"Where are you going,
my pretty maid?"
Said a wicked,
sly old wolf one day,

To a bright, young miss
who quietly strayed Through woods where birds were gay.

"Where are you going my pretty maid?"

"I'm going to see my dear grandma."

"Indeed!" said this
sly old brute,

"I know her well.

Her home isn't far
Through the woods
is the nearest route."

"Her home isn't far, - Through the wood is the nearest route."

"Though he wished to eat her on the spot,"

Though he wished to eat her on the spot,
He heard Karl
the woodman near,

If the maid should scream,
then he'd be caught:
This held him back
with fear.

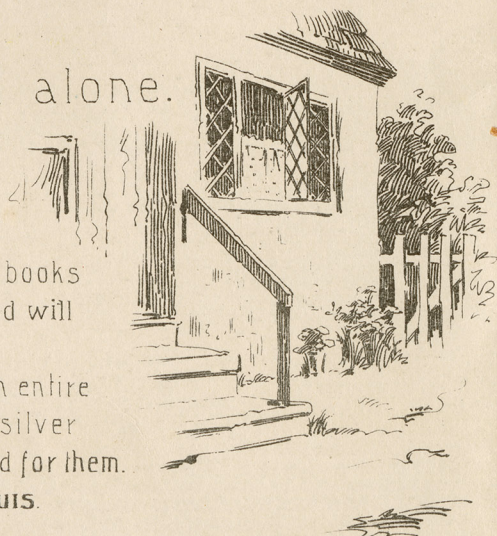

"Was killed by brave Karl alone."

So this cute little girl,
Miss Red Riding Hood
Soon reached her
Grandma's home,
But the cruel wolf
who stole through the wood was killed by brave Karl alone.
