WINDLESHAM,

CROWBOROUGH,

SUSSEX.

My dear Smith

I have never at any time felt the least annoyance with the Strand over the depreciation of my prices. I could not do better elsewhere and it was a pure matter of business just as it is now when I have an opportunity of putting them up.

I feel sometimes as if I might have another Holmes serial in the ensuing year, but if I had I could not possibly deliver it before March at the very earliest, it is so vague however that I would not have you reckon on it, but I will keep you in touch with anything that is in my mind.

Yours very sincerely

A Conan Doyle.

P.S. I shall be very much obliged if you would send Christmas Numbers to my usual list. I see no reason why you should not make it a matter of business. The Number is excellent.
