TIS morning ; and the sun, with ruddy orb
 Ascending, fires th' horizon ; while the clouds,
 That crowd away before the driving wind,
 More ardent as the disk emerges more,
 Resemble most some city in a blaze,
 Seen through the leafless wood. His slanting ray

 In spite of gravity, and sage remark
 That I myself am but a fleeting shade,
 Provokes me to a smile. With eye askance
 I view the muscular proportion'd limb
 Transform'd to a lean shank. The shapeless pair,

As they design'd to mock me, at my side
 Take step for step; and, as I near approach
 The cottage, walk along the plaster'd wall,
 Prepot'trous sight! the legs without the man.
 The verdure of the plain lies buried deep
 Beneath the daz'ling deluge; and the bents,
 And coarser grass, upspringing o'er the rest,
 Of late unsightly and unseen, now shine
 Conspicuous, and, in bright apparel clad.

And fledged with icy feathers, nod superb.
The cattle mourn in corners where the fence
Screens them, and seem half petrified to sleep
In unrecumbent sadness. There they wait
Their wonted fodder: not like hung'ring man,
Fretful if unsupplied; but silent, meek,
And patient of the slow-paced swain's delay.

Yes! weave the gay garland! each moment improve!
 Youth's pleasures, like Spring, fleet away!
 Life has its soft season---that season is Love.
 ---Ah! taste its fond joys while 'tis May.
 But lately I winded yon mount in's green side;---
 How blessed! for a fair one was by;
 I marked, as she welcomed the Spring's opening pride,
 The rapture that beamed in her eye:

Her fav'rite young lambkins ran bleating around,
 (Their fleeces were whiter than snow!)
 The cliffs crowned with oak wood, returned the soft sound;
 The still lake gleamed placid below.
 'How happy,' she cried, 'in some sheltered retreat,
 With lambkins and stock bleating nigh;
 In my straw-covered cottage, though humble, yet neat,
 I could live--- and contented would die!

VI. AUGUST hath XXXI days, 1814.

This oak-waving mountain would ward winter's blast ;
 You lake teach complaint to be still ;
 Health, mirth, peace, and temperance, crown the repast,
 And freedom—bound light o'er the hill !"
 A glance that escaped the dear maid at the time,
 Half whispered a wish was untold ;—
 * And would my fair shepherds deem it a crime
 If EDWIN were guard to the fold ?"

IX. SEPTEMBER hath XXX days. 1814

'I told my soft wishes,' she sweetly replied,
 (Ye virgins! her voice was divine!)
 'I've rich ones rejected, and great ones denied,
 But take me, fond shepherd!—I'm thine.'
 Her look was so artless! her accent so mild!
 Her candour so sweetly expressed!
 I gazed on her beauties as blushing she smiled,
 And clasped the loved maid to my breast!

x. OCTOBER hath XXXI Days, 1814.

The primrose in clusters breathed fragrance around,
 And witnessed the vows that were given;
 The lark, that sat listening, soared swift from the ground,
 And warbled the contract in—heaven!
 Yon cottage, where woodbines so fondly entwine,
 We've chose for our humble retreat,
 Where TEATH's gentle murmurs raise musings divine,
 'Tis there my love's lambskins shall bleat!

XI. NOVEMBER hath XXX days, 1814.

There friendship shall lure modest worth to our door;
 And shelter from care's wintry blast;
 Content decked in smiles, spread her pastoral store,
 And Miranda prepartate the repast!
 Thus fixed, what imports it, ye great ones and vain,
 Though splendour withholds her false gleam,

XII. DECEMBER hath XXXI days, 1814.

If pleased with our little, and strangers to pain,
Life glides placid by like yon stream?
While HEALTH, heavenly goddess! smiles buxom and gay,
Shall we murmur that wealth comes not nigh?
When thy charms, INDEPENDENCE! thus prompt the free lay
And the Muse, lark-like, soars to the sky!
