A man has his clothes made to fit his shape; a woman has her shape made to fit her clothes.

The Foreman — "Send in young Clancy. I saw him smoking on a load of powder a while ago, and I'm going to fire him."

Rafferty — "Here's a part of his hat."

To be successful with women a man should learn to love differently, and indifferently.

REIGNING FAVORITES

SOME unusually attractive models have been developed in each of these popular furs and a combination of both.

Russian Collars are favored and the "Nugette" sleeves is a special feature. Some of the very latest importations show panels of squirrel against Hudson Seal, a seam at waist line with cross fur effect below and flanges.

Many new models in Mink, Persian Lamb, Raccoon, Beaver, Kolinsky and Ermine self trimmed or with contrasting furs have just been put on display.

"JUST MARRIED"

Notice that Jules Hurtig in association with the Messrs Shubert will present "Just Married" at His Majesty's is an announcement of more than ordinary import to the theatregoing public. This city is extremely fortunate to be one of the limited number of cities on the Around The World Tour which will be privileged to see "Just Married" which has enjoyed engagements of unprecedented length in the larger cities of the country. Mr. Hurtig has kept the Broadway cast intact so that this city will see the identical production that electrified New York for two years, Chicago for six months, Philadelphia for four months and Boston for five months.

"Just Married" was written by Adelaide Mathews and Anna Nichols, authors of "Scrambled Wives" and "Nightie Night", and "Abie's Irish Rose".

The action of "Just Married" covers seven days, the time required for the French liner Lafayette to sail from Bordeaux, France, to New York. Some oddly assorted couples are on board, which includes Mr. and Mrs. Jack Stanley, two youthful honeymooners who are attempting to keep the fact a secret; Mr. and Mrs. U. Makepeace Witter, who have been married twenty years and are more or less cynical; their respective niece and nephew, Roberta Adams and Percy Jones, who are engaged; Victoire Bertin, a French girl whom Percy promised to marry unknown to his fiancée, and, last of all, Robert Adams, no relation to Roberta, whose only excuse for being on board is that he landed there after indulging in red wine.

The gracious personality of this charming singer won for her much praise and admiration.
The two succeeding songs, "Give Again," met with warm responses.

"You are lucky. We can't get
