LESSON I.

As we go
We do so
So be it
It is not Go we on
To an ox
Do ye go
On I go

Ye go to
Lo I go
Go we on
And it is
Can I do
Can it be
Yes I will
Then am I

LESSON II.

Err not from the way of truth, but stand fast, and mind not what bad men say to you; they will lead you from God.

LESSON III.

Run not in the way of sin, but flee from it so that you may not be hurt; then God will love you, and you will end your life in peace.

LESSON IV.

John may go with me to see the cow and sheep.

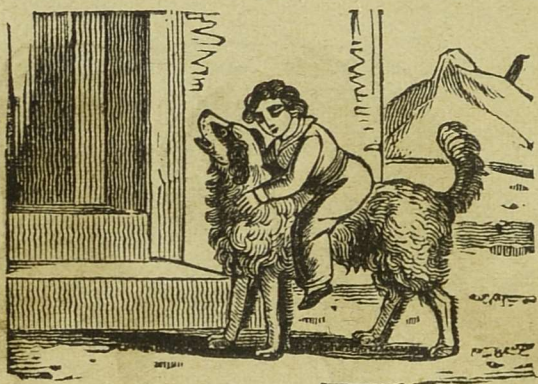

If you are a good boy you may have some fruit.

We will have a pleasant ride in the park to-day.

The barn stands behind the roadside inn.

May I get up at six to go and see the fox that got my old hen and eat her.

LESSON V.

You can play with the dog for he will not bite, you may pat him, and let him run to his master.

Come to school clean and neat, take your book go to your place, and learn as fast as you can.

When you have learnt the task that is set you, and it is your turn to go out to read, speak plain, and sound your words right.

LESSON VI.

The goat is somewhat like a sheep; but has hair instead of wool. The white hair is valuable for wigs; cloth may be made of the goat's hair. The skin of the goat is more useful than that of the sheep. Goats seem to have more sense than sheep; they like to rove upon hills; are fond of browsing upon vines; and delight in the bark of trees.

LESSON VII.

The horse is a fine, spirited, and prancing animal, and is very useful to man. A horse knows his master, his own stable, and other horses, and can find his way by any road that he has gone before. He has a well-formed body, strong and well-proportioned in all his parts. He has good motion, and lifts his feet high, which gives him a grandeur in his appearance. He carries his head high, and altogether resembles, when in good condition, a fine, full-grown, and well-formed hunter.

LESSON VIII.

The Lord is my shepherd; I shall not want.

He maketh me to lie down in green pastures: He leadeth me beside the still waters.

He restoreth my soul: He leadeth me in the paths of righteousness for His name's sake.

O send out Thy light and Thy truth, that they may lead me, and bring me to Thy holy hill and to Thy dwelling.

And that I may go unto the altar of God, even unto the God of my joy and gladness; and upon the harp will I give thanks unto Thee, O my God.

LESSON IX.

The voice of thy thunder was in the heaven ;
the lightnings lightened the world ; the earth
trembled and shook.

Yea, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I will fear no evil ; for thou art with me.

Thou preparest a table before me in the presence of mine enemies ; thou anointest my head with oil ; my cup runneth over.

Surely goodness and mercy shall follow me all the days of my life ; and I will dwell in the house of the Lord for ever.

THE CHILD'S COMPLAINT.

Why should I love my sports so well,
So constant at my play;
And lose the thoughts of heaven and
hell,
And then forget to pray?

What do I read my bible for,
But, Lord, to know thy will;
And shall I daily know thee more,
Yet less obey the still?

How senseless is my heart, and wild!
How vain are all my thoughts!
Pity the weakness of a child,
And pardon all my faults.

Make me thy heavenly voice to hear,
O let me love to pray;
Since God will lend a gracious ear
To what a child can say.
