Song of Toronto

Tune—Vicar of Bray

From a melody born of the past
We are tuning a chorus to-day,
And our voices upraise in a psalm of praise
For the grace of a century's sway.
Of Toronto, her hills and ravines,
There has many a legend been sung,
And of labour and strife of the pioneer life,
In the days when the city was young.
From the hamlet that sponsored her birth,
She has triumphed each step of the way,
And the miles of gray street interlacing her feet
Are the marks of her progress to-day.
Though romance has been woven with tears,
And the thorns have been rife mid the flowers,
May her greatness increase and a future of peace
Guard this beautiful city of ours.

M. ELIZABETH DONALDSON.
