Mister Speaker, if you'll jist drap that ere pen as you are writing with, prehaps you mought hear a leetle summat as would be worth while listening too, and prehaps you mought not. That ere honourable gentleman as spoke last, called my constituents squatters!— Well, so they be's squatters; I glories in the name; the way I am a squatter is a caution. I've been died in the wool, Mister Speaker. I'm the youth jist to come up to the rack with that other Durhamite, and if he thinks to poke fun on squatters, I reckon a few as how he'll find he's got a hard row to hoe. 'Fore I've done with him, he'll feel as keen as a cut snake. I considers, Mister Speaker, that them ere squatters are the bone, sir, and the muscle, sir; ay, sir, and the sinnars of this ere country: them chaps are got the clear grit in 'em, as that ere gentleman mought find should he ever run foul of one of 'em; if he did'nt keep a civiler tongue, they'd give him a touch of shillalycum, kase they are always ready, and never goes off half cocked. The squatter, sir, goes out in the back woods, sir, whor the foot of man as never was, and what if they sees a bear thor, sir, and a wolf thor, sir, they builds him a hovel here, and a log house thor, and a court house thor, sir, and, sir, in less time than you can say Jack Robinson, they've a hull township squatted. Ax an Ingin varmint, and he'll tell ye's the pale faces are all squatters. I should like that ere honourable gentleman to tell me what he calls them ere chaps, the Mister Pilgrims, as coomed to America a good many hundred years ago in their big ship, (if I remember right, the place they first clapt their plunder on is called Flimmoth, close up where Bosson town as is.) The poor Ingin critters were smoking on the shore, and wondering what that ere big canoe meant. I say, sir, what was them ere chaps as jumped ashore and squatted New England, with your leave, or by your leave, Mr. Jack Ingin. I don't zactly remember the time on't, as I is'nt got no dictionary by me, but, sir, the time does'nt alter the facts, sir. Prehaps that honourable gentleman's gran'ther was one on 'em, more likely as not. I hear these fellers, the honourable gentlemen as are around me, very choice in picking out their words, sir, and speak an almighty sight of dictionary, but I always finds them ere chaps as makes such a flourish of words aint got many ideas to spare, and them as they is got are jist like the niggar that turned monkey, aint got head nor tail. Now, Mister Speaker, my scholarship is about from a bab to crucifix, which I take aint no small circumstance of larning; but sir, I can give you a speech as is'nt got a might o' grammar, or geography, or conchology in it, and prehaps there mought be a pretty considerable sprinkle of sense in it for all. I should like to see some of these ere lilly-fingered gentlemen take a rifle, and got out to Lake Huron and shoot bears, and all sich varmint, and then they mought talk about squatters, and know something as they is talking about; but if they thinks to come here to poke fun at squatters, I'll let 'em know as how they barks up the wrong sapling. Yes, Mister Speaker, I is a squatter, and have squatter constituents, and hopes as how the day will come when the British Emigrants shall squat the face of this tarnal 'arth, from Lake Ontario to Hudson's Bay!

A CONSERVATIVE TORY.

I AM FOR THINGS AS THEY ARE !—

LET WELL ENOUGH ALONE.

POWDER FOR KILLING FLEAS.
“Gentlemen and Ladies,(bawled Timothy) I have here a newly invented, but an infallible powder for killing fleas. Only six-pence a powder, ladies, and a sovereign remedy, upon my honour.”

“Pray, sir,” asked a by-stander, “how did you hit upon the invention?”

“Sir, I discovered it in my sleep, by accident; but I have proved it, and I will say, if properly administered, it is quite infallible. Ladies and gentlemen, I pledge you my honour that it will have the effect desired, and all I ask is six-pence a powder.”

“But how is it to be used, sir?”

“Used—why, like all other powders; but I won’t give the directions till I have sold some; promising, however, if my method does not succeed, to return the money.”

“Well, that is fair,” said another, “and I will take care that you keep your bargain. Will any body purchase the fools powder for killing fleas?”

“Yes, I will,” replied a man on the broad grin, “here’s sixpence. Now, then, fool, how am I to use it?”

“Use it?” said Timothy, putting the sixpence in his pocket; “I’ll explain to you. You must first catch the flea, hold him so tight between the forefinger and thumb as to force him to open his mouth: when his mouth is open, you must put a very little of this powder into it, and it will kill him directly.”

“Why, when I have the flea so tight as you state, I may as well kill him myself.”

“Very true, so you may, if you prefer it; but if you do not, you may use this powder, which, upon my honour, is infallible.”

QUAKER WIT.—A quaker and a baptist travelling in a stage coach, the latter took every opportunity of ridiculing the former on account of his religious profession. At length they came to a heath, where the body of a malefactor, lately executed, was hanging in chains upon a gibbet. “I wonder now,” said the baptist, “what religion that man was of?” “Perhaps,” replied the quaker, “he was a baptist, and they have hung him up to dry.”

A REFORMER GOING A-HEAD.

I AM FOR THINGS AS THEY SHOULD BE :
NEVER TOO LATE TO MEND.

An ignorant fellow was once boasting of his knowledge of Astronomy, when a person in the company asked him if he had ever looked at the Great Bear through a telescope?—"Yes," replied he, "and brought him so near that I could hear him growl."

An officer, after a battle, ordered the dead and the dying to be buried pell-mell. Being told that some were alive and might be saved. "Oh," he said, "if you pay attention to what they say, not one of them would allow that he was dead."

A man having a dispute with Mrs Royall, concluded with her by saying, "Madam, I have heard of tartar and brimstone, but you are the cream of the one, and the flour of the other."

ADVICE TO A LADY.—This was given by the house-keeper of a maiden lady of thirty, who at last had thoughts of entering into holy bonds:—"Take my advice, and never marry ma'am. Now you lay down master and get up dame. I married a cross man of a husband, and the very week of our marriage, ma'am, he snapped me because I put my cold feet to his n. You don't know men, ma'am, so well as I do."

REFUSING A STUMP.—A clergyman, a while since, in speaking of the future condition of his hearers, according as their lives should happen to be pure or otherwise, made the usual division of them into sheep and goats. He dwelt upon the condition of each. He especially dwelt upon the miseries of the latter, and upon the presumptuous conduct of those whose sins were likely in the end to place them in that division; and then exclaimed, "Who dare be a goat?"

"I dare," roared a sailor from the gallery.

"How!" said the preacher, in astonishment, "you dare to"—

"Ay, master," interrupted the sailor, "'cause, you see, I won't take a stump from any body."

JOHN BUNYAN

JUST COME FORTH FROM THE SLOUGH O' DESPOND.

A YANKEE TRICK.

An eastern pedlar lately desired accommodation for the night, at a tavern in the south part of Virginia; but from the prejudice frequently existing against this class, our host for a long time refused. At last he complied, on condition that the pedlar should play him a Yankee trick before he left him. The offer was accepted. On rising in the morning, Jonathan carefully secured the coverlid of the bed, which, amongst other articles, he pressed the landlady to purchase. The low price of the coverlid operated at once upon the latter, who insisted that her husband should buy it, adding, that it would match her's exactly. Jonathan took his money, mounted his cart, and had got fairly under way, when our host called to him that he had forgotten the Yankee trick he was to play him. "O, never mind," said Jonathan, "you'll find it out soon enough."

SHORT vs. LONG.—Says Long to short, "how are ye, Top?" "Top," replied short, "I had rather be as small as a top, than long enough to require six hours to get asleep all over." "You had, ha? Well, I had rather be ten hours getting to sleep, than so short as to be obliged to mount a cabbage-leaf to hiccup."

THE THREE JOLLY HUSBANDS.

Three jolly husbands, out in the country, by the names of Tim Watson, Joe Brown, and Bill Walker, sat late one evening drinking at a village tavern, until being pretty well corned, they agreed that each one, on returning home should do the first thing his wife told him, in default of which he should the next morning pay the bill. They then separated for the night, engaging to meet again the next morning, and give an honest account of their proceedings at home, so far as they related to the payment of the bill. The next morning, Walker and Brown, were early at their posts; but it was some time before Watson made his appearance. Walker began first.

“You see, when I entered my house the candle was out, and as the fire gave but a glimmering of light, I came near walking accidentally into a pot of batter that the pancakes were to be made of this morning. My wife, who was dreadfully out of humour at sitting up so long, said to me, sarcastically, ‘Do put your foot into the batter!’—‘Just as you say, Maggy,’ said I; and thereupon, without the least hesitation, I set my foot in the pot of batter, and then—went to bed.”

Next Joe Brown told his story. “My wife, said he, had already retired to rest in our usual sleeping room, which adjoins the kitchen and the door of which was left ajar. Not being able to navigate perfectly well, you know, I made a dreadful clattering among the household furniture; and my wife, in no very pleasant tone, bawled out, ‘Do break the porridge pot Joe!’ No sooner said than done. I seized hold of the bail of the pot, and striking it against the chimney jam, broke it in a hundred pieces.—After this exploit I retired to rest, and got a curtain lecture all night for my pains.”

It was now Tim Watson’s turn to give an account of himself; which he did with a very long face, as follows:—“My wife gave me the most unlucky command in the world; for as I was blundering up stairs in the dark, she cried out, ‘Do break your rotten neck, do Tim!’—‘I’ll be c—s—d if I do, Kate,’ said I, as I gathered myself up, I’ll sooner pay the bill. And so landlord, here’s the cash for you. This is the last time I’ll ever risk five dollars on the command of my wife.”

Things I have never seen—I have never seen such hard times as the present in all my life. I have never seen an old maid decidedly opposed to matrimony. I have never seen a pretty girl that did not know it. I have never seen a lawyer refuse a fee on account of his client’s poverty. I have never seen a woman that was tongue tied. I have never seen rich men prefer marrying poor girls. I have never seen but one lady use a bed wrench and pin to tighten her corsets. I have never seen a woman die with the lock jaw.

WHAT STRANGE LEGS!

Two worthy Aldermen from the Ward of _____ differing in opinion on the subject of the drain, now in progress through this city, the one who opposed it, threatened to take the sense of the Ward on the question; the other, with great sang froid, said, "he would take the nonsense of the Ward in favor of the improvement, and beat him!" [Published.]

An old sea Captain being one day in a tavern, saw a young beau enter, quite languid with the heat of the day. "Waiter," said the coxcomb, in an affected, faint voice, "Waiter, bring me a dish of coffee, weak as water and as cool as a zephyr." The Captain in a voice of thunder, immediately vociferated, "Waiter, bring me a dish of coffee, hot as hell, and strong as damnation." The beau starting, exclaimed, "Pray waiter, what is that gentleman's name?" The Captain in the same tremendous voice exclaimed, "Waiter, pray what is that lady's name?"

"I am troubled with a strange kind of rheumatic affection in my arm," said an old lady. "It allows me to do some things, but it prevents me from doing others; for instance, I can put my hand into my pocket with all the ease in the world, but I never can take any thing out."

A hard-hearted man being taken ill with the stone, his physician said his heart had fallen into his bladder.

As an old woman was lately walking through the streets of Paris at midnight, a patrol called out "Who's there?" "It is I, don't be afraid."

"You don't love me. I know you dont," said a young married lady to her husband. "I give you credit my dear, for a keen penetration," was his consoling reply.

A BIRD IN THE HAND'S WORTH TWO IN THE BUSH.

Some years since a sober zealous Canadian parson went to catechise a family in his parish, who were not so well versed in the rudiments of divinity as many are : when arrived, he thought proper to begin with Lois, the eldest daughter, a girl about 18, and buxom as May, whose charms had smitten the young village swains with an epidemic. "Well, Lois," said the parson, "I shall begin with you : come, tell me, who died for you ?" Lois, with a charming flush on her cheek, replied, "Why, nobody as I knows on." The parson, rather surprised at her answer, repeated his question with increasing zeal. Lois, rather irritated at the inquisitive parson, again replied, "Why nobody, sir ; there was Sam Simken lay bed rid for me about six months, but folks say he has got about again."

I know well enough, said a fellow, where fresh fish come from, but where they catch these ere salt fish, I'll be hanged if I can tell.

MEET ME BY MOONLIGHT ALONE.

A SMALL MISTAKE. —In the town of E—— there formerly lived an old miller, who was remarkably forgetful, usually taking one toll out of the hopper, and another from the trough, after it had come through the mill. He argued that it was better to be “twice right than once wrong.”

One day a dry old fellow sent a bag of wheat to be ground, which was of so excellent a quality, that the miller thought he must increase his toll. This he did so conscientiously, that the bag went home minus half the grist. Next morning the owner met him, and accosting him with a lengthened phiz, said, “Do you know what a plaguy MISTAKE you made with my wheat yesterday?”

“No, I don’t,” said he, “what was it?”

“Why nothing of any consequence,” replied the other, “only you happened to send home the TOLL instead of the GRIST.”

IGNORANCE.

Question. What is Ignorance ?

Answer. It is a vice contrary to the science of good government.

Q. How does the law of nature forbid ignorance ?

A. By the grievous detriments resulting from it to our existence ; for the ignorant man, who knows neither causes nor effects, commits every instant errors most pernicious to himself and to others ; he resembles a blind man groping his way at random, and who at every step, jostles or is jostled by every one he meets.

Q. What difference is there between an ignorant and a silly man ?

A. The same difference is there between him who frankly avows his blindness, and the blind man who pretends to sight ; silliness is the reality of ignorance, to which is superadded the vanity of knowledge.

Q. Are ignorance and silliness common ?

A. Yes, very common ; they are the usual and general distempers of mankind ; more than three thousand years ago the wisest of men said, the number of fools is infinite ; and the world has not changed.

Q. What is the reason of it ?

A. Because much labor and time are necessary to acquire instruction, and because men born ignorant, and averse to trouble, find it more convenient to remain blind and to pretend to see clear.

Q. When the Gospel say : " happy are the poor of spirit," does it mean the ignorant and imprudent ?

A. No : for at the same time that it recommends the simplicity of doves, it adds the prudent cunning of serpents. By simplicity of mind is meant uprightness, and the precept of the Gospel is that of nature.

THE CHINESE are said to be the most ancient Almanack makers. The first of their Emperor's privilege is that of sending his Calendar to his vassals and neighbours ; their refusal of which would be considered as a bravado, and war would forthwith be made upon them, as it used to be made in Europe on feudal lords who refused their homage.

When the Emperor Kam-hi wished to employ the Jesuit missionaries in making the almanack, they are said to have excused themselves at first, on account of the extravagant superstitions with which it must be filled. " I have much less faith than you in the superstitions," replied the Emperor ; " only make me a good calendar, and leave it for my learned men to fill up the book with their foolery."
