TARTARY.

DAGESTAN

A detailed engraving of the city of Derbent. The city is built on a steep, rocky hillside that slopes down towards the sea. A prominent fortification, likely the Maiden Tower, is visible on the left side of the hill. The city is densely packed with buildings, and a long, straight road or path leads down the hill towards the water. In the foreground, the Caspian Sea is visible, with two sailing ships and a small boat. The text 'A View of the City of DERBENT.' is written in a decorative font at the top, and 'The Caspian Sea' is written at the bottom. The entire scene is enclosed in a rectangular border.

My Author of this great Discovery of Independent Tartary is a very Ingenious Greek Gentleman of Note, who affirm'd to me that to his certain knowledge on the South and East side of the Caspian Sea not one River falls into it. And that the Mountains on the South of the said Sea (which are very high) do not lye so near the Coast as the Czar's Draught makes it. but are at least two Days Journey South from it.

The Island of
ST. CHRISTOPHERS, alias
ST. KITTS
 By H. Moll Geographer

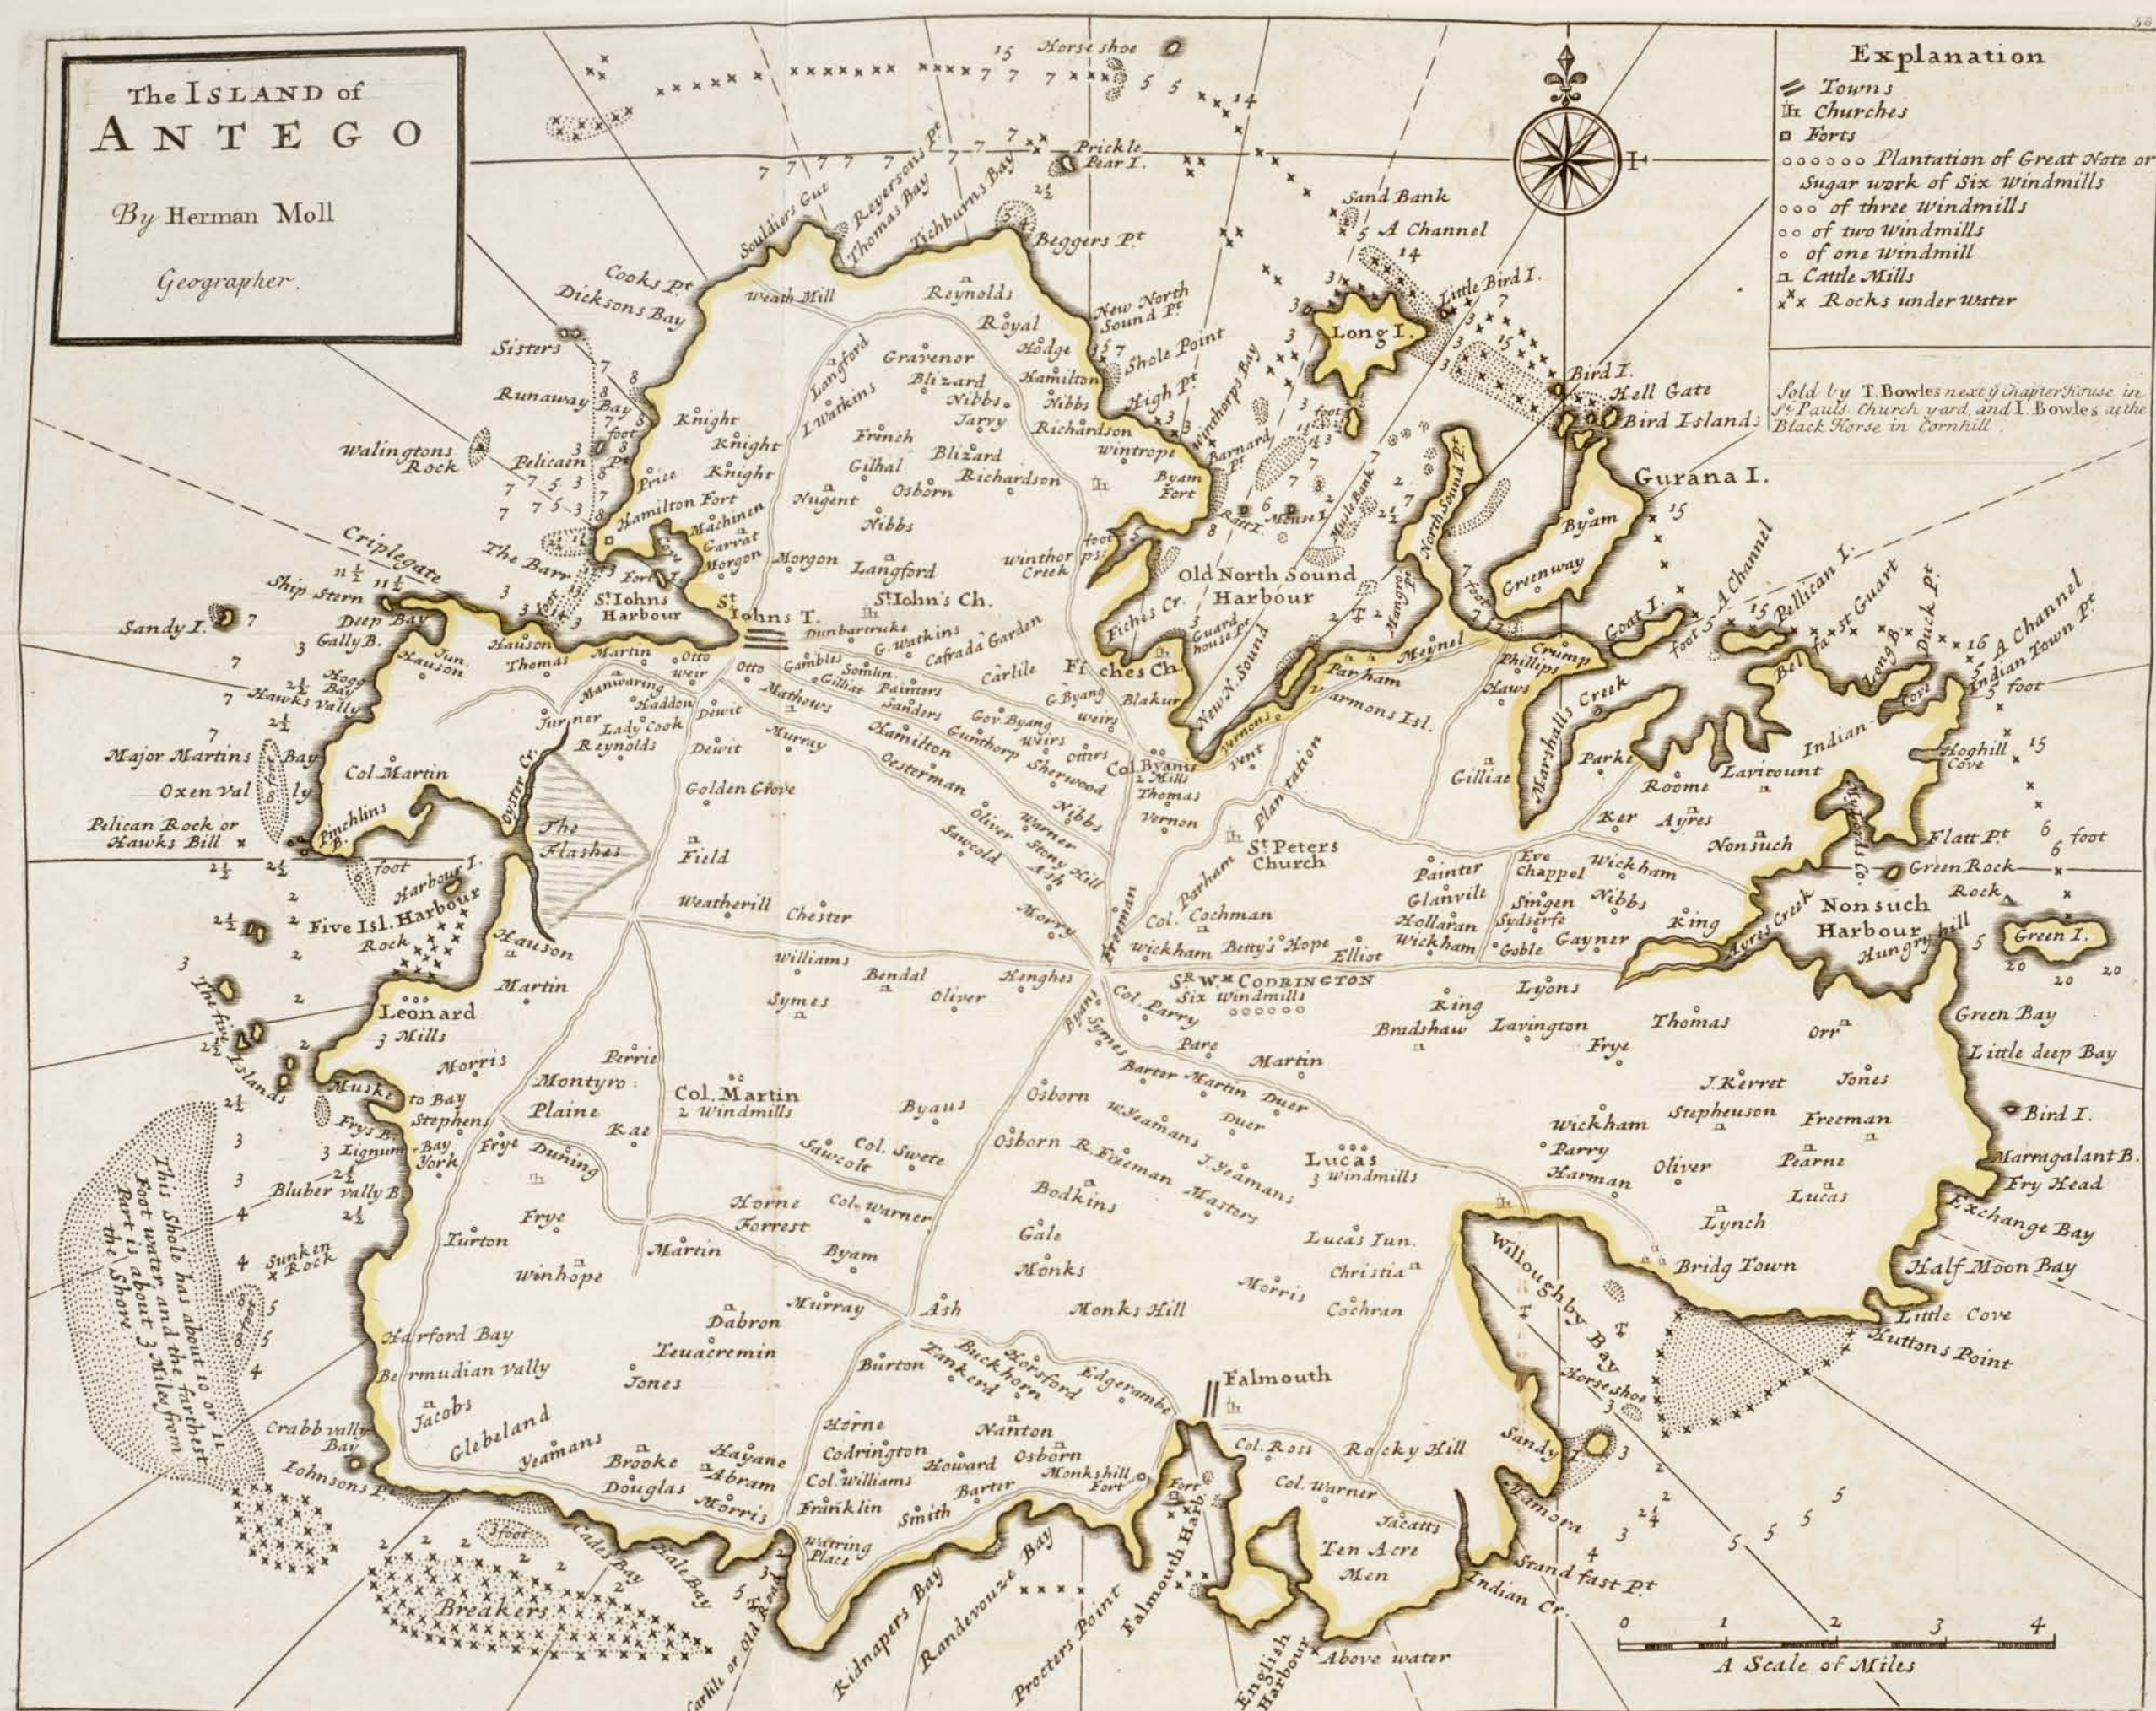

St. Christophers is one of the Leeward Islands, about 60 miles North West of Antigua. It is 12 miles in length, and 6 in breadth where broadest. It had its name from Christopher Columbus who discovered it. The English Inhabitants suffered much in the late wars from the French, who inhabited a great part of the Island; but it was yielded up entirely to the English by the Treaty of Utrecht. Basterre Town and Fort being the principal, lie in Long. 62. 4. Lat. 25. 1. The Days and Nights in this Island are almost equal all the Year.

The Bay of Caledonia lies about 9 Leagues west of the Gulf of Darien.

we found the Ground near Golden Island very foul and Rocky full of deep holes and uncertain Soundings, But within the Rock in the Bay is very good Anchor ground and here is plenty of Excelent good Water, Ships may enter the Bay at either side of the Rock but the East side is the best. A Place where upon Diggin for Stones to make an Oven at B. a considerabel mixture of Gold was found in them. Wood increases here Prodigiously for tho many scores of Acres wee cleared, yet in a few Months after it was so overgrown as if no body had been there.
