learner to journalize for himself; and if he journalizes and posts correctly, his Ledger will agree with the Ledger in the book.

Note.—The sums to be posted from either the Cash-book, Merchandisebook, Bank-book, Bill-book, or Expense-book, may, at the book-keeper's option, be posted directly to the Ledger, or entered in the Journal, after the Day-book has been journalized and posted from there to the Ledger.

RULES.

We give some rules that will be found very useful; let the pupil commit them to memory, and make himself proficient in them by solving the example that follows the rules:

- RULE 1. To find the gain or loss during business—find the capital at commencing, and the capital at closing business, the difference, if the capital at closing be the larger, will be the Net Gain; the difference, if the capital at commencing be the larger, will be the Net Loss.
- RULE 2. To find the net capital of the Firm, or of any member of the Firm—add the Net Gain, if there is a gain, to his Net Investment; or if there is a loss, subtract that from the Net Investment.
- RULE 3. The difference between the liabilities and resources is the "Present Worth."

EXAMPLE I.

A merchant invests $2000 in business. At the close of a month he draws the following information from his books. Cash received, $500; Paid out, $150; A. owes him $40; C. owes him $60; B. has a debit of $200, and a credit of $700; Merchandise on hand, per Inventory, $2100; Notes Receivable, $600; Notes Payable, $200. Required present worth and Net Gain or Loss.

Let the teacher give to the pupil several examples involving the above principles.

PART THIRD.

BOOKS OF ACCOUNT.

It is a well-established and salutary rule, that a person shall not be permitted to testify for himself, or, in other words, manufacture his own testimony. Yet there is an exception to this rule. From the necessity of some cases, the law allows a person to furnish testimony for himself, by admitting his books of account, under certain restrictions, as evidence in his favour.

Such testimony, however, is liable to the strictest scrutiny, and is considered by courts as the most suspicious kind, and as little better than the declarations of the party in his own favour.

To entitle a person's books to be received in evidence, he would have to prove the following facts :---

1st. That he had no clerk.

2d. That the books produced are his account-books.

3d. That some of the articles charged have been delivered.

4th. That he keeps fair and honest accounts, and this he must show by those who have dealt and settled with him.

Account-books are not received as evidence of money lent, or money received or expended for the use of another; nor are they evidence of a single charge.

If the entries in a book were made by a clerk, and he be dead; on showing that fact, and proving his handwriting, and that he was a clerk of the party, such entries would be received as evidence.

BILLS OF EXCHANGE.

A Bill of Exchange is an open letter of request, addressed by one person to a second, desiring him to pay a sum of money to a third, or to any other to whom that third person shall order it to be paid; or it may be made payable to bearer.

Bills of Exchange are very useful to business men who wish to send large sums of money to individuals living at a distance from them. "If A., living in New York, wishes to receive $1000 which B., in London, owes him, he applies to C., who is going from New York to London, to pay him $1000, and take his order or draft on B., for that sum, payable at sight. A. receives his debt by transferring it to C., who carries his money across the Atlantic, in the shape of a Bill of Exchange, without any danger or risk in the transportation; and on his arrival at London, he presents the bill to B., and is paid."

The person who makes the bill is called the drawer; he to whom it is addressed, the drawee; and when he undertakes to pay the amount, he is then called the acceptor. The person to whom it is ordered to be paid is called the payee; and if he appoint another to receive the money, that other is called the endorsee, as the payee is, with respect to him, the endorser; any one who happens for the time to have the legal possession of the bill, is called the holder of it.

A bill is either foreign or inland. It is called foreign when drawn by a person in one state or country, upon one in another state or country; and inland, when both drawer and drawee reside in the same state. These are generally termed drafts.

Foreign bills are usually drawn in sets; that is, copies of the bill are made on separate pieces of paper, each part containing a condition that it shall continue payable only so long as the others remain unpaid. Whenever any one of a set is paid, the others are void; for the whole set constitute but one bill. The reason for drawing them in sets is, that in case one part is lost or accidentally destroyed, the other may be received by the drawee.

OF THE REQUISITES OF A BILL.

A Bill of Exchange must always be in writing. It is not necessary that it should be written in ink; it may be in pencil mark. No precise form of words is necessary. It will be sufficient if it contain an order or direction by one person to another, to pay money to a third. It must be for the payment of money, and money only; and the sum to be paid must be payable absolutely and at all events, and must not depend upon any circumstance that may or may not happen; the exact sum also must be inserted. The place where and on which it is drawn should, in general, appear upon the face of the bill; there should also be a date, though its omission would not render the bill invalid. The time when folls are payable should be fixed; usually they are drawn payable at a certain time after date or after sight; that is, after acceptance.

It is not essential to the validity of a bill that it be negotiable, or that it contain the words "value received," although in many cases it is highly important that these words be inserted.

OF THE OBLIGATIONS OF PARTIES.

The drawer's undertaking in a Bill of Exchange is, that the drawee, upon due presentment to him, shall accept such bill, and pay the same when due; and that if the drawee do not accept it, or pay it when due, he will pay the amount of the bill to the holder, together with certain damages which the law allows; provided he is duly notified of such non-payment.

It is the payee's duty, if the bill remain in his possession, to present

"it to the drawee for acceptance and for payment at the proper time and place; and in case the drawee refuse to accept or pay, to give notice without delay to the drawer of such refusal. If the payee endorse the bill, his undertaking, in regard to all subsequent holders, is exactly the same as the drawer's.

The obligations of the endorsee or holder, are the same as those of the payee previous to his endorsing the bill.

The acceptor undertakes, and is bound to pay the bill, according to the tenor of the acceptance, when it becomes due, and upon due presentment thereof. In short, all those who have signed, accepted, or endorsed a bill of exchange, are jointly and severally liable upon it to the holder.

OF TRANSFER.

A bill which does not contain a direction or request to pay to the order of the payee or to the bearer, is not negotiable or transferable, so as to render the drawer or acceptor liable to the person to whom it is transferred, though the payee would be liable on his endorsing such a bill, and the endorsee could recover against him.

A bill which is made payable to order, is transferable only by endorsement; but if payable to bearer, it is transferable by mere delivery. Endorsements are of two kinds—blank, and full or special endorsements. A blank endorsement is made by the mere signature of the endorser on the back of the bill; and if it be the signature of the payee, its effect is to make the bill thereafter payable to bearer.

An endorsement in full expresses in whose favour the endorsement is made. Thus an endorsement in full by A. B. is usually in this form: "Pay C. D. or order," and signed "A. B." Its effect is to make the bill payable to C. D., or his order only.

An endorsee has a right to convert a blank endorsement into a special one, by writing over the signature the necessary words; and, on the other hand, he may convert a special into a blank endorsement by striking out the words that made it an endorsement in full.

OF PRESENTMENT FOR ACCEPTANCE.

If a bill be drawn payable at sight, or at a certain period after sight, or after demand, it is absolutely necessary that the holder present it to the drawee for acceptance. For until such presentment there is no right of action against any party; and generally, unless it be made within a reasonable time, the holder loses his remedy against the antecedent parties.

OF ACCEPTANCE.

An Acceptance is an engagement by the drawee to pay the bill when due. It may be general or conditional, and either before or after the bill is drawn. It must be in writing, though no precise form is necessary; any written words clearly denoting an intention to accept the bill ar sufficient.

The nolder is entitled to require from the drawee an absolute engagement to pay according to the tenor of the bill, unencumbered with any condition or qualification. If the drawee refuse to give the holder a general and unqualified acceptance, he may treat the bill as dishonoured.

A bill is said to be honoured when it is duly accepted; and when acceptance or payment is refused, it is said to be dishonoured.

OF PROCEEDINGS ON NON-ACCEPTANCE.

Immediately upon the dishonour of a bill, by the refusal of the drawee to accept it, it is in general the indispensable duty of the holder to have the bill duly protested, and notice of such dishonour and protest given to the antecedent parties to whom he intends to look for indemnity.

The protest is generally drawn up by a notary-public; it is a solemn declaration against any loss to be sustained on the part of the holder by the non-acceptance or non-payment of the bill. In respect to inland bills, a protest is not absolutely necessary, although it is usual; notice of their dishonour, however, must be given by the holder to the antecedent parties, in order to make them responsible.

Upon non-acceptance of a bill, if due notice thereof has been given to the antecedent parties, the holder can insist upon immediate payment of the bill from them.

OF PRESENTMENT FOR PAYMENT.

If the bill has been duly accepted, it is the duty of the holder to present it to the acceptor for payment on the very day on which it becomes due; and if the bill was accepted payable at a particular place, the holder is bound to make a demand of payment at that place. For, if the holder neglect to present the bill at such time and place, he cannot recover against the drawer or endorser in case the acceptor refuses payment.

In determining when a bill becomes due, days of grace, as they are called, must be allowed. In this country three days' grace are given on all bills except those payable on demand. Demand of payment must not be made, therefore, until the third day of grace, unless such day be Sunday, Fourth of July, or some other holiday, in which case demand must be made on the second day of grace.

OF PROCEEDINGS ON NON-PAYMENT.

The duties of the holder upon dishonour of a bill by non-payment, are the same as upon dishonour by non-acceptance. He must make due protest for non-payment, and give due notice of the dishonour to the other parties to the bill; in which case the holder is entitled to a full satisfaction of all damages sustained by him by reason of the dishonour, against such other parties to the bill; but if he neglect to do this. the antecedent parties are discharged from all liability to the holder.

OF PAYMENT AND OTHER DISCHARGES.

The acceptor being primarily liable on a bill of exchange, it is evident that a payment by him to the holder discharges all the other parties from liability on the bill, provided the payment is made without knowledge of, any infirmity in the title of the holder, and the names of the parties to the bill are not forgeries. Payment by the acceptor should be made at maturity, and not before.

The drawer and endorsers will be discharged from liability by a valid and binding agreement (in which they do not concur) between the holder and acceptor, whereby time is given to the acceptor for the payment of the bill after it is due.

A discharge to the acceptor, we have seen, is a discharge to all the parties to the bill; but a discharge to an endorser is no discharge to the prior endorsers, though it is to the subsequent endorsers.

PROMISSORY NOTES.

A Promissory Note is an engagement in writing to pay a certain sum of money mentioned in it to a person named, or to his order, or to such person or bearer.

L. S. F.

L. S. F.

A note, in its original form of a promise from one person to pay a sum of money to another, bears no particular resemblance to a bill of exchange; but when it is endorsed there is a very great resemblance, for then it is an order by the endorser to the maker of the note, to pay the money to the endorsee. The endorser of the note corresponds to the drawer of the bill; the maker to the drawee or acceptor; and the endorsee to the payee. The rights and obligations of these corresponding parties are nearly or quite the same. It will not be necessary, therefore, to repeat all the rules that are applicable to, and govern the parties to a promissory note; we will, however, state the principal ones. And, first, of the requisites of promissory notes.

No precise form of words is necessary to constitute a valid promissory note. A promise to account for a certain sum, or an acknowledgment of indebtedness for value received, is sufficient.

Like bills of exchange, they must be for the payment of money only, and not for the performance of some other act; and the amount to be paid must be fixed, and not variable, and must not depend upon any contingency, but must be payable absolutely and at all events.

There should be no uncertainty as to the person by whom or to whom it is payable. Therefore a note payable to A. B., or to C. D., is not a valid promissory note.

A note payable to bearer generally, or to the payee or bearer, is transferable by mere delivery; and possession of such a note is prima facie proof of title. But if a note be drawn payable to the order of the payee, the title will pass only by the endorsement of the payee; and if the endorsement be in full, the title passes to the person named therein; but if it be in blank, it passes to the holder by delivery merely.

To make a note payable at a particular place, it is not sufficient that there be a memorandum of the place at the bottom or margin thereof, but it must be expressed in the body of the note itself, and form a part thereof.

The words "value received" are not essential to the validity of a promissory note, although they should be inserted.

A note may be made by two or more persons; and in that case may be joint, or joint and several, according to its form. The makers of a joint and several note may be sued upon it, either jointly or separately; and if sued separately, a recovery of judgment (without satisfaction) against one will not be a bar to a recovery against another maker. But the makers of a joint note should be sued jointly; for if they are sued separately the action can be defeated by a plea in abatement of the non-joinder of the other maker or makers.

A note signed by two or more persons written thus, "We promise to pay," &c., is a joint note only; otherwise, if the words "jointly and severally" be added, a note written, "I promise to pay," &c., signed' by two or more persons, is a joint and several note.

If a person at the time a negotiable note is made, write on the back of it, "I guarantee the payment of the within note," he will be treated as a joint and several promiser with the maker thereof, and not as a mere guarantor. But if the endorsement be made at a subsequent time, or be a guarantee of collection instead of payment, the endorser would be considered as a guarantor; a consideration, however, in these last cases, must be expressed; that is, the words "for value received" should be inserted in the endorsement.

If a note be endorsed thus, "For value received," or "For a valuable consideration I guarantee the collection of the within note," the guarantor would not be liable upon it, unless the holder showed a diligent attempt to collect it.

An agreement for a valid consideration, extending to a principal the time of payment of a debt, discharges the sureties. But an agreement for delay, made without consideration, between the principal debtor and the creditor, will not discharge the surety; nor will negligence of the creditor in calling upon the principal for payment discharge the surety, unless he be damnified by such negligence.

All who have signed or endorsed a note, are jointly and severally liable to the holder.

CONSIDERATION.

A valuable consideration is necessary to support a promissory note. A consideration founded on mere love or affection is not sufficient. Thus, a note drawn as a gift to a son or other relative, or to a friend, cannot be enforced as between the original parties.

A mere moral obligation, though coupled with an express promise, is not sufficient consideration to support a note. A consideration which the law esteems valuable must exist, in order to furnish a just foundation for an action.

A note will be void, as between the original parties, if founded upon fraud or duress, or where undue advantage was taken to obtain it of, the maker; as, for instance, getting the maker intoxicated for the purpose of obtaining his note.

Illegal consideration also will render a note void; as, when a note is given for the perpetration or concealment of a crime, or for a wager, or whenever the consideration is founded upon a transaction against sound morals, public policy, public rights, or public interests. There are, however, but two cases in which a note is void in the hands of an innocent endorser for a valuable consideration, and these cases are, when the consideration in the note is money won at a play, or where the note is given for a usurious debt.

ON PRESENTMENT FOR PAYMENT.

The contract of the maker being to pay the note upon due presentment at maturity, in order to charge the endorsers, it is the duty of the holder to demand payment of the maker on the very day on which by law the note becomes due; and unless the demand be so made the holder loses his remedy against the endorsers, although the maker would still be liable. The rules that were given to determine when bills of exchange become due apply as well to notes. Three days' grace are allowed on all notes except those payable on demand, and those in which no time of payment is expressed; on such no days of grace are allowed.

When a note is made payable at any particular place, as, for instance, at a certain bank, due presentment must be made at that place in order to render the endorsers liable in case of non-payment. Notes payable at a particular bank, are generally left with that bank for payment.

PROMISSORY NOTES.

If the note is payable generally, without any specification of place, the holder may present it for payment to the maker wherever he may be found; but it is not absolutely necessary that a personal demand be made; a demand at the maker's place of abode or business, is a good demand in some cases. The holder must use reasonable diligence in finding the maker, or his place of abode, or place of business, in order to charge the endorsers. But the maker is liable without such demand.

PROCEEDINGS ON NON-PAYMENT.

No protest is required to be made upon the dishonour of a note; although it is common to protest them for non-payment, especially in commercial towns. But in every case of the dishonour of a note, it is the duty of the holder to give due notice thereof to all the prior parties on the note to whom he means to look for payment; for the holder cannot recover against a party to whom he has failed to give due notice of the dishonour.

OF PAYMENT.

If the maker makes due payment of a note to a bona fide holder, it will amount to a complete discharge of all other parties thereon. But when payment is duly made by an endorser to the holder, such endorser, as a general rule, will retain his right to recover over against all the antecedent parties to the note, until he has received a full indemnity; such payment, however, will discharge all the endorsers subsequent to himself.

INTEREST.

Interest is recoverable on a promissory note in which there is no special agreement to pay interest, from the time when the principal becomes due, or ought to have been paid. A note payable on demand carries no interest till a demand is made, either by suit or otherwise, unless there is an agreement to pay interest. A note not on demand, in which no time of payment is mentioned, draws interest from date.

Whenever there is a special agreement to pay interest, that is, when the words "with use," or "with interest," &c., are contained in the note, it draws interest, of course, according to such agreement or contract.

A note is said to be outlawed in six years from the time it becomes due. The statute requires that all actions founded upon any instrument or contract not under seal, must be commenced within six years next after the cause of action accrued, and not after.

CHATTEL NOTES.

We have seen that in order to constitute a promissory note, it must be for the payment of money only; if then a note be payable otherwise than in money, it is called a chattel note. Chattel notes are not negotiable, and cannot be sued, except in the name of the payee. No days of grace are allowed upon them.

It is the duty of the maker of a chattel note payable in specific articles, at a place mentioned in the note, to tender the articles at that place, and at the time the note becomes due. If the maker neglect to make such tender, he will be liable to the payee to pay him the amount of the note in money. But if, on the other hand, the maker tender the articles mentioned in the note at the proper time and place, according to the contract, and the creditor neglects or refuses to receive them, the debt is thereby discharged; but the right of property in the articles tendered passes to the creditor. The debtor may abandon the goods tendered; but if he elects to retain possession of them, he will be considered as bailee of the creditor at his (the creditor's) risk and expense. The relation of debtor and creditor would in such case be changed to that of bailor and bailee.

There is a difference as to tender between portable and cumbrous articles. With respect to the former, a tender as above must be made; as to the latter, it will be sufficient if the debtor offer to deliver as the creditor shall direct.

CHECKS ON BANKS AND BANKERS.

A Check is a written order addressed to a bank, or to persons carrying on the business of bankers, by a person having money in their hands requesting them to pay to another person, or to his order, a certain sum of money mentioned in the check.

Checks differ from Bills of Exchange in the following respects :---

1st. They are always drawn on a bank, or on bankers, and are payable immediately on presentment, without any days of grace.

2d. They require no acceptance as distinct from payment.

3d. They are always supposed to be drawn upon a previous deposit of funds.

In order to make the drawer liable, in case the check is dishonoured, the holder must present it for payment within a reasonable time, and if dishonoured, must give the drawer notice thereof within a reasonable time also.

BONDS.

A Bond is an acknowledgment, under seal, of a debt, duty, or obligation; and it is immaterial what mode of expression is used, provided the language be sufficient to establish an acknowledgment of a debt.

Every bond in itself imports a consideration; and a failure of the consideration is not a good defence to an action brought on the bond. Fraud, however, or an illegal consideration, will invalidate a bond.

Wax, or some other tenacious substance, is necessary in order to make a legal seal, except it be the seal of a court or public officer.
