HOW TO ADDRESS MAIL TO FARMERS.

While the rural mail delivery is a great boon to farmers and rural residents it does not follow that the placing of the rural mail route number on a letter or catalogue will ensure its prompt and certain delivery. It must be borne in mind that the rural mail delivery service is as yet in its infancy in Canada and that it is subject to many changes according to local conditions. The rural mail routes are not yet at a point where the Post Office Department cares to make a chart of them. The service still is in the experimental stage and numerous changes in the routes are still made from time to time.

You must also add to this the fact that many ^{WHITBY} farmers still prefer to get mail at the post office rather than through the rural mail carrier.

When you address a letter to Wm. Anderson, R. R. No. 3, Oshawa, Ont., you virtually instruct the Post Master at Oshawa to give it to the route carrier on No. 3, but through changes which are deemed expedient Wm. Anderson may be on No. 3 route today and on No. 4 next month. But if you indicate to the postmaster at Oshawa that it is Wm. Anderson of Whitby Township you desire to reach his knowledge of the adjoining territory immediately conveys to his mind that location of Wm. Anderson's farm and whether he gets his mail on a rural route or at the post office. This farm has remained stationary all the time although the mail route may be changed at intervals. It is the case, therefore, that the rural postmasters can handle important mail matter more carefully and expeditiously by having the letter or catalogue addressed in the following manner:--

Wm. Anderson,
Whitby Township,
Oshawa, Ont.

HOW TO ADDRESS MAIL TO FARMERS

While the rural mail delivery is a great boon to farmers and rural residents it does not follow that the placing of the rural mail route number on a letter or catalogue will ensure its prompt and certain delivery. It must be borne in mind that the rural mail delivery service is as yet in its infancy in Canada and that it is subject to many changes according to local conditions. The rural mail routes are not yet at a point where the Post Office department cares to make a chart of them. The service is still in the experimental stage and numerous changes in the routes are still made from time to time.

You must also add to this the fact that many farmers still prefer to get mail at the post office rather than through the rural mail carrier.

When you address a letter to Wm. Anderson, R.R. No. 3, Oshawa, Ont., you virtually instruct the post master at Oshawa to give it to the route carrier on No. 3, but through changes which are deemed expedient. Wm. Anderson may be on No. 3 route to-day and No. 4 next month. But if you indicate to the post master at Oshawa that it is Wm. Anderson of Whitby Township you desire to reach, his knowledge of the adjoining territory immediately conveys to his mind the location of Wm. Anderson's farm and whether he gets his mail on a rural route or at the post office. This farm has remained stationary all the time although the mail route may be changed at intervals. It is the case therefore, that the rural post masters can handle important mail matter more carefully and expeditiously by having the letter or catalogue addressed in the following manner:-

Wm. Anderson,
Whitby Township,
Oshawa, Ont."

HOW TO ADDRESS MAIL TO FARMERS

While the rural mail delivery is a great boon to farmers and rural residents it does not follow that the placing of the rural mail route number on a letter or catalogue will ensure its prompt and certain delivery. It must be borne in mind that the rural mail delivery service is as yet in its infancy in Canada and that it is subject to many changes according to local conditions. The rural mail routes are not yet at a point where the Post Office department cares to make a chart of them. The service is still in the experimental stage and numerous changes in the routes are still made from time to time.

You must also add to this the fact that many farmers still prefer to get mail at the post office rather than through the rural mail carrier.

When you address a letter to Wm. Anderson, R.R. No. 3, Oshawa, Ont., you virtually instruct the post master at Oshawa to give it to the route carrier on No. 3, but through changes which are deemed expedient, Wm. Anderson may be on No. 3 route today and No. 4 next month. But if you indicate to the post master at Oshawa that it is Wm. Anderson of Whitby Township you desire to reach, his knowledge of the adjoining territory immediately conveys to his mind the location of Wm. Anderson's farm and whether he gets his mail on a rural route or at the post office. This farm has remained stationary all the time although the mail route may be changed at intervals. It is the case therefore, that the rural post masters can handle important mail matter more carefully and expeditiously by having the letter or catalogue addressed in the following manner:-

"Wm. Anderson,
Whitby Township,
Oshawa, Ont."

HOW TO ADDRESS MAIL TO FARMERS

While the rural mail delivery is a great boon to farmers and rural residents it does not follow that the placing of the rural mail route number on a letter or catalogue will ensure its prompt and certain delivery. It must be borne in mind that the rural mail delivery service is as yet in its infancy in Canada and that it is subject to many changes according to local conditions. The rural mail routes are not yet at a point where the Post Office department cares to make a chart of them. The service is still in the experimental stage and numerous changes in the routes are still made from time to time.

You must also add to this the fact that many farmers still prefer to get mail at the post office rather than through the rural mail carrier.

When you address a letter to Wm. Anderson, R. R. No. 3, Oshawa, Ont., you virtually instruct the Post Master at Oshawa to give it to the route carrier on No. 3, but through changes which are deemed expedient, Wm. Anderson may be on No. 3 route today and on No. 4 next month. But if you indicate to the postmaster at Oshawa that it is Wm. Anderson of Whitby Township you desire to reach, his knowledge of the adjoining territory immediately conveys to his mind the location of Wm. Anderson's farm and whether he gets his mail on a rural route or at the post office. This farm has remained stationary all the time although the mail route may be changed at intervals. It is the case therefore, that the rural post masters can handle important mail matter more carefully and expeditiously by having the letter or catalogue addressed in the following manner:-

"Wm. Anderson,
Whitby Township,
Oshawa, Ont".

HOW TO ADDRESS MAIL TO FARMERS

While the rural mail delivery is a great boon to farmers and rural residents it does not follow that the placing of the rural mail route number on a letter or catalogue will ensure its prompt and certain delivery. It must be borne in mind that the rural mail delivery service is as yet in its infancy in Canada and that it is subject to many changes according to local conditions. The rural mail routes are not yet at a point where the Post Office department cares to make a chart of them. The service is still in the experimental stage and numerous changes in the routes are still made from time to time.

You must also add to this the fact that many farmers still prefer to get mail at the post office rather than through the rural mail carrier.

When you address a letter to Wm. Anderson, R.R. No. 3, Oshawa, Ont., you virtually instruct the post master at Oshawa to give it to the route carrier on No. 3, but through changes which are deemed expedient, Wm. Anderson may be on No. 3 route today and No. 4 next month. But if you indicate to the post master at Oshawa that it is Wm. Anderson of Whitby Township you desire to reach, his knowledge of the adjoining territory immediately conveys to his mind the location of Wm. Anderson's farm and whether he gets his mail on a rural route or at the post office. This farm has remained stationary all the time although the mail route may be changed at intervals. It is the case therefore, that the rural post masters can handle important mail matter more carefully and expeditiously by having the letter or catalogue addressed in the following manner:-

"Wm. Anderson,
Whitby Township,
Oshawa, Ont."

HOW TO ADDRESS MAIL TO FARMERS

While the rural mail delivery is a great boon to farmers and rural residents it does not follow that the placing of the rural mail route number on a letter or catalogue will ensure its prompt and certain delivery. It must be borne in mind that the rural mail delivery service is as yet in its infancy in Canada and that it is subject to many changes according to local conditions. The rural mail routes are not yet at a point where the Post Office department cares to make a chart of them. The service is still in the experimental stage and numerous changes in the routes are still made from time to time.

You must also add to this the fact that many farmers still prefer to get mail at the post office rather than through the rural mail carrier.

When you address a letter to Wm. Anderson, R.R. No. 3, Oshawa, Ont., you virtually instruct the post master at Oshawa to give it to the route carrier on No. 3, but through changes which are deemed expedient, Wm. Anderson may be on No. 3 route today and No. 4 next month. But if you indicate to the post master at Oshawa that it is Wm. Anderson of Whitby Township you desire to reach, his knowledge of the adjoining territory immediately conveys to his mind the location of Wm. Anderson's farm and whether he gets his mail on a rural route or at the post office. This farm has remained stationary all the time although the mail route may be changed at intervals. It is the case therefore, that the rural post masters can handle important mail matter more carefully and expeditiously by having the letter or catalogue addressed in the following manner:-

"Wm. Anderson,
Whitby Township,
Oshawa, Ont."
